READ the sentences be	low.
The most difficult words you will be taught in part I of this lesson are used in centences to help you understand what they mean. If you don't know the meaning of a word, refer to the word list at the end of the lesson on pages 22 and 23.
1. allotted:	I allotted myself one hour of free time during my busy afternoon.
2. beginning:	The Star Spangled Banner is sung at the beginning of every ball game.
3. blurred:	The rain on my glasses blurred my vision.
4. concurred:	All of us concurred about our need for a clubhouse.
5. deferred;	Medical students have their military service deferred until after they've completed medical school.
6. remitted:	His prison sentence will be remitted after he serves for one year.
7. submitted:	The prize fighter finally sub- mitted after receiving several sharp blows on his jaw.

3.
You have learned in a previous spelling lesson how to add endings to words. In order to learn the rules for adding endings you had to recognize two kinds of letters, consonants and vowels. In this lesson you also have to notice consonants and vowels.
Remember the letters a, e, i, o, u are the vowels and all the other letters are consonants.
FOR EXAMPLE:
The word sail has one consonant at the end. What consonant is it?	1
In front of the final consonant are two vowels. What are they? and	a i
LOOK AT the words:
stamp steal stop
Which word has two consonants at the end?	sta mp
Which word has two vowels before the last consonant?	s tea l
Which word ends in one consonant and also has only one vowel before the last consonant?	3 top

In the first section of this lesson you will be working with short words which end in one consonant and which have only one vowel before this final consonant. (Footnote 1)
FOOTNOTE 1: Longer words will be handled later in this lesson.
Which are the type of words that we will be learning about in this lesson.

Before you continue with the spelling lesson, it is necessary to understand what is meant by the word accent or stress .
SAY the name Marty. This name has two parts Mar ty. Notice how you say this name. Your voice is louder when you say the first part of this word. This means you accent or stress the first part of this name. Your voice is softer when you are saying the second part of this name. That is you do not accent the second part. The name Marty can be written: MAR ty to show how the name is pronounced.	-

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR MANPOWER ADMINISTRATION, JOB CORPS NOVEMBER 1969

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR, MANPOWER ADMINISTRATION, JOB CORPS NOVEMBER 1969

Up to now we have concentrated on the correct and incorrect ways of saying something; on the ways that do and don't make sense. But a sentence can be perfectly correct, with every comma neatly in place, and still be an ineffective way of telling somebody something. A sentence may lack style.

Sentences are like boxers. They can be like punch-drunk old club fighters, fat and slow, who wheeze and cough as they stumble around the ring. Or they can be like the champ, lean and fast, who takes only a few rounds to do what the club fighter cannot do in fifteen.

Let's take this example. A prize fighter is asked how he stacks up against the other fighters of the day. He answers: "Well, if one considers all the others, and then they are compared to myself, it would appear that I am myself a superior example, and that they cannot be as completely good as I am myself."

To be sure, this is a correct sentence, with a subject and verb, and all punctuation in place. But suppose another fighter were asked the same question, a fighter with a better sense of style. He answers:

"I am the greatest!"

And there you have it. Four words instead of thirty-six, and he has made his point much clearer. Which of these fighters do you think will be quoted in the next day's paper?

In the lessons that follow, you will learn about effective writing, how to recognize it and how to recognize what is ineffective.

You will learn how to put together sentences that come out swinging,

Time	compl	eted

1.
You have learned that subjects and verbs must match . A single subject must have a single verb. A plural subject must have a plural verb.
CHEC subject	K the examples below that do not have matching cts and verbs.
	Marty, start the car.	Marty, start the car.
	The men went out to clear the land.
	Lonely people sat in their rooms.
	Everyone ate a hearty breakfast before starting on the hike.
	Charlie were a friendly dog.	Charlie were a friendly dog.
	The soldiers goes to the mess hall at noon.	The soldiers goes
	Robins come early in the spring and builds their nests.	Robins come early
	Learning is a slow process, but are a rewarding one.	Learning is a slow
	Working in a machine shop is interesting and is sometimes exciting.
	Men who are interested in sports usually listen to sports news on the radio and read sports columns in newspapers.

This is how to match the time of verbs:
1. FIND the first verb in the sentence.
2. DECIDE if it is past, present or fut	ure.
3. FIND the other verbs in the sentence	e.
4. DECIDE the time of the other verbs.
If the time does match, SELECT the verb.	correct
PERFORM the above steps on this sentences
The kids skipped and hop through the fie	ld.
STEP 1: What is the first verb?	skipped
STEP 2: What is the time of the verb
<pre>past present future</pre>	past
STEP 3: What is the other verb in the sente	ence ?
STEP 4: What is the time of the other verb	? present
STEP 5: If the time of the two verbs does n SELECT the correct verb for the se	ot match, ntence:
☐ hopped ☐ will hop	hopped

3.
CIRCLE the verbs in these sentences. DECIDE the time of the first verb. LOOK AT the other verbs; they MUST BE in the same time to be correct.
Then CHECK the sentences below that have incorrect matching verbs.
☐ Jim ran and will jump all the way to the game.	ran will jump
☐ The cat curled up and sleeps on the floor.	curled up sleeps
Fighting a forest fire is dangerous and had been difficult.	is had been
The bird fluttered and flies around the nest with the eggs in it.	fluttered flies
☐ We all stood and stared at the statue.
4.
FILL IN the correct tense of the verb in parenthesis in the blanks below:
We danced and(sing) all through the night.	sang
He never borrowed nor(give) away any money.	gave
Felicia and Flo floundered and(splash) in the shallow water.	spla shed
Albert will take pictures and(make) recordings while we sit around the campfire.	will make
He finishes the race and(begin) another immediately.	begins
The dog finished digging up the bone, and (join) the rest of the Collies for a tramp through the field.	joined

CHECK the sentences with verbs that do not match.
	Bill came in late, wandered around the room, and finally sit down.	Bill came in late,
	She tripped, stumbled, and falls down the stairs, but landed on a soft carpet.	She tripped, stumbled,
	She laughed and cried when her husband came home from the war.
	The snow fell and covered the fenceposts.
	Max ran to school, rushes into the classroom, and took his seat.	Max ran to school,
	You'll have to break the seal, smash the glass, and ring the alarm.
	Peter and Tony ran, jump and sang.	Peter and Tony
	Do you think of me ever, or just goes on your way and forget about me?	Do you think of me ever,
	The cops rounded the corner on two wheels, came screeching up the alley, and smashed into the wall.

You will study riore examples of how to match verbs in one part of the sentence with verbs in another part.

First, however, you will study a special part of the sentence — the introductory phrase. You learned about introductory phrases and clauses in a lesson on commas, and found that introductory clauses always take a comma. Here is an example:

While not asking for help, John obviously needed somebody to take care of him.

In the following frames you will learn how to find out if the subject of a sentence relates to the introductory clause.

NO RESPONSE REQUIRED

GO ON TO THE NEXT FRAME

The sentences below have introductory phrases in the beginning of the sentence, such as "While not asking for help,". In these sentences, the subject is located in the second part of the sentence, AFTER the introductory phrase.

CIRCLE the introductory phrase, and UNDERLINE the subject in each sentence below.

While not asking for help, John obviously needed somebody to take care of him.

Before the tree fell, it creaked like a dry hinge.

By carefully working with the piston, Fred removed the bearing without damage to the crankshaft.

Located on the east coast, Washington, D.C. is the capital of our country.

After hearing of the sale, Mrs. Phinney rushed to the store.

While not asking for help, John

Before the tree fell, it

By carefully working with the piston,

Fred

Located on the east coast Washington, D.C.

After hearing of the sale, Mrs. Phinney

8.
it mat out if	you have found the subject, you should decide if the the introductor; phrase. It is easy to find the subject of a sentence relates to the introgry phrase. Just follow this method:
1.	FIND the subject. For example, Mary is the subject of this sentence:
	Blowing gently through the trees, Mary walked home through the windy woods.
2.	ASK YOURSELF if the introductory phrase relates to the subject. For example, LOOK AT the sentence above. Ask yourself: "Does Mary blow gently through the trees?"
3.	If the subject and phrase don't relate to each other, the sentence is wrong. Obviously, it isn't Mary, but the wind that blows gently through the trees, so the above sentence is wrong.
4.	If the subject and phrase do relate to each other, the sentence is correct .
CHECI introdu	K the completer that has a subject to fit the uctory phrase:
While	smiling happily,
	a letter was mailed to Bill's girlfriend . a letter was mailed by Bill to his girlfriend. Bill mailed his girlfriend a letter.	Bill mailed his girlfriend a letter
Withou	at knowing why,
	the car started rolling down the hill, we saw the car start to roll down the hill, it rolled down the hill while we watched, the car was seen rolling down the hill by us.	we saw the car start to roll

to the senter	correct, the introductory phrase must be RELATED subject of the sentence. To determine if a nce is correct, FIND the subject, then see if the uctory phrase FITS the subject.
In whi	ich of the following does the subject fit the uctory phrase?
	Wandering around the shop, George found the missing bearing.	Wandering around the shop,
	Without wanting anything in return, a good deed had been done.
	Vacantly staring into space, the letter was placed into the mailbox.
	By reading and careful study, George managed to pass the GED exam.	By reading and careful study,
	Without thinking, the tree fell on the shack.
senten	to the of the cc.	related, subject

10.
CHEC fits th	K the completers below that have a subject that e introductory phrase:
Sitting	near the center of the table,
	the hostess walked in and gave the dish to Jean. the dish was given to Jean by the hostess. Jean took the dish from the hostess. the dish was placed next to Jean by the hostess.	lean took the dish from
Easily	ruined by the rain,
	the dress was quickly put inside the house by Eve.	the dress was quickly
	Eve quickly put the dress inside the house.
	Eve walked inside the house with the dress.
	she was quickly put inside the house with the dress.

	11.
	subjec senten	t must relate to that clause. Sometimes, in long ces, two subjects appear in the main part of intence. That is wrong .
	READ t	his example:
		en I was seventeen, it was a very good year, and ajoyed it.
	is "I". I. Thi	bject that should relate to the introductory clause. But, the sentence has two subjects IT and is is why the sentence is incorrect, there should be one subject.

Let's correct one of the sentences that had two subjects READ this sentence again:	3.
By the way, Claudia will bake the cake and the picnic will be planned by her.
This sentence has two subjects, Claudia and picnic . To make it correct, you must choose one of these subject and make it the subject of both verbs . For example, here Claudia is the subject:
By the way, Claudia will bake the cake and plan the picnic.
FILL IN THE BLANK:
Both verbs must have the same	subject

You have to study the parts of a sentence very carefully to match the verbs.
While she washed the dishes, Mary thought about the dance.
This sentence has an introductory group of words that refers to the subject, Mary. You know it is an introductory clause by the key word while. The question you must answer is: How does the time of verb in the introductory clause relate to the time of the other verb in the sentence?
LOOK at the key word while. While means at the same time. Therefore the varbs should be of:
the same time different times	the same time

17.
Here is an example of an incorrect sentence. It has two parts an introductory clause and the main part of the sentence:
As he thought about the problem, Jack becomes more and more convinced that it couldn't be solved.
LOOK AT the key word as . It means that while Jack was doing one thing, he was doing the other at the same time.
Therefore, the verbs should be of:
the same time different times	the same time
Now, LOOK AT the verb in the introductory clause. It is a past verb. LOOK AT the verb becomes in the main part of the sentence. Becomes is a present verb. Therefore, the sentence is incorrect
CHECK the correct form of the verb:

Here is a summary of what you have learned so far. You may take this page and put it in your notebook.

RULE 1. Subject and verbs must match.

incorrect: Mr. James and Mr. Harrison was sitting at the conference table.

correct: Mr. James and Mr. Harrison were sitting at the conference table.

RULE 2. When there is an introductory phrase or clause in a sentence,

a. the subject must match the introductory clause

incorrect: While the doctor bathed the wound,

the patient was comforted.

correct: While he bathed the wound, the doctor comforted the patient.

b. there must be only one subject incorrect: While he bathed the wound, the doctor talked to the patient and the patient was comforted.

the patient was comforted.

correct: While he bathed the wound, the doctor talked and comforted the patient.

RULE 3: The verbs must match the subject even when there is an introductory phrase.

incorrect: While smiling happily, a letter was mailed to Bill's girlfriend.

correct: While smiling happily, Bill mailed a letter to his girlfriend.

GO ON TO NEXT FRAME

The last part of this lesson will teach you a special problem to consider when you match verbs. READ the following frames carefully.
NO RESPONSE REQUIRED	GO ON TO THE NEXT FRAME
21.
READ this example:
During my childhood, many cities were lived in by me and I went to various schools.
You know it is wrong because there are two subjects after an introductory clause.
Let's examine the second part of the sentence closely.
A. many cities were lived in by me
B. I went to various schools
In part A, the subject, the cities, did not do anything. Something was done to them they were lived in. Therefore, part A uses a being done verb.
In part B, the subject I does something. The subject went to various schools. Therefore, part B uses a:
doing verb being done verb	doing verb

As a rule, expression is more effective when doing verbs are used in place of being done verbs.

A verb ia a doing verb if the subject DOES THE ACTION. For example, you call has a doing verb, because the subject you is doing the calling.

A verb is a being done verb if the subject is ACTED UPON. For example, you are called is a being done verb, because somebody else is calling you; you, the subject, are not doing the action.

CIRCLE the doing verbs and UNDERLINE the being done verbs:

I ran

You were called

George was teased

You shout

Abe chops

The wood is chopped

The book is read

We shopped

They thought

Jimmy was pampered

ran were called was teased thought was pampered

Here is a fourth rule to copy onto the summary page that you were given earlier. You will find space on the bottom of that page.

RULE 4: Being done verbs are usually ineffective ways to express something.

incorrect: Laughing and crying at the same time, she untied the ribbon and the present was opened by her.

correct: Laughing and crying at the same time, she untied the ribbon and opened the present.

AGREEMENT OF PARTS OF SENTENCE | When a sentence has more than one part (phrase or clause) the subject and verbs of the two parts have to agree. TIME AGREEMENT INCORRECT: The people who voted for president were surprising that their candidate was not elected. ERROR: The verbs in the completing clause are not of the same time. CORRECT: The people who voted for president were surprised that their candidate was not elected. UNITY OF SENTENCE INCORRECT: Shaving with an electric razor, he liked horseback riding. ERROR: The introductory phrase is not related to the subject of the sentence. CORRECT: Shaving with an electric razor, he cut himself less frequently. BEING DONE AND DOING VERBS SHOULDN"T BE MIXED INCORRECT: When he walked into the bar, several guys were said hello to by him. ERROR: The first clause has a being done verb, the second has a doing verb. CORRECT: When he walked into the bar, he said hello to several guys. SUBJECT AGREEMENT INCORRECT: He needed money and so a loan was taken out by him. ERROR: There are two different subjects in one sentence. He needed money and so he took CORRECT: out a loan. CONNECTIVES When two complete sentences are joined together to make one long sentence, connective terms are used. These connective terms have different meanings and therefore can change the meaning of a sentence. Some connective terms have the same meaning and can be used interchange ably.

Sometimes by reading the first part of a sentence, you can infer how it will be related to the second part. The first part will suggest to you what connective to use. READ the two parts of this sentence.
A For two months I ate candy and never brushed my teeth
B the dentist found I had many cavities
These two parts have to be connected. In order to decide whether "consequently" is the correct connective, you have to ask whether the second part of the sentence states something that could happen as a result of the first part.
Is consequently the correct connecting word to join Part A and Part B?
yes no	yes

28. The simplest way to connect two parts of a sentence is by using the word and. Moreover, besides and and also are other ways of saying that what follows is an addition to what has been said. These words don't tell you as much about the relation between two parts of a sentence as the other connectives you learned. They indicate that what follows is another thought, almost an after-thought added to what has already been stated. It is almost a way of saying "I finished the sentence, but I just thought of something else to add, so I'll attach it." Here are groups of phrases. CONNECT them by using moreover, besides or and also. He looked around; You could have written: he saw all the people. moreover They practiced making their beds; they changed the linens besides themselves. and also Everyone worked overtime; they got paid extra money. for all of the sentences. They earned a lot of money; __ they owned a house. He learned how to use a chainsaw to cut trees: he knew the names of several trees.

The connective term for instance means for example. It is used to introduce an example or illustration of what has already been stated.

EFFECTIVE EXPRESSION A sentence can make sense and be punctuated correctly and yet not be alive. A sentence that is easy and pleasant to read (even aloud) is effective, that is it makes what it has to tell sound interesting, exciting and clear. Sentences that are verbose or awkwardly arranged are not effective. VERBOSE A verbose sentence is one that uses extra, unnecessary words. What it has to say could be said more simply. VERBOSE: He passed the test by giving a lot of correct answers and because he passed the test he received a certificate. EFFECTIVE: He passed the test and received a certificate. A sentence that says the same thing twice is verbose. VERBOSE: The Florida oranges tasted different and they had a special flavor.

NOVEMBER 1969

PREVIEW FRAME
This lesson will introduce some more word pairs which confuse many people. You will learn how to tell which word of a pair you should use.
2.
Here are two words which are often confused with one another:
principle and principal
WRITE down the last three letters of each of those words	:
	ple pal
3.	',
The word Principal has several meanings. One meaning is the head of a school, that is the principal of a school.
You can remember that by the last three letters: PAL. Think of the principal of a school as a PAL to the students, and you will not use the other word by mistake.
Just for practice, FILL IN the correct word: (use PRINCIPLE or PRINCIPAL)
The teachers greeted the on the first	princi pal
4.
Another way of using Principal, is as a substitute for the words MAIN or CHIEF.
Instead of saying The Main Part Of The Job Was Cutting Up The Wood, you could say, The Principal Part of The Job Was Cutting Up The Wood.
Change the following sentence, using the word PRINCIPAL:
The chief idea in his speech is that all men are brothers.	The PRINCIPAL idea in his speech is that all men are brothers.

When the word is spelled with a PLE ending, it is substituted for the word RULE or IDEA. (PRINCIPLE and RULE end with the same two letters.
Use PRINCIPLE in this sentence:
Always remember the rule that pride comes before the fall.	Always remember the PRINCIPLE that pride comes before the fall.
6.
Remember, PAL is the ending for the word that means MAIN or CHIEF or HEAD ("I hope that the PRINCIPAL will like me.").
PLE is the ending for the word that means RULE or IDEA.
FILL IN the blanks with either PRINCIPAL or PRINCIPLE.
The cause of the teachers' strike was the anger of the teachers towards the The teachers were fighting for the that teachers should have more to say about how the school is run.	Princi pal Princi pal Princi ple 7.
FILL IN princiPLE or princiPAL for the following sentences
Welfare legislation is based on the	princiPLE that the government should share the responsibility for the welfare of each of its citizens. The beneficiaries (the people who benefited the most) were	princiPAL

Instead of the word RULE, you can use the word:
principle principal	principle
(Rule and principle end with the same two letters.)
9.
Instead of the word CHIEF or MAIN, we can often use the word:
principle principal	principal 10.
Two words which sound alike are FORMERLY and FORMALLY. In order to know which to use, think of this:
FORMERLY comes from the word FORMER (which means past). For example, if a man used to be the principal of a school, he is the FORMER principal of the school.
FORMALLY comes from the word FORMAL which means "using a certain form of dress or behavior."
