ABSTRACT

The compilation of basic facts, intended as a guide for social studies teachers, provides a concise data survey on Czechoslovakia that relates to the history of the United States. The purpose is to furnish information based on both American and Czechoslovakian sources. In an outlined form social, economic, and political facts are provided along with additional information on geography, population, and history. Cultural information on religion, traditions, languages, popular foods, sports, and holidays contribute to an understanding of the people and country. Lists of persons who contributed to and are representative of Czechoslovakia such as former monarchs, presidents, and outstanding and famous personalities born in and from the country are given. Since 5% of the people in Texas are of Czechoslovakian extraction, an attempt is made to show the relationship between Texas and Central Europe which began in the early 16th century. Lists of the most famous personalities from Czechoslovakia now living in the United States and ten greatest moments in the history of American-Czechoslovakian relationship comprise the latter half of the volume. Special features include a short bibliography of Czechoslovakian sources and a listing of collections of available teaching materials pertaining to Czechoslovakia located in the U.S. and Czechoslovakia. COMPLIANCE WITH TITLE VI CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1964

Reviews of the local educational agency pertaining to compliance with Title VI, Civil Rights Act of 1964, will be conducted periodically by staff representatives of the Texas Education Agency. These reviews will cover at least the following policies and practices:

1. Enrollment and assignment of students without discrimination on the ground of race, color, or national origin.
2. Assignment of teachers and other staff without discrimination on the ground of race, color, or national origin.
3. Non-discriminatory use of facilities.
4. Public notice given by the local educational agency to participants and other citizens of the non-discriminatory policies and practices in effect by the local agency.

In addition to conducting reviews, Texas Education Agency staff representatives will check complaints of non-compliance made by citizens and will report their findings to the United States Commissioner of Education.

PREFACE

This information minimum contains important facts about Czechoslovakia, especially as they relate to the history and culture of the United States. It was compiled by Dr. Václav Huňáček from the Charles University in Prague, Czechoslovakia, during his one-year stay as visiting consultant in foreign languages and social studies at the Texas Education Agency. It is dedicated to social studies and Czech-language teachers at schools of Texas communities with populations of Czech extraction. The purpose of this elaborate listing is to furnish the teacher with information based not only on American, but also on Czechoslovak sources.

The author was helped by following members of the Division of Program Development: Cecelia Parten, George M. Blanco, Louis Grigar and Leroy Psencik and by the editorial and technical staff of the Texas Education Agency.

The author also wishes to acknowledge help from Joseph J. Skřivánek and Dr. John M. Skřivánek from the Department of Modern Languages, Texas A&M University, who conceived the idea of this survey.

INTRODUCTION

The Czech Information Minimum is intended to give only important facts about Czechoslovakia and her role in international history and culture and important comparisons with the United States. It should serve as a guide for teachers of social studies or of the Czech language. Certain guidelines may help in use of the guide.

- . Names of Czechoslovak cities and government bodies, as well as some persons' names, are given also in Czech or Slovak.
- . Population statistics of United States and Czechoslovak cities used for comparison are based on 1967 census figures.
- . In the sections on important personalities, Roman numerals in parentheses after the names denote the century or centuries in which the persons lived.

Bohemian Forest – Šumava + Český Les
Ore Mountains – Krušné Hory
Giant Mountains – Krkonoše
Bohemian-Moravian Highlands –
Českomoravská Vysocina
Carpathians – Karpaty
White Carpathians – Bílé Karpaty
High Tatra Mountains – Vysoké Tatry
Low Tatra Mountains – Nízké Tatry
Elbe – Labe; Danube – Dunaj;
Oder – Odra

I. Government System

CZECHOSLOVAKIA
(ČESKOSLOVENSKO) European country with the longest name

NICKNAME The Heart of Europe

OFFICIAL NAME ČSSR - The Czechoslovak Socialist Republic
(Československá socialistická republika) composed of two republics:
CSR - The Czech Socialist Republic (Česká socialistická republika)
SSR - The Slovak Socialist Republic
(Slovenská socialistická republika)

HEAD OF STATE The President of the Republic elected by the Federal Assembly for a term of five years.
Responsible to the Assembly for the execution of his office.

SUPREME LEGISLATIVE
BODY The Federal Assembly (Federální shromáždění).
A two-chamber parliament consisting of two houses: The House of the People (Sněmovna lidu) -- 200 deputies elected by popular vote for four years.
and
The House of Nations (Sněmovna národů) -- 150 deputies, 75 elected in the CSR and 75 in the SSR for four years.

SUPREME EXECUTIVE
BODY The Federal Government (Federální vláda).
Council of ministers headed by the Prime Minister, nominated by the President of the Republic and accountable to the Federal Assembly.

POLITICAL POWER The Central Committee of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia (Ústřední výbor KSČ) --
Founded in 1921.

REPUBLICS Legislative bodies: The Czech National Council
(Česká národní rada) with 200 deputies, and the Slovak National Council (Slovenská národná rada) with 150 deputies; both elected by popular vote for four years.

Executive bodies: The government of the ČSR and the government of the SSR. Both nominated by the Presidums of their National Councils and accountable to their National Councils.

ADMINIS-
TRATIVE
UNITS

Region (7 only in the ČSR) - kraj
District (more than 100) - okres
Community (more than 10,000) - obec

LOCAL
TRATIVE
BODIES

Regional, District and Community National Committees (národní výbor), like American city councils; elected by popular vote.

CAPITAL

Prague (Praha) - "The Golden City of a Hundred Spires"

- . First detailed description of Prague was written in 965 A.D. in Arabic.
- . The city in 1967 had 1,034,785 inhabitants (comparable to Miami, Florida).
- . It is one of the world's 100 cities with more than one million people.
- . It has more than 2,500 historical buildings and some 500 towers and spires.
- . Ten percent of Czechoslovak industries are concentrated in Prague.

LARGEST CITIES

Brno (336,000) - Center of Moravia (as large as Fort Worth)

Bratislava (281,097) - Capital of Slovakia

Ostrava (272,156) - Center of North Moravia and Czech Silesia (as large as El Paso)

Plzeň (144,449) - Center of West Bohemia

Košice (117,572) - Center of East Slovakia (as large as Beaumont)

II. Symbols

FLAG

The national flag consists of a lower red field and an upper white field with a blue triangle between them extending from the hoist to the center of the flag.

There are also flags for the two republics:

Czech (Red-White)

Slovak (Red-Blue-White)

(Red=Blood, White=Honor, Blue=Sky, Wedge=Mountain)

EMBLEM

The emblem consists of the old Czech and Slovak coat of arms.

The two-tailed crowned lion was the old coat of arms of the kings of Bohemia since the 12th century when he replaced the original spread-eagle used by the princes of Bohemia. The lion originally symbolized not only the royal power, but also Jesus Christ (according to Apocalypse V.5).

The old Slovak coat of arms (double cross on three mountains) had been formed according to the Benedictine order emblem. It symbolizes the mission of SS. Cyril and Methodius in the 9th century and 3 chief Slovak mountain ranges: Tatra, Fatra, Matra.

The historical coat of arms of Moravia (checkered eagle) and Silesia (black eagle) are being used occasionally.

IV. Geography

AREA

49,000 square miles (about the size of New York State). Texas is more than five times larger.

It equals 0.1 percent of the total earth's land surface.

The Czech Socialist Republic (ČSR), consisting of Bohemia, Moravia, and Czech Silesia (Čechy, Morava a české Slezsko), covers 62 percent of Czechoslovakia's territory.

The Slovak Socialist Republic (SSR), Slovakia (Slovensko), covers 38 percent of Czechoslovakia's territory.

BOUNDARIES

The total length of the border is more than 2,000 miles. Czechoslovakia borders on six countries (Austria, West Germany, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, USSR). It is the only country to border on both German states.

LOCATION

Prague is situated in the center of Europe, near the point of intersection of the 50th parallel with the 15th meridian east of Greenwich. It is exactly on the same 50th parallel as Winnipeg, Canada, and the Southern Aleutian Islands.

DISTANCES

The elongated territory measures nearly 500 miles from east to west as the crow flies (Austin-El Paso).

The journey (by car) from Cheb on the western border to Cierna on the eastern border takes 24 hours.

The length of Czechoslovakia (nearly 500 miles) equals the distance from Cierna to the Baltic, Black and Adriatic Seas (Mediterranean).

The same is true of the distance from Prague to the North Sea (Atlantic Ocean).

TIME

In view of its location on the 15th meridian east of Greenwich, Czechoslovakia observes Central European Time which is 7 hours ahead of the Central Standard Time in Texas.

MEASUREMENTS

Czechoslovakia uses the same metric measurements as Mexico.

THERMOMETER

Czechoslovakia uses the same Celsius temperature scale as Mexico.

TERRAIN

Average altitude 1,542 feet

Highest point 8,711 feet -- Gerlach Peak in the High Tatra Mountains (Slovakia), the highest mountain of the Carpathians (Karpaty). The Guadalupe Peak in Texas is 8,751 feet tall.

Lowest point 308.414 feet

WEATHER

Czechoslovakia has a typical central European climate with warm rainy summers and cold winters with snow.

Temperature

Average annual temperature 48.2°F.

Highest mean annual temperature 50.9°F. - On the Danube River (Dunaj).

Lowest mean annual temperature 21.2°F - In the High Tatra Mountains (Vysoké Tatry).

Extreme Temperatures

Highest 102.2°F. - The Danube Lowlands in Slovakia (like San Antonio, Texas, or Bismarck, North Dakota).

Lowest - 43.6°F. - The Bohemian Forest (Šumava), similar to Bismarck, North Dakota.

Prague average January low 25°F. (Amarillo January minimum 24°F.)

Prague average July high 74°F. (Houston July minimum 74°F.)

Rainfall

Average annual precipitation 29" (like San Antonio, Texas).

Maximum mean annual precipitation 83.6" (High Tatra Mountains).

Minimum mean annual precipitation 17.72" (West Bohemia).

FLORA

From the world's total 350,000 species of plants, about 7,000 can be found in Czechoslovakia.

Original American plants in Czechoslovak agriculture: corn, potato, tomato, pepper plant, tobacco, sunflower.

Czechoslovakia has the largest herd of the wild Przewalski's horse (Equus caballus Prjewalskii), the oldest horse breed in the world.

Most foreign reservations, including the famous zoological garden in San Diego, California, obtained their Przewalski's horses from Prague.

V. Economy

AGRICULTURE

Agricultural land = 57% of the territory.
Nonagricultural land = 43% of the territory.

Agricultural land

Arable land	70.7%
Meadows	13.8%
Pastureland	11.0%
Vineyards	0.4%
Hopgardens	0.1%
Gardens and Orchards	4.0%

Nonagricultural land = Forests, lakes, fishponds, rock mountains, cities.

Chief forest trees: Spruce, fir, pine, oak, beech, birch. Fruits: apples, pears, plums, cherries, apricots.

Chief crops: Cereals (rye, wheat, barley, oats), sugar beets, potatoes, vegetables, hops.

Czechoslovakia is the world's fourth largest producer of hops after the United States, West Germany, and Great Britain.

Livestock: Cattle, pigs, sheep, poultry.

The co-op and the state sector farm 90% of the agricultural land. Private farmers work 10% of land.

RESOURCES OF CHIEF MATERIALS

Coal - Surplus
Uranium - Surplus
Copper - Sufficient
Iron - Deficient
Oil - Deficient

Czechoslovakia is rich in building materials, china clay for porcelain factories and sand used in its famous glassmaking industries.

Czechoslovakia leads the world in the per capita production of shoes.

Leading food products are refined beet sugar (first per capita producer and exporter in the world) and beer (Pilsner, Budweiser, etc.).

POWER INDUSTRY

The country is 100% electrified (5th place in Europe after Belgium, Holland, Germany and Switzerland). Steam power stations account for 90% of the total power output. The first atomic power station will be completed in 1970.

TRAVEL SYSTEMS

Seven important European international roadways cross Czechoslovakia. The first interstate highway system is under construction.

The per capita number of passenger cars in Czechoslovakia is approximately 10 times lower than in the USA.

National bus services daily cover 12,000 bus routes (first place in Europe).

The very first European continental railroad was built in 1825-27 from Budweis* (Bohemia) to Linz, Austria (USA 1828). The town of Kolín (Bohemia) is the point of intersection of the old Bagdad Railroad (Berlin-Istanbul-Bagdad) and the new transcontinental railroad system Atlantic-Pacific (Le Havre-Paris-Prague-Moscow-Vladivostok) considered to be the longest railroad in the world. Czechoslovakia occupies 5th place in Europe in railroad network.

Czechoslovak airlines have direct connections with some 50 cities in the world including New York.

After Switzerland, Czechoslovakia has the largest merchant fleet of all the landlocked countries.

The first uranium mine in the world (since 1854) can be found at West Bohemian Jáchymov (Joachimstal), where the very first silver dollar coins were minted in the XVI century. First greatest discoveries of our Atomic Age were made by Curie, Rutherford and Hahn by means of uranium from Jáchymov.

TEN "FIRSTS" IN TECHNOLOGY

1. 1627 Blasting gunpowder first used in mining (Banská Štiavnica, Slovakia).
2. 1732 Steam machine first introduced into mining (Nová Baňa, Slovakia).
3. 1827 First European continental railroad constructed in South Bohemia.
4. 1854 First uranium mine in the world opened at Jáchymov
 (West Bohemia).
5. 1885 Electrolysis first used in copper extraction
 (Kl'úkňava, Slovakia).
6. 1889 "Pilger" rolling method in the production of seamless tubes first developed at Mannesmann's tube rolling mills (Chomutov,
 West Bohemia).
7. 1897 Very first motor car in Habsburg countries produced at the Tatra plant at Kopřivnice, Moravia.
8. 1908 First electrified blooming mill in the world and first European electrified rolling mill introduced at Třinec Iron Works, Silesia.
9. 1955 First open-end spinning mill in the world developed at the Cotton Research Institute at Ústí nad Orlicí, East Bohemia.
10. 1965 Czechoslovakia became the third country in the world, after the USA and West Germany, to produce helium liquefaction plants.

The Paleolithic settlement at Dolní Věstonice, South Moravia, is considered as the earliest known production center for ceramics in the world (25,000 years ago). The oldest known counting board (abacus) and musical instrument were discovered in the same place.

VI. The Economic and Social System

1. Socialist ownership in Czechoslovakia has two basic forms: national property (prevailing in industries) and co-operative property (prevailing in agriculture). Small private enterprises based on the labor of the owner himself are permitted. Personal ownership of consumer goods, family houses, motorcars, etc., as well as savings, is inviolable and their inheritance is guaranteed.
2. The right to work for everybody is guaranteed by the constitution. Health services, as well as security in old age or sickness, are free. All these services are financed by the government.
3. There is no illiteracy in Czechoslovakia. Education, including high schools and university-level schools, is free.
4. Citizens condemned and punished for political reasons in the period 1948-1968 were given the opportunity to re-establish rights and receive material compensation if the sentence had infringed on the legal rights of these individuals (the term used for this is rehabilitation).
5. Czechoslovakia helps to support less developed countries. In the height of its per capita allowance to them, Czechoslovakia ranks second in Europe after France.

VII. Tradition

1. Czechoslovakia is the first developed industrial country and the first state with parliamentary democratic traditions in which the socialist order has been introduced.
2. After the proclamation of the Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia has preserved its old national flag and national anthem; only the old state emblem has been newly adapted. It has also preserved the president's office. Even the crown jewels of Bohemian kings are still honored as a historical state symbol.
3. From the "Assymetrical Model" with common Czechoslovak and special Slovak bodies of government (with very limited competence) Czechoslovakia has developed into a dualistic federation of two equal republics - CSR and SSR - united under one president and one federal government.
4. The Communist Party of Czechoslovakia (Komunistická strana československá) is considered as the leading power of the National Front associating other political parties, trade unions, social organizations, special interest unions, etc.

Other political parties are:

The Czechoslovak People's (Populist) Party (Československá strana lidová), Christian.
The Czechoslovak Socialist Party (ČS. strana socialistická).
The Slovak Revival Party (Strana slovenskej obrody), Christian.
The Slovak Freedom Party (Strana slobody).

5. Marxist philosophy is considered to be the state ideology in which all citizens are educated. Nevertheless there is no separation of church from state. All churches are supported and controlled by the government, which pays the salaries of their clergy and restores the places of worship. The instruction of religion is allowed. Future clergy are being trained in seven theological seminaries, also run by the state.

VIII. Population

NUMBER

Czechoslovakia has about 15,000,000 inhabitants (same as California) or 0.5% of the population of our planet.

CSR: 10,000,000 (same as Texas)
SSR: 5,000,000 (same as Indiana)

DENSITY

The average population density is 291 per square mile about the same as in Pennsylvania (Texas 42, USA 56).

Today's population of Czechoslovakia is the 16,000th generation living in the country.

SOCIAL GROUPS

Blue collar workers	58.3%
White collar workers	29.5%
Co-operative farmers	8.3%
Members of other co-ops	1.2%
Small private farmers	2.3%
Tradesmen and craftsmen	0.4%

ETHNIC GROUPS

Czech	64.9%
Slovak	29.1%
Hungarian	3.9%
German	0.9%
Polish	0.5%
Ukrainian, Ruthenian Russian	0.4%
Others	0.3% (Greeks, Macedonians, Bulgarians, Croatians)

About 90% Czechs and 80% Slovaks live in CSR.

Gypsies are not considered as a special nationality (as in the USSR) although they have their own cultural organization. There are some 250,000 Gypsies of various national backgrounds among the population of Czechoslovakia. Jews are regarded not as a nationality (as in the USSR).

but as followers of a religion. There are some 14,000 Jews in Czechoslovakia. (77,297 Czech Jews were killed in Nazi concentration camps.)

About 2% of United States citizens are still well aware of their Czechoslovak extraction. In Texas they constitute about 5% of the population. There are 250 communities in Texas with Czech population. (Texans derive from 25 ethnic groups).

Texas has the largest Czech population in the South. Most of Czech immigrants came here from Moravia.

North of Texas the largest Czech population can be found in Nebraska, followed by South Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma.

In the Great Lakes area Illinois and Ohio have the largest concentration of Czech population, while Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and Iowa have the largest number of original Czech communities.

In the Northeast of the USA New York has the largest concentration; and Pennsylvania, followed by New Jersey, the largest number of communities.

Besides that Czechs and Czech communities can be found in many other states including Florida and California.

The three largest "Czech" cities in the USA are Chicago, Cleveland and New York City. Chicago, which the Czechs call in jest "Czech-Ago," is the Czech capital of the USA. The most "Slovak" city in the USA is Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Immigrants from Slovakia settled first of all in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Illinois and Indiana. Some of them came also to Texas (Pakan, Wheeler County, etc.).

23 Czech periodicals (out of some 450 publications in 38 foreign languages) are being edited in the USA, 6 of them in Texas.

IX. Language and Alphabet

LANGUAGE

Of the 3,000 languages of the world, 13 are spoken in Czechoslovakia and 4 are used as old cultural languages. Czech and Slovak are two very close official languages of the country.

Latin
and Old
Greek

Old cultural European languages taught at Czechoslovak high schools (gymnasium). Latin is still the official language of university documents and ceremonies and the solemn liturgy language of the Roman Catholic Church. Until 1848 Latin was the official state language in Slovakia as a part of Hungary.

Old
Church
Slavonic

The oldest Slavonic literary language still used in Greek Catholic and Orthodox churches and five times a year in ten Roman Catholic churches.

Old
Hebrew

Used as church language in Jewish religious communities.

ALPHABET

From the total number of 60 alphabets of the world, 6 are being used in Czechoslovakia (10 in Texas).

- . The Latin ABC (latinka) -- in Czech, Slovak, Polish, Croatian, German, Hungarian, Gypsy.

- . The Greek alphabet -- in Greek

Some three-fourths of the Christians in Czechoslovakia are Catholics.

There are about 11,000 places of worship in the country.

The first missionaries from Czechoslovakia appeared here as early as in the 17th century.

The first Czech Catholic rural parish church in the USA is at Hostyn, Texas (1856). Praha in Texas is a famous pilgrimage place. The first Czech Catholic urban parish church in the USA was founded in St. Louis, Missouri (1855).

The chief Czech Catholic spiritual center here is the Chicago St. Procopius Benedictine Abbey with its famous college at Lisle, Illinois.

A Slovak Benedictine Abbey is in Cleveland, Ohio.

Several members of the Catholic hierarchy in the USA are of Czechoslovak extraction, among them the present bishop of Galveston-Houston John L. Mořkovský. Bishop Andrej Grutka of Gary, Indiana, is Slovak.

American Byzantine Rite Catholics from Czechoslovakia have their center in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (Archdiocese of Munhall). There is also a church of this rite in Houston, Texas (9102 Meadowshire).

The Orthodox from Czechoslovakia belong to the American Carpatho-Russian Orthodox Church with its center at Johnstown, Pennsylvania. (Slav Orthodox churches in Dallas, Galveston, Houston, San Antonio).

There exist also Czechoslovak Lutheran and Calvinist parishes in this country. Many other American churches have also members of Czechoslovak extraction (Baptists, Methodists, Congregationalists etc.).

The international Unity of Brethren (Moravian Church), brought to America in 1735, has here 2 provinces. The center of its Northern Province is Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, with the famous Moravian College; the center of the Southern Province is Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

The Texan independent Unity of the Brethren has more than 30 congregations in this State (Oldest ones at Wesley, Fayetteville, Industry).

Some followers of the Czech Brethren Evangelical Church joined here the Presbyterian Church. Their chief place of worship is the famous Jan Hus Presbyterian Church in New York City.

XV. First Written Monuments in Czechoslovak Area

CIRCA
B.C.-A.D.

Biatic - The name of a Celtic prince on coins found in Bratislava.

172 A.D.

Roman emperor-philosopher Marcus Aurelius wrote in Greek his famous Meditations on the banks of the Hron River (Slovakia).

179 A.D.

A Latin inscription on the rock below the Trenčín Castle (Slovakia) records a victorious battle fought by the Roman Second Auxiliary Legion.

448 A.D.

Priskos, the envoy of the Byzantine Emperor Theodosios II to the Hunnish King Attila, wrote with Greek characters the first known Slavonic word med (mead).

863 A.D.

First Slavonic books written with the Glagolitic alphabet in the Old Church Slavonic language were brought from Byzantine Macedonia to Great Moravia by Slavonic apostles Brothers Constantine (Cyril) and Methodius (SS. Cyril and Methodius).

The disciples of SS. Cyril and Methodius invented a new Slavonic script called the Cyrillic alphabet. It replaced the Glagolitic alphabet in all Orthodox Slavonic countries, while Catholic Slavonic countries accepted the Roman Latin liturgy and the Latin ABC. Only in Dalmatia (Yugoslavia) has the oldest Glagolitic alphabet been preserved in Old Church Slavonic books of those Roman Catholic churches which refused Latin as liturgical language.

In Czechoslovakia a special papal privilege permits the Old Church Slavonic liturgy of the Western (Roman) rite from Glagolitic books five times a year in ten historically most important Roman Catholic churches. The Old Church Slavonic liturgy of the Eastern (Byzantine) rite is being served from Cyrillic books in Greek Catholic and Orthodox churches in Czechoslovakia and other Slavonic countries.

Such churches can be found also in America (Bulgarian, Macedonian, Serbian, Ukrainian, Russian, White Russian, Carpatho-Russian - Ruthenian).

In Texas Slavonic Orthodox churches using Old Church Slavonic with Cyrillic script are at Dallas, San Antonio, Galveston, and Houston. There is one Slavonic Greek Catholic church of the same rite at Houston (Ukrainian). It also uses Old Church Slavonic Cyrillic books.

Modern Slavonic languages are also being used today in both the Western and the Eastern rites. (see chapters IX and XI).

Fragment of the beginning of the Gospel According to John in Old Church Slavonic – Cyrillic Script.

The cult of SS. Cyril and Methodius is typical for all Slavonic countries, first of all Bulgaria (Orthodox) and Moravia (Catholic). Their most famous statue can be found on the Radegast Mountain (Radhošť) between Frenštát and Rožnov in the Beskydy Mountains, North Moravia. This monument was made by the American sculptor Albin Polášek (1879-1965) countryman of Leoš Janáček (1854-1928) who glorified Cyril and Methodius by his musical composition The Glagolitic Mass in Old Church Slavonic (records available in the USA).

The ancestors of most Texans of Czech extraction came to America from the same part of Moravia as Polášek - from the native region of Janáček. (Polášek died at Orlando; museum at Winter Park, Fla.) Many Catholic churches in this State are dedicated to SS. Cyril and Methodius (Shiner, Corpus Christi, Granger, Dubina, Cistern, Damon, Marak, etc.).

Each Sunday on or after July 7 the SS. Cyril and Methodius Heritage Day is being celebrated at Houston by Texans of Slavonic extraction.

Oldest Czech Texts

1. Czech elements in Old Church Slavonic texts (900-1000).
2. Czech words in Latin texts (about 1100)
3. Oldest Czech sentence (about 1200) -

XXIV. Most Famous Monarchs in Czechoslovak History

MAROBOD (I) -- One of the very first barbarian kings in Western political history. Educated in Rome, he ruled his Marcomanni in Bohemia and fought against Rome at the time of Jesus Christ. He died at Ravenna, where he was interned.

At the same time another king, Vannius, recognized by Rome, ruled his Quadi in Slovakia.

SAMO (VII) -- The very first known West Slavonic ruler. Educated in the Merovingian Frankish Empire, he united Central European Slavs against Western Franks and Eastern Avars.

RASTISLAV (IX) -- Prince of Great Moravia. He became ally of the Byzantine Empire and accepted Byzantine Eastern Christianity as state religion of his country. The Pope of Rome recognized Old Church Slavonic as liturgical language of Great Moravia, while in other Western countries he allowed only Latin. The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle deals with Great Moravia.

VÁCLAV (X) -- Wenceslas, Prince of Bohemia, religious Christian ruler, hero of Latin and Old Slavonic legends ("Good King Wenceslas").

VRATISLAV II (XI) -- First Czech king of Bohemia. He helped the Holy Roman emperor in his fight against the Pope of Rome. His army took Rome for the emperor. Defender of Slavonic liturgy.

VLADISLAV II (XII) -- Second Czech king of Bohemia, famous crusader. His army marched through Hungary, Serbia, Bulgaria, Byzantium, Russia, and Poland and fought in Germany and Italy, where he took Milan for the emperor. Founder of new Latin monasteries.

OTAKAR II (XIII) -- Přemysl II. Otakar - King of Bohemia and ruler of Austria. He controlled the territory between the Baltic and Adriatic Seas. He founded a large number of cities. The Italian poet Dante glorifies him in his Divine Comedy.

VÁCLAV II (XIII-XIV) -- King of Bohemia and Poland, poet and musician. Lover of both Western Minnesang and Eastern Byzantine church chant. He edited the famous Bohemian Royal Mining Law - Ius Regale Montanorum. He sent a diplomatic mission to England.

KAREL IV (XIV) -- King of Bohemia, king of the Romans, and Holy Roman emperor. One of the most educated European rulers of all times. He founded the Prague Charles University, the Slavonic glagolitic Emmaus Monastery in Prague, Carlsbad Spa, etc. During his time Prague became the center of European culture (Father of the Fatherland). His daughter Ann was queen of England, wife of Richard II.

JIRÍ PODĚBRADSKÝ (XV) -- George of Podiebrad, the very first non-Catholic king in the history of Western Christianity. UNESCO honored him as the first to propose to establish a united nations organization.

RUDOLF II (XVI) -- King of Bohemia and Hungary, ruler of Austria, and Holy Roman emperor. Grandson of both Emperor Charles V, king of Spain, and his brother Emperor Ferdinand I, king of Bohemia and Hungary. He was typical Renaissance ruler who concentrated the best European scholars, men of science, artists, writers and musicians of his time in his Prague residence, where he had his famous art gallery, library, and precious collections. He was educated in Spain.

JOSEF II (XVIII) -- Holy Roman emperor, king of Bohemia and Hungary and ruler of Austria. He introduced the enlightened despotism in Habsburg countries (11,000 laws and 6,000 decrees). His most important reforms were the emancipation of serfs and the toleration edict recognizing non-Catholic churches. A negative feature of his reign was the attempt to Germanize the non-German majority of his empire.

FRANZ JOSEF III (XIX-XX) -- Austrian emperor, and king of Bohemia and Hungary. This "last monarch of the old school" reigned for a longer period than any other European monarch. He presided over the slow disintegration of the Habsburg empire. Nearly 70 years of his rule were connected with social reaction and national oppression in his empire. Under him the ancestors of most Texans of Czechoslovak extraction left the old country for America. His brother Maximilian became emperor of Mexico, where he was executed in 1867. After his death in 1916 Francis Joseph was succeeded by his great-nephew Karl who was the last ruler of Austria-Hungary including Bohemia, Moravia, Czech Silesia, Slovakia, and Ruthenia which formed the Czechoslovak Republic in 1918.

Dynasties in Czechoslovakia: Great Moravian Mojmir Dynasty (until 906), Czech Přemysl Dynasty (until 1306), Luxembourg (until 1437), Jagiello (until 1526), Habsburg (until 1918).

A crater on the moon was named for Regiomontanus. The same tables were used also by Amerigo Vespucci, whose first name was the Italian form from Latin Emericus. St. Emericus (Imre) was a Hungarian holy prince in the 11th century. This name was given to the New World.
- 1644 The first known Czech in America Augustin Heřman came from Europe to New Amsterdam (New York). He founded tobacco plantations in Virginia and drew the first map of Virginia and Maryland.
- 1735 First members of the Unity of Brethren (Moravian Church) settled at Savannah, Georgia. In 1741 their chief center was founded at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. The Moravian "Old Chapel" in Bethlehem was the place of worship of Benjamin Franklin and George Washington in colonial days. Washington expressed his gratitude to the Unity in a special letter.
- 1792 General Marquis de Lafayette, fighter for America's freedom, was imprisoned by the Habsburg emperor and held in the fortress of Olomouc (Moravia). He was freed by Napoleon in 1797.
- 1883 The very first European theatre with electric illumination was opened by Thomas Alva Edison in Brno, capital of Moravia. Edison visited the city again in 1905. His greatest Czech friends were the famous electricians Kolben and Křižík.
- 1892 The great Czech composer Antonín Dvořák became director of the Academy of Music in New York. In honor of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America he composed his "American Flag." He glorified this country by his famous symphony "From the New World" (1893) and by his "American Quartet" (1899). In 1895 he returned home.
- 1918 Uprising against Habsburg Austria-Hungary in the Czech part of the empire (October 14). Thomas G. Masaryk proclaimed the independence of Czechoslovakia in Washington, D.C. (October 18). Ten days later the Czech National Council seized power in Prague on the basis of the Washington declaration.
- 1933 Chicago Mayor Antonín Čermák, born in 1873 at Kladno near Prague, saved the life of Franklin D. Roosevelt when he was hit by the assassin's bullet intended for the president-elect in Miami, Florida (February 15). He died three weeks later.

- 1945 The American Third Army under General George S. Patton crossed the border of Czechoslovakia (April 18) and together with the United States First Army helped to liberate West Bohemia from the Nazi German occupation (May 9). After the liberation American generals headed by Dwight D. Eisenhower were honored in Prague.
- 1965 The Czechoslovak people noted with pride that the American astronaut James Lovell of Gemini 7 (in 1970 commander of Apollo 13) was of Czech extraction and that Astronaut Eugene Cernan of Gemini 9 (in 1970 commander of Apollo 15) was of Slovak extraction. One of the most outstanding American specialists in astronautics Frank J. Malina of Czech extraction was born at Brenham, Texas, in 1912. He graduated from the Texas A&M University.

Miss Eliška Hašková of Czech parentage has been a presidential aide in the White House since 1963. She prepares speeches and articles for President Nixon. The personal physician of President Nixon is Dr. Tkáč of Slovak extraction.
