PHILOSOPHY OF THE CORPUS CHRISTI PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The schools are committed to helping all boys and girls develop the competencies required for active participation in the American way of life. This premise is the foundation for the tenets of the philosophy of the Corpus Christi Public Schools:

- We believe the schools exist primarily for the benefit of boys and girls of the community they serve. Therefore, the schools should provide an educational program to meet the individual needs of every student.
- We believe the curriculum should provide broad subject matter areas and educational programs within which the principal, the teacher, and the student have latitude and discretion.
- We believe the curriculum should be effective as a means of continual child growth. Therefore, constant evaluation, adaptation, and development of the curriculum are necessary.
- We believe an organized program of teaching and learning is essential for pupils to learn directly from valuable experiences and to develop a sense of belonging through opportunities provided in the total process.
- We believe pupils should learn that certain duties and responsibilities go with the privileges they enjoy in our democratic community, state, and nation.

OBJECTIVES OF THE CORPUS CHRISTI PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The schools are dedicated to giving every child the best education possible as preparation for living in a democratic society. Therefore, they seek

- To develop in every child a love of and an appreciation for the rights, the privileges, and the responsibilities guaranteed by our form of government
- To provide opportunities for the individual to develop attitudes and abilities as well as to acquire skills and knowledge necessary to meet the demands of a constantly changing society
- To provide a program of learning that encourages the child to develop to the limits of his capacity, with the program having opportunity for the child
  - To obtain an education suitable to his personal abilities, interests, and needs
  - To develop mentally, morally, emotionally, socially, and physically so as to be better able to cope with life's problems
  - To acquire cultural and aesthetic understandings and gain appreciation for the fine arts
  - To learn the meaning of good citizenship and democracy through participation and interest in community and world affairs
  - To develop an appreciation for our American heritage and democratic way of life

Preface

The purpose of the Child Development Guide is to orient teachers to the unique needs and abilities of the Kindergarten child and to offer a suggested program. It is not the intent of the writers to limit the creativity or ingenuity of the teachers in any way. On the contrary, it is our hope that the guide will stimulate and inspire the teachers.

Philosophy

Each child, unique in his strength and weaknesses, needs experiences which nurture feelings of self-confidence and self-respect. It is essential that he acquire positive attitudes toward himself, others, and his environment. The opportunities provided in living and learning during his early years formulate later behavioral patterns of growth and development.

The young child's eagerness to learn and his attitude of inquiry stimulate cognitive development; therefore, play is vital in these formative years. It is the natural media through which learning takes place. It assists in social-emotional adjustment, physical coordination, and creative expression. Through play, a child accurately reflects not only his thoughts, feelings, and values, but also the kind and amount of experiences he has had. It is unique in its revelation.

Language facility and concept development are also broadened through play-related experiences. As the child interacts with both peers and adults in an appropriately designed kindergarten center, the basic foundations for future learnings are accomplished.

Parental involvement in the kindergarten program is essential. The close cooperation of the home and the school supports the child's growth and development.

Art (Continuous activities through all units) The following media; clay, tempera, finger paint, paper, paste, scissors, scrap material (wood, fabric, and paper), sand, and colored chalk are provided. These materials promote valuable opportunities for expressing ideas, impressions, and feelings young children cannot put into words.

Music Music in kindergarten offers a wide variety of experiences in singing, exploring and playing instruments, and in creating or improvising movement. The program is informal and natural, relating to the pupils' interests and current subject areas. Essentially, music should be enjoyable and a way to help the pupil improve his self image.

All music activities require listening skills, and language patterns can be introduced and reinforced through music activities. The combination of melody, words and rhythm require total cognitive response and give maximum stimulation through several senses. Learning to listen, to follow directions, and to respond accurately in a classroom situation are valuable social factors in the pupils' experiences.

Musical activities aid development of physical coordination. The child's response with appropriate movement for different types of music (marches, lullabies, etc.) provides pleasure and exercise simultaneously. Skill in playing rhythm instruments is visible, audible, and enjoyable. Acting out, or dramatizing the story of a song, or creating songs to go with a story is an integral part of the kindergarten program. If the words are appropriate for action of motion, the children should create their own version.

Singing is a daily occurrence. New songs are taught by rote, usually phrase by phrase. Pitch, rhythm and expression are important, but enjoyment is more important at first. Music concepts are developed as needed for a particular song (high-low, loud-soft, fast-slow, heavy-light) and then discovered in other songs or listening experiences.

Make every experience in music as enjoyable as possible.

Part II: Classroom Organization

Classroom Organization

The Kindergarten Program is organized to encourage the development of listening habits, verbal skills, acceptable social patterns, and intuitive number concepts. It provides patriotic experiences and gives instruction in science and health. In addition, activities fostering appreciation of the fine arts are an essential part of the program.

Teacher-guided listening activities provide excellent opportunities for the teacher to stress intonations, correct pronunciation, and rhythm patterns. Phonograph records, tape recorders, and films further expand listening skills.

Materials and experience not within but closely related to the child's own environment extend verbal skills and improve oral language.

Social attitudes are directed as the child investigates and explores the community. Parties, games, field trips, and other social situations provide a setting for motivations.

Number concepts and number vocabulary are part of the daily activities. These activities include counting for necessary information and comparison of sizes, shapes, and amounts. The term set is introduced in relation to groups or collections.

Science consists of exploring and investigating the environment through sensory reactions. For instance, a study of rain includes seeing, smelling, touching, tasting, hearing, and feeling.

Other studies in making the child's environment more meaningful follow the same pattern.

Daily activities stress patriotism through patriotic symbols, songs, and holidays.

The program presents an abundance of opportunities to acquaint the child with good music, art, and literature. The teacher plays an important role in inspiring the child to express his own creativity with various media.

The daily schedule consists of large blocks of time interspersed with varied activities. The program is consistent and establishes a normal and regular sequence but, at the same time, is flexible enough to allow for special events. One such large block of time consists of self-selected activities. A child needs an opportunity to select, organize, and assimilate knowledge through dramatic play, painting, and working with manipulative materials.

The classroom arrangement is uncluttered with specific areas designated for the different activities. Emphasis is placed on the proper care, usage, and replacing of materials to develop a sense of responsibility in the child.

Description of Kindergarten Activities

Self-Selected Activities

The teacher greets the child as he enters and attempts to make him feel welcome. The child begins the day with self-selected activities. The teacher suggests activities (puzzles, clay, dolls) for the reluctant child; however, the child should eventually become independent in regard to selection. He should enter the classroom, choose an activity, and begin work immediately. The number of children working in one activity should be limited and the child acquainted with these limits. He must also be encouraged to remain with an activity until a goal has been attained. The importance of returning material to its proper place must be stressed as an aspect of pupil responsibility. Replacement of material begins at a pre-established signal such as a bell, whistle, or piano note. When the signal is repeated, the children assemble for directed language activities.

Directed Language Activities

The "show and tell" period provides opportunities for free oral expression. Each child is encouraged to show or tell something of interest. The teacher provides objects of interest or gives verbal clues to prompt the participation of a timid child. During this period, emphasis is placed on complete sentences, correct grammar, and accurate pronunciation. However, the child should not be interrupted while he is speaking, as this could cause embarrassment or confusion.

The oral language development period consists of several carefully spaced periods of intensive oral drill. Each period will be approximately ten minutes in duration. The basic sentence patterns illustrated in the units serve as the models. The expanded patterns may be altered according to the experience level of the child. The teacher may intersperse games, songs, poems, stories, dramatics, puppetry, finger plays, and flannel board activities between the intensive drill periods to motivate and reinforce oral language usage.

Snack Time

Each child is served a simple mid-morning snack. Good manners, sharing, and taking turns are particularly important. Aides may assist with the distribution of the food during the first few days of the program. However, as soon as possible, each child should be assigned to and held responsible for a specific duty such as passing out the milk, straws, cookies, and napkins. The teacher should also establish a procedure for group participation in clean-up activities.

Creative Development

The creative development period is used for self-expression and imaginative projects. Activities include songs, rhythmic expression through body movement and percussion instruments, science experiments, dramatizations, and art projects. All of the children are encouraged to participate in the same activity during this period.

Outdoor Play

The outdoor play period consists of both teacher-directed and free play. During the teacher-directed play, the child learns games requiring sentence patterns closely related to the basic vocabulary. At other times the child is given an opportunity to use playground equipment with an aide guiding conversation.

Rest

A short rest period is essential. Five-year-olds are highly active and often resist rest. A darkened room and quiet music helps them to relax. Bath towels or small throw rugs may be placed on the floor as mats. However, the teacher may simply have each child put his head on his desk with eyes closed for a brief period.

Work-Play Period

The work-play period is the largest block of time during the day. The child has an opportunity to use his initiative in planning, working, and sharing without teacher domination. Dramatic activities and role playing in the housekeeping area help the child experiment with adult roles, thereby enabling him to become aware of sense of the realities of living. Building with blocks helps develop eye-hand coordination and a sense of balance in relation to objects. Tempera and finger painting encourage creative expression and tend to release frustrations and tensions. A definite procedure must be established to ensure a smooth clean-up period and help develop responsibility in the child. The adult in charge may assist only when help is imperative. The child will not mature if he is babied. A permissive atmosphere should prevail with overexuberance kept within bounds.

THE LEARNING ENVIRONMENT EQUIPMENT, MATERIALS AND OTHER RESOURCES

Part III: Procedures for Using Units

Procedures for Using Units

To facilitate individual participation, language arts groups should contain a maximum of ten children to provide for greater individual participation. An independent activity can be assigned to the other pupils in the class. Reassemble the children at the end of the period for a unifying activity such as an appropriate game or song.

Control of the basic sentence patterns included in this guide will enable the pupil to use the basic structures of English. For this reason, emphasis has been placed on patterns illustrating word form and word order, the changes in the verb forms, the plurals and singulars of nouns, subject and verb agreement, and the place of adverbs and adjectives in the word order.

The teacher should feel free to select the patterns she feels best suited to the immediate needs of the pupil. However, she should follow a sequential development in the presentation of the sentence patterns.

Native speakers of Spanish frequently are unable to "hear" the sounds in English which do not occur in their own language. The teacher gives oral practice to train them to hear these sounds. It is the teacher's responsibility to give a correct model and to see that the pupil responds correctly.

The program outlined in this guide stresses the acquisition of speech patterns rather than the mastery of word lists. For this reason, the pupil is required to speak in complete sentences. The intonational pattern of each sentence is vital to the mastery of a speech pattern, and the teacher should emphasize this aspect as well as the structure of the sentence. The teacher listens for mistakes in intonation and stress as the pupil says the sentence and she corrects him immediately by reproducing the correct pattern. When the teacher feels the pupil has completely mastered the structure of the sentence as well as the intonational pattern, and his response in both areas has become automatic, she no longer needs to insist on complete sentences from this pupil.

Hand Gestures

Hand gestures play an important part in the use of sentence patterns. The teacher says the sentence or words and then gives the signal for response with her hands. The teacher practices these gestures until they become automatic for her.

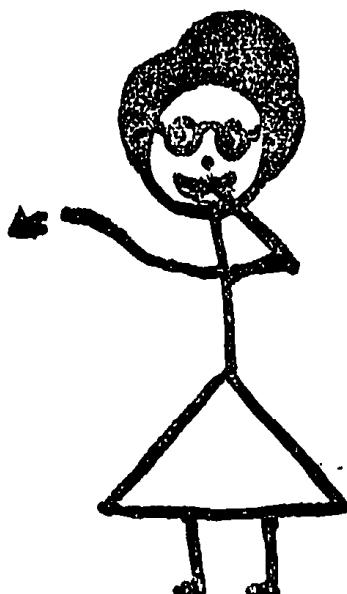

All class response

The teacher uses both hands for entire class response.

Half class response

The teacher uses one hand for half class response and indicates which half of class is to respond. A variation of this type of response is to have the boys repeat the pattern, then the girls.

Individual response

The teacher points to one pupil for individual response and places her other hand over her lips in order to signal the others to remain quiet.

Several problems encountered by native speakers of Spanish are listed below along with procedures to correct them. After the teacher uses these minimal pair drills, she should immediately put the words in sentences.

I. Contrasting the short sounds of i, e, and a:

The teacher prepares a list of words with vowel sounds similar to those listed below. She pronounces the words and the class imitates in unison. She gives individual help where needed.

|                    |
|--------------------|
| pit - pet - pat    |
| did - dead - dad   |
| big - beg - bag    |
| bid - bed - bad    |
| miss - mess - mass |

II. Use of the z and s sounds:

Spanish has no z sound as represented by the English s. The teacher uses a replica of a bee picture or toy to practice this sound. She moves the bee to indicate flying and says z-z-z-z-z. The class imitates her, at the same time saying the sound.

Since many Spanish speaking students have difficulty with the initial s sound, the teacher uses a toy snake and shows the pupils the snake as she says s-s-s-s. The class imitates her by making the same sound and pretending to be snakes. Then the class repeats the words after her.

|        |       |
|--------|-------|
| stone  | stop  |
| stay   | still |
| stairs |       |

III. Distinguishing between the y and j sounds:

Spanish language oriented pupils often substitute an English j sound for y. The teacher needs to use a yo-yo to introduce the y sound. She bounces the yo-yo as the class says the word yo-yo. The teacher then says different words the same sound and the class repeats them.

|        |     |      |      |       |
|--------|-----|------|------|-------|
| yellow | yes | yard | yet  | yawn  |
| yell   | you | year | yarn | young |

The initial j sound can be introduced with the word jump. The teacher says the word and jumps, indicating for the pupils to imitate her actions and to say the word. The teacher says several words with this sound and the class repeats them after her.

|     |      |      |
|-----|------|------|
| jar | jump | just |
| jug | John | Jack |

IV. Use the sh and ch sounds:

The sh and ch sounds are confusing for many native Spanish speakers. The teacher introduces the sh sound by holding one finger to her lips and saying sh-sh-sh. The class imitates her. She then gives several words with the sh sound for the class to repeat.

|       |       |
|-------|-------|
| sheet | ship  |
| shirt | shell |
| short | she   |

The ch sound is distinguished from the sh sound by giving alternating words for each sound.

|        |       |
|--------|-------|
| chin   | shirt |
| church | ship  |
| chair  | short |
| child  | sheet |

The class can practice the ch sound by pretending to be trains and saying choo-choo-choo.

"Our House"

Tune: "Mary Had a Little Lamb"

The fam-i-ly lives in the house,
In the house, in the house.
The fam-i-ly lives in the house,
A little yell-low house.

The house is in a little yard,
Little yard, little yard.
The house is in a little yard,
A pretty little yard.

Who lives in the little house,
Little house, little house?
Who lives in the little house
That has a pretty yard?

I live in this little house,
Little house, little house,
I live in this little house
With my fam-i-ly.

Tune: "Little Brown Jug"

A-ha-ha, you and me
We're as clean as we can see,
Juan's as clean as he can be.
A-walking we will go.

(Substitute neat, nice, sweet, smart, etc.
Also substitute the names of different boys and girls to vary the song.)

This room is the kitchen,
Kitchen, kitchen.
This room is the kitchen,
Where mother cooks our food.

(This song may continue throughout the unit.)

POEMS

Fascinating Finger Fun, Eleanor Doan
Zondervan Publishing House

- a. Toes, knees, shoulders, hands,
We reach way up as far as we can;
Head, shoulders, reach out wide,
Then drop our hands to our sides.
  - b. "Two Little Blackbirds"
(Nursery Rhyme)
  - c. "The Family"
- This room is the bathroom,
Bathroom, bathroom.
This room is the bathroom,
Where we take a bath.
- Touch toes, knees, shoulders and stretch hands at sides.
Reach arms straight up.
Touch head, shoulders and reach out to sides.
Stand erect, hands at side.
- Two little blackbirds sitting on a hill,
One named Jack and one named Jill.
Fly away Jack, fly away Jill.
Come back Jack, come back Jill.
- Put finger on each hand to make birds.
Fly a finger over shoulder for each character.
Bring fingers back to front.
- "Let's Do Finger Plays" - page 40
- This is my father,
This is my mother,
This is my brother tall,
This is my sister,
This is the baby.
Oh, how we love them all.

- d. "Jack Be Nimble"
(Mother Goose)
- Jack be nimble, Jack be quick,
Jack jump over the candlestick.
Jump it lightly, jump it quick,
But don't tip over the candlestick.
- Thumb of left hand is used as candle.
Index and third finger of right hand are made to walk forward and jump over candles.

GAMES

The First Grade Book
Ginn and Company

a. "Hop, Hop" - page 19

Hop, hop, right foot,
Hop, hop, left foot,
Hop, right, hop left,
Hop, hop, hop!

- b. What Do We Need?

The teacher sets up an empty table in front of the class. She asks the class, "What do we need on the table?" The pupil responds by saying, "We need dishes." The teacher has doll dishes available and as each pupil says his sentence, he picks up the correct object and places it on the table.

- c. Cleaning Your Yard

The teacher instructs the class to pretend they are cleaning the yard. Sentence patterns to be used are:

We are mowing the lawn. (Pupil pantomimes) We are planting flowers.
We are getting our tools. We are washing our hands.
We are raking the yard. We are putting our tools away.

d. Lost and Found

Ask each pupil to stand and repeat what he would say to a policeman if he were lost.
Each should identify himself as:

My name is _____.
I am _____ years old.
I live at _____.
My father's name is _____.

e. Simon Says--

The leader of the group touches a part of his body, such as his nose, and says, Simon says: "Touch your nose." The pupils in turn follow this command. The teacher repeats this procedure, each time changing to another part of the body. However, if the teacher gives the command without saying "Simon says" before it, pupils do not respond to the command.

f. Moving Van

Provide each pupil with a card depicting a piece of furniture. The pupils form a line to make the moving van. The moving van stops by the teacher who unloads the van by saying, "Bring me the furniture for the kitchen." The pupil bringing the stove says, "Here is the stove." The teacher continues until all rooms have been identified.

g. How Big

Ask nurse to weigh and measure each child. Call attention to the yardstick and scales.
Tell each child his weight and height using words: pounds, feet, and inches.

GAMES

Let's Pretend

The child who is "It" is allowed to pretend he is an animal. He pantomimes the characteristics of this animal while the other pupils try to guess which animal he is pretending to be.

Does He Fly?

The teacher says, "The bird flies." The class imitates as the teacher flaps her arms. Then the teacher says, "The horse flies," as she flaps her arms again. If the pupil imitates, he is out. The teacher repeats this procedure using various animals.

Frog in the Sea

One pupil sits in the middle of the circle, Indian fashion. The players run by and say: Frog in the sea, can't catch me. The frog tries to tag the pupils.

Watch Dog

Put a blindfold on the pupil who is the watchdog. Put a beanbag (bone) in front of him. The leader signals someone to take the bone. The child who takes the bone then says, "Watchdog, watchdog, wake up, wake up. You are a very, very lazy pup." The watchdog tries to guess who has the bone.

Legs

Two legs for birds and you and me.
Four legs for dogs and squirrels in a tree.
Six legs for beetles . . . away they go.

SUGGESTED ACTIVITIES

The Jack-o-lantern

Pupils cut out orange jack-o-lanterns and attach them to tongue depressors. Help pupils make facial features showing the following expressions: happy, sleepy, angry, surprised, crying, signing, sad, and glad. Pupils stand in line and hold jack-o-lanterns as class and teacher recite:

This jack-o-lantern is happy,
This jack-o-lantern is sad,
This jack-o-lantern is angry,
This jack-o-lantern is glad,
This jack-o-lantern is sleepy,
This jack-o-lantern is surprised,
This jack-o-lantern cries,
This jack-o-lantern sighs.

Tell the Ghost

Make black cats, witches, and ghosts using construction paper cut in the shapes of circles and half circles. Make ghost puppets from old sheets to use while practicing sentence patterns. One ghost may ask questions about Halloween, and other Halloween characters answer.

(Encourage pupils to take turns telling original ghost stories.)

PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES

The pupil will be able to describe Thanksgiving celebrations in basic sentence patterns as measured by teacher observation in show and tell activities.

INSTRUCTIONS

Use pictures to illustrate the story of the first Thanksgiving.

Teacher

A long time ago, some people came to live in this country. They came from far, far away across the ocean. We called them Pilgrims. This is what they looked like. (Show pictures)

Did the Pilgrims dress like we do?

What are they wearing?

Pupil

Whom did they invite?

Pupil

No, it doesn't look like my house.

Yes, it has a door and windows.
