ABSTRACT

Types and techniques of propaganda and its effects on American Life are discussed in this elective social studies course for 7th, 8th, and 9th grade students. Since young people today are bombarded with conflicting ideas disseminated through mass media, it becomes imperative that students become more knowledgeable about propaganda and its impact on their lives and on the total culture. In this course the student learns the techniques of propaganda, studies the intent and purpose of the propagandist, and distinguishes fact from opinion and bias from objectivity. The guide is divided into four major sections: 1) course goals; 2) a course content outline; 3) objectives and learning activities; and 4) recommended lists of supplemental reading materials, films, filmstrips, and guides.

INTRODUCTION

This course of study was written as part of a total effort to revise curriculum to fit the quinmester administrative organization of schools. The materials and information in this guide are meant to be neither all-inclusive nor prescriptive; but rather, an aide to teachers as they plan instructional programs, taking into account student needs and characteristics, available resources, and other factors.

The major intent of this publication is to provide a broad framework of goals and objectives, content, teaching strategies, class activities, and materials all related to a described course of study. Teachers may then accept the model framework in total or draw ideas from it to incorporate into their lessons.

The guide is divided into 1) a broad goals section, 2) a content outline, 3) objectives and learning activities, and 4) materials. The first section provides descriptive and goal-oriented information for the teacher; "indicators of success" refers to suggested prerequisite or corequisite experiences. The content outline illustrates, in general terms, the scope and major subdivisions of the course. The objectives and learning activities section, hopefully, provides a total picture of the concept or main idea and specific behavioral objectives for a set of given learning activities. The materials section of the guide lists resources in four categories: essential textual or other material; alternate classroom materials to use in place of or in addition to the aforementioned; supplementary teacher resources; and supplementary student resources. The appendix may include other material appropriate for a specific course: e.g. pretests, readings, vocabulary, etc.

Anyone having recommendations relating to this publication is urged to write them down and send to, Social Studies, Room 306 Lindsey Hopkins.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: TYPES AND TECHNIQUES OF PROPAGANDA AND ITS EFFECTS ON AMERICAN LIFE. THE COURSE IS DESIGNED TO HELP STUDENTS MAKE DECISIONS BASED ON CRITICAL, OBJECTIVE THINKING.

CLUSTER: GENERAL SOCIAL STUDIES

GRADE LEVEL: 7-9

COURSE STATUS: ELECTIVE

INDICATORS OF SUCCESS: NONE

COURSE RATIONALE: Young people today are bombarded with conflicting ideas disseminated via the mass media. It becomes imperative that students become more knowledgeable about propaganda and its impact on their lives and their total culture.

By learning the techniques of propaganda, the intent and purposes of the propagandist, and by learning to distinguish fact from opinion, bias from objectivity, students will better be able to make decisions based on critical and objective thinking rather than on emotion and prejudice.

It is important that we help students obtain the skills and knowledge that will help them make objective decisions.

COURSE GOALS:

1. THE STUDENT WILL ASSESS HIS PERSONAL VIEWS AND UNDERSTANDINGS OF PROPAGANDA IN AMERICA; AND WILL IDENTIFY THE TYPES AND TECHNIQUES OF PROPAGANDA.
2. THE STUDENT WILL IDENTIFY CONNOTATIVE AND DENOTATIVE WORDS AND MAKE A JUDGMENT AS TO WHAT DEGREE THESE WORDS AFFECT OBJECTIVITY.
3. THE STUDENT WILL TRACE THE DEVELOPMENT AND USE OF PROPAGANDA IN AMERICA'S PAST.
4. THE STUDENT WILL INVESTIGATE CURRENT PROPAGANDA TECHNIQUES AND MAKE A JUDGMENT AS TO THEIR SOCIAL, ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL IMPACT ON AMERICAN CULTURE.
5. THE STUDENT WILL DEVELOP CRITERIA TO UNDERSTAND PROPAGANDA.

COURSE CONTENT OUTLINE:

I. Personal attitudes and understandings

- A. Propaganda
- B. Uses of propaganda
- C. Reasons for propaganda
- D. Types and techniques of propaganda

1. Name calling
2. Glittering generalities
3. Card stacking

VEHICLES OF PROPAGANDA

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
"GOOD" PROPAGANDA D. The student will differentiate between "good" and "bad" propaganda.	C. (cont.)	3. (cont.) Students will give examples of the above in any manner they wish. 4. Introduce the class text: Propaganda, Polls and Public Opinion. Have students read and discuss the Introduction. Students may compose their own syllogisms. For advanced students use the book: How Words Change Our Lives. (The Language of Man Series) Section I. 5. Have students read part I and II of Chapter III "What is Propaganda?" from the same book in order to re-inforce their understandings of propaganda. 6. Students might play The Propaganda Game. (With this game students learn the fascinating techniques used by professionals to influence public opinion by learning to recognize band wagon appeals, faulty analogy, out-of-context quotes, rationalization, technical jargon, and emotional appeals.) 7. Other films available from Dade County: How to Judge Facts 1-00178, Getting the Facts 1-00110 and Do Words Ever Fool You? 1-01216. The teacher (or a good reader) should read the essays: (a) "How to Detect Propaganda" by Clyde R. Miller and "On Reading Propaganda" by E. A. Tenney from language in Uniform (A Reader on Propaganda) and discuss the following questions with her students: 1. What is the author's definition of propaganda?

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
	D. (cont.) E. The students will compile current articles on propaganda.	2. How does the author differentiate good propaganda from bad propaganda? 3. Point out the similarities and differences between the selections. Using the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature, the students will locate and summarize current articles on propaganda. Information might be put on 3x5 cards and kept on file for class reference and use.

GOAL 2: THE STUDENT WILL IDENTIFY CONNOTATIVE AND DENOTATIVE WORDS AND MAKE A JUDGMENT AS TO WHAT DECREE THESE WORDS AFFECT OBJECTIVITY.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
PROPAGANDA AND THE USE AND MISUSE OF WORDS.	A. The student will assess how he "feels" about certain issues, people or things.	1. As propaganda revolves around the use or misuse of words, the student should be aware that words have two kinds of meaning: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Denotative---that which points to, or describes, something real. b. Connotative---that which is suggested or implied in addition to its actual meaning. (S. I. Hayakawa in Language in Thought and Action refers to these words as "purr" and "snarl" words.) Note to teacher: American Education Publications publishes a booklet, How to Study Workshop which contains several lessons dealing with Jargon and Cobbledygook, Connotations and Color and Figurative Language. The lessons are short enough to be reproduced by the teacher. 2. The student will take an Emotional Quotient test to determine how he "feels" about the following: (Student should write a descriptive word next to the listing) <table style="width: 100%; border: none;"> <tr> <td style="width: 50%;">American flag</td> <td style="width: 50%;">Mother</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Fuppy</td> <td>Democracy</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Dictatorship</td> <td>Prisoners of War</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Vietnam War</td> <td>Fidel Castro</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Welfare</td> <td>Women's Lib</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Nixon's trip to China</td> <td>Busing</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Communism</td> <td>Racism</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Draft</td> <td>Pot</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Jane Fonda</td> <td>Bob Hope</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Seattle</td> <td>Carol King</td> </tr> <tr> <td>School</td> <td>Quinmaster</td> </tr> <tr> <td>Mafia</td> <td>"Pig"</td> </tr> </table>	American flag	Mother	Fuppy	Democracy	Dictatorship	Prisoners of War	Vietnam War	Fidel Castro	Welfare	Women's Lib	Nixon's trip to China	Busing	Communism	Racism	Draft	Pot	Jane Fonda	Bob Hope	Seattle	Carol King	School	Quinmaster	Mafia	"Pig"

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
EMOTIONAL ATTITUDES AND OBJECTIVITY	A. (cont.) B. The student will analyze statements for bias.	2. (cont.) a. Have the student determine from his responses which words used were "purr" or "snarl" words. (Teacher will put sampling on board.) b. Students might collect materials (from as many courses as possible) on one or more of the listed topics in order to utilize the information for an activity at the end of this section of the quin.
		1. The teacher could reproduce from Study Skills and Critical Thinking Bulletin No. 15, 1971, National Council for the Social Studies, page 71-72, an activity which will assist students in recognizing biased statements. Students will be able to recognize statements which are based on emotion rather than reason. a. Have several students research the difference between fact and opinion. Perhaps a list of facts and opinions (mixed up) might be presented as a quiz game with one student group challenging another. b. Utilizing Feiffer cartoons, have the student analyze the cartoons. An excellent cartoon appeared in the Miami Herald, Sunday, January 31, 1971.
		2. Using newspapers free from the Miami Herald on request, have the student analyze "Letters to the Editor" for statements based on emotion or prejudice rather than fact. (Note: Newspapers are free only for a two-week trial period--call in September to get trial dates)
		3. Using the free booklet from the Miami Herald: Teaching Reading Skills Through the Newspaper, the teacher might develop some of the activities listed on pages 19-26. (Activities deal with Critical Reading Skills)

WORDS AND OBJECTIVITY	B. (cont.) C. The student will use connotative and denotative words. D. The student will re-assess his feelings about certain issues, people or things.	3. (cont.) (Note: There is a film entitled How to Read a Newspaper, I-00133 that can be utilized at this point.) <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Working in groups of two, the student will "sell" to the class by the use of "purr" words: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. a product or a thing b. a point of view on a controversial issue 2. By the use of "snarl" words, the student will "sell" a point of view. Note to teacher: Refer to pages 44-47 in Hayakawa's book Language in Thought and Action. This section will give a more detailed description of "snarl" and "purr" words. Note: For optional activities of this nature, the student can rewrite news editorials or pages in history to change the point of view. Utilizing information described under objective A, the student will again take the "Emotional Quotient" test. The student will make a judgment as to whether gathering more facts about a subject can help him become more objective. Question: Was there a radical difference in the number of "snarl" and "purr" words used the second time? The teacher may want to show the film: How to Read Newspapers, I-00133, for this section of the unit.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
	D. (cont.)	Note: There should be available in the classroom several copies of What Words Do to Us from The Language of Man series, McDougal, Littell and Co. Evanston, Illinois 60104.

GOAL 3: THE STUDENT WILL TRACE THE DEVELOPMENT AND USE OF PROPAGANDA IN AMERICA'S PAST.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
HISTORY AND PROPAGANDA	A. The student will examine propaganda in an historical perspective.	1. The student will discuss the idea that history is nothing more than propaganda. The teacher might ask the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Who writes American History? Essentially, do all American History books have the same point of view? 2. Have the students read Chapter II "The Development of Propaganda" from Propaganda, Follies and Public Opinion, and discuss questions posed at the end of the chapter.
TRUTH	B. The student will investigate the writings in history that have led to social change.	3. The teacher will read the following quote: "I shall never believe that what is founded on lies can endure forever. I believe in truth." Adolf Hitler Hitler's Secret Conversations. publ. 1953 Have students discuss: "What is truth?"
IS THE PEN MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD?	1. Throughout history authors have appealed to the emotions of people to create the climate for change. The students will list author and his writings that have led to social change. (For example: Upton Sinclair and his expose on the meat packing industry, Dorothea Dix and her work with the mentally ill and Jacob Riis and his expose on the slums, etc.)	2. Throughout history, authors and statesmen have appealed to the emotions of people to perpetuate a "way of life."

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
B. (cont.)	B. (cont.)	2. (cont.) For example: Horatio Alger and the idea of "rugged individualism" and success in the business world; William Randolph Hearst, John Foster Dulles and Teddy Roosevelt stressing the idea of America being the world's policeman. 3. Show the filmstrip The Literature of Protest (Guidance Associates.) Have the student make a judgment as to the effectiveness of literature as a propaganda vehicle and to analyze what propaganda techniques were used in the filmstrip. 4. Committees might investigate the use of art, music, posters, slogans, cartoons, movies, etc. throughout history for propaganda purposes. (In order to gain support for a cause) Note to teacher: You may want to read parts of The Language of War by Aldous Huxley published in How Words Change Our Lives (Language of Man series) a. Students may make a bulletin board display of their findings. b. Students might share music findings with class. (This activity can be used to investigate other areas in history) such as racism, war, civil rights, slavery, etc.) 5. View the filmstrip, Social Movements: To Change a Nation (Guidance Associates) The student will compare and contrast these four historical movements for social reform with current history textbooks used in your school.

GOAL 4: THE STUDENT WILL INVESTIGATE CURRENT PROPAGANDA TECHNIQUES AND MAKE A JUDGMENT AS TO THEIR SOCIAL, ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL IMPACT ON AMERICAN CULTURE.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
AUTOMATION AND TECHNOLOGY EFFECTS ON PROPAGANDA TECHNIQUES	A. The student will compare and contrast propaganda techniques used in the past with those of today.	1. Have the student compare and contrast propaganda techniques and vehicles used in the past with those used today. (Can be done in chart form) 2. Discuss: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. The impact of automation and technology on mass communications b. Governmental controls on the mass media
INSTITUTIONS IN OUR SOCIETY AND OPINIONS	B. The student will cite specific examples of how institutions help mold his point of view.	1. Have students give specific examples of how parents, schools, churches (temples) and other social agencies present a point of view. Examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Parents (choice of peer group friends, attitudes, about success in school, subjects to take, social status, mores, folkways and values.) Organizations (United Fund, Scouts, Volunteer Medical groups, Peace groups, etc.) Churches and Temples (Israeli bonds, Soviet Jewry, abortions, planned parenthood, bible reading in school, tax-exempt property, civil rights, etc.) Schools (success and failure, obedience, cooperation, conformity, American values, etc.) Government (taxes, defense, civil rights, busing, war, peace, foreign policy, loyalty, economic system (capitalism) etc.)
		2. List in order of importance the institutions mentioned above as having the most influence in shaping your points of view.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
ADVERTISING C. The student will give examples of advertising as they affect the American way of life.	B. (cont.)	3. The student will discuss the following quote: "You must adjust...This is the legend imprinted in every school book. The invisible message on every black board. Our schools have become vast factories for the manufacture of robots." by Robert Mitchell Lindner, Must You Conform? Ninehart, 1956 Note: Teacher may want to read Chapter 3 in Language in Uniform. This chapter deals with educational goals, bias in books, and testing. 1. Advertising is one of the oldest forms of propaganda. Three basic elements used for selling has been information, persuasion and compulsion. Have student give an example(s) of advertising practices that are affecting the way Americans live regarding: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> food clothing shelter recreation personal appearance 2. Have students read Chapter 4 in Propaganda, Polls and Public Opinion. (There are many excellent activities at the end of the chapter.) Advanced students will read Section II of How Words Change Our Lives. (From Language of Man series) 3. The teacher may tape or reproduce parts of Chapter 4 entitled: "Effective Advertising: The Art of Hidden Persuasion: from Language in Uniform, and have students discuss questions posed at the end of the chapter.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
	C. (cont.)	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 4. Have the student view from the series: Let the Buyer Beware (EyeGate) the filmstrip: "Everything Is Not What It Appears To Be." Discuss the following question: "How does a manufacturer try to get us to want his product instead of one made by another manufacturer that may be similar to his?" 5. After viewing the filmstrip: "Can You Believe Advertising?" from the same series, the student may discuss the bombardment of slogans, signs, songs, ads, etc. showered on them by advertisers and reach conclusions on how the consumer makes decisions about a product. 6. The student will research individuals in America (and Federal Agencies) who are helping the public become more aware of fraudulent advertising claims and have communicated the dangers of "hidden persuaders" in advertising. For example: Vance Packard Ralph Nader 7. Have the students write and present ads using emotive (purr) words to "sell" an imaginary product or item. Have the class judge the effectiveness of the advertising "pitch."

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
PROPAGANDA AND POLITICAL OPINIONS	C. (cont.) D. Students will examine viewpoints as to who shapes public opinion regarding politics.	8. General discussion: Americans have been accused of being too materialistic in their outlook toward life. Is this concept the result of propaganda or is this a valid belief? 1. General discussion: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> What is an opinion? How are political opinions shaped in the United States? What impact does public opinion have on events? What are public opinion polls? Who conducts them? How do they decide who to poll? How reliable and accurate are polls? What effect do polls have on the public? 2. Have students bring in examples of recent Harris, Gallup and newspaper polls for discussion and analysis. (T.V. polls can be included) 3. The students may (individually or by committees) conduct a public opinion poll in their community relating to a current political event. Students should set up criteria as to number and types of people to be polled. 4. Have students read and discuss Chapter V "Opinions, Polls and Candidates" from Propaganda, Polls and Public Opinions. (There are excellent activities listed at the end of the chapter.)

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
HOW POWERFUL ARE PRESSURE GROUPS AND LOBBIES?	D. (cont.)	5. The teacher might read the following: "During a Congressional Monopoly investigation of the concentration of economic power by the 76th Congress, 3rd Session, Monograph 26, the Committee underscored the fact that the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the National Association of Manufacturers and the American Bar Association have exerted tremendous pressure through lobbies for political and economic influence in American culture." 6. Have the students hypothesize as to the influence and power the following groups have exerted on Governmental bodies for favorable legislation benefiting their group: a. American Medical Association b. National Rifle Association c. American Newspaper Publishers Association d. National Association of Manufacturers e. American Bar Association f. National Education Association g. Farm Subsidy Lobbies h. Common Cause (Citizen's Lobby) headed by John Gardner i. Another Mother for Peace, American Friends and other peace groups j. PROPAGANDA	H. The student will critically assess the impact propaganda has on American life.	1. The teacher should read the following quote (or put on ditto) "The United States is par excellence a country where public opinion plays an important role, inspiring, orienting and controlling the policy of the nation. Nothing can be achieved or endure without it, and its veto is final. It is characterized by the fact that it is both more spontaneous than anywhere else in the world and also more easily directed by efficient propaganda techniques than in any other country." Andre Siegfried, French economist, historian America at Mid Century, Harcourt Discussion: Do you agree or disagree with the idea that America has the most efficient propaganda techniques in the world? Why or why not? 2. Have the student make a judgment (based on findings and investigations) as to the impact that propaganda has on American life: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. socially b. economically c. politically This may be done via discussion, committee work, essay, etc. 3. Optional (If game is available) The student will play the game: Credibility Gap: A Contemporary Citizen's Game, American Publishing Corp., Waltham, Mass.

GOAL 5: THE STUDENT WILL DEVELOP CRITERIA TO UNDERSTAND PROPAGANDA BASED ON CRITICAL, OBJECTIVE THINKING.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
UNDERSTANDING PROPAGANDA	A. The student will develop a criteria for understanding propaganda.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Have the students read Chapter 7 "Understanding Propaganda" in Propaganda, Polls and Public Opinion. (Excellent activities at the end of the chapter.) 2. The student may select a current, important news event and compare the news reports in the different media. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. List the obvious differences b. Describe the propaganda techniques used c. Which media handled the story most objectively? d. What conclusions can be made from your comparisons? 3. Have the students conduct a poll or interview a random sample of people in their community in order to determine: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. The names of newspapers and magazines read to obtain current event information b. If readers compare one source of information with another source to get a "balanced" view. 4. Have the students work in committees to develop criteria for dealing with propaganda. Each group will share their criteria with the class. The class will then develop a class criteria based on consensus of the group. (The teacher might want to put the developed criteria in booklet form to be available for different classes studying propaganda)

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
A. (cont.)		5. View the filmstrip, Mariluana: What Can You Believe? from Guidance Associates or any other current, controversial topic in audio-visual form so that the student can analyze it for propaganda techniques. 6. The student might read an article in a newspaper or magazine containing a by-line (with a point of view) and analyze it for propaganda techniques. Note to the teacher: Using the above types of activities, a questionnaire should be devised in order to evaluate students' present understanding of propaganda techniques. For example: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. Identify the author and his purpose b. Does he give more than one point of view? c. To what emotions does he appeal? Give examples d. What techniques does he use? Give examples e. Was the presentation biased? How? 7. Optional Activity: Have the student bring in an example of biased information and re-write it more objectively.

FOCUS	OBJECTIVE	LEARNING ACTIVITIES
ANALYSIS OF PROPAGANDA	B. The student will examine propaganda in the news today and analyze it by using his developed criteria.	1. Place the following quote on the board: "Through clever and constant application of propaganda people can be made to see paradise as hell, and also the other way round, to consider the most wretched sort of life as paradise." Adolf Hitler in Mein Kampf page 376 2. Have student discuss the quote and give examples of propaganda today that distorts falsehoods into truths and truths into falsehoods. (They may consider the following:) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Television commercials or advertisements b. Political speeches or platforms c. Industry and ecology d. Governmental actions e. News editorials 3. The student may examine different points of view on a timely issue from Opposing Viewpoint series and attempt to distinguish between fact and fiction: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. The Ecology Controversy b. America's Prisons 4. General Discussion:  What is Truth? How can people be educated to the pitfalls of propaganda?
