PREFACE

In October, 1969, the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, Office of Urban Programs, produced a first edition of this Guide. Continuing demand for timely information prompted the first revision in 1971 and this revision for 1972-3.

Government reorganizations, including transfers of functions and responsibilities, and creation of the National Institute of Education, as well as delays and vetoes of some Fiscal Year 1973 appropriations hampered preparation of this revision. However, every effort has been made to provide the information available as of the date of printing (November, 1972).

Revenue sharing, changes in categorical programs and decentralization of government functions are expected to generate changes in grant administration. However, since legislation, implementation, and appropriation processes will take an undetermined period of time, this Guide should prove helpful now.

Since many federal government programs and priorities are changing rapidly, users are advised to check out any program in which they are interested prior to making proposals.

Despite efforts to be comprehensive, some programs which might offer federal support for colleges and universities with urban inverests have no doubt been overlooked. Further, some legislation which does not specifically address urban problems also may offer funding possibilities.

If you have any observations or suggestions on the usefulness of this Guide, we should appreciate hearing from you.

WHAT THIS GUIDE CONTAINS

PURPOSE

This Guide contains information on 80 federal programs representing possible sources of funding for urban programs and activities of colleges and universities. It is intended to provide faculty and administrators with brief reference guides to current programs and with new leads and suggestions for further exploration. Hopefully, this information will enable institutions of higher education to play a greater role in the solution of the nation's urban problems.

SCORE

This Guide: .

- includes programs either aimed directly at urban problems or offering opportunities for urban-oriented projects and applications. Those listed are generally oriented toward research, training, and/or problem solving.
- adds 19 programs not previously liated and/or newly authorized programs.
 New liatings are indicated by an asterisk in the text.

3. excludes

- a. programs focusing on capital needs, facilities, equipment, or construction, even though auch facilities may be used for urban-oriented programs.
- b. student aid programs without a special urban action component, even though youtha from urban ...as may be among their beneficiaries, and urban 4-H programa.
- c. programs within the domain of specialized professional schools, such as law, med cine, or engineering.
- d. programs limited to only one or two parts of the country.
- e. programs authorized by the Education Amendments of 1972 but which have no funding, such as the Ethnic Heritage Studies Program, and Indian Education and Consumer Education provisions. It is possible that funds for these and other programs may be forthcoming late in Fiscal 1973.
- 4. deletes from the prior edition, with the concurrence of the appropriate government official, the programs listed below, which offer little or no possibilities for funding, or which are being or have been phased out:

Community Environmental Management Research and Training Grants
Educational Research Training
Management Training for Small Businessmen and Prospective Small Business Owners

Meeting Critical Shortages of Educational Personnel Regional Educational Research Program
Targeted Communications Program
Teacher Development for Desegregating Schools
Training Complexes
Training of Teacher Trainers
Urban Planning Research and Demonstration Program
Urban Renewal Demonatration

The Education Amendments of 1972 (Tirle V, Sec. 503 (a)) require a review this year of all rules, regulations, guidelines, or other published interpretations or orders issued after June 30, 1965, affecting administration of any program to which the General Education Provisions Act applies. Therefore, existing guidelines may be revised and guidelines for new programs may be delayed.

ADMINISTERING AGENCY

The Cabinet department or independent agency and its subdivision responsible for administering the program are listed have.

CONTACT FOR FURTHER INFORMATION

For each program, the name, title, address, and phone number of a regional and/ or national (generally Washington-area headquarters) contact are given. Requests for publications, initial inquiries regarding proposal ideas, and any other questions regarding the program's operation should be directed to these contacts.

The regional liatings reflect a major change in the federal government's approach to grant administration. Growing numbers of federal agencies have made active efforts to decentralize their programs and have delegated major administrative and decision-making responsibilities to their regional offices. Knowledgeable program apecialists are also being assigned to the regional offices in growing numbers. A number of federal agency offices in Washington expressly requested that program inquiries be directed the regional, rather than national, headquarters.

Some federal agencies are in the midst of or on the verge of reorganization, and changes in staff are certain. Names and phone numbers are nevertheless provided for each program. Despite expected turnover and changes, it is generally much easier to locate a program or office in Washington by mail or phone with a specific name and number as a starting point than to call or write in "blind".

AIR POLLUTION CONTROL RESEARCH GRANTS

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$6,900,000 (Fiscal 1973 est.)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

Grants are awarded to establish, expand, and improve research activities in the field of air pollution control. The program is concerned with all aspects of research and development related to the causes, effects, extent, prevention, and control of air pollution with respect to human health, welfare, and productivity. Air pollution control research grants also support the establishment of air quality criteria for all hazardous air pollutants and the development of more effective means for preventing and controlling air pollution.

Among potential areas of investigation for research grant support are economic and social studies and regional planning. This includes estimates of air pollution damage, cost of air pollution control, studies on urban planning and proper land-use, political organization aspects of control programs, attitudes of people towards air pollution, and methods for influencing public opinion.

The research grants program provides limited support for feasibility studies and for young investigators who have stimulating ideas but little research experience. These "exploratory" grants are generally awarded for a maximum of $10,000 and 18 months. Although applications dealing with any facet of air pollution will be considered, certain problem areas are particularly relevant at this time. They include the exploration of new physical concepts, instruments for monitoring air pollution and for air pollution research, public attitudes and acceptance of "aesthetic insults," the relationship between air quality in living spaces and air pollution, and studies of relationships between air pollution damage and market parameters.

COLLEGE WORK-STUDY

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended by Education Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-318)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$401,000,000 (Fiscal 1972), which includes $156,400,000 for academic year 1971-2, supplementing $1,000,000 from the 1971 appropriation, and $244,600,000 for 1972-3.

This program stimulates and promotes the part-time employment of college students, particularly those from low-income families, by supporting higher education projects for student employment on and off campus, with public or nonprofit agencies, which may include the college itself. Preference is given to students with greatest need and to veterans.

Support is available for student employment up to an average of 15 hours a week per student during regular academic periods, and up to 40 hours a week during normal vacation periods. Federal funds pay up to 80 per cent of the costs of a work-study program and the participating college or off-campus agency provides the remainder (at least 20 per cent). Students may be placed in a variety of urban service projects, on and off campus. New emphasis is on community service programs.

COMMUNITY ACTION MANPOWER

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, ss amended

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$14,000,000 (Fiscal 1972); $11,000,000 (Fiscal 1973 est.). Almost all fiscal 1973 funds are committed.

The bulk of OEO's manpower funds come under Title I--not Title II-- of the Economic Opportunity Act, which is channeled to the Department of Labor to administer. The bulk of CAA's funds also come through the Department of Labor, through programs such as Public Service Careers, Job Corps, Operation Mainstream, and the Neighborhood Youth Corps. (See other listings in this Guide.)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

Community action manpower programs coordinate local existing manpower programs in a community and provide "gap-filling" programs. Funds provide community action agencies with personnel necessary to coordinate manpower programs. OEO manpower research and demonstration evaluates existing programs, explores employment problems of the poor, and experiments with new methods of education, training, and placement.

Funds are "Local Initiative" so Regional Offices determine their own manpower priorities. At the local level, CAA makes determinations as to their manpower needs and priorities. Funding decisions regarding local manpower programs are then made in conjunction with the appropriate Regional Office.

COMMUNITY SERVICE AND CONTINUING EDUCATION (PROGRAM IMPACT)

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Higher Education Act of 1965, Title I (P.L. 89-329), as amended by Education Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-318)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$9,500,000 (Fiscal 1972)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This state grant program is designed to strengthen community service programs of colleges and universities by bringing the resources of higher education to bear on the solution of community problems in areas like housing, poverty, government, recreation, employment, transportation, health, and land-use. Educational activities and services, including research, extension, or continuing education, are included. Approximately 500 institutions were funded under this program in Fiscal 1972. Specific priorities are determined by each of the participating states and territories.

As a result of the Education Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-318), discretionary funds may become available under the 1973 program to support special projects designed to seek solutions to national and regional problems relating to technological and social changes and environmental pollution. Application for such funds should be made directly to the Office of Education rather than the designated state agency.

Title I funds have also been used to help support university participation in the Urban Observatory Program. (See program description on p. 78.)

The program is administered through "designated agencies" in each of the 50 states, Guam, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and the District of Columbia.

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$12,400,000 (Fiscal 1973)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program sims to help schools and communities assess and respond ", their drug abuse problems by becoming aware of the nature of the problem and developing strategies aimed at its causes rather than merely responding to its symptoms. A key component in the 5-year strategy continues to be the Help Communities Help Themselves Program under which small grants are awarded to communities (including colleges) to assist them in developing a coordinated effort and to support the training of a team of five to six individuals for two weeks at a training facility in their general area.

All college-based projects involve student groups in a variety of ways.

Cooperative Research Act of 1954, as amended, including the Education Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-318)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

No new funds are yet available for Fiscal 1973. It is ex; cted that $109,000,000 may be appropriated. However, of these funds, about $90,000,000 are committed this fiscal year to programs previously sponsored by the Office of Education. HIGHER EDUCATION PERSONNEL TRAINING PROGRAMS

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Higher Education Act of 1965 (P.L. 89-329), as amended by the Education Professions Development Act, Title V, Part E (P.L. 90-35)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$8,329,000 (Fiscal 1973 est.), for programs to be conducted in spring and summer of 1973 and during 1973-74. Fiscal 1974 funds will support programs for 1974-75. All proposals are unsolicited; about two-thirds of the programs are new and one-third repeats of previous successful programs.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program supports short-term and academic-year training designed to meet critical shortages and improve the qualifications of teachers, administrators, and specialists in higher education. Participants in full-time training programs are eligible for stipends.

Although programs are funded in a wide variety of fields, priority is given to those serving the needs of junior colleges and developing institutions. Future programs will also expand the present emphasis on training people to deal with the needs of minority and low-income college students. Among programs funded, several have been designed to help colleges function more effectively in urban environments.

HUMANITIES PROGRAMS

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities Act of 1965 (P.L. 89-209), as amended by P.L. 90-348 and 91-346.

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$74,500,000 for all grant programs and pilot projects (Fiscal 1973). An additional sum of up to $3,500,000 is svailable, to match private donations. A major portion of funds goes to new projects each year, mostly based on unsolicited proposals.

Funds are not set aside specifically for urban-related projects.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

Humanities research and educational programs—with a growing emphasis on relevance to contemporary problems—are supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities, which defines its field to include language, linguistics, literature, history, jurisprudence, archaeology, philosophy, criticism, the theory and practice of the arts, and certain aspects of social sciences. The Endowment also supports the study and application of the humanities to the human environment and emphasizes the relevances of the humanities to "the current conditions of national life".

In addition to its support of "more traditionsl" humanities research, the Endowment encourages proposals concerned with values as they bear on special issues: urbanization, minority problems, government decision-making, improving the quality of American life. Fellowships and stipends are also awarded to help faculty increase their knowledge and competence in these areas. I'rojects that may contribute to the forthcoming hi-centennial observance of the American Revolution are especially welcome.

The Endowment's education programs support experiments, conferences, and institutes to improve teaching in the humanities; revision and development of teaching materials; promotion of the educational uses of libraries; and interdisciplinary instructional programs.

Its "public programs", particularly state and community programs, support education for the general public in particular communities or regions. Such programs are expected to serve persons with no specialized higher education in the humanities and to draw on humanistic fields to treat significant social and personal concerns or help people understand historical or contemporary events, ideas, and issues—including urban problems. The Endowment's budget shows a major increase for this type of activity.

A new program, "Youth Grants in the Humanities", supports humanities projects designed and carried out by students and other young people.

Although four-year colleges and universities have not requested and therefore not received many grants under this program, administrators say there is no reason why these institutions could not participate more heavily.

Within the $600,815,000 Fiscal 1972 budget of the National Institute of Mental Health, $22,098,000 is for research and $111,014,000 is for training. These figures include $1,135,000 for research and $1,300,000 for training in minority studies; $2,183,000 for research snd $374,000 for training through the Center for Studies of Metropolitan Problems; $135,100,000 for staffing community mental health centers and $15,000,000 for community mental health center construction; and sums listed elsewhere in this guide for alcoholism, crime and delinquency studies, narcotics and drug programs. PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

The National Institute of Mental Health makes available a variety of grants to support research, services, and personnel training in the field of mental health. Programs focusing on or dealing with urban mental health problems and service are likely to receive support from many different NIMH programs and units. The best way to determine where to pursue a proposal idea is to study NIMH literature and approach the appropriate NIMH unit directly as indicated in program descriptions.

Of special interest to colleges and universities interested in urban problems is the NIMH Center for Studies of Metropolitan Problems (CMSP). The overall goal of the Center's research program is the specification and clarification of the linkages between urban life and mental health. Among the major areas of interest are: (1) the different way: in which commonly recognized social groups (e.g. working class, youth, women, ethnic groups, migrants) perceive and experience urban life; (2) the changing meaning and definition of work in urban settings; (3) new towns; (4) emergent alternative social forms (communes, cooperatives, free schools, etc.):(5) mental health aspects of the urban physical environment (popluation densities, pollution, settlement patterns). CSMP is part of NIMH's Division of Special Mental Health Programs, which also includes the 'nter for Studies of Child and Family Mental Health, the Center for Studies and Delinquency, the Section on Crisis Intervention, Suicide, and Mental Health Emergencies, and the Mental Health of the Aging.

MODEL CITIES

Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966, Title I, as amended (P.I.. 89-754, 42 U.S.C. 3301)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$1,835,500 (cumulative through Fiscal 1972)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

The Model Cities program calls for a comprehensive attack on social, economic, and physical problems in selected slum and blighted areas through effective concentration and coordination of federal, state, local, public and private efforts in order to demonstrate how the general welfare of people living in slums can be improved:

Approximately 150 cities have been selected to participate in the program. All participating cities have completed a planning process and are in some stage of program implementation. Grants go directly to the city demonstration agency, which may in turn contract with other institutions, including colleges and universities.

A number of the cities participating in the Model Cities program were selected to participate in a Planned Variations experiment designed to develop and test new procedures to strengthen local capacities to deal with urban problems. Planned Variations was designed to serve as a guide for other communities as they orient their governmental processes to handle shared tax revenues.

The Model Cities administration was incorporated into HUD's community development division. Under the new revenue-sharing program, Model Cities will be phased out eventually and its project funding replaced with shared tax funds.

Housing Act of 1954, as amended, Sec. 701

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$2,500,000 (Fiscal 1973)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program enables minority college students to study at a university and work twelve to twenty hours a week at a local planning agency. Students receive a salary and some school expenses. The procedure for application requires collaboration between a state or local agency which is eligible to receive HUD "701" Planning Assistance Funds and one or more universities located in the vicinity of the agency. PROGRAM OF UNIVERSITY RESEARCH IN TRANSPORTATION*

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$4,000,000 (Fiscal 1973)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program is designed to increase the involvement of universities in the solution of transportation problems. Research and demonstration objectives are improving transportation service and safety, reducing losses, protecting the environment, conserving energy, and providing future options. Various institutional arrangements are possible: (1) substantial research contracts for major transportation research and activities involving critical-sized interdisciplinary research teams; (2) research for specific projects addressing the intermediate and long-range intermodal, multimodal, and crossmodal transportation problems; (3) initiation contracts for innovative research by individual faculty members; (4) university-based seminars for industry, government, or university professionals designed to stimulate and improve the involvement of faculty members in transportation problems or to familiarize industry and government personnel with new methods of analysis and planning and with new transportation technologies and systems.

PUBLIC SERVICE CAREERS PROGRAM

• 2

Manpower Development Training Act of 1962 (42 U.S.C. 2571 et seq.) and Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$62,200,000 (Fiscal 1972)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program is designed to relieve manpower shortages in the public service while creating career opportunities for disadvantaged workers. PSC helps public agencies and some private nonprofit institutions update their methods of recruiting and selecting workers and restructure their jobs so that unskilled workers can be hired and trained to fill them.

The program has four component plans, providing different types of aid to meet various manpower needs. Colleges and universities can participate in two of these plans.

Under Plan A (entry and upgrading in state, county, end local governments), state colleges and universities may be considered eligible sponsors, along with government agencies, to receive payments to cover the "extraordinary" costs of hiring and training disadvantaged workers. Regardless of control, colleges and universities may also serve as subcontractors, providing training or other services to government agency sponsors. Entry jobs are for the disadvantaged, with upgrading emphasis on employees with low incomes.

Under Plan C (New Careers in Human Service), colleges and universities may serve as subcontractors, or, occasionally, as sponsors directly running programs to train employees. Programs under Plan C prepare, hire, and train disadvantaged workers for pre-professional jobs, as well as developing career ladders to help new workers advance. Eligible sponsors are governmental and private nonprofit agencies in human service fields.

Economic Opportunity Act, Secs. 232 and 233, as amended (P.L. 90-222)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$50,000,000 (Fiscal 1972). Approximately one-third of this amount is for refunding and continuations of existing projects. OEO reports a "strong trend" toward awarding contracts on a competitive basis rather than on the basis of unsolicited proposals and is discouraging on funding new programs. The AASCU Office of Federal Programs has also found funding unlikely from this program.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

OEO research grants and contracts go for the development of new knowledge in anti-poverty fields; for resting models for new services to low-income clients; for collection and analysis of basic data; for evaluation of existing OEO programs.

Demonstration awards are made to develop and test "alternatives" to existing services and programs for the low-income population. Grants and contracts are also made in fields such as child care, changes in the educational system, housing, employment, new economic development efforts, new uses of volunteers, and innovative services tor the rural and aged poor.

TEACHER CORPS

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Higher Education Act of 1965, Title V-B; Extended Education Professions Development Act of 1967, Part BI, as arended

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$35,935,000 (Fiscal 1973 est.)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

Grants go to colleges, universities, and local education agencies which commit themselves to making fundamental changes in the training and use of teachers. Applicant institutions are expected to have a five-year plan for introducing such changes and a specified decision-making process and schedule of adoption for those reforms which prove successful over a three- to six-year period.

Reforms are introduced and tested through the training and use of Teacher Corps interns and "lead" teachers. Groups of five to eight interns, supervised by an experienced team leader, usually serve two years (a 14-month model is used on a limited basis), in a local school system with heavy concentrations of children from low-income families. During this period applicants earn a bachelor's or master's degree in education and state certification from the participating college or university.

Teacher Corps projects which began in the summer of 1972 will all be introducing and testing teacher education systems based on the principles of the Ten Models of Elementary Teacher Education which were developed under grants from the U.S. Office of Education's former National Center for Education Research and Development. Participant school districts are encouraged to examine the concept of "Portal Schools", or equivalent facilities or means to permit the continuous testing of new staffing patterns, new curricula, and improved teaching methods. In addition, projects beginning in 1972 are encouraged to include a component of full- and part-time volunteers working both during and after school hours as tutors and instructional assistants.

Applicant institutions must submit a "concept paper" by June 30 for projects which begin the summer of the following year. On the basis of this paper, institutions are either encouraged or discouraged to submit formal proposals.

UNDERGRADUATE PREPARATION OF EDUCATIONAL PERSONNEL*

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended by Education Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-318)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$1,000,000 in Fiscal 1973 budget. Unsolicited proposals will be considered.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program aims to improve undergraduate programs for preparing educational personnel, including design, development, and evaluation of exemplary programs, introduction of high quality and more effective curricula and curriculum materials, and the provision of increased opportunity for practical teaching experience.

Four main thrusts have been identified for reform: involvement of liberal arts in teacher education; reform of teacher education programs, including new ways of clinical (practice) teaching; new means of selecting, counseling, and evaluating teachers; and involvement of community and local agencies with institutions of higher education.

Programs should evidence involvement of the entire university in reform. Thus, these developmental, institutional grants will be awarded to the presidents of institutions, rather than to schools of education.

UNIVERSITY YEAR FOR ACTION*

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Economic Opportunity Act of 1,54, Title VIII, as amended

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$8,500,000 (Fiscal 1973)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program allows college students to earn degree credit while working as volunteers in poor communities. The objectives are to make university resources available to poor communities, to teach students through the work they do on problems related to the poor, and to help the poor in urban and rural disadvantaged communities move toward solving their problems. UYA is an alliance between the federal government, universities, students, and low-income people. ACTION provides technical assistance, overall direction, funds for student allowances and administrative costs; universities grant academic credit for the student volunteer's work and commit their physical and academic resources to poor communities; students work for one year as full-time volunteers; and local organizations define jobs and supervise the students' work. Volunteers are concentrating their job efforts in education, health, consumer protection, administration of justice, economic development, and housing. Universities receive financial assistance from ACTION which enables them to expand existing community-focused programs or begin new student volunteer projects. Participating universities may ask for assistance in program development, sel ction techniques, and methods of evaluation. Volunteers from urban areas predominated last year.

UPWARD BOUND

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Section 408 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (P.L. 89-329), as amended by Section 105 of the Higher Education Amendments of 1968 (P.L. 90-575) and the Education Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-318)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$32,669,000 (Fiscal 1972)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

Upward Bound is a prog am to motivate and prepare potentially capable, low-income high school students to seek a college education. Grants are made directly to academic institutions to conduct programs.

The program consists of both summer and academic year components. During the summer, students take a concentrated study course, lasting generally from six to eight weeks, during which they usually live on the campus of the sponsoring institution. During the academic year, students return to their homes, but may receive special tutoring or counseling from persons connected with their Upward Bound project or may participate in a variety of cultural and other activities designed to reinforce the gains of the summer.

Students continue their participation from the time they enter the program (usually when they are high school sophomores or juniors) until the fall after their high school graduation. Project personnel assist them and their families in college application procedures.

Individual projects vary widely, since curricula are developed by grantee institutions. For both the summer and academic year components, however, curricula are designed to foster the intellectual qualities, skills, and attitudes necessary for success in college. Cultural, recreational, and physical activities supplement formal classes.

$2,500,000 (Fiscal 1973)

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This program seeks to assist in establishing or implementing comprehensive university research in the problems of transportation in urban areas. Grant recipients conduct research on the theoretical and/or practical problems of urban transportation and provide for the training of persons for further research or to obtain employment in private or public organizations which plan, construct, operate, or manage urban transportation systems. Research projects include, but are not limited to, design and functioning of urban mass transit systems; design and functioning of urban roads and highways; interrelationship between various modes of urban and inter-urban transportation role of transportation planning in overall urban planning; public preferences in transportation; economic allocation of transportation resources; and legal, financial, engineering, and esthetic aspects of urban transportation. URBAN OBSERVATORIES

AUTHORIZING LEGISLATION

Housing Act of 1970, Title V (P.L. 91-609)

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$1.250,000 (Fiscal 1972), of which part will be used during Fiscal 1973. At present, the program is limited to ten cities. Plans exist for future expansion to other areas, if additional funding becomes available.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

The Urban Observatory Program has three objectives: "An help make university resources useful in dealing with urban and metropo of problems available to local governments; (2) to advance in a number of different areas and communities a continuing, coordinated program of practical urban research; (3) to advance university capabilities to relate research and training activities more effectively to urban concerns.

Observatory programs are organized through government ifficials of central cities, who involve selected universities and local governments in their metropolitan area. Initial observatory programs were limited to standard metropolitan statistical areas of over 250,000. The first ten cities elected were Albuquerque, Atlanta, Baltimore, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Nashville, Boston, Cleveland, Denver, and San Diego. At least one of the universities participating in each program must receive an average of $50,000 a year in federal funds under Title I of the Community Service and Continuing Education

The observatories carry out activities under national and local "research agendis". Research under the national agenda is conducted simultaneously by all participating observatories, with these three priorities: citizen participation; quality of local services; and local government financing. The first two received intensive study during the program's first year. Local research agendus are established in each community by the participating institutions and the chief executives of participating governments. Both local and national research agendas must be responsive to the perceived needs of the local chief executives.

AMOUNT AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDING

$45,000,000 (Fiscal 1972); $53,000,000 authorized for Fiscal 1973. Although the major portion of research programs is devoted to program analysis and demonstration projects in direct support of HUD operating programs, unsolicited proposals are welcome and growing in number and importance.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PRIORITIES

This is a research and technology and development program focusing on housing, land-use and community development, and public facilities and services. "nment; applying improved technology! for public utility systems; municin-1 and regional information systems; building technology; designing housing sp cifically for handicapped and elderly; and developing legal methods to support the principle of fair howing and equal opportunity.

The Office of Research and Technology has consolidated the previously scattered research programs within HUD and has authority to fund projects in virtually a' leas related to urban development.

Various government agencies publish guides describing their grants and contract programs in varying amounts of detail, such as the NSF Guide to Programs and American Education's Annual Guide to OE Programs. Others appear in the sections headed "Related Publications Available" in the program descriptions of this Guide. These publications are generally available from the public information offices of the appropriate agencies.

In addition, government and private agencies have published various directories which, like this Guide, may be confined to programs in one field or several related fields, or which may list programs for specific types of institutions. Examples are:

National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism Directory of Federal Support Programs in the Area of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism

National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism Health Services and Mental Health Administration Department of Health, Education, and Welfare 5600 Fishers Lane Rockville, Maryland 20852

It is often advisable to ask the federal agencies administering programs of special interest to add an appropriate representative of your institution to its mailing list. Federal agencies distribute many newsletters, news releases, fact sheets, requests for proposals, and other materials to keep interested parties informed of current developments in their programs. A request to the Public Information Office of each agency will usually result in placement on the appropriate mailing lists. This may take up to six weeks, however.
