ABSTRACT

This quinmester course of easy-to-medium difficulty is recommended for pupils who have had band or have demonstrated satisfactory proficiency on an instrument. Emphasis for both musicianship and performance is placed on intonation, phrasing, sight-reading, and instrumental technical facility, as well as responsibility of the individual to the total group. Opportunities are given for performance in concert. Course content stresses the development of performance skills in logistics, tone, pitch, articulation, interpretation, rhythm, chromatic scales, major scales and chords, forms, and musical vocabulary. Pupils will also acquire a broad picture of the major periods in music history and become familiar with the major forms, stylistic characteristics, and major composers of each period. Course procedures, strategies, and suggested learning activities are arranged in weekly periods, with every piece of music selected for specific musical purposes. Resources for students and teachers, and a selected music list is included. (SJM)
