ABSTRACT

The housing and home furnishings guide, part of a consumer and homemaking education unit, was developed in a 3-week curriculum workshop at Winthrop College in June 1972. The identified objectives and learning experiences have been developed with basic reference to developmental tasks, needs, interests, capacities, and prior learning experiences of students. The purpose of the material is to develop an awareness in which the home and its furnishings contribute to a satisfying life through fulfillment of individual and family goals. The grade 9 basic unit and grade 10 advanced unit consider various aspects of housing and home furnishings. The semester unit, grades 10-12, examines integration of housing selection factors, financial and legal aspects, house plan evaluation, home furnishings, physical care, and career opportunities in housing and home furnishings. Under each concept, three columns list behavioral objectives, learning and evaluation experiences, and teaching resources. (AG)

Acknowledgements

The guide for Housing and Home Furnishings was developed in a three week curriculum workshop at Winthrop College in June, 1972.

Grateful appreciation is extended to the following persons who contributed to the development of the guide:

Mrs. Brenda Cutts, Lexington High School, Lexington; Mrs. Emma Christie, Barnwell High School, Barnwell; and Mrs. Mattie Saxon, J. L. Mann High School, Greenville, who wrote the Housing and Home Furnishings guide.

Dr. Twyla Shear, Professor of Home Economics Education, Pennsylvania State University, who gave leadership in the development of the guide and served as curriculum consultant for the workshop.

Dr. Jane Crow, Chairman and Professor of Housing and Management Area, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, who served as consultant in housing and home furnishings and reviewed the guide.

Dr. Helen Loftis, Professor of Home Economics Education, Winthrop College, who assisted with arrangements for the curriculum workshop and reviewed the guide.

Personnel of the State Department of Education, especially the Office of Vocational Education, who gave support and encouragement in the development of the guide.

Use of the Guide

The identified objectives and learning experiences have been developed with basic reference to developmental tasks, needs, interests, capacities, and prior learning experiences of students. The curriculum resource materials serve as the instructional program for all students and are a beginning point for the teacher in planning for the learning of students who may as a group not represent the norm, and who as individuals will reflect a range including both sides of the norm.

With a variety of students in a classroom, it seems imperative for the teacher to develop a plan for learning based upon a prior assessment of the performance status of students relative to the objectives specified. Pre-testing of students and cooperative planning, in relation to objectives and learning experiences are recommended for the homemaking teacher. Many group teaching-learning experiences may be necessary within the classroom but some learners will require individual objectives and learning experiences which may be provided for in numerous ways, including independent study, use of self-paced learning packages, programmed materials, paired-learner teams, and learning contracts.

As the teacher becomes skilled in providing for the individual learning needs of a few learners in each class, she can extend individualization to other learners in a given class. A basic part of the task is for learners to become increasingly independent and self-directive in their own learning which can be achieved only through experience. Both teachers and learners have to learn to function in their respective roles in the process, but the teacher is responsible in educating herself regarding the premises and strategies for individualizing instruction.

Since a basic principle of learning is to start where the learner is, the teacher can be viewed as a learner in seeking methods to individualize instruction. Prior experiences with clothing construction activities, home experiences, cooperative planning, and FHA activities can be analyzed as methods for meeting individual needs. A comparison of the analyses with guidelines from the literature on individualizing instruction may help to decide upon a first step. Taking one step at a time is much more feasible for both teacher and students than is a total immersion into a new change in behavior all at once.

Behavioral Objectives:

Educational objectives are specifications of behavior outcomes or post-instructional behavior sought as a result of teaching-learning experiences. Behaviors sought include a range of intellectual or cognitive behaviors, feeling or affective behaviors, and doing or psychomotor behaviors.

By definition, educational objectives must have two components: behavior, and content or context about which or within which the behavior is. When the objectives are made operational for the instruction of an individual learner or of a given group of learners by a given teacher, two other components may be added to give precision to an objective. The two additional components are the conditions in which the learning is to be demonstrated and standards of performance to be achieved.

Making an educational objective operational also calls for stating the behavior component in action terms or in verbal or non-verbal observable behavioral terms. For example, "Know sources of vitamin C" is made operational when it is specified as "List sources of vitamin C" or "State sources of vitamin C." The act of listing or stating is an observable evidence of knowing. Another condition of the educational objective is that it be stated in reference to the learner. It is understood that an objective which states "Determines the best buy among three different size boxes of X brand detergent" means that the learner is to determine the best buy.

The objectives in the following curriculum materials are written in behavioral terms but are not fully operational since conditions and performance standards are not specified. The overall or terminal objectives stated for the major concept areas are supported by selected enabling objectives. Teachers may make the enabling objectives fully operational by structuring the conditions in which the learning will be demonstrated and the criteria or standard for successful performance. For example, the objective column might read "Evaluate house plans." Since evaluation involves use of relevant criteria to a situation, the teacher must establish the situation or condition. A possible condition might be specified as "Given three house plans and a description of the Burton family and using the criteria established in class, . . ." The next step is to state the observable behavior. In this example, "select" seems appropriate. The objective in complete form may read:

Given three house plans and a description of the Burton family, select the best house plan for the Burtons using the criteria established in class. State the basis for choice relative to each criterion.

Success in this example is the performance of the task as specified.

Learning Experiences:

A learning experience is the activity engaged in by the learner to learn. Learning occurs only through learner experience and through reflection upon the experience. The selected learning experiences in these materials are written with this premise in mind. The teacher can look at the learning experiences and determine her role as facilitator of the students' experiencing so that they may learn. For instance, a learning experience reads "Analyze a supply of pictures of housing . . ." The teacher's task is to provide a supply of pictures that represents the range of qualities for which the pictures are to be analyzed.

Interest Approaches

An "interest approach" or motivational device is a teaching technique which serves to establish a classroom climate conducive to learning. The interest approach is a brief learning activity for a daily lesson which serves to introduce the topic of the lesson and establish a positive emotional climate. An interest approach is not the main learning experience and is not intended to teach a concept, but rather to set the stage for learning.

Knowledge of the multiple, diverse nature of adolescents indicates that a teacher cannot expect a student to come into the classroom from immediately prior activities and be mentally and emotionally prepared to participate in particular learning experiences. Students do not come into classrooms from a sterile vacuum but they come from homes, classrooms, libraries, and/or from other environments of intimate relationships. Their experiences run the gamut of positive to negative, compelling to repelling, or exciting to boring. It is the responsibility of the teacher to attempt to establish a common focus and a climate within the classroom to facilitate learning the objectives for the daily lesson.

The technique of the interest approach not only serves to provide a mutual climate of interest and thought for the classroom but the technique should elicit participation by all class members. A shy, reticent student often learns to participate in groups through an interest approach activity even though the student would not participate in a learning experience.

Examples of interest approaches are as follows:

1. Family Life Education: One Minute Role Play With Unfinished Ending.

Two Students. Teacher established setting.
First Student: "Elaine, I thought you and Bill went steady. Why is he sitting in the lunchroom with Jackie?"
Second Student: "He better NOT be! Wait until I see him! I'll . . ."
Class completes sentence.
2. Home Furnishings: Work Simplification.

Ask each student to slide to front of desk, slide to right side, to left side, and back to original position. Thank them for helping to use management principle and dust twenty (substitute class number) chairs quickly.

3. Consumer Education: Case Problem.

Secure a month's canceled checks of individual. Read to whom and amount for which check was written and for what purpose. Students describe persons who wrote check regarding sex, age, education, employment, marital status, etc.

4. Child Development: Toss Ball.

Students stand. Ask a question. Toss ball. Student who catches ball answers questions; student asks another question and tosses to another student to answer. Students are alert since it is not known to whom the ball is to be thrown. Good review since student must answer one question and ask another one.

Other suggestions which may apply to many content areas and may be adapted for use in a variety of methods are as follows: tasting parties, crossword puzzles, magic squares, word sentences, equipment tray, connect-the-dot pictures, poems, short stories, cartoons, ink dot identification, paper item construction, scavenger hunt, slides, dress costume, hat parade, altered Bingo games, altered Scrabble games, developmental collage, questions taped under chairs, price guessing, surprise box, mobile construction, spelling bee, maze, incomplete story, and problem-solving case study.

An interest approach is most likely to establish a classroom climate conducive to learning if . . .

. . . it is of short duration.

. . . it involves every class member.

. . . it is a pleasant and interesting activity.

. . . it introduces the topic of the daily lesson.

. . . the teacher is enthusiastic and energetic about the idea.

Housing and Home Furnishings

Rationale

Housing and interior design are man's means of modifying the environment to meet his physical needs for comfort and safety, his psychological needs for self-actualization, security, and perpetuation of cultural values, and his social needs for status and interaction with people.

Since families have universal needs for housing and varying methods of implementing the needs, the Housing and Home Furnishings curriculum is offered to broaden the understanding of youth in the selection, financing, care, and use of housing, home furnishings, and equipment. The purpose of the material is to develop an awareness in which the home and its furnishings contribute to a satisfying life through fulfillment of individual and family goals. The home and its furnishings represent one of the largest and most continuous financial investments of the family and affect choices and decisions in relation to both immediate and future goals. A balance must be maintained between emphasis of the home's beauty and attractiveness and that of function, efficiency and sound management. The home environment also reflects social, economic, cultural, and technological changes which affect changes in those aspects of society.

The concern of teenagers of the seventies leads them to be interested in their environment. Considering the interest, the emphasis in the curriculum material is placed on the individual in early adolescence, the family in middle adolescence and the community in late adolescence. The assumption is made that the concepts for early adolescence are the building blocks for middle and late adolescence. Depending upon the maturity level and interests of the students involved, the teacher may select the concepts to emphasize.

 - 2. Simple repairs

IV. Introduction to housing and home furnishings careers

CONCEPTS:

Influential Factors of Housing

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate the ability to comprehend methods for meeting human needs through housing.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Write five specific methods by which selected values are fulfilled through housing.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

View filmstrip. Discuss the value of beauty. List the items which you found beautiful on the worksheet provided. After completing your list, discuss your choices with the class. Answer the question, "How would my ideas of beauty be expressed in a house?"

Analyze pictures of housing interiors and exteriors. List qualities of housing represented in the pictures that are important to you.

Participate in buzz groups to develop a definition of values, including factors in living that are important to a small child, to a teenager and to adults. Discuss definitions. Compose functional definition of values.

Describe in writing methods for fulfilling the following values through housing:

1. Health
2. Beauty
3. Privacy
4. Security
5. Religion
6. Economy
7. Convenience
8. Comfort
9. Friendship
10. Autonomy

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

11. Freedom
12. Efficiency
13. Status
14. Order
15. Creativity

Identify basic personality needs that are common to all human beings and those needs that are unique in a family situation.

Write a skit showing the interaction of two family members as the scene may actually exist. Analyze personality differences and ways in which they can be satisfied by different housing features.

Discuss characteristic needs of teenagers and what impact the physical aspects of housing can have on these needs.

Write three specific resources which influence housing choices.

Read from selected references to develop a definition of resources. Discuss definitions. Compile a list of resources.

Compose a chart of resources available to you and describe the use of each in meeting housing needs.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate the ability to comprehend methods for meeting human needs through housing.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Prepare an interview questionnaire and administer it to someone who has recently established a home. Discuss the resources that were used to provide for household needs.

Construct a bulletin board of a "tool box", showing resources as "tools". "Tools" may be knowledge, skills, training, money, time, energy, etc.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Bulletin board materials.

CONCEPTS: Home Living

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the contribution of interpersonal relationships, management practices, and application of design principles to a satisfying home life.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Identify activity zones in houses.

Evaluate the adequacy of a floor plan for a given family.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

View the filmstrip, Basic Decorating. For each of the first nine frames, list the variety of activities that could take place in the room.

View transparencies of floor plans. Use grease pencils to identify each activity zone:

1. Rest
2. Storage
3. Work
4. Recreation
5. Entertaining

Discuss traffic lanes, entrances and provisions for various activities.

After reading a selected reference, evaluate the adequacy of your room and suggest improvements to better meet your needs.

Compile a plan for improving furnishings in your room; or the room you share, to provide for your activities. Report to the class.

Given a picture and floor plan of a room and a case description of the person to whom the room belongs, analyze the adequacy of the room to meet the individual's needs using management practices, relationships, and aesthetic factors as guidelines.

CONCEPTS: Home Living

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the contribution of interpersonal relationships, management practices, and application of design principles to a satisfying home life.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Summarize methods to show consideration in sharing rooms with other family members.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Participate in buzz groups to discuss the needs and desires of different aged persons with whom you share a room. Report to the class on the discussion. Summarize reports of each group.

Role play situations illustrating problems encountered and possible solutions in sharing a room.

Discuss possibilities for personality characteristics to be expressed by using unified decoration or divided room decorations. Present illustrations for discussion.

View and discuss the filmstrip, Basic Decorating. Draw a floor plan of your room. List points you dislike about the present furniture arrangement.

State guidelines for arranging furniture.

Read selected reference. In class discussion, compile a set of guidelines for arranging furnishings.

Given a floor plan of a room and pictures of scaled furnishings, arrange the room to be functional, convenient, and safe. Write your reasoning for each of the three criteria's influence on furniture placement.

Draw a floor plan of your room and arrange the furnishings to be functional, convenient, and safe.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate comprehension of the contribution of interpersonal relationships, management practices, and application of design principles to a satisfying home life.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Identify application of design principles in furnishings.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

After reading selected references, list the principles of design. Collect pictures of interiors from magazines which illustrate each of the design principles.

View the filmstrip, Basic Decorating. After you view the frame on hue/value/chroma, experiment with colors by combining and blending water colors to discover contrasting and coordinating colors. View the remainder of the filmstrip which deals with the application of color coordination to room decorating.

As a class project, construct an inexpensive accessory item for your room applying the principles of design.

Describe in writing several functional items for the home that can be made from inexpensive or free materials. List the materials to be used.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

Describe specific methods of increasing storage adequacy.

Make a list of all the items commonly stored in a girl's room.

Given an illustration of a storage area in a bedroom and a description of items to be stored, plan the storage space. State reasons for the decisions made.

After reading selected references, use the list you compiled earlier to group like items together according to frequency of use. Formulate ideas as to location in the room for storing the items.

Investigate storage aids that are available in your shopping area and present findings to the class with suggestions as to how each can be used to improve storage facilities. Consider costs of storage aids and compare with similar articles that could be made.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Example: Skirt hangers with pressure clips vs. coat hangers with clothespins.

Evaluate the storage areas in your room and determine where improvement is needed. Rearrange the storage areas and prepare a report of the changes made and why.

Participate in a committee to develop a report identifying how an orderly room contributed to the following:

1. Minimum of frustration.
2. Purposeful activity.
3. Ease in decision making.
4. Conservation of time and energy.

CONCEPTS:

Family Housing Needs

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Form generalizations that show the relationship of physical, psychological, and social factors to family housing needs.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Relate physical, psychological and social needs of families to housing facilities adequacy.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

View selected filmstrips. Analyze and discuss the suggested problem situations.

Read selected reference and analyze the case studies of the Jackson family, the Thomas family, Marion and Tom Young, and the Smith family. Classify the situations as physically, psychologically, or socially related.

Analyze the adequacy of housing for your family. If desired, share your ideas with a classmate or with the class as evidence of your understanding of the physical, psychological and social factors involved.

CONCEPTS: Types of Housing

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the characteristics of various types of housing and the relationship to housing needs.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

List various types of housing.

Describe families whose needs likely would be satisfied by various types of housing.

Use newspapers and surveys to compile a list of different types of housing available in your community.

Construct a bulletin board of pictures of the various listed types of housing.

Read McDermott reference. Discuss reasons for different families to choose different types of housing.

Given a case study and questionnaire, discuss the idea that the home means different things to different people.

Participate in a survey of the class to determine the kinds of housing experiences in which class members and their families are involved.

Investigate in group discussion and list some of the advantages and disadvantages of the following types of housing:

1. Single room
2. Efficiency apartment
3. Cooperative
4. Condominium
5. Mobile home
6. Single dwelling
7. Duplex or townhouse.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the characteristics of various types of housing and the relationship to housing needs.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the manner by which selected types of houses fulfill social, psychological and physical needs.

Describe advantages and disadvantages of mobile homes for young married couples.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Develop and listen to committee reports which list social, psychological, and physical needs that might affect satisfaction in living in a/an:

1. Single room
2. Efficiency apartment
3. Cooperative
4. Condominium
5. Mobile home
6. Single dwelling
7. Duplex or townhouse

View a slide and cassette presentation on mobile home living and respond to a developed facts checklist.

Visit a mobile homes sales lot. Discuss the choices available in different sizes, models, floor plans, interior designs and price ranges. Also, discuss the care and maintenance of the materials. Write a report of your observations.

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS:

Physical Aspects of Housing

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the physical aspects of housing valuable in selecting a dwelling.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe criteria for selecting housing sites.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Read in Craig and McDermott. Develop criteria to consider when choosing a home site.

Investigate the local zoning laws and the effect on the home occupant. What are the rules in general? How have they affected evenness and unevenness of growth? How have they affected property values? Have they come too late to prevent the downgrading of some neighborhoods? Report to class.

List factors to consider in evaluating house construction.

Read in McDermott. List factors to consider in evaluating house construction.

Identify sources of help in planning a house.

Discuss with a visiting contractor or architect the procedure involved in planning or evaluating a home and his responsibilities in advising the home planner. Summarize main points to consider in planning a home by listing on overhead projector.

Analyze the advantages and disadvantages of planning and building a house without the services of an architect and/or contractor.

CONCEPTS: Physical Aspects of Housing

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the physical aspects of housing valuable in selecting a dwelling.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

State advantages and disadvantages of various materials used in housing construction.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Investigate through catalogues and/or builder's supply companies the variety of materials available for different areas of the home. Discuss these in class to gain an awareness of the many areas in which decisions are to be made in selection of materials utilized in homes.

Read text selections. Evaluate the heating, cooling, water, and lighting systems in your home in terms of cost of installation, ease of operation, and efficiency in supplying your family's needs.

Describe trends in housing construction.

Collect pictures of new trends in construction and building materials. Share and discuss these with the class.

CONCEPTS: Physical Aspects of Housing

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the physical aspects of housing valuable in selecting a dwelling.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Evaluate floor plans as to convenience, use of space, and the relationship of one room to another.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

As you read in McDermott, compile a checklist of points to consider in evaluating floor plans. Compare your list with those of other class members and formulate a working list to use in judging future floor plans.

View transparencies of floor plans. Use grease pencils to identify each zone:

1. Rest
2. Storage
3. Work
4. Recreation
5. Entertaining

Discuss how well these areas are grouped and how they relate to each other.

Evaluate the floor plans in reference to:

1. Reception of visitors and entertaining
2. Family recreation and hobbies
3. Study and meditation
4. Rest and sleep
5. Food preparation and service, washing dishes, laundering, and storage of household cleaning supplies
6. Guests

TEACHING RESOURCES

7. Family meals
8. Bathing and dressing
9. Storage for possessions of family members
10. Changes in size of family and stage in family life cycle

With colored pencils or crayons, draw traffic lanes on floor plans from newspapers and magazines. Evaluate whether the traffic pattern provides for both circulation and privacy by:

1. Going between zones and not through them.
2. Having doors close together and near corners to save steps and allow for furniture arrangement.
3. Providing entrances that distribute traffic to all areas.
4. Locating bathroom doors to provide privacy.

Floor plans from newspapers and magazines.

CONCEPTS: Costs of Housing

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate the ability to make informed decisions in spending housing dollars.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Write a comparison of the costs of home ownership and home rental.

State advantages and disadvantages of home ownership and home rental for persons in various stages of life.

Describe factors that affect cost of appliances.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Read in McDermott reference. Discuss the costs involved in renting and in home ownership. What similar expenses exist? What different expenses occur?

Study pictures of various kinds of homes in the exhibit. Contrast the advantages and disadvantages of renting versus buying these homes, if you were:

1. A single career person.
2. Two single career persons wanting to share expenses.
3. A young, recently married couple.
4. A young married couple with a new baby.
5. A young married couple with a three-year-old child.

Read in McDermott and in Sears booklet. Discuss the importance of considering construction, durability, and special features in relation to cost.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

View selected filmstrip and visit a furniture and appliance store to find answers to the following questions:

1. Which choices of furniture and appliances give most for your money?
2. What features insure comfort in furniture choices?
3. What kind of care is required?
4. What information is provided on labels?
5. What guarantees and/or warranties are available?
6. Are service contracts available? What do they cost? What are their advantages and disadvantages?

Categorize costs in home operation and maintenance.

Check with your family and make a list of the utilities and additional costs that are paid yearly for operation and maintenance of your home. Compare these with the class and discuss the importance of each.

Construct a bulletin board of "hidden costs" in housing. The following categories of costs may be used:

1. Water
2. Sewage disposal
3. Electricity
4. Taxes
5. Insurance
6. Yard maintenance
7. Renovation

Other costs may be added to this list.

CONCEPTS: Aesthetic and Functional Factors in Housing Design

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show understanding of design principles in creating functional and aesthetically satisfying homes.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Analyze rooms and identify design principles.

While reading McDermott, write the purpose each element and principle of design serves in planning the interior of the home.

Make a collection of pictures in which each emphasizes a design principle. Discuss these with the group. Make selections from pictures and prepare a bulletin board.

Study basic color concepts and combinations.

Develop an original color scheme by using fabric swatches, carpet samples, wallpaper samples, and paint color chips. Display the materials in proper proportion to the area in which they will be used.

Plan the furnishings for a one-room apartment. Decide upon a color scheme, using pictures of furniture and actual samples of carpet, fabric, etc. Use a floor plan to show the arrangement of the furnishings.

Describe criteria for selecting furniture.

While reading McDermott, list criteria for selecting furniture, in terms of usefulness, appearance, and quality.

Discuss home lighting with utility company representative.

CONCEPTS: Aesthetic and Functional Factors in Housing Design

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show understanding of design principles in creating functional and aesthetically satisfying homes.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Describe landscaping value.

Form a checklist which could be used in your present or future home to judge whether or not the lighting is adequate.

Analyze the lighting in your bedroom or the room in which you study in terms of good lighting standards. Consider improvements to be made.

From magazines, collect pictures of rooms. After reading in McDermott, evaluate the furniture arrangement for activity groupings, traffic lanes, and centers of interest.

View selected filmstrip to compare poorly planned and well planned landscapes.

Discuss how landscaping can contribute to:

1. Increased value of property
2. Additional privacy
3. Increased living space for family activities

Care and Maintenance of Home and Furnishings

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Evidence ability to apply management principles in the care and maintenance of the home environment.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Present guidelines for routine care of furniture woods, upholstered furniture, and carpet.

Describe an acceptable process for cleaning upholstery and carpeting.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

View filmstrips and read in McDermott on care of furniture, carpeting, and upholstery. List guides for care of these furnishings. View student demonstrations on caring for selected surfaces. Summarize observations in writing.

Practice methods suggested in filmstrips in cleaning the carpet in the home economics department and the upholstery in the family living area.

Develop a schedule of duties for maintaining cleanliness, order, and beauty in the home economics department, or in your own home, assuming you were responsible for making the decisions.

CONCEPTS: Integration of Housing Selection Factors

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of factors affecting family housing.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the factors that affect choices in acquiring a new home.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Read Lewis and Craig. Evaluate your values, goals and standards in relation to housing and home furnishings.

Discuss values in housing. Make a list. Decide on the three values you would rate first to the enjoyment of your home. Decide which value you would rate last.

Discuss the factors that influence values, goals, and standards.

Discuss your answer to the question: "In what kind of home would I be happiest?"

Read in Lewis concerning the changing needs of family members to housing requirements.

Discuss with the class the stages of the family life cycle represented in their families.

Write your interpretation of the statement: "The home is the source of a nation's strength." Share your interpretation with the class.

Compute the amount of income that could be allocated to housing.

After reviewing resources, discuss how money is acquired for housing. List on overhead projector and discuss. What kinds of income can be included as total family income?

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS: Integration of Housing Selection Factors

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of factors affecting family housing.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Discuss how much of the total family income safely can be spent for housing.

After reading in Lewis, draw a circle graph of the expenses that are included in housing cost. Discuss the importance of each of these expenses to the family's needs.

Review the suggested pamphlet on the amount of the family budget that can be allotted for housing needs.

Given a description of a family and examples of incomes, compute the amount of income that can be allocated to housing.

Construct a bulletin board around the idea: "Keep track of your housing money." In footprint cutouts, list items that are included in housing expenses.

Discuss the downward trend of family housing being built in the United States.

Discuss the local housing market with a realtor, contractor or city planner.

CONCEPTS: Integration of Housing Selection Factors

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of factors affecting family housing.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

Identify factors in considering home site selection.

Write how your family's interests and occupations have affected your housing choice. Compare these with those of other class members.

Talk with you parents and adult friends about the services offered in your community. Use the checklist for "Community Offerings" in Lewis as a guide for your investigation. Evaluate each item in your own community.

Write a paragraph on how community services will influence your decision in selecting a housing location. Point out the services that you would consider most important in your decision.

Ask family friends, who own a home to tell you the location considerations they used in selecting their house. Determine the number of houses they considered before they decided on their purchase. Why did they reject the others?

Collect real estate ads from the classified section of newspapers. With a red pencil, underline the features of the home site that were used as a selling point. Compile a list of these features and evaluate which seem to be most frequently emphasized.

Mount pictures of two different styles of home architecture, and describe the kind of site, and size and shape of the lot you would choose for each house.

CONCEPTS:

House Plan Evaluation

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate ability to evaluate in a house plan features which promote comfort, convenience, and efficiency.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Identify symbols for major details of a house blueprint.

Analyze blueprints to learn symbols used and details included, such as heating, electrical, and plumbing specifications.

Prepare a layout (floor plan) of the home economics department, including symbols of details that are visible from the interior of the room.

List general guidelines for arrangement of home furnishings.

Rearrange some of the furniture in the home economics room so that it is incorrectly and inconveniently arranged. Use the rearrangement for discussing the need of certain guides in furniture arrangement.

Read information on furniture arrangement and view selected filmstrip. As a class, set up guidelines for arranging furniture.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Show ability to apply criteria of function, attractiveness, design, quality, durability, and economic feasibility in choosing home furnishings.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

From a display of do-it-yourself accessories, choose and make one for your home. Use resources provided to help you make your choice. Suggestions:

1. Decorator pillows
2. Pictures
3. Lamps and shades
4. Desk accessories
5. Wall hangings
6. Decoupage articles
7. Bookends

Evaluate the use and function of selected home appliances.

After reading in Lewis and Morton, examine at least five models of either gas or electric ranges. Determine the selling price of each model and enumerate the features which are added as the model becomes more expensive. Explain which model you would buy for your first home and why. What factors influenced your choice of model?

Using magazine advertisements, TV commercials, or visits to appliance stores, make a list of special features found on current top-of-the-line models of refrigerator-freezers. Evaluate these features and their costs in terms of their usefulness, and the family situation for which they would be most appropriate.
