ABSTRACT

The new edition of "Library and Reference Facilities in the Area of the District of Columbia" contains information on 426 libraries. It describes information facilities that offer service to the public. Some libraries serving only a restricted clientele are also identified and described because they possess unique or specialized collections. A statement concerning regulations for such library collections indicates the conditions under which permission may be obtained for their use. A subject index, an index of librarians and a listing of disestablished libraries are included at the end of this directory. Changes in names of libraries are provided for by cross-references. The revised edition represents the first publication of The Joint Venture, a nonprofit cooperative endeavor of the American Society for Information Science, the Biological Sciences Communication Project of The George Washington University, the District of Columbia Library Association, the D.C. Chapter of Special Libraries Association and the Federal Library Committee. The group was formed in January 1971 to meet the needs of the library-information science community for useful reference tools which would not ordinarily be published. (Author/AB)

The Joint Venture is comprised of the American Society for Information Science, Biological Sciences Communication Project of The George Washington University, Federal Library Committee, District of Columbia Library Association, and Special Libraries Association, Washington, D.C. Chapter.

PREFACE

The eighth edition of Library and Reference Facilities in the Area of the District of Columbia is sponsored by the American Society for Information Science, the Biological Sciences Communication Project of The George Washington University, the District of Columbia Library Association, the ERIC Clearinghouse on Library and Information Sciences, the Federal Library Committee, the Library of Congress, the Librarian's Technical Committee of the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments and the Special Libraries Association, Washington, D.C. Chapter. This cooperative undertaking of professional organizations in the Washington, D.C. area reflects recognition of the value and usefulness of earlier editions sponsored either jointly by the District of Columbia Library Association and the Special Libraries Association or solely by the District of Columbia Library Association and published by the Library of Congress through the generous assistance of Legare H.B. O'bear, Chief, Loan Division, who served as editor.

The new edition continues the format and plan of describing information facilities that offer service to the public. Some libraries serving only a restricted clientele are also identified and described because they possess unique or specialized collections. In locations where the collection is restricted, qualified researchers can generally arrange to use the material through special arrangement with the librarian in charge. The statement concerning regulations for such library collections indicates the conditions under which permission may be obtained.

Members of the various organizations involved in this undertaking as well as other interested persons have cooperated fully in supporting the preparation of the eighth edition and special thanks are due to all.

The descriptions of some of the collections are not as full as might be desirable; however, they will serve as an initial guide for users who wish to obtain additional information. A subject index, keyed to entry numbers, is included at the end of this directory. There is also an index of librarians and a listing of disestablished libraries inasmuch as a number of libraries listed in the seventh edition are no longer in existence. Changes in names of libraries are provided for by cross-references.

FEDERAL LIBRARY COMMITTEE

Address: Library of Congress, Room 310 20540 STOP 303

Telephone: 426-6055

Executive Secretary: Frank Kurt Cylke

Hours: 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday

Regulations: This is a service activity open to anyone seeking assistance relative to Federal library/information resources

Background:

The Federal Library Committee was established in 1965 by the Library of Congress and the Bureau of the Budget for the purpose of concentrating the intellectual resources present in the Federal library and library related information community:

To achieve better utilization of library resources and facilities.

To provide more effective planning, development, and operation of Federal libraries.

To promote an optimum exchange of experience, skill, and resources.

Membership on the Committee is comprised of representatives of the three National Libraries, and all Cabinet agencies. Six independent agencies are elected every two years. In addition, there are five official observers. Guest observers are appointed from time to time.

To achieve the three noted goals a Federal Library Committee Secretariat was established and a Task Force/Sub-Committee/Work Group operating method selected for implementation. Emphasis is placed upon the acquisition of R&D grant and contract funds. Work, for the most part, is pursued by the Secretariat, by independent individuals, and by firms under the direction of specific work groups.

Secretariat efforts and the work groups are organized to conform to the six authorized functional approaches:

To consider policies and problems relating to Federal libraries.

To evaluate existing Federal library programs and resources.

To determine priorities among library issues requiring attention.

To examine the organization and policies for acquiring, preserving, and making information available.

To study the need for and potential of technological innovation in library practices.

To study library budgeting and staffing problems, including the recruiting, education, training, and remuneration of librarians.

Consulting Services:

1) A Federal Library Advisory Service (FLAS) provide necessary one-time, no-cost, impartial library overviews to all Federal Libraries on request.

2) Any questions relating to Federal library/information resources and services will be received. Direct answers on referrals will be provided. Assistance is offered both Federal and non-Federal communities.

The Library undertakes research and reference projects for Members and Committees of Congress in connection with the performance of their legislative duties. It also undertakes research and reference projects, when staff and collections allow, for officers and departments of the Government, when the staffs of the other departments are unable to do so. The Library's reference staff and facilities are available to the public, universities, learned societies, and other libraries when such service does not interfere with services to Congress and other agencies of the Federal Government.

For reference use, the Library is free without introduction or credentials required. High school students are not permitted to use the reading rooms unless they furnish a letter from their principals certifying a legitimate research need for materials not in their school or public libraries, and not for routine class assignments.

COLLECTIONS

On June 30, 1970, the Library's collections totaled more than 61 million items in the following categories: 15,258,327 volumes and pamphlets; 125,000 bound volumes of newspapers; 29,936,000 manuscripts; 3,315,000 maps and views; 3,335,000 items of music; 285,000 phonographic discs, tapes, and wires; 3,136,000 photographic negatives, prints, and slides; 176,000 prints and drawings; 121,000 motion-picture reels; 647,000 reels and strips of microfilm, of which 213,000 reels contain newspapers on microfilm; and many other items such as microcards, micro-opaques, photostats, and posters. In addition, hundreds of thousands of single issues of current newspapers and periodicals are available for reference.

The book collections, encyclopedic in content, are strongest in history, public law and legislation, public documents of the United States and foreign governments, the political and social sciences, literature and language, science and technology, bibliography, and library science. Through the Smithsonian Institution, extensive files of foreign learned societies' publications are received. Under the operation of the copyright law (chiefly since 1870) the most comprehensive collection in existence of products of the American press has been brought together by the transfer to the Library proper of a careful selection of those deemed worthy of preservation.

The special collections include the Library of Thomas Jefferson; the Peter Force Collection of Americana, 60,000 books and pamphlets; the Toner Collection of medicine and American local history, presented by the Washington physician and antiquarian, Joseph M. Toner, consisting of over 29,000 books and 12,000 pamphlets and periodicals; the Yudin collection, acquired in 1907, consisting of 80,000 volumes, chiefly in the Russian language, particularly valuable for the history of Russia, Siberia, and Alaska; the Lessing J. Rosenwald collection of manuscripts and examples of fine printing and book illustration from the 12th century to the present; more than 5,600 incunabula (books printed in the 15th century), including a perfect copy of the Gutenberg Bible, first great book printed in the Western World; the collection of 13,000 items from Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes' library; the Hans P. Kraus Collection of Spanish-American manuscripts, acquired in fiscal 1970; the papers of Lillian Gish, of Ruth Gordon, and of Garson Kanin, acquired in fiscal 1970; and also acquired in fiscal 1970 were original music manuscripts of George Gershwin, Leopold Godowsky, Edward A. MacDowell, and Sergei Rachmaninoff.

SPECIAL FACILITIES FOR RESEARCH

Over 300 study desks in several different locations in the Main Building and the Annex are available for assignment to full-time scholars and researchers doing advanced work which requires relative quiet and the reservation of books. Typing and voice recording devices may be permitted in specified areas. There also are more than 600 shelves where assignees may reserve books which they are using regularly.

THE GENERAL READING ROOMS

The Main Reading Room, which has a seating capacity of 202 readers, is located on the first floor of the Main Building. Although it services primarily the collections housed in that building, books shelved in the stack areas of either building can be delivered in either general reading room. Among the book collections housed in the Main Building are: American history, bound general periodicals, economics, fiction, language and literature, political science and government documents, and sociology. The alcoves encircling the Reading Room contain a reference collection of 25,000 volumes. The second floor gallery houses the collection of legislative documents.

The Thomas Jefferson Room is located on the fifth floor of the Annex and can seat 224 readers. It services primarily the collections housed in the Annex, including: science, technology, medicine, agriculture, military and naval science, education, genealogy, American local history, bibliography and library science, universal and world history, philosophy and religion, geography, anthropology, and sports. This reading room houses a general reference collection of 4,000 volumes.

The Local History and Genealogy Room, with a card catalog of its collections, card indexes to biographies, coats of arms, and genealogies, and a comprehensive reference collection, is in the alcoves adjoining the Thomas Jefferson Room.

A. BLIND AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED—DIVISION FOR THE

Address: 1291 Taylor Street, N.W. 20540

Telephone: 862-5500 (Code 182, Ext. 5100)

Chief: Robert S. Bray, 426-5100

The function of this Division is to provide library service to residents of the entire country who cannot utilize ordinary printed materials because of physical impairments such as poor eyesight, paralysis or other handicapping conditions. The Division procures braille and recorded books and magazines and deposits them with 48 Regional Libraries for the Blind and Physically Handicapped which in turn lend them directly to blind and physically handicapped individuals. These reading materials are carried by the U.S. mails free of postage, and the service is completely free and available to all individuals who are certified as eligible by competent authority. Modified phonographs known as talking book machines and tape cassette players are also provided by the Division free of charge through state lending agencies and libraries. The Division maintains the National Collections for the Blind and Physically Handicapped which, in addition to serving the District of Columbia, acts as a national resource in supplementing the services of the remaining 47 libraries. The Division also trains and coordinates volunteers who provide hand-transcribed braille material and tape-recorded books to meet specialized needs of blind and physically handicapped persons with items of limited interest. The services provided by the Division are comparable to those of a local public library in scope, but place greater emphasis on wide distribution of catalogs and book listings which can be mailed to individual readers. A continuous program of research and development is also conducted, particularly in the area of sound reproduction and other reading systems especially designed for use by blind or physically handicapped persons. In addition, a reference and information service on all services and problems related to blindness and other physical handicaps is provided for interested individuals and organizations.

B. COPYRIGHT OFFICE—REFERENCE DIVISION

Address: Crystal Mall Annex, Building No. 2, Room 101, located at 1921 Jefferson Davis Highway, Arlington, Virginia
Mailing address: Washington, D.C. 20540

Telephone: 557-8700 (Code 16, Ext. 8700)

Chief: Waldo H. Moore, 557-8717

The informational services of the Copyright Office are provided by the Reference Division. General information about copyright and the procedure to secure copyright may be obtained by correspondence, by telephone, or by personal visit. All correspondence should be addressed to the Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20540. Records of all works registered in the United States since 1870 are maintained in the Copyright Office and are accessible through the Reference Division. Copyright records for the period 1790-1870 are in the custody of the Rare Book Division, Library of Congress Main Building.

C. CONGRESSIONAL RESEARCH SERVICE

Address: Main Building, First Floor, West Side, Room 103

Telephone: 426-5700 (Code 182, Ext. 5700)

Director: Lester S. Jayson, 426-5775

The Congressional Research Service provides research and analytical, consultative and informational services to the Members and Committees of Congress in connection with their official business. It publishes the Digest of Public General Bills and Resolutions. The Service is organized into Divisions, established along broad subject field lines, as follows: (1) an American Law Division replying to inquiries concerning Constitutional, statutory, and case law; (2) an Economics Division responsible for money and banking, international trade, industrial organization, labor, communications, housing, urban development, transportation, and commerce; (3) an Education and Public Welfare Division serving the fields of social security, public health, crime, immigration, and education; (4) an Environmental Policy Division concerned with the governmental role in water resources, agriculture, mining, forestry, petroleum, power, and air and water pollution; (5) a Foreign Affairs Division answering inquiries relating to international relations, comparative government, and national defense; (6) a Government and General Research Division providing information on public administration, voting analysis, legislative organization, and State and local government; (7) a Science Policy Research Division aiding Congress in the evaluation of federal programs relating to space, atomic energy, oceanography, computer technology, research in medicine and the life sciences, and government support of scientific development and professional education; (8) a Congressional Reference Division providing general library reference services and maintaining a Congressional Reading Room for Members and their staffs; and (9) a Senior Specialists Division whose members provide authoritative consultative and analytical research services in each of the major subject areas distributed throughout the remainder of the CRS. The work of these divisions is supported by a Library Services Division which acquires research materials, maintains subject files, and operates a computerized Selective Dissemination of Information system.

The work of the Congressional Research Service is limited to that requested directly by Members of Congress and their official staffs.

D. GENERAL REFERENCE AND BIBLIOGRAPHY DIVISION

Address: Main Building, First Floor, Room 144

Telephone: 426-5530 (Code 182, Ext. 5530)

Chief: Robert H. Land, 426-5530

This Division provides advisory and interpretative service upon the great bulk of the Library's book collections. It is also responsible for reference service on the National Union Catalog, as explained below. The staff responds to reference and bibliographic inquiries on the great number and variety of subjects not within the scope of the other divisions of the Reference Department or of the other departments of the Library, and serves Members of Congress, Government agencies, and the general public by providing its services in person, by telephone, through correspondence, and through published bibliographies. General reference service to readers is provided through the facilities of two public reading rooms, the Main Reading Room (Ext. 5521) located on the first floor of the Main Building and the Thomas Jefferson Room (Ext. 5538) located on the fifth floor of the Annex. Special reference service to readers in the field of local history and genealogy is provided in the Local History and Genealogy Room (Ext. 5537) adjacent to the Thomas Jefferson Room. Extensive reference collections are selected and maintained by the Division in these reading rooms and are available for reader use. The Telephone Inquiry Unit (Ext. 5522) provides telephone reference service for official Government, association, and institutional business (for private individuals, the Unit will make a limited search to determine if a publication is in the Library's collections); and the Directory Subunit, located in Alcove 7 in the Main Reading Room, provides reference service on city and telephone directories in person and (for official Government business) by telephone. The African Section (Ext. 5529) provides reference and bibliographic services for non-Arabic Africa, producing a series of reference publications and maintaining card and looseleaf files. The Children's Book Section (Ext. 5535) provides reference and bibliographic services for those working with children's literature. It maintains a comprehensive collection of reference sources related to children's books. The Union Catalog and International Organizations Reference Section (Ext. 5534) provides reference service on book locations and bibliographic information recorded in the National Union Catalog (see also under L). As part of its service it prepares and circulates to approximately 75 research libraries the Weekly List of Unlocated Research Books. The section also provides specialized reference and information services on international organizations and conferences and their publications. It maintains a reference collection of books, documents, periodicals, and pamphlets.

E. GEOGRAPHY AND MAP DIVISION

Address: Pickett Street Annex, 845 S. Pickett Street, Alexandria, Virginia
Mailing address: Washington, D.C. 20540

Telephone: 370-1335 (Reading Room)

Chief: Walter W. Ristow, 370-1216

The Geography and Map Division's collections include approximately 3,350,000 maps, 32,500 atlases, several hundred globes, and a similar number of three-dimensional relief models. The collections are comprehensive in scope, with historical and modern maps and charts, for domestic and foreign areas, and covering a variety of subjects. Included are many rare and valuable atlases which are stored in a specially constructed masonry vault, equipped with independent thermal and humidity controls.

In October 1969 the Division was relocated to the present temporary quarters in Alexandria, Virginia, where it occupies more than 75,000 square feet of space, on one level. Facilities include a centrally located well-lighted reading room where maps and atlases may be consulted. In the reading room are current editions of some 175 cartographic and geographic serials, as well as more than six thousand reference volumes relating to these subjects. A staff of specialists is available in the reading room to assist consultants with the selection and evaluation of maps. Telephone and mail inquiries are also efficiently serviced. Authorized institutions may request on interlibrary loan selected cartographic material.

The collection is particularly rich in historical material, with special emphasis on the United States and other areas of the American continents. Current accessions include official large and medium scale topographic maps of the United States and many foreign countries, sheets of nautical and aeronautical chart series, plans of cities, and a variety of thematic and special subject maps. Annual additions to the collections average 80,000 map sheets and 1,500 atlases.

There is no comprehensive catalog of the map collections, but selected groups of maps and atlases are recorded in several published bibliographies. A list of the Division's publications is available on request.

F. HISPANIC FOUNDATION

Address: Main Building, Second Floor, East Side, Room 239E

Telephone: 426-5397 (Code 182, Ext. 5397)

Director: Howard F. Cline, 426-5400

This center for the pursuit of studies in Spanish, Portuguese, Brazilian, and Spanish-American culture was established in 1939 with the generous cooperation of the Hispanic Society of America. Its primary role is to develop and interpret the varied and vast holdings concerning the Spanish and Portuguese areas. Although the Hispanic Foundation does not have custody of these collections, which are serviced through the Stack and Reader Division, its small staff aids in enlarging them and provides bibliographical and other information concerning them. Other departments and divisions of the Library contain important groups of Hispanic material, especially the Law Library, the Rare Book Division, the Music Division, the Manuscript Division, the Prints and Photographs Division and the Geography and Map Division.

Latin American materials in the humanities and in the social sciences routinely are given professional bibliographical treatment in the standard Handbook of Latin American Studies. The latter is an annual, selective, annotated bibliography prepared in the Hispanic Foundation with the aid of more than 80 subject specialists, who voluntarily provide the descriptive and evaluative comments on works produced within their professional competence. About 50,000 pieces of material are scanned annually for possible inclusion in the Handbook; in its 32 volumes published to date, there are reference to 100,000 books and periodical articles covering about 18 major subject fields in the social sciences.

G. LAW LIBRARY

Address: Main Building, Second Floor, East Side

Telephone: 426-5065 (Code 182, Ext. 5065)

Law Librarian: Lewis C. Coffin, 426-5067

The Law Library of Congress is the general legal research library maintained by the Federal Government in the National Capital. It is organized, in addition to the Office of the Law Librarian and the Processing Section, in five divisions, each responsible for the development, maintenance, and service of legal materials for assigned jurisdictions—the American-British Law Division for the United States, the Commonwealth and Eire; the European Law Division for the nations of Europe (exclusive of Spain and Portugal) and their colonies, and the Asiatic members of the USSR; the Far Eastern Law Division for China, Indonesia, Japan, Korea, and Southeast Asian countries; the Hispanic Law Division for Spain, Portugal, and their colonies, and for Latin America, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines; and the Near Eastern and African Law Division for the nations of the Near and Middle East and all jurisdictions of Africa except the Spanish and Portuguese colonies. Its primary object is to serve Congress and the Supreme Court of the United States. Its other duties and services, however, are also of utmost importance. The Law Library is used extensively by the several Government departments and agencies, the diplomatic corps, members of the bench and bar, and by individual investigators of legal subjects. Furthermore, it supplements not only the fifty or more working law libraries in the Government departments, but also the bar and university libraries throughout the country.

The law collections of the Library at the present time total approximately 1,400,000 volumes, which are located mostly in the Main Building of the Library of Congress. A working collection, the Law Library in the Capitol, is maintained for the exclusive use of Members of Congress and their staffs.

The collections embrace full sets of both Federal and State session laws, statutes, and reports, a practically complete set of the original records and briefs of the United States Supreme Court, an excellent collection of the records and briefs of the United States Courts of Appeals, and collections of the bar association reports, opinions of the attorney-general, legal directories, Anglo-American treatises, reports of American and foreign trials, and legal periodicals. Moreover, the Law Library possesses extensive collections in international law, Roman law, canon law, the history and philosophy of law and jurisprudence, and various other special branches of law. It also has a comprehensive collection of English yearbooks, statutes, and treatises printed prior to the year 1600. There are approximately 320 legal incunabula exclusive of those which are kept in the Rare Book Division.

The Law Library has an extensive collection of legal materials, legislation, court decisions, legal treatises, and periodicals of foreign countries, forming perhaps the best foreign law library in the country. Various projects have been initiated to develop reference tools in order to encourage research and facilitate the use of the foreign collections. Among these is the series of Guides to the Law and Legal Literature of Germany, Spain, France, and the Latin-American countries, which was begun in 1912, and the last of which was published in 1948; the Anglo-American Legal Bibliographies: an Annotated Guide (1944); and the Guide to the Legal Sources of Mainland China (1967); all were published by the Library of Congress. The 7-volume series of Legal Sources and Bibliography of the Mid-European countries published by Praeger (1956-64), the 2-volume Index to Latin American Legislation (1950-60) and the 2-volume First Supplement (1961-65) published by G. K. Hall & Co., and the various card indexes of legislation and legal periodical literature currently maintained by the law divisions are additional tools.

The Law Library's comprehensive collections of printed legal materials are supplemented by several collections of microfilms such as the Microfilm Collection of Early State Records, prepared by the Library of Congress and the University of North Carolina, the British Manuscripts Project of the American Council of Learned Societies, the Short Title Catalogue Project, University Microfilms, Inc., the Evans' American Bibliography project of Readex, the Official Gazettes of the Mexican States Project of the Library of Congress, and many others.

H. LOAN DIVISION

Address: Main Building, Basement Floor, East Side, Rooms G151-159

Telephone: 426-5439 (Code 182, Ext. 5439)
Government Order Desk, 426-5450

Chief: Legare H. B. Obear, 426-5441

The privilege of withdrawing books and other materials from the Library of Congress, originally limited to Members of Congress, has been extended by law and under authority of law to others, including other officers of the Government, the diplomatic corps, the judiciary, the Government departments for official use, and through the interlibrary loan system to public, university, and special libraries throughout the world. These loans are administered by the Loan Division.

I. MANUSCRIPT DIVISION

Address: Annex Building, Third Floor, West Side

Telephone: 426-5387 (Code 182, Ext. 5387)

Chief: Roy P. Basler, 426-5383

The Division has custody of the main body of the Library's manuscript holdings, numbering more than 30 million pieces or documents. Most manuscript maps and music, medieval manuscripts, and manuscripts in oriental languages, and considerable quantities of microfilms of manuscripts are administered elsewhere in the Library. The Division maintains a special reading room, where the collections may be consulted under the supervision of attendants. Manuscripts are open to inspection and copying (but not always to photocopying) except where restrictions on access to collections have been imposed, usually by donors of recent manuscripts.

The collection contains (1) personal papers of nationally eminent Americans, including most of the Presidents of the United States; (2) records of certain organizations of national importance; (3) manuscripts concerning the history of Latin America; and (4) more than 3,000,000 pages of reproductions of manuscripts relating to America in foreign archives and libraries, a large proportion of them obtained by funds given to the Library by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the late James B. Wilbur. A large number of the Division's collections have been described in successive volumes of The National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections. Reports of some recent accessions appear in current publications of the Library of Congress and in the current issues of several scholarly journals, including the American Historical Review.

J. MICROFILM READING ROOM

Address: Main Building, Deck 38

Telephone: 426-5471 (Code 182, Ext. 5471)

In Charge: Robert V. Gross, 426-5471

The collections in the Microfilm Reading Room contain over 750,000 reels, micro-opaques and microtransparencies, including Slavica, Rare Books, and some categories of Law and Hispanica. Reading machines are available for microfilm and for the other microforms in the collections. Among the special groups are early American imprints, early English and American periodicals, Early State Records Project, books printed in English before 1640, English and American plays of 1516-1830, Journals and Sessional Papers of the British House of Commons, manuscripts filmed by the American Council of Learned Societies' British Manuscripts Project, Modern Language Association reproductions of manuscripts and rare books, manuscripts in monasteries at Mt. Sinai and Mt. Athos and in the Patriarchal libraries in Jerusalem, early archives of Genoa and Venice, inventories from the Archives Nationales (Paris) and of numerous German, Austrian and Italian archives and libraries, early Latin-American imprints (Medina Collection), papers of Simon Bolivar, Mexican provincial and local archives from Jalisco, Oaxaca, Parral, Puebla and other cities, 16th- and 17th-century Russian imprints, archives of the Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs for 1868-1945, corporation annual reports, doctoral dissertations, U.S. nondepository documents, U.S. Office of Education ERIC reports, U.S. House and Senate bills and resolutions, Official Gazettes of India and Pakistan and their states, United Nations documents, and brittle books from the Library's general book collections.

K. MUSIC DIVISION

Address: Main Building, Basement Floor, North Side

Telephone: 426-5507 (Code 182, Ext. 5507)

Chief: Harold Spivacke, 426-6321

The Music Division has the custody of the Library's music collection which embraces music (printed and manuscript), books on music, sound recordings (including nonmusic recordings), and other materials. The total accessioned collection now numbers about 4,000,000 items, which have been received through copyright, purchase, gift, transfer, and exchange. Before 1902 the holdings were chiefly copyright deposits, which continue to form the bulk of the collection; after 1902 there began the systematic development that has made the collection one of the largest and most significant in existence. In addition to many thousand scores (orchestral, operatic, choral music, chamber music, etc.), the Music Division also has notable collections of rare books, rare music, original manuscripts, autograph correspondence, etc., and of first editions of the master composers beginning with J. S. Bach. It is unrivaled for musical publications of the past half century. Consequently the research possibilities in the Music Division, with respect to music of Western Civilization, are well-nigh unlimited.

Among the original manuscripts are holographs of Bach, Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, Schubert, Schumann, Liszt, Brahms, Wagner, Debussy, and many others, including possibly the largest single collection of Brahms autographs ever assembled. The holographs of 20th-century composers are unequaled elsewhere. Gifts to the Music Division range from small individual items to huge donations of materials and resources, from a single sheet or volume to large foundations and endowments.

The Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation (established by Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge) is concerned with the production and promotion of chamber music and commissions eminent composers to write new works. Mrs. Coolidge also provided the Coolidge Auditorium in which the Library's famous chamber music concerts are offered to the public.

The Serge Koussevitzky Music Foundation in the Library of Congress was established by the great conductor to perpetuate his support of the modern composer. This Foundation also commissions eminent composers to write new works, which are not limited to the category of chamber music. The holograph scores of compositions commissioned by the Coolidge and Koussevitzky foundations are added to the permanent collections of the Music Division.

The Gertrude Clarke Whittall Foundation followed Mrs. Whittall's presentation of five Stradivari instruments, which are heard frequently in the Library's concerts. The same benefactress provided the Whittall Pavilion (permanent home of the Stradivari instruments) and presented an extraordinary collection of original manuscripts and autograph letters. This Foundation also sponsors frequent concerts of chamber music.

The Miller Flute Collection and Fund, a bequest from Prof. Dayton C. Miller embracing ca 1,600 instruments plus books on the flute and flute music, is a unique assemblage ranging from ancient times to the present. The Fund guarantees the maintenance of the collection.

The McKim Fund, a bequest of Mrs. W. Duncan McKim, supports the composition and performance of chamber music in which the violin is specially featured.

The Katie and Walter Louchheim Fund assures the broadcast of the Library's chamber music concerts over many radio stations in the United States.

The prime responsibility of the Music Division is to collect and preserve American music and its documentation. Music publishers of the United States have been extraordinarily generous in giving the Library holograph scores of American composers. In addition, the Library makes a special effort to maintain as complete a collection as possible of American musical publications (music and books), from pre-Colonial days to the present.

Also in the Music Division is the largest collection of operatic material in existence: full scores, piano-vocal scores, and librettos. Of particular importance in this connection is the Albert Schatz collection of librettos, obtained en bloc early in the century.

The Archive of Folk Song is responsible for the collection, preservation, and service of all types of folk music, again with special emphasis on American manifestations. Sound recordings (now containing over 80,000 separate titles on disc, tape, cylinder and wire) have come from many different localities and countries.

The Recorded Sound Section now contains a collection of some 350,000 recordings and a fully equipped recording laboratory; the latter resulted from a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. This section provides new outlets for the Library's cultural resources and makes possible the distribution of folk music, the preservation of important musical events, and the dissemination of musical, literary and historical phenomena. At present 62 albums of folk music and 32 albums of literary content have been produced for public sale. This output will be augmented as resources permit.

L. NATIONAL UNION CATALOG

Address: Main, Building, First Floor, Room 140-A

Telephone: 426-6300 (Code 182, Ext. 6300)

Head, Reference Service: Robert W. Schaaf, 426-5534

The National Union Catalog (NUC) is a record of publications and their location in the Library of Congress and more than 1,100 libraries in the United States and Canada. As such, it is the central register of library resources in North America. Major portions of the NUC are published on a continuing basis, as detailed under paragraphs 2 and 3, but the bulk of the record for imprints prior to 1956 is contained in card files. This NUC on cards is housed principally in the Library's Main Building, Room MB 140-A. Activities relating to the NUC are distributed among several Library divisions, and the following information summarizes arrangements:

1) Reference service on book locations and bibliographic information recorded in the NUC (published and unpublished) and in various auxiliary union catalogs in oriental and Slavic languages is primarily the responsibility of the General Reference and Bibliography Division (see under D above), Union Catalog and International Organizations Reference Section (Ext. 5534). The Union Catalog Reference Unit (Ext. 6300) is located in Room MB 140-A, which houses most of the NUC card files for imprints prior to 1952. As part of its service, the Unit prepares and circulates to approximately 75 research libraries the Weekly List of Unlocated Research Books. Persons seeking reference information and locations are urged to consult the printed catalogs before writing or calling. Telephone inquiries for the most recent imprints not likely to be in the printed volumes may be directed to the Searching Unit, National Union Catalog Control Section, Catalog Publication Division (Ext. 5971 for letters A-L and Ext. 5972 for letters M-Z). Written requests should be addressed: Library of Congress, Union Catalog Reference Unit, Washington, D.C. 20540.

2) The National Union Catalog, a Cumulative Author List is prepared by the Catalog Publication Division and is published in monthly issues with quarterly, annual, and quinquennial cumulations. It includes titles currently cataloged by the Library of Congress on printed cards and monographic titles for 1956 and later years that are reported by major research libraries in the United States and Canada. This catalog is supplemented by the Register of Additional Locations and several specialized publications such as Symbols of American Libraries, National Register of Microform Masters, and Newspapers on Microfilm. These are also prepared by the Catalog Publication Division.

3) The National Union Catalog, Pre-1956 Imprints is being edited by the National Union Catalog Publication Project and is being published by Mansell Information/Publishing Ltd. Over 100 of a projected 610 volumes had been issued by late 1970 and the entire project (begun in 1968) is expected to take about 10 years. Staff of the project, which is not charged with responsibility for providing reference service to the public, is located in Room MB 137 (phone 426-5268).

4) Other National Union Catalog records are the Chinese Union Catalog (Ext. 5423), the Japanese Union Catalog (Ext. 5431), and the Korean Union Catalog (Ext. 5424). They are maintained, respectively, by the Chinese, Japanese, and Korean Sections of the Orientalia Division. Additional records are the South Asian and Southeast Asian Union Catalogs maintained by the South Asia Section (Ext. 5600) and the Near East Union Catalog of the Near East Section (Ext. 5421). The Hebrew Union Catalog and the Yiddish Union Catalog are maintained by the Hebraic Section (Ext. 5422). These union catalogs are accessible to the public when the reading rooms of the Orientalia Division are open. Slavic language titles received after April 1956 are to be found in the Slavic Union Catalog (accessible during regular working hours to staff members and to other persons by special permission) and in the published National Union Catalog. The former Cyrillic Union Catalog of transliterated Slavic titles arranged in three files—by title, author, and subject—through April 1956 has been reproduced in microprint by the Readex Microprint Corporation.

M. ORIENTALIA DIVISION

Address: Annex Building, First Floor, Room 1018

Telephone: 426-5420 (Code 182, Ext. 5420)

Chief: Warren M. Tsuneishi, 426-5420, 5426

Chinese and Korean Section

Head: K.T. Wu, Ext. 5423, 5425

Chinese Collection:

The Chinese collection began in 1869 with the receipt from the Emperor of China of ten Chinese titles in 933 ts'e (volumes) as an exchange and was augmented a year later by some 2,500 volumes from the library of Caleb Cushing, the first American Minister to China. In 1901-02 another American Minister to China, W. W. Rockhill, presented more than 6,000 volumes; subsequently the Chinese Government presented some 7,000. The collection, now in the custody of the Orientalia Division, includes 374,000 volumes in the Chinese language, acquired by purchase, transfer, gift, and exchange. In addition, there are several thousand volumes in the Manchu, Mongol, Tibetan, and Moso (Nashi) languages. It is especially rich in the local Chinese histories (3,600 titles), works on agriculture, botany, materia medica, collected writings of individual authors, and collectanea. Microfilms of some 2,800 of the rarest items in the possession of the National Library of Peiping, now in the custody of the National Central Library in Taiwan, are in the collection. There is a large assortment of Chinese mainland provincial and local newspapers published in the 1950's, of which the available issues of some 85 titles have been microfilmed. Periodical titles number about 8,000, including 1,200 published in mainland China since 1949. More than 500 current periodicals published in Taiwan and Hong Kong are received regularly. About 30 Chinese-language newspapers currently received are filmed on a continuing basis.

The holdings of two major sections of the Chinese collection have been published in book form: A Catalog of Chinese Local Histories in the Library of Congress (1942), and A Descriptive Catalog of Rare Chinese Books in the Library of Congress (2 vols. 1957). Card catalogs of Chinese works in the Section's custody are maintained in the Orientalia Division, as well as union catalogs of Chinese monographs and serials in other libraries in the United States and Canada.

Korean Collection:

Korean Area Specialist: Key P. Yang, Ext. 5424

The beginning of the Library's Korean collection was a collection of 22 manuscript volumes on the organization of the Korean Government, presented in 1916 by Soh Kuang-pom, the Korean Minister to Washington. In 1919, other Korean books—some of them fine examples of early movable cooper type printing—and a bundle of missionary materials for the spread of the Christian faith in Korea were obtained through the assistance of Dr. James S. Gale, a missionary to that country and a diligent student of its culture. By the 1920's a Korean collection of some 2,000 volumes, not including the numerous works on Korea printed in Japanese, had been built up. Works in Korean were received from time to time from various sources; and when the Korean Unit was established on November 2, 1950, there were some 4,500 Korean monographs in the Library, excluding the facsimile reproduction of Yijo sillok (Yi dynasty annals) in 848 volumes.

Since 1956, the Library has secured most of its Korean current trade publications on a regular basis through standing orders placed with a dealer in Seoul; and since 1968, Korean government publications have been secured from the Central National Library under an exchange agreement signed on September 24, 1966, between the United States and the Republic of Korea. An effort has also been made to strengthen the Library's holdings of North Korean publications. The collection now in the Orientalia Division consists of more than 32,000 volumes and 1,200 serial titles.

Japanese Section

Head: Andrew Y. Kuroda, Ext. 5430, 5431

Japanese books numbering over 477,000 volumes make a working collection for students of Japanese history, literature, and institutions. The Japanese collection, which began in 1874, with LC's efforts in obtaining official Japanese publications has been greatly expanded in the post-war years by purchase, exchange, and transfer from other Government agencies. The collection is particularly strong in the humanistic and social sciences on Japan, Formosa, Korea, and Manchuria and in scientific and technological serials. Of noteworthy interest are its holdings of the pre-war publications of the South Manchuria Railway Company, the Government—Generals of Formosa and of Korea, and the pre-1945 publications banned by the Police Bureau of the Ministry of Home Affairs. Its files of periodicals contain some 10,000 titles, of which a large number of the important ones, both scientific and cultural, are complete. Special attention has been given to developing its collection of statistical material and of Japanese Government publications, both central and prefectural. It has some 3,000 reels of microfilm, among which the most notable are the selected archives of the Japanese Foreign Office, Army, Navy, and other Government agencies from 1868 to 1945. Separate catalogs of Japanese books and serial publications, including the Japanese Union Catalog and the Union Card File of Japanese Serials, are maintained in the Japanese Section.

Hebraic Section

Head: Lawrence Marwick, Ext. 5422

The Hebraic Section contains books in Hebrew, Yiddish, Aramaic, Syriac, Ethiopic, and cognate languages. Hebraica, however, is paramount, numbering over 85,000 volumes. Two collections totaling about 15,000 volumes were presented in 1912 and 1914 by the late Jacob H. Schiff, and another two collections amounting to about 6,000 volumes were purchased from the same collector in 1917 and 1921. Yearly accessions by gift, exchange, copyright, and purchase have increased the number to the present total. It includes a considerable number of incunabula, early prints, and rarities. Referenced material is available on the Bible; the Ancient Near East, its cultures and languages; on Jews and Judaism in every part of the world, from Biblical times up to the present, including history, bibliography, biography, religion, cultural and social conditions, Jewish settlements in various lands, Zionism, anti-Semitism, political and economic rights of the Jews, and Palestine and Israel, and on Ethiopia. About 285,000 volumes of related works in Western languages (in the Library's General Collections) supplement its unique resources for study and research in this area. The Hebraic Section maintains also a Union Catalog of Hebraica recording the holdings of all major collections in this country, and a Union Catalog of Hebraica on Microfilm.

Near East Section

Head: George N. Atiyeh, Ext. 5421

The Near East Section was established in 1945 as the result of experience in World War II pointing to the need for a special unit responsible for building up the Library's collections not only in the languages of the area but also in Western languages. The Section is concerned with materials in Arabic, Turkish, Persian, Armenian, and other languages of this area, which extends from Afghanistan in the east to Morocco in the west, and from Turkey and Central Asia in the north to the Sudan in the south, excluding only Israel. The collections in the languages of the area number over 69,000 volumes—the largest single collection being in Arabic. Materials in Western languages are in the General Collections of the Library, and have been estimated as numbering over 250,000 volumes. The collections present a wide and balanced coverage of the literature produced by and concerning the Near and Middle East and North Africa, with special emphasis on the languages and linguistic science related to the area; history—ancient, medieval and modern (both general and in relation to each political division); the vernacular press, and government publications. Service of the collections is aided by special catalogs in the Section and by the maintenance of union catalogs of materials in the above-mentioned languages held by other libraries in the United States. Special collections of note are the Mansuri collection with over 5,000 volumes on all phases of Islam and Islamic culture, and the Abdul Hamid collection of materials in old Turkish, a gift to the Library in 1884. Additions to personnel in the Near East Section and in related Sections in the Library have resulted in greater control over the rapidly growing area language collection, especially the portions in Turkish, Persian, Arabic, and Armenian. A beginning has been made also in Central Asian materials. These controls, besides fully cataloged titles, include serial record control and preliminary listing of language materials not yet cataloged.

Southern Asia Section

Head: Cecil Hobbs, Ext. 5600

The Southern Asia Section was established in 1942 on the basis of the Project for the Development of Indic Studies, inaugurated in 1938 through grants from the Carnegie Foundation and the American Council of Learned Societies. This Section has for its purview India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Brunei, Burma, Thailand, Cambodia, Laos, Nepal, Vietnam, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia, and the Philippines. Not only are the linguistic disciplines considered but also anthropology, art, archeology, current political developments, history, law, philosophy, religion, the sciences, social institutions, and contemporary conditions. The collections, which now total some 300,000 volumes, are for the most part maintained in the General

Collection of the Library; nevertheless, items in the vernacular languages of Southern Asia, now totaling over 78,000 volumes in addition to vernacular newspapers and periodicals, are in the custody of and are serviced by the Southern Asia Section. In addition more than 1,000 manuscripts from the countries of Southern Asia are in the custody of the Manuscript Division. A special subject catalog of references to items pertaining to the countries of Southeast Asia is maintained in the Southern Asia Section.

N. PHOTODUPLICATION SERVICE

Address: Office, Annex Building, Basement Floor, Room G-1009

Telephone: 426-5640 (Code 182, Ext. 5640)

Chief: Charles G. LaHood, Jr., 426-5654

The Photoduplication Service was organized in 1938 as a result of a grant by the Rockefeller Foundation establishing a revolving fund. Its responsibilities include supplying photo-reproductions of materials in the Library's collections to Congress, other government agencies, individuals and institutions, subject to copyright and certain other necessary restrictions.

The Photoduplication Laboratory produces photostats, electrostatic prints, photographs, microfilm, enlargement prints, color transparencies, and slides (black and white or color), blue-prints, ozalid prints, etc. Price lists and order forms are available on request. Orders may be placed in person at the Public Services Section, which is located on the ground floor of the Annex (Room G-1009), or through the mail. The Photoduplication Service maintains a searching staff to investigate the availability of requested material, prepare cost estimates, and secure materials from the collections for the laboratory. It also acts as custodian for and supplies photoduplicates of over 100,000 scientific and technical reports released through the Publication Board of the Department of Commerce, Office of Technical Services, prior to June 1, 1961. These reports were either never printed in quantity or are now out-of-print. Orders for photocopies requested under the American Documentation Institute (now ASIS) Auxiliary Publications Program, through Document No. 10,073, are processed in this section.

In addition, the Photoduplication Service is the custodian of the Library's Master Negative Microfilm Collection totaling more than 120,000 reels. Of particular interest are the microfilms of the Presidential Papers, the manuscript collections in the libraries at Mt. Sinai, and the Greek and Armenian Patriarchates in Jerusalem, Early State Records of the United States, Official Papers in the Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and both current and retrospective files of more than 800 domestic and foreign newspapers and other serials. Detailed information about the material in these and other special collections, as well as cooperative microfilming projects, is available from the Photoduplication Service, or may be found in the Microfilm Clearinghouse Bulletin, Newspapers on Microfilm, and the National Register of Microform Masters.

O. PRINTS AND PHOTOGRAPHS DIVISION

Address: Annex Building, First Floor, Room 1051

Telephone: 426-5837 (Code 182, Ext. 5837)

Chief: Edgar Breitenbach, 426-5837

The Division has custody of drawings, prints, posters, and related categories of applied graphic arts; photographs and photographic negatives; and motion pictures. Its collections number over 3,500,000 pieces in the following categories:

Prints and Drawings. Artists' prints from the 15th through the 20th centuries (approximately 76,000) in the J. and E. R. Pennell, the Gardiner Greene Hubbard, and the George Lothrop Bradley collections. Historical prints of the 18th through the 20th centuries (approximately 75,000 engravings and lithographs by Currier and Ives and other printmakers of views, portraits, battles, theater posters, advertisements, etc.). Cabinet of American Illustration (original drawings by the Civil War artists, Alfred R. Waud and Edwin Forbes, and other work produced during the 1890's to the present); Archives of American Graphic Humor (genre and political cartoons—original lithographs and drawings by McCutcheon, Nast, Kirby, etc.).

Photographs. Mathew B. Brady and Brady-Handy (Civil War, portraits), Frances Benjamin Johnston (early American architecture, American scene, 1890-1915), George Grantham Bain (portraits and events, 1898-1916), Detroit Photographic Company (views, human interest pictures, 1898-1914), Herbert E. French (photographs of the Washington, D.C. scene, 1919-1932), American Red Cross (1900 through the 1930's), Erwin E. Smith (cowboys and the western range), Farm Security Administration—Office of War Information (survey of America, 1935-1943), Historic American Buildings Survey (measured drawings, photographs, data pages), Archive of Hispanic Culture (Latin American art and architecture); master photographs by outstanding individual photographers; extensive portrait and geographical files.

Poster Collection. American theatrical posters, mainly, 1870-1905, World Wars I and II, Art Nouveau, contemporary poster art.

Motion Picture Section. The Section contains an archival and a reference collection of representative contemporary motion pictures (1942 to present); the paper print collection of early films (1897 to 1915) deposited for copyright and now copies onto 16mm films; the Mary Pickford, George Kleine, and other collections of early motion pictures (1900 to 1925), The American Film Institute Collections (1920's, 30's, and 40's); and German, Italian, and Japanese features, newsreels, and documentary films (1930 to 1945). The Section contains approximately 122,000 reels or about 40,000 titles. Reference service and equipment for viewing is provided for research activities; loans are severely limited, but copies may be reproduced if restrictions are observed.

Other collections include Early Printing, 1501-1520; Spanish American Imprints; the Frederick W. Goudy Collection; rare books from the Yudin Collection of Russian books; and books from the libraries of Hermann Goering and other Nazi leaders. The collection formed by Dr. Joseph Meredith Toner of Washington and presented to the Library beginning in 1882 comprises about 43,000 books, pamphlets, and periodicals dealing chiefly with medical science and American local history.

Q. SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY DIVISION

Address: Annex Building, Fifth Floor, Study Room 5105

Telephone: 426-5674 (Code 182, Ext. 5674)

Chief: Marvin W. McFarland, 426-5674

The Science and Technology Division is the focal point of both general and advanced reference and bibliographic service in all fields of science and technology within the Library. European, Slavic, and Oriental languages are covered. Reference service is provided in the Science Reading Room on the fifth floor of the Annex. Reference inquiries may also be made by letter to the Division. A free referral service is provided through the Division's National Referral Center.

The Library's extensive technical report collection is maintained in the Division and is available through the Science Reading Room.

A fee literature searching service, in cooperation with the National Technical Information Service, at $11.00 an hour, is available to industry, private individuals, and the Federal Government. (Brochures are available on request.) Bibliographic projects are undertaken in the Division both as internally supported Library efforts and on a transferred-fund basis for other Government agencies.

A list, Publications of the Science and Technology Division, describing the various publications of the Division, is also available on request.

R. SERIAL DIVISION

Address: Annex Building, First Floor, Northeast Side, Room A-1040H

Telephone: 426-5647 (Code 182, Ext. 5647)

Chief: S. Branson Marley, Jr., 426-5647

This Division offers reference service through the Newspaper and Current Periodical Room, cares for the collections in its custody, and conducts limited research involving them.

Newspaper and Current Periodical Room

Address: Annex, First Floor, North Side, Room A-1026

Telephone: 426-5690

The Newspaper and Current Periodical Room provides reader and reference service for the Library's collection of unbound serial publications, both official and nonofficial, including periodicals and government serials, and for unbound issues, bound volumes, and microfilms of newspapers in Western and Cyrillic alphabets, current and retrospective from the year 1800. Over 60,000 titles of periodicals and other serials are being received, shelved, made available to readers, and prepared for binding and microfilming. Approximately 1,500 domestic and foreign newspapers are being currently received and most are retained, largely in the form of microfilm.

S. SLAVIC AND CENTRAL EUROPEAN DIVISION

Address: Annex Building, Fifth Floor, Division Office, Study Room 5244

Telephone: 426-5413 (Code 182, Ext. 5413)

Chief: Sergius Yakobson, 426-5413

The Slavic and Central European Division is responsible for the Library's services and programs pertaining to the cultural, political, social, and economic life of Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Finland, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Romania, the Soviet Union, Switzerland, and Yugoslavia. A considerable portion of the book and serial production in these areas is currently received and added to the existing substantial collections of the Library. A limited supply of a recent survey article outlining the Library's Slavic and East European resources and facilities is available upon request.

The Division staff provides specialized reference and consultant services in person, by telephone, or by correspondence. Reference aids developed by the Division include a card file on recent articles on Central and East Europe which appeared in periodicals issued in West European languages.

General reference service to readers is provided through the facilities of the Slavic Room, a public reading room located on the Fifth Floor of the Annex Building adjacent to the Thomas Jefferson Reading Room (Room 5011-B, Telephone 426-5858, Code 182, Ext. 5858). The Slavic Room has custody of a reference collection of some 8,000 volumes on the Soviet Union and the Slavic countries and of current unbound Slavic and Baltic newspapers and periodicals, of which over 3,000 titles are received regularly. Various reference files are also maintained. The staff of the Slavic Room uses the Library's Cyrillic Union Catalog in establishing information concerning the location of materials available not only in the Library of Congress but also in other major American research libraries.

Publications prepared by the Division include lists for facilitating access to certain categories of the Library's research materials, reference aids, and a series of bibliographic area guides. A complete list of the Division's publications is provided free on request.

T. STACK AND READER DIVISION

Address: Main Reading Room

Telephone: 426-5455 (Code 182, Ext. 5455)

Chief: Dudley B. Ball, 426-5456

The Stack and Reader Division has custody of and services, largely through the Main Reading Room and the Thomas Jefferson Room, nearly 7,871,000 volumes in the Library's general book collections. The Division also is responsible for the Microfilm Reading Room, special study facilities, and the Library's guide service.

Regulations: The products and services of the National Agricultural Library are available to U.S. Department of Agriculture personnel, to land-grant colleges and universities and, within available resources, to the general public

Interlibrary loan, 345-6200, Ext. 271

Photoduplication service is limited to copying materials in the collection of the National Agricultural Library. Order forms and price lists are available from the Lending Division (345-6200, Ext. 284). A copier is available for public use in the Main Library at Beltsville and in the D.C. Branch reference room.

Resources: The library's objective to acquire and permanently retain at least one copy of all substantive publications in the field of agriculture has resulted in a collection which currently numbers about 1.3 million volumes. Most of the holdings are in technical fields such as botany, chemistry, entomology, forestry, food and nutrition, law, water resources and economics. All publications of the Department of Agriculture and all reports of research supported by Department funds are included in the collection. Additionally, the library acquires works in some 50 languages and from more than 150 countries. A collection of approximately 6,000 rare volumes has been assembled largely in the field of botany and includes fine specimens of lithographs, as well as a strong collection of the original works of Linnaeus.

The papers of Dr. Charles E. North, a pioneer in the dairy industry, were deposited in the library, November 21, 1969. This collection contains patents on processes and devices, notes of research, and letters dealing with a variety of subjects spanning the first half of the twentieth century.

The Dr. Harry W. Schoening Collection contains manuscripts, correspondence, photographs and other memorabilia reflecting the development of USDA livestock research.

Library activities are channeled into two basic organizational groupings: Resource Development (input functions) and Library Services (output functions). Under Resource Development are carried out the technical service functions of acquisitions, cataloging and indexing. Library Services provides for the loan of materials and reference services. Computer and management services are located in the Director's office.

Regulations: Records may be consulted in the central research rooms and the branch research rooms and, subject to certain conditions, may be borrowed by Government agencies for official use. Admission to the research rooms may be obtained by making application at the office of the Chief of the Central Research Room Branch. An applicant may be required to submit an acceptable letter of introduction or otherwise identify himself. The use of some records, because of their confidential character, is restricted.

Interlibrary loan. Materials in the National Archives Library are available on interlibrary loan, but accessioned records are lent only to Government agencies for official use. Copies of records may be obtained on order.

Resources: At the end of fiscal year 1970 there were in the National Archives more than 900,000 cubic feet of valuable, noncurrent Federal records received from Congress, the White House, executive departments, independent agencies, and Federal courts. They include the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, the Bill of Rights, and many other documents important for the history of the Nation. These records range in date from 1774 to 1970. Among the holdings are 1,600,000 maps; 54,000 motion picture reels; 36,000 sound recordings; and 3,400,000 still pictures, including a collection of about 6,000 Brady Civil War negatives.

Besides serving as an invaluable source of fact and precedent for Federal officials, records in the National Archives are basic to research in a multitude of fields. Diplomatic relations can be traced in the records of the State Department, and land and Indian policies in the records of the General Land Office and the Office of Indian Affairs. Growth of foreign and domestic trade and navigation is shown in the records of the Commerce Department, the Customs Bureau, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and other agencies. Pension and census records are rich in materials for genealogical study. Expansion to the West, immigration, capital and labor, reclamation, conservation, public health, agriculture, fiscal policy and administration, railroads and other means of transportation, communication, national defense, and Federal administration are some of the many subjects dealt with in the Federal records. Even for the study of local and regional history, records of the Army Department and the Agriculture Department, for instance, are invaluable. Most Federal archival sources for the study of naval history and military affairs and of the emergency agencies of World War II are in the National Archives.

The library, comprising more than 150,000 books and pamphlets, has material on United States history, especially the administrative history of Federal agencies; biography of important figures in American Government; and public and archival administration. More than two-thirds of the collection are Government publications.

The National Archives publishes a number of descriptive aids to the use of records in its custody. The following five guides are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at various prices: Guide to Federal Archives Relating to the Civil War, Guide to the Archives of the Confederate States of America, Guide to Genealogical Records in the National Archives, Guide to Civil War Maps in the National Archives and Guide to Materials on Latin America in the National Archives. Available from the Publications Sales Branch, National Archives, are other guides, inventories, and special lists of records. Twenty-seven volumes of the documentary series The Territorial Papers of the United States have been published, and future volumes are planned. Volumes of this series are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at various prices. Facsimiles of historic documents such as the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution may be purchased along with a free list of all publications (Publications of the National Archives and Records Service) from the Educational Programs staff upon request. Important bodies of research materials are reproduced on microfilm for sale to the public. Prologue: The Journal of the National Archives is sold by subscription for $2.50 from The Cashier, National Archives Building, General Services Administration, Washington, D.C. 20408. Checks should be made payable to GSA (NEJ). Published triannually, it contains historical articles based entirely or in part on Archives records and has sections on the latest accessions and news notes.

History of Medicine Division: 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Saturday

Regulations: Open to the public

Resources: For nearly a century the National Library of Medicine has indexed and cataloged the world's biomedical literature. It became a component of the National Institutes of Health in 1968. The main collection totals approximately 1,500,000 items. Included are some 715,000 bound volumes, 487,000 medical theses and pamphlets, 67,000 prints and photographs, 11,000 reels of microfilm, and 1,000 medical motion pictures. In January 1964, the library began operation of its new computer-based Medical Literature Analysis and Retrieval System (MEDLARS). MEDLARS is used to produce: (1) Index Medicus, a comprehensive, monthly listing of current journal articles, and its new monthly Abridged Index Medicus (January 1970-) containing citations to articles from 100 English-language journals on clinical medicine; (2) recurring bibliographies such as Index to Dental Literature; and (3) demand bibliographies on highly specialized subjects. In January 1966 the library began publication of the NLM Current Catalog, prepared on the computer and issued monthly with quarterly and annual cumulations. The library is responsible for the implementation and administration of the Medical Library Assistance Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-291) and its extension in 1970 (Public Law 91-212), providing support for improving and expanding the facilities, resources, and manpower of the Nation's medical libraries. The National Library of Medicine asserts active leadership in solving the communication's problems created by the biomedical knowledge explosion. In 1967, the National Medical Audiovisual Center, Atlanta, Georgia, became a part of NLM. New library programs are aimed at accelerating the dissemination of biomedical information to serve the needs of the three principal health-related communities: research, practice, and education.

Resources: The Public Library supplements the system of public education in the District of Columbia by giving general library services to individuals and groups. The library contains over 2,000,000 bound volumes, in addition to periodicals, newspapers, pamphlets, clippings, mounted pictures, framed prints, music scores, phonograph records, maps, microfilm materials, motion picture films, and filmstrips. The library has on microfilm complete files of all major newspapers published in the District of Columbia, and also owns a large number of periodical files on microfilm, microfiche, and rocard.

The Central Library is arranged on the open-shelf, subject-divisional plan with special divisions for: General Reference; Art; Biography; Business and Economics; Fiction; Films; Foreign Literature; History, Geography, and Government; Literature; Music; Philosophy, Psychology, and Religion; Sociology and Education; Technology and Science; Washingtoniana; Children (including an Illustrator's Collection); and Young Adults. These Divisions are staffed by specialists who are available for reference and advisory assistance.

The Washingtoniana Division contains an important collection on the history of the District of Columbia and on contemporary local community life. Primarily for reference and research, this material is of special interest to municipal personnel, historians, writers, and students.

The Extension Department operates three bookmobiles which provide limited library service to residents of areas not adequately served by branch libraries. Its Schools Division provides classroom collections for elementary and junior high schools. Through its Institutional Service books are sent to homes for the aged, child care centers, summer camps, job training centers, and welfare and correctional institutions. The Model Cities Project brings library materials to inner city residents through several storefront libraries and a bookmobile.

The Community Relations Department disseminates information about the Library's resources and services through exhibits, publications, press releases, and radio and television announcements. It also develops programs to involve the library in community affairs through cooperation with and service to groups.

Microfilm and photostat at commercial rates

Resources: This is a general as well as a Masonic library with the general collections dealing primarily with history, philosophy, religion, philology, and antiquities, and especially in American history and biography. There are many rare and valuable items in the general collections, since the library includes a number of former private libraries, assembled by men of means who were discriminating collectors. The manuscript and autograph letter collections are primarily Masonic or related to Freemasonry. About one-third of the library is on Freemasonry throughout the world. Other special collections include the William Smith Collection of Burnsiana of approximately 4,500 volumes, the Claudy Collection of Goethe editions and German literature of the 18th century, the Carman Collection of Lincolniana of approximately 1,500 volumes and 1,000 pamphlets, and the Albert Pike Collection containing all the published works and many of the unpublished works of this great soldier, lawyer and scholar. The library has about 200,000 books and pamphlets, which are cataloged and classified by standard procedures.

Librarian: Charles Hallam, Ext. 301

Hours: 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday

Regulations: The library is open to Justices of the Supreme Court, to members of the Bar of the Court, to Members of Congress, and to law officers of Government agencies. Books may not be removed from the building.

Resources. Total collections number approximately 200,000 volumes. The Main Reading Room contains a complete working collection of American, English and Canadian statutes, reports (including a set of Cutler's Patent Cases) and digests; general and legal reference works, and recent editions of treatises. The stack in the front of the Main Reading Room houses Congressional committee hearings, reports and documents, as well as copies of old editions of treatises. A Special Reading Room to the rear of the Main Reading Room contains a complete set of the printed Records and Briefs of the Court covering the Terms from 1832 to the present. Other special holdings include a collection of Federal tax law, comprising the acts, their legislative histories, and the regulations, compiled by Carlton Fox; a documentary and legislative history of the Bankruptcy Acts, compiled by Leon Frechtel; and other compiled legislative histories of selected Federal acts. The library also contains the Thorpe collection of state constitutional materials.

The Justices' Reading Room and the stacks adjoining it contain the 23,000 volume collection of the late Elbridge T. Gerry, presented to the Court in 1928 by Senator Peter Gerry of Rhode Island. It is kept up to date and considerably augmented by English, Scottish, Irish and other Commonwealth legal materials. Here also is the Trials collection, and many early Anglo-American legal treatises.

Microfilm holdings include the Records and Briefs of the Court from the 1938 Term to the 1949 Term, and the Revolutionary War Prize Cases: Records of the Court of Appeals in Cases of Capture, 1776-1787. Beginning with the 1947 Term, the Records and Briefs of the Supreme Court are available on microcards in addition to the bound set of the printed papers.

WHITEFRIARS HALL--THE CARMELITANA COLLECTION

Address: 1600 Webster Street, N.E. 20017

Telephone: 526-1221

Librarian: Please specify Librarian

Hours: By arrangement with the Librarian

Regulations: Not open to the public; but the collection is unhesitatingly made available to interested persons by arrangement with the Librarian
Interlibrary loan

Resources: The Collection contains approximately 4,000 volumes which deal exclusively with things Carmelite: history, biography, bibliography, ascetical and mystical theology, philosophy, and so forth. A goodly number of microfilms of manuscripts and various documents is available. It covers quite extensively the works, lives, and studies of St. John of the Cross, St. Teresa of Avila, and St. Therese of Lisieux. The coverage of Carmelite periodicals--some 30 in all--must be unique on this continent. Finally, the Collection's section on Carmelite history is also worthy of note.
