ABSTRACT

The program planning guide was developed as a special project to help teachers in presenting a 1-year consumer and homemaking education curriculum at the seventh or eighth grade level. The units are presented under four headings: Personal Relationships, Personal Environment, Personal Development, and Personal Health. The units can be taught in any sequence. The guide is intended to provide content which is relevant to male and female transescent learners (those students undergoing rapid growth from childhood to adolescence). The concepts and overall objectives are stated. Under each concept, three columns list behavioral objectives, learning and evaluation experiences, and teaching resources. (AG)

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The South Carolina Middle School Guide for Consumer and Homemaking Education is a suggested guide for program planning. The guide was developed as a special project in cooperation with the Office of Vocational Education of the State Department of Education during 1972.

It is hoped that the guide will be of value to both beginning and experienced teachers in helping them to plan a program of instruction that will be of benefit to students interested in exploring Consumer and Homemaking Education -- grades seven and eight. In communities where there are junior and senior programs, teachers are encouraged to work together to coordinate their Curricula to avoid repetition and meet the needs of their students.

Special recognition and appreciation is given to curriculum consultants Dr. Susan F. Weis, Mrs. Ava A. Gray and Mrs. Sharon K. Sumner who assisted in the development of the guide. Dr. Weis, Assistant Professor in Home Economics Education at the Pennsylvania State University, served as consultant for the guide. Mrs. Ava A. Gray, Professor in Home Economics Education at the University of Arkansas and Mrs. Sharon Sumner, Instructor in Foods and Nutrition in the School of Home Economics at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, served as consultants in the foods content of the guide.

Our sincere appreciation is expressed to each of the following specialists who assisted with the development of specific area content for the guide:

Dr. Kathryn S. Powell, Professor
Family Life and Child Development
Winthrop College

Dr. Richard Klemer, Chairman and Professor
Child Development and Family Relations
School of Home Economics
University of North Carolina

Miss Mary Marks, Graduate Assistant
School of Textiles
North Carolina State University

Dr. Jane Crow, Professor and Chairman
Housing and Management Area
School of Home Economics
University of North Carolina

Mr. Frank Stellings, IV, Health Educator
Bureau of Maternal and Child Care
South Carolina State Board of Health

Special appreciation is expressed to Dr. Helen A. Loftis, Professor in Home Economics Education at Winthrop College, for her review of the guide. Sincere thanks are extended to the State Department of Education and especially to the Department of Vocational Education for their continued support, interest and encouragement in the development of the guide.

WORKSHOP PARTICIPANTS

The initial writing of the guide was begun during a two week workshop in June, 1972, by the following consumer and homemaking teacher participants who are to be commended for their cooperation, their contribution and their willingness to participate in the publication:

USING THE GUIDE

The guide was developed for one year of consumer and homemaking education at either the seventh or eighth grade level. The two semesters each include eighteen weeks of mini-units. Although the units are presented in a sequence under the four main headings of Personal Relationships, Personal Environment, Personal Development, and Personal Health, the units are interchangeable and can be reordered to suit the needs of individual middle school programs.

In developing the guide, an effort was made to establish behavioral objectives, learning experiences and evaluation, which would serve as a foundation for the secondary programs of consumer and homemaking education while attending to the needs and interests of transescent learners. The content presented in the guide is not perceived to duplicate the content for the basic, semester, or advanced secondary programs in South Carolina.

While consumer and homemaking education has traditionally focused upon the female student, the middle school guide is intended to provide content which is relevant to both male and female transescent learners.

The teacher using the guide is encouraged to seek cooperative approaches with other middle school faculty and guidance counselors in the teaching of the program. The teacher is advised to investigate the curricula of other programs within her school to insure that content is not repeated from one program to another. Content that may be duplicated provides a logical basis for a team teaching effort.

The guide contains suggested concepts, overall objectives, behavioral objectives, learning and evaluation experiences and teaching resources. The concepts provide the framework upon which the remainder of the guide was developed. The overall objectives are intended as reasonable terminal behavioral outcomes of the learning experiences. The behavioral objectives are process behavioral outcomes which lead to the attainment of the overall objectives.

In most instances, the suggested learning experiences for each objective provide a variety of experiences for developing the specified behaviors, and the teacher can choose the experiences which are most appropriate to her teaching style and the class.

Teacher references and resources are provided for the suggested learning experiences and are summarized in a reference list at the end of each unit.

BELIEFS ABOUT TEACHING IN THE MIDDLE SCHOOL

"The middle school evolved primarily to serve the educational needs of youngsters undergoing rapid growth from childhood to adolescence. Eichhorn in his book The Middle School, refers to these youngsters as 'transescents'. He identifies their developmental state as 'transescence' which 'begins prior to the onset of puberty and extends through the early stages of adolescence'.

Home economics education can become the vehicle which enables the transescent to organize his existing perceptions relevant to individual and family life, and to gain new insights into human behavior. From an understanding of transescent growth and development, the learner is facilitated in his growth toward self-understanding and self-acceptance. From an exploration of the subject matter areas of home economics, the transescent learner is given opportunities to discover his interests and growing capacities. Learning in specific areas of home economics can enhance the transescent's ability both to function effectively within his environment as a consumer, family member, peer group member, producer of goods and services, and manager of resources, and also to cope with emerging pressures from peers and adults. The educative process and its content can be integrated to encourage the learner to achieve aspects of physical and emotional health."

(Weis, S. F. "Report: Home Economics in the Middle School", Journal of Home Economics, Vol. 63, No. 8, November 1971, pp. 583, 586.)

BELIEFS ABOUT MIDDLE SCHOOL YOUTH

	Unstable
approaching puberty.....	attaining puberty
approaching period of rapid physical growth.....	undergoing rapid physical growth
child-like behaviors.....	adult-like behaviors
fears and concerns about physical self.....	approaching security about physical self trial-and-error approach to problem-solving.....	acquiring information to logically apply to problem-solving rigid, simplistic value system.....	expanding and clarifying a constellation of values family-oriented.....	peer group oriented
same sex relationships.....	exploring relationships with opposite sex
limited awareness of social groups and institutions.....	evolving attitudes toward social groups and institutions
limited awareness of realistic long-range goals, careers, life styles	exploring life styles, careers, adult roles	Stable

The middle school age child commonly demonstrates characteristics which fall within each of the continua presented to the right.

Cutting across each continuum is a second continuum which represents the lack of stability of each characteristic among middle school age learners. The transient period is one of change, exploration and inconsistencies.

Education for this age is not intended to go against the characteristic nature of transience, but rather, to provide information and the development of competencies which will help each learner to organize and clarify his expanding world while equipping the learner with the confidence and courage to anticipate adulthood.

PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS

Friends

Two Week Mini Unit

14/15

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Examine meaning of the concept "friends."

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the term friend.

Describe the qualities and behaviors that tend to promote friendships.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Complete a checklist related to qualities of friends and friendships with the class. Complete an identical checklist and discuss any changes in ideas from the first checklist.

Present a skit to give examples of the following statements:

1. "To have a friend, one must be one."
2. "A friend in need is a friend indeed."
3. "The give and take of friendship."

Describe your impression the first time you met one of your friends. Check to decide if your first impressions have changed. Discuss personal qualities which build good friendships.

With two classmates, plan and present a panel discussion on First Impressions. Discuss how first impressions may help a friendship grow, and how some times, they hinder a friendship. With the entire class, discuss and list the qualities in a person which build good friendships.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Bulletin: South Carolina State Department of Education, Measuring, Weighing, Valuing, p. 97.

-Barclay and Champion, Teen Guide to Homemaking, Chapter 9.

CONCEPTS: Exploring the Need of Friends

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Examine meaning of the concept "friend."

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

State either orally or written in an informal essay why each individual needs friends.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Participate in brainstorming session on why we need friends. Share your ideas with classmates by participating in a pop-up discussion. After each classmate has named one idea, try to summarize in one sentence why we need friends.

Read suggested reference and complete the sentence "a friend is _____." Summarize ideas on chalkboard.

Role play situations in which two friends "share and care." Some ideas for situations are:

1. Cheering up a friend.
2. Discovering something exciting with a friend.
3. Helping a friend with a difficult situation.
4. Sharing a friend's success.

Discuss with classmates how it feels to share and care.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Clayton, Youngs Living. 2nd. ed., pp. 30-50.

Teacher Selected Reference.

CONCEPTS:

Exploring the Need of Friends
Becoming a Friend

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Examines meaning of the concept "friends."
Identify ways of initiating friendships.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Identify the selected types of friendships.

Analyze steps involved in the development of friendship.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Participate in a buzz group on friends and friendships. Each group list needs satisfied by the following types of friendships:

1. Boy friend or girl friend.
2. Group friends.
3. Casual friends.
4. Best friends.

Recall how you met your present friends. List these ways; share your experiences with classmates. As a group, write an article for the school newspaper on "Suggestions for new students on how to meet and make new friends."

View the film, "Developing Friendships," to discover the steps involved in building friendships. List suggested steps.

List the words and action shown in the film which made the intended friend feel happy. Discuss the feelings.

Seek and make a new friend during the next two weeks. If you wish, write or record on audio tape a report of your new friendship.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Film: Coronet Film Company.

CONCEPTS: Evaluating Assets and Liabilities

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Recognize desirable and undesirable personal qualities.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Identify personal friendship assets and liabilities.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Using a previously prepared list of qualities or traits desired in a friend, construct a check list. Without writing your name, describe yourself using the check list to mark your own traits. Decide if there are qualities or traits you need to develop.

Read Reiff, pages 30-31, to add ideas of desirable traits in friends to the check list.

Choose one trait and make a plan for developing this trait.

On a check list of personality traits in McDermott and Nicholas, pages 26-27, check the items which would be qualities desirable in a good friend.

Read Clayton, pages 17-19, to discover ideas to help you understand some ways to get acquainted with others.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Reiff, Steps in Home Living, pp. 30-31.

McDermott and Nicholas, Home-Making for Teen-Agers, pp. 26-27.

Clayton, Young Living, pp. 17-26.

CONCEPTS:

Maintaining Friendships

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify causes and effects of interpersonal incidents.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Identify ways one may express friendship.

Identify possible causes for difficulty in developing and maintaining friendships.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

With a partner, write a short story in which the characters act to show their feelings of friendship toward each other. Select a jury to preview the stories and select several to read to the class. While stories are read, individually list ways that friends express their feelings toward each other. As a total class group, compile the individual lists into a class list.

After reading an unfinished story which describes difficulties in making or keeping friends, dramatize an ending to the story that seems likely to happen. Listen to responses of an observation team who analyzed the situations by answering these questions:

1. Why did the difficulty or trouble occur?
2. What did each person do or say that added to the difficulty?
3. How could the difficulty have been avoided?

After discussion, replay the situation with improved actions. Summarize by stating guidelines for making and keeping friends.

View filmstrip, "How Shall We Live" and "Getting Along With Others," to discover ideas already identified and new ideas for growing through friendships.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Filmstrips: Jim Handy Series.
McGraw-Hill
Company.

CONCEPTS:

Maintaining Friendships
Cooperating in a Partnership and Cooperating in a Group

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Identify causes and effects of interpersonal incidents.
Demonstrate comprehension of personal and interpersonal responsibilities in relationship with others.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVESLEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Read Clayton, pages 17-19, to discover ideas to help you understand some ways to get acquainted with others.

Read Reiff, pages 27-30, to learn why building friendships may be difficult for a new comer to a group.
Read references to define the word cooperation.

Write a paragraph on why cooperation is necessary in a:

1. Partnership.
2. Group Effort.

Draw or collect cartoons showing two partners, one of whom is not cooperating. For example, in a three legged race, what happens when one person sits down and refuses to run? Or suppose each person has a piece of jigsaw puzzle but refuses to place it in the puzzle?

Display the cartoons or view item using the opaque projector. Discuss the possible reasons for lack of cooperation. Decide what the consequences may be.

Read selected reference and list benefits of belonging to a group.

Discuss value of belonging to various clubs and organizations. How does participating in clubs help the individual? the club?

Present skits in groups demonstrating cooperation:

1. As a partner.
2. In a group.

View film, "Belonging to the Group" to discover how a person benefits from group membership.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Clayton, Young Living, pp. 17-19.

Reiff, Steps in Home Living, pp. 27-30.

Jones and Burnham, Junior Homemaking, p. 90.

Film: Encyclopedia Britannica.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of factors which contribute to positive intergenerational friendships.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

List advantages of having friends of different ages.

Cite factors involved in getting along with different age groups.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Discuss the advantages of being friends with:

1. A person three years older.
2. A person ten years older.
3. An adult.
4. An elderly person.
5. A person two years younger.
6. A child.

Students who have friends from these groups relate what their friendships have meant to them.

Participate in buzz groups to discuss how to get along with people of different ages, interests, ethnic groups and back grounds.

Read McDermott and Nicholas, pages 40-41, to get some ideas about relating to elderly people. As an individual or as a class or FHA project, do the activities suggested on page 41.

Read the Acronym on page 31, Reiff. Summarize your reaction in one written sentence.

Add as many other words as you can to describe friends, their feelings and activities.

Report on new friendships made during this unit.

PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS

Family Life

Two Week Mini Unit

27/28

GENERAL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the functions of the family and its members.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

State a definition for the word family.

Describe role expectations of selected family members.

Analyze parental behavior toward responsibilities for the family.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Develop a definition of family by telling who lives in my house. Compare your definition with Cross, page 2. Write a list on the chalkboard of each person's relationship to you, including persons who may be listed as friends.

Write a description of your present family. Include a brief explanation of aunts, uncles, grandparents, etc., who live near you and those who live far away.

Read Cross, pages 9-10 to find out what the terms role and role expectation mean.

Summarize the many roles you play in your family in addition to son or daughter.

List the family roles played by all class members.

Discuss role expectation of each family role represented in the class. List on board the role expectations under each role represented.

Write or tell a story about a family, portraying each family member in one or more roles.

Examine list of family responsibilities in Reiff, page 80. Compile a list of the responsibilities shared by the class members in each of their families.

After reading Cross, Chapters 1 and 2, complete projects 4 on page 57.

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS: Exploring Roles and Responsibilities

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of the functions of the family and its members.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Review Cross, chapters 1 and 2 to identify and list the responsibilities of parents.

Plan and present a panel discussion on the subject, "How Parents are Responsible."

In buzz groups discuss ways that parents and teenagers can understand each other better. Summarize the best ideas as suggested guides for action.

View the film, "Getting Along with Parents" to discover effective ways for teenagers and parents to understand each other.

After reading short stories about parents and teenagers, analyze why the parents acted as they did.

In groups, list and discuss contributions you can and do make to your family. Decide how these contribute to happy family living.

Complete the rating sheet: "Are you doing your part at home?"

Read Jones and Burnham, pages 61-67 to learn how sharing responsibilities helps one become more mature.

Describe the kinds of contributions individuals make to promote the well-being of families.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Film: Encyclopedia Britannica.

Bulletin: South Carolina State Department of Education, Measuring, Weighing, Valuing, pp. 13-16.

Jones and Burnham, Junior Home-making, pp. 61-67.

CONCEPTS: Facing Crises

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to cope with crises through family adjustments.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the effects of a family crisis on a family.

List types of family crisis and name sources of help found in the local community.

Write a story describing possible solutions to selected family crises.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Write the dictionary definition of crisis on the chalkboard. Participate in buzz groups to suggest meaning of the term as applying to families.

List types of family crisis that might occur in homes in your community today. Discuss how family members might be affected in a family crisis. What feelings might be involved trying to solve a crisis?

Collect and display news stories of crises that would affect families and discuss how different families meet these crises.

Identify the organizations and agencies in the community that help families.

Write a story about a family crisis, telling how the members adjusted or solved the problems involved.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Dictionary.

Newspapers and Magazine Articles

Harrison, Public Welfare,
No. 343.

CONCEPTS: Relating to Family Members

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Evaluate the effects of interpersonal relationships on the quality of family living.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe solutions to given problems involving parental behavior.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

View film, "You and your Parents" to analyze the necessity of growing up and achieving independence from parents.

Read Lewis, pages 52-60 to list guides for understanding how to be a teenager living in a family successfully.

Select several situations from the list on page 52 in Lewis. Role play solutions that might be possible.

List suggestions for increasing communication within the family.

Read the case studies on pages 54-55 in Lewis. Discuss, using the questions on page 55, Lewis, as a guide.

List ways you could improve relations within your own family. Compile all suggestions into a class list. What appears to be the most desired kinds of improvements in getting along with families?

View film, "Who Should Decide" to find ideas for improving communication in decision making.

Collect descriptions of sibling relationship problems in a box labeled HELP! No names or identification should be used. Role play the part of the Peanuts cartoon character Lucy as the counselor. As each class member selects a problem from the HELP box, Lucy describes a possible solution. Take turns with class mates playing Lucy.

Identify possible causes and solutions for sibling relationship problems.

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS: Relating to Family Members

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Evaluate the effects of interpersonal relationships on the quality of family living.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Select several sibling relationship problems and in buzz groups, list possible causes for the problem occurring.

Select some method such as a collage, a poster, a bulletin board, a set of slides, etc., to portray the kind of interrelationships among family members that make families a good place to be a teenager.

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS: Managing Resources

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to apply principles of management to the use of personal resources.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

- Describe the essential concepts of management:
1. Wants and wishes.
 2. Values.
 3. Conditions and events.
 4. Resources.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Recall your activities this morning from the time you awoke until you arrived at school. List the activities in the first column of a chart which has four columns. Mark with X those activities that you wanted to do. Keep the chart for later use.

Discuss how the wants and wishes of an individual may become goals to be attained.

Read Lewis, pages 372-373 to discover the meaning of management and goals.

Write a definition for management and goals.

Dramatize a family situation in which a teenager is expressing wants and wishes. Discuss and decide if any of the wants and wishes will become goals for the teenager. What goals can you identify? How long would it take for the teenager to accomplish each goal?

Write a list of your goals by thinking of what you hope to accomplish today; this year; by the time you finish high school. Which of your goals affect only you? Which affect your family?

Write a list of your family's goals. Decide which family goals you could help accomplish. Describe how you could help.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Lewis, et al., Teen Horizons at Home and School, pp. 372-373.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to apply principles of management to the use of personal resources.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Define the term value.

Define the term resources.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Read Cross, page 64 for a definition of the term value. Check Lewis, page 42, to see if authors agree. Write your own definition and list some values held by your family.

Using the chart of activities started earlier, in the second column, write the personal values that affected each of your activities.

Read Cross, pages 41-42, to discover whether you and your family have any resources. List the tangible and intangible resources available to your family and explain how these two types differ.

Using the chart of activities, in the third column, list the resources you used for each activity. In the fourth column, list the resources you did not have or use but which would have made the activity more satisfying.

Discuss the completed chart by answering questions such as: How do wants and wishes affect activities? How do activities reveal values? How does the availability of resources affect the activities and the feelings of satisfaction?

Participate in brainstorming session to describe what would happen in the world if there were no clocks or calendars.

CONCEPTS: Managing ResourcesOVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to apply principles of management to the use of personal resources.BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Develop a time plan for a day showing the wise usage of time as a resource.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

In buzz groups list ways a family benefits from time as a resource contributed by family members.

List contributions of time as a resource that teenagers can make.

Develop a time plan for one school day and one weekend day. Check the plan in action and write actual time used where the actual time use differs from the plan.

With class members, discuss and decide on the value of using a written or mental time plan.

Develop an earning and spending plan showing wise use of money.

Plan and conduct a survey to find out how boys and girls of your age secure money for their personal use. Compile the results and share the findings with the student body by preparing a newspaper article, a bulletin board or an exhibit. Include a description of ways students earn money.

Read short stories about teenagers and money to determine whether or not money solves most problems.

Role play situations where conditions and events made a difference in whether a teenager earned money. In analyzing the situation after the role-playing, decide if there were any alternatives available. What values were expressed in the role playing or in the analysis?

Write a short paragraph about how wants and wishes, values, conditions and events, and resources affect the decisions of teenagers.

CONCEPTS: Understanding Self Concepts

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of factors that influence the development of the self concept.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Define the term "self concept."

Describe factors that influence the development of the self concept.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Study selected references to define the term "self concept." Discuss the findings as a class and cite factors of a positive and negative self concept.

Give your teacher a baby picture for bulletin board with the caption, Who am I? Leave space by each baby picture for a recent snapshot. After trying to identify class mates from their baby pictures, place the recent snapshot on the board.

Participate in buzz groups to discuss the question, "What has made me what I am today?" List the ideas. Compile the lists by classifying them into categories of:

1. Inherited factors.
2. Influences from parents.
3. Influences from other family members.
4. Influences from school.
5. Influences from church (or religious beliefs.)
6. Influences from community (or neighborhood.)
7. Influences from reading.

Look in a mirror and answer the question, "Who am I?" Share the answer with the class.

Discuss the quotation "We learn about our self from the mirror of other people." What does the quotation mean? What do we see about ourself reflected from others?

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS: Understanding Self Concept

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of factors that influence the development of the self concept.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Compile a list of the characteristics of teenagers. Make a checklist of the characteristics, with two columns headed, "My Characteristics" and "The Characteristics I'd Like to Have." Analyze yourself by marking each characteristic in the appropriate column.

Write a short paragraph on "How I would Like to Improve Myself." Share with the class.

View selected film to discover how a girl named Eve changed herself and began to accept the qualities of others.

Describe how interacting with others affects self-development.

Read Lewis, pages 37-45, to identify the importance of personality growth.

Using the road map on page 40 in Lewis, answer the questions about yourself.

Discuss the probable reactions and behaviors of others if you honestly answered each question on the road map with the most desirable answers. What would be the consequences for you and for your friends?

View the selected film to identify a teenagers thoughts, wishes, dreams, problems.

Apply problem solving procedures to the solution of a self-selected problem.

Select a problem from the selected film or a self-chosen problem. Use the pointers on page 41 in Lewis to plan a solution.

Understanding Self Concept
Conforming and Nonconforming

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate comprehension of factors that influence the development of the self concept.
Show comprehension of advantages and disadvantages in conforming to social pressures.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Select a problem that is of concern to you. Write the problem and a description of how you tried to solve it. Was the problem solved satisfactorily?

Collect from media, articles on problems of young teenagers. Make a bulletin board with these. Using problem-solving techniques, try to analyze and understand why some of these problems exist and suggest ideas for change. Discuss learnings gathered on self concept and personalities previously discussed.

Write a brief autobiographical essay on "What I Think About ME."

Clarify behavior as examples of conformity and nonconformity.

Write the definitions from the dictionary for conformity and nonconformity on the chalk board. Discuss the definitions and rewrite each definition in your own words.

View film, "Being Different" and list the advantages and disadvantages of nonconformity.

View selected filmstrip and listen to record to learn why one should value nonconformity.

Participate buzz groups to discuss how a person's self concept help in deciding when to conform and when to be different.

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS: Conforming and Nonconforming

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of advantages and disadvantages in conforming to social pressures.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Dramatize a situation in which a teenager decides to be different because conforming would not be consistent with his self concept.

Analyze pictures of teenage fashions. Decide whether the way teenagers dress is an example of conforming or nonconforming behavior.

Read Cross, pages 16-17, 59-60, to learn why peer approval is important to teenagers. Give examples by completing each of the following:

1. Parents influence teenagers to _____.
 2. Church leaders influence teenagers to _____.
 3. Teachers influence teenagers to _____.
 4. Television influences teenagers to _____.
 5. Personal ambition influences teenagers to _____.
- For each example given, decide whether peer influence may be stronger than the influence from other sources.

Identify sources of social pressures.

Discuss with different persons in the community their feelings about certain good and bad social behaviors of young people and report their findings to the class.

Analyze yourself and indicate ways that you conform to peers and others. Indicate ways of nonconformity.

Make a list of reasons for belonging to peer groups. Share with the class.

CEPTS: Looking at Dating

ALL OBJECTIVES: Identify aspects of extending friendships with the opposite sex.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Evaluate progress toward accomplishing developmental tasks.

Describe why teenagers date.

Identify qualities and resources that promote personal growth through dating.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Read the developmental tasks of the pre-teen, teenager and the adult, Lewis, Page 23. Decide which tasks you have already accomplished. Which ones are you working on at present? Which tasks relate to getting along with your peers? With peers of the opposite sex?

Discuss ideas about dating and group pressures while viewing transparencies: "Dating and Group Pressures."

Read Lewis, pages 86-88, to learn what is involved in developing dating skills.

Use a collection box for questions about opposite sex friendships and beginning dating. Participate in a round table discussion to share ideas about questions.

Complete a checklist, "Am I ready to Date?"

Plan and conduct a survey on dating activities. Contact boys and girls, asking them to complete a questionnaire which includes questions on:

1. Enjoyable activities.
2. Desirable qualities in a date.
3. Costs of dating for boy; for girl.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify aspects of extending friendships with the opposite sex.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Talk with grandparents and/or parents to get information on dating in their day. Such as:

1. What did they do for fun?
2. What did parents expect of them?
3. When could they date?
4. What kinds of dates?
5. How did they dress?

Report findings to class. Develop statements on how roles have changed.

Prepare a bulletin board showing a dating ladder of stages leading from early dating to marriage.

Use a question box to solicit problems about dating. No names, please. In buzz groups working with a group of similar or selected problems, discuss possible solutions. After small group discussions, share ideas with class.

Identify alternatives to marriage that promote self development.

Invite young adults, male and female who have chosen not to marry yet. Ask them to discuss living solo as an alternative to marriage. Analyze the advantages and disadvantages of a single life in contrast to married life.

TEACHING RESOURCES

McDermott & Nicholas, Home-making for Teenagers, 1: pp. 42-44.

CONCEPTS: Choosing a Conduct Code

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Predict implications of behavior as basis for developing a personal conduct code.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe why selected behavior may or may not be acceptable.

Predict possible consequences of engaging in behaviors viewed as not acceptable in the community.

Describe expectations of teenagers in family, society, and personal expectations.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

From previous survey, identify what is and is not acceptable behavior in the community. Analyze the basis for the judgment in each case.

Formulate a personal code of conduct. For each item, rate yourself on the degree to which you feel committed to the standard described.

Discuss the meaning of socially accepted behaviors and conduct. Suggest items from own reading and experience which might be involved in the development of a code of conduct. Consider:

1. What factors determine a code of conduct?
2. What influences might affect your code of conduct?
3. Why is it difficult to form and follow?
4. What are some advantages of living by your code?

List societal expectations of teenage boys and girls within own community by surveying community members and parents for their ideas. Compare results in class.

Explain influences that the home, the community, and friends have on a person's ethical code.

TEACHING RESOURCES

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of effects of personal behavior in interpersonal relationship settings.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

List social behaviors that establish a comfortable environment.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Define through discussion the term, extending courtesies. Explain how you feel when courtesies were extended to you. How do you feel after extending courtesies?

Read Reiff, pages 40-50, and Cross, pages 49-54 to discover ways to develop social skills.

Divide into committees to study and report on social skills for different occasions. Role play typical situations such as:

1. At school, party, movies.
2. Talking on the telephone.
3. Introducing others.
4. A guest in a friends house.
5. Eating out.
6. A host or hostess.

Wear identification tags when role playing so class can identify players easily.

Observe a demonstration and practice introductions, telephone conversations, general etiquette or other vocal social skills using a tape recorder. Play back and analyze to suggest any improvements necessary.

CONCEPTS:

Building Skills: Verbal and Non-Verbal

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate ability to apply communication skills as tools for promoting and maintaining interpersonal relationships.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Define the terms, verbal communication and non-verbal communication.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Construct a bulletin board depicting various types of communications, both verbal and non-verbal.
Examples: Shaking hands, smiling, waving, talking together, crying, etc.

Discuss illustrations from comics depicting situations involving communication.

With a partner, sit back to back. Communicate without letting your partner see your face. Without words convey some particular feelings. Discuss the feelings that arise from the frustrations of not understanding.

Repeat the communication, again without words, but face to face. Discuss the change in extent of understanding.

Using body posture only, try to communicate a given idea.

With class members, take turns assuming certain body postures to see if others can analyze what is being "said."

View selected film to discover the problems a teenager had with communicating with parents.

Discuss why some young people hesitate to talk over personal interests and problems with their families. Try to suggest how these relationships could be improved.

GENERAL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to apply basic principles of clothing buymanship.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

Describe how clothing helps to identify individuals.

Construct a bulletin board, using clothing pictures which reveal roles played by youth and adults.

Read selected references regarding clothing of various cultures. Bring pictures of clothing suitable to and worn by different groups in society as to climate, values, cultures, work, etc.

Read Reiff, pages 160-166, 87-90, to discover suggestions for how to care for your clothing.

From a collection of pictures showing types of clothing worn by individuals in various occupations, climate, countries, etc., select one and describe the person depicted.

Read Vanderhoff, pages 16-27, to discover how the clothing you wear reveals a lot of information about who you are and what kind of a person you are.

Examine current youth fashions and discuss whether the garments would reflect values and ideals represented by class members.

View film, "Wardrobe" to list ways to plan for clothing needs.

Demonstrate ability to apply procedures for clothing care.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVESLEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES*TEACHING RESOURCES

Examine clothing tags, labels and mail order catalog descriptions. Discuss the information found here.
Does this information help the consumer?

Develop a check list of minimum standards of quality for purchasing clothing.

Bring in articles that were good buys and poor buys and make a display for use in class.

Conduct Informal survey to determine from which stores most friends buy clothing. From this survey, write a paragraph or discuss how choices of friends influence own choice of store.

Write the daily procedure necessary to keep clothes clean and in good repair.

Construct a bulletin board showing:

"Sloppy Sally"

"Awkward Ann"

"Neat Nan"

"Careful Carol" to be examples of the way people care for clothing. Discuss.

Participate in small groups to interpret care instructions on labels already brought to class. Learn new and unfamiliar terms and symbols found on labels.

Check on a prepared check sheet or list the care instructions from several labels, classifying each phase or symbol under four main headings:

1. Washing: hand, machine, cold, medium, hot
2. Drying: low, high
3. Pressing or Ironing
4. Dry Cleaning

Demonstrate ability to apply procedures for laundering clothes.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVESLEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Report findings to class.

Prepare and present a skit: "What You Wear Shows You Care."

Discuss what can be done in case a garment does not live up to what the label states.

Categorize clothing according to daily, weekly and seasonal care.

Make a daily weekly and seasonal check list for clothing care needs. Given several items of clothing, categorize according to daily, weekly and seasonal care.

Evaluate your present clothing care practices. Resolve to improve at least one practice. Report progress at intervals to your teacher and/or class members.

Lists the proper steps for (1) sorting, (2) washing, and (3) drying clothes.

View filmstrip, "Focus on the Family Wash" and list steps for washing clothes.

List and discuss equipment in a laundry center and its use.

View film, "This is the Way We Wash Our Clothes" and summarize in written sentences.

Discuss factors to consider when sorting and washing clothes:

Take a survey of types of soaps, detergents and other laundry products used in homes of class members. If possible, do a cost comparison.

Prepare a bulletin board showing various products used in laundry such as: soaps, detergents, water softeners, bleaches, fabric softeners, etc. Discuss purposes and uses of these. Demonstrate prewash treatments.

View filmstrip, "Washday Wonders", and list main ideas.

Describe some experiences encountered when using commercial washers and dryers. Share ideas of practices that help save time, energy and money.

Visit a laundromat and an automatic cleaning establishment. Discuss advantages and disadvantages of using these services.

Demonstrate how to hang dresses, skirts, shirts, trousers and slips on line to dry. Discuss improved methods of hanging these articles on line.

Discuss factors to consider when using a dryer:

1. time
2. temperature
3. removal

Compare how steps differ for hanger drying clothes for drip dry and polyester knit garments.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Compare and contrast all drying methods to discover the fact that certain fabrics require a specific type of drying for proper end results.

Discuss and demonstrate how to care for garments which may require special handling such as:

1. hand washing
2. dry cleaning

Demonstrate ironing and pressing basic techniques.

Display and discuss ironing and pressing equipment.

View film, "Press On Regardless", and summarize through questions and answers.

Practice using the iron on various temperatures on samples of various types of materials. Summarize the relationship between temperature and type of material.

View transparencies, "Techniques For Pressing", and discuss.

Demonstrate ironing and pressing basic techniques on garments brought from home such as dress, blouse, skirt, shirt and pants. Tablecloths or other flat linens may be included.

Write a short paragraph to explain rules of pressing and ironing.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate ability to apply procedures for removing spots and stains from clothing.
 Demonstrate ability to make simple clothing repairs.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Demonstrate desirable ways of removing common spots and stains on samples of fabric.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Using Reiff, page 16 and bulletins, prepare a stain removal chart as a handout and worksheet.

Demonstrate and discuss removal of common stains such as grass, blood, chewing gum, etc. (Caution with stains in garments)

Given the necessary supplies and charts, practice techniques of removing one or two stains on samples of fabric.

Demonstrate a proper method for making simple repairs such as sewing on buttons, sewing snaps, hooks and eyes and hemming.

Check individual wardrobe for clothes needing to be repaired.

1. Make a list.
 2. Select one item and bring to repair in class.
- Use a personal garment to demonstrate how to make a simple repair.

Assemble a home sewing kit for making simple repairs.

Make a "quickie" or emergency sewing kit for each homeroom teacher in school as a service project.

Observe a demonstration of a correct method and skills needed to make repairs:

1. length of thread
2. using double or single thread
3. threading a needle

Identify appropriate methods of storing clothing items.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe suitable personal storage for own clothing.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

4. knotting the thread correctly
5. steps involved in repairs mentioned.

Teach one friend outside of class to sew on button or make another type of simple repair. Bring friend's repair lesson to class for checking.

Bring different storage accessories to class to exhibit such as different types of hangers, shoe bags, racks, etc.

Prepare an exhibit of useful storage items for personal clothing. Include some items that could be easily obtained or constructed.

Make a simple clothing storage accessory for own personal use. Some suggestions are:

1. Cover coat hangers by crocheting with rug yarn, looping ribbon, etc.
2. Put metal cup hooks on a wooden coat hanger to use for storing belts.
3. Cover lids of small jars with contact paper or paint and arrange in a box for jewelry storage.

Identify some of your storage problems and ask class to suggest ways to change or improve.

View a display of several items that can be used to store or separate items in tote tray such as "silver" tray from dime store with divided spaces for storing different items.

Self-expression Through Dress

One Week Mini Unit

69/70

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe how three selected garments show self expression.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Using pictures of young people, discuss how the clothing worn tells about the personality and interests of each. Read selected references to clarify clothing communication.

Demonstrate three articles of clothing which you feel best represents your self concept and several which do not and explain reasons.

Read McDermott and Nicholas, chapter 6, to answer the question, "Do you have clothes sense?"

Discuss how clothing is used as a means of:

1. Self expression.
2. Self satisfaction.

Observe a display of garments with various trims and discuss how individuals can express creativity through clothing.

Read selected references and observe pictures to define the term illusion and identify examples of illusions.

Observe posters that show illusions created by line.

Construct a bulletin board with eight illusions. Select patterns and magazine pictures to illustrate each line.

CONCEPTS: Color, Design, Line

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of effects of clothing design line on figure types.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the effect of color and texture on selected figure type.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

View and discuss selected transparencies showing relationship of line to figure types: "Line and Design."

List figure types and deviations on board. Select pictures of styles of garments that best hide or camouflage the figure fault.

View filmstrips, "Color and You", "Color as You Wear It" and "Take a Look at Color." List effects of line in clothing.

Discuss how different fabrics and textures affect quality of a color.

Make a bulletin board display of actual garments and card swatches showing examples of textures (bulky, smooth, shiny, rough, sheer, etc.).

View filmstrip, "Color In Your Clothes." Summarize. Examine color comparison charts that show effects of bright versus dull, light versus dark. Which colors are best for your figure type?

Using color collars decide and list the colors that are best choices for each individual.

Use colored samples of paper from magazines or fabric to create color schemes. Discuss how combinations of colors are used in clothing.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

List advantages of making clothes and of buying clothes and justify each advantage briefly.

Participate in class discussion to analyze the colors and lines that best suit individuals with different coloring and personality.

Using purchased items of clothing, determine how much it would cost to make the same garment.

Using a clothing checklist on construction to evaluate and rate a ready-made garment from a local store with a hand-made one that is comparable in style and fabric.

Tell some reasons why you bought or did not buy some particular garment.

List and discuss factors to consider before deciding when to buy or when to make a garment.

CONCEPTS:

Understanding Clothing Effects on Behavior

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension that clothing is a form of social behavior.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe fad, fashion and style by defining each term and citing an example of each in contemporary clothing design.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Divide clothing examples into each of the three categories: fad, fashion and style.

Read Vanderhoff, pages 2-12, to learn how clothing in the past influences clothing today.

List fads popular in past, such as gathered skirts and madra blouses and discuss whether or not girls would wear these now.

Inventory clothing to list items which you no longer wear. Write reasons. Discuss possible renovations.

Analyze pictures of clothing popular now and discuss whether or not given items represent a fad.

List fad brand names in your school. Discuss advantages and disadvantages of choosing by brand names.

View transparencies: "Clothing Interrelationships with Behavior Roles and Values." Discuss how values affect clothing choices.

Discuss factors to consider in determining clothing needs and their effect on ones behavior and attitudes:

1. Life style
2. Community
3. Age
4. Season
5. Personality

Discuss why people dress like their peers whether becoming to them or not.

Deciding on a Fabric

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Identify qualities of a fabric suitable for construction of a project.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

Select fabric suitable for project.

Examine one half yard samples of fabrics that are easy or difficult to handle in sewing. List the characteristics of the easy-to-sew fabrics and of the difficult-to-sew fabrics.

Observe a collection of pattern envelopes to find how the pattern can be identified if it is easy to construct. Discuss and decide by looking at the pictures and diagrams on the envelope why the patterns that are difficult to sew are more complex. Look for:

1. Straight versus fitted seams.
2. Plain neckline versus collar or ruffle.
3. Faced, sleeveless arm hole versus sleeves.
4. Unfitted or semifitted versus fitted, pleated, gathered, etc.

Observe an exhibit of suitable fabrics for the selected project.

(Suggested simple projects: poncho, straight skirt with elastic waist band, apron, sleeveless blouse, sleeveless shift, beach bag, head scarf and stuffed animals).

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

Identify differences in easy-to-sew and difficult-to-sew patterns.

Ask a sales person what widths of fabrics are available and how you can decide on the yardage needed for given widths.

Listen to illustrated talk on differences to look for in "easy" and "difficult" patterns. Observe three easy and three difficult pattern envelopes and list differences.

Examine two garments (one easy-to-sew and one difficult-to-sew) by turning them inside out and looking to see how many more seams, etc., are involved in a difficult to sew pattern.

Identify the guide sheet and pattern pieces in a given pattern envelope.

Use a pattern envelope to learn the correct way to read the yardage chart for fabric yardage. Locate and find out purpose of other envelope information such as: notions, back views and suggested fabrics.

Observe a demonstration of the pattern markings and their uses as found on several types of pattern pieces.

Difficult to handle:
Slip or stretch
Pucker
Flimsy
Stiff

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Demonstrate ability to apply appropriate procedures in using a pattern for project construction.
 Demonstrate ability to use sewing equipment appropriately in the construction of a simple project.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVESLEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Construct a bulletin board to display a basic pattern piece with pointers for identification of each symbol or term used.

Observe and analyze a chart on functions of pattern symbols and markings from pattern companies.

Explore ideas and possibilities for decorating projects. Look for examples of applique, monograms, embroidery and other examples. With your teacher, decide on which you will choose.

Demonstrate the proper use and care of sewing equipment by constructing a project.

Construct "The Notions Tree" bulletin board of basic personal sewing equipment. Display several types or brands of each item and discuss advantages and disadvantages.

View selected transparencies on simple personal sewing items to identify types and characteristics of various pieces.

Observe a demonstration of the use of the sewing machine. Memorize the names of the essential parts of the machine. Respond to a test on sewing machine parts.

Using charts, "Use and Care of the Sewing Machine", practice threading and stitching.

Make a progress chart and evaluate your mastery in your use of the sewing machine. Include:

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to apply construction techniques of a simple project.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Prepare fabric for grain perfection.

Apply correct procedure for laying out and cutting pattern and marking pieces on project.

Demonstrate pressing techniques for your project and explain why they are appropriate.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Observe a demonstration of methods of truing the fabric or making fabric grain perfect.

Watch a demonstration of straightening the ends of fabric and straightening grainline.

View transparencies, "Sewing Techniques." After viewing demonstration, prepare your fabric for use.

Observe demonstration and list procedure to:

1. How to lay out pattern on fabric.
2. How to cut.
3. Several methods of marking.

View selected transparencies, "Markings", and decide which method you should use.

Examine exhibit of examples of each process as guides while you construct the project.

Following each demonstration, complete the next step in the construction of your project.

View filmstrip, "Press as you Sew", and summarize.

Observe demonstration of pressing equipment available in department. Discuss reasons for pressing while sewing.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of factors which determine amount of space available.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the effect of amount of space on personal feelings.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Sit in a small area for short period of time and write your feelings. Go into a larger surrounding area and write your impressions.

Discuss feelings when entering a tunnel as compared with leaving it or feelings in an elevator as to being out of it.

View pictures of small rooms and compare with pictures of large ones. What effect does the amount of space have on personal feelings?

Discuss with an art teacher the idea of space and how an artist creates impressions of openness in paintings.

Select illustrations of different mutual space relationships.

Define the term human territorial dimensions. Discuss examples. List three persons in the room whom you want close to you, farther away, and at a great distance. Never tell anyone whose names you listed. Decide whether this listing illustrates the term, human territorial dimensions.

Use a checklist to rate groups of people (parents, siblings, friends, teachers, doctors, etc.) according to closeness desired. Rate very close, close, or distant.

Using pictures of people in group situations decide whether persons shown know each other (1) well (2) casually or (3) not at all by their space relationship to one another.

CONCEPTS: Exploring Space: Importance

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of effects of space on personal behavior.
Demonstrate comprehension of furnishings' arrangement.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe how space influences activities and need for privacy.

Discuss how emotions are involved in space relations such as persons in agreement are closer together and persons in disagreement farther from each other. With a partner, see if you can act out anger close to partner; act out telling partner something very special about him or her.

Measure space in classroom and set up to role play a situation in a bedroom (10' x 12') shared by four sisters, and same space shared by two sisters. List how one can better manage within the restrictions of his own situation. Discuss the listings.

Discuss what happens when one has no chance to be by oneself. Participate in buzz groups. Explore the individual needs for privacy.

Select two magazine pictures showing a small bedroom and an adequate one. Discuss privacy and activity achieved when room is shared.

Write a short story telling how amount of space has affected an activity that he or she enjoys.

Experiment with various arrangements of room furnishings using cut outs and floor plans.

From experiments, list principles of furniture arrangement on chalk board.

View transparencies, "Room Arrangements." Discover examples of room arrangements that illustrate principles.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Demonstrate how selected situations are influenced by space, lighting, proportion and color.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Leave light off for a few minutes at beginning of class on a dark day and discuss the difference when lights are suddenly turned on.

View visual which shows equal area of a bright and dull color and decide which appears larger or smaller.

Discuss how the color wheel can help with decisions when space is a problem.

Read selected reference to discover effect of color on space.

Look at duplicated reproductions of diagrams showing various proportions of furniture and windows as related to space and discuss which proportions seem most pleasing. Can you discover any general rules for proportion related to space?

View pictures showing adequate lighting, color and proportion in relation to space.

Write a summary sentence about the effect of light, color and proportion on space.

Examining Activities

Assessing Needs: Personal and Family

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of space requirements for selected family activities. Demonstrate knowledge of personal and family housing needs.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

List ten home activities from a given floor plan and identify areas in which each activity appropriately occurs.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

List every activity that takes place in the home (work in groups of 4 students to make listing; two groups combine their listings; keep combining groups until class makes a composite listing).

Using composite listing, look at floor plans in relationship to space and equipment required for various activities. Be sure listing includes simple things such as eating, reading, dressing, sleeping, studying, traffic patterns, and playing.

Measure and set up simulated settings for various activities and discuss adequacy or inadequacy of space for various activities, for various family groupings with selected characteristics - as age of members, etc.

Identify and distinguish between personal and family needs for housing.

Make a list of personal needs in a home. Compile a list of a particular family's needs, given their characteristics.

Discuss needs of families including elderly or persons with special needs.

Visit a nursing home as class, individually or with other groups. Using a checklist provided, record unique housing features.

Listen to tape recording and use posters and transparencies, "The Home: An Environment for Human Growth", to provide basis for discussion in buzz groups on how individuals can make their homes a better environment for human growth.

Show comprehension of society's responsibility and efforts to provide public housing.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe types of housing common to locale.

Identify community efforts to improve local housing through selected newspaper articles.

Describe public housing facilities in locale using available information.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Survey types of homes in neighborhood. Respond to a slide tour of various types of houses common to the locale by listing the types.

Note any improvements in housing underway in area and find out how it is being accomplished. Report findings to class.

Invite a resource person: Builder, Real Estate Agent, Architect, Developer, etc., to talk on local housing types.

Use bulletin board to display news articles related to local housing problems and efforts toward solutions. Discuss.

As a class group, discuss why students who live in public housing may be sensitive about discussions relating to how and why public housing is financed. Decide how the class can learn about public housing without offending individuals involved.

Interview in class a resource person related to housing, local politician, city planner, architect, realtor, builder, developer, etc., on public housing facilities.

Take a field trip to local housing projects, private or government.

Assisting with Tasks: Daily, Weekly and Seasonal

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of personal contributions to operating a home and family. Recognize tasks required to operate and maintain a home and family.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Identify ways to help at home with family tasks.

Describe housekeeping jobs which are done daily, weekly, seasonally, and occasionally.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Do a hand-count survey by listing all home cleaning responsibilities and tabulating count of hands of those who do each. Discuss results.

View selected filmstrip and list home care responsibilities. Share with class.

View selected transparency and discuss items to consider in planning use of time.

After reviewing reference materials, write other jobs you could do to help at home. Discuss why sharing in the care of the home is important in self-development.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of aspects of physical growth experienced at transescence.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe five examples of physical growth which occur at transescence showing differences from person to person.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Discuss in small groups the physical development, figure development, time of first menstrual period expected for ages 13-16 years. Read selected references and discuss. Compare differences and similarities of expected physical development relating that each difference may still be very normal growth.

Identify characteristics of physical growth such as nose enlarging before jaw, acne as a result of imbalance of hormones, arms and legs extending before becoming accustomed to them, and rounding of hips.

Acquaint self with community agencies and physicians which are helpful during transescence such as dermatologist.

Read references to discover characteristics of your present stage of physical development.

CONCEPTS: Growing: Emotionally

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of emotional characteristics of transescence.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe five factors of emotional growth which are influential at transescence.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Discuss factors which affect changes in emotions such as too great expectations by adults, hormone imbalance, desire to violate social standards.

Read selected references to identify characteristics of emotional growth.

Present skits to illustrate adolescent emotional behavior which was identified.

Keep a diary for one week, recording what kind of day each day was, including feelings of happiness, sadness, and causes for the feelings. At the end of the week, discuss the records and try to arrive at a general statement that summarizes emotional behavior.

Read references to use as an explanation of what is typical and what are individual differences in emotional growth.

CONCEPTS: Growing: Socially

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify effects of growing up on social relationships in and outside of the family.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe five examples of social growth which occur at transference explaining how this growth is ensured.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Identify characteristics of social growth, such as ability to work with many age levels, skills in conversation, game skills, etc.

Plan and present socio-dramas depicting social growth or lack of it.

Write the relationship of a person with whom you get along well and a person you do not get along well with. Use papers as basis for class discussion. What adjustments can be recommended in each case.

Practice some social graces such as, "small talk", making people feel welcome, using cup and saucer in lap or standing, extending condolences or praise, etc.

Read selected reference to gain insight about social growth.

CONCEPTS:

Coping with Personal Problems

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to identify possible causes of personal problems.BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Write a letter in answer to one which cites a problem in an effort to explain cause and effect of the problem and a possible solution.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Conduct survey in class to identify problems of your group. Compile and discuss survey.

Read selected references to study further problems.

Write a letter to Ann Landers outlining a problem and asking for help. Disguise any names used to prevent identification.

Redistribute letters. With references and teacher help, write answers to letters.

Participate in session to show effective and in-effective ways to handle problems. Discuss alternatives and probable outcomes.

View filmstrip and listen to record, "The Tuned-Out Generation."

View transparencies, "Emotions and Social Attitudes", and discuss how emotions affect social attitudes.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

Grooming

Two Week Mini Unit

123/124

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify and apply appropriate procedures for personal use.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

- Select appropriate materials and indicate proper procedure for:
1. Washing hair.
 2. Bathing entire body.
 3. Caring for hands and feet.
 4. Caring for teeth and mouth.

Practice proper procedures at home for caring for body even if facilities are not ideal.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Read selected references to define good grooming and to develop grooming vocabulary.

Use classtoons, "Personal Hygiene" as a basis for round table discussion.

Identify procedures for taking a tub bath, shower, sponge bath. Show appropriate materials to use for each.

Collect pictures and advertisements of grooming supplies to use on bulletin board. Compare cost of various items.

Observe student demonstrations and discuss:

1. Washing and drying hair.
 2. Caring for nails, hands and feet.
 3. Caring for teeth and gums.
 4. Care during menstruation.
- Practice each demonstration at home.

Listen to a dentist, school nurse, etc., answer questions about personal care.

Read references related to personal hygiene for further information.

CONCEPTS: Using and Selecting Cosmetics

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Use selected cosmetics by class developed criteria.
 Demonstrate ability to select appropriate cosmetics for various occasions.
 Identify effects of misuse of cosmetics.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Demonstrate the use of selected cosmetics.

Select cosmetics which are suitable for given occasions.

Describe results of misuse of cosmetics.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Observe a demonstration on cosmetic use by salesman or beauty queen. List procedure and precautions to remember in cosmetic use.

Practice use of cosmetics following recommended procedure with samples provided by the speaker.

Discuss current ideas among teenagers about which cosmetics are used, when and how.

Discuss psychological effects of use of cosmetics such as attempts to remove freckles, cover acne, and lighten skin.

Given a list of cosmetics, select the appropriate cosmetic for given occasions. Discuss using appropriate cosmetics for young adolescents for the most frequent activities you do.

View filmstrip, "Teen's ABC's of grooming."
 List main points on chalk board and discuss.

Participate in a pop-up discussion of "making over or making up." Identify dangers to skin and eyes of improper use of cosmetics, effects on appearance, possibilities of skin allergies, etc.

Form small groups and using a make-up kit supplied by the teacher, in each group make up one student properly and one improperly. Discuss results. Note differences in cosmetics for varying skin color.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

Child Care

Four Week Mini Unit

131/132

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show ability to relate to young children.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

List a specific number of ways to create rapport with children.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Collect cartoons showing acceptable ways of relating to children. Discuss why the behavior was acceptable.

Describe experiences in which you got along well with children.

Mark a chart showing kinds of opportunities for association class members have with children, such as siblings, neighbors, church nurseries, baby-sitting, relatives, etc.

Listen to and participate in discussion after a panel discussion on acceptable and unacceptable ways of getting along with children, using parents, nursery school teachers and baby sitters. Tape or video-tape the discussion and use for reference during general discussion.

Read Clayton, pages 54-77 for suggestions for baby-sitting skills that promote development of the child.

Through dramatization, practice the use of behaviors that:

1. Promote security.
2. Build self confidence and independence.
3. Represent positive guidance.
4. Respect the developmental stage of the individual child.
5. Meet the child's routine needs appropriately.

On your next baby-sitter's job, consciously try to practice behaviors studied and practiced in class. Report results to class.

TEACHING RESOURCES

Exploring Baby-Sitting Experiences: Qualifications
Exploring Baby-Sitting Experiences: Source of Work

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify responsibilities and appropriate behaviors of baby-sitting.
Identify procedures for securing baby-sitting jobs.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

List the qualities of a qualified baby sitter.

Describe five ways to get baby-sitting jobs.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Interview a person who employs a sitter to discover qualities they look for in employing a sitter. Report to the class. Make a composite list of sitter's qualifications from interviews.

View filmstrips, "The Job - The Kids" and Baby-Sitting", to find out the qualifications and responsibilities of a baby-sitter.

Read Lewis, pages 93-105 to gain insight into the nature of a baby sitter's responsibilities.

Describe one way you have secured a baby-sitting job.

Plan and present skits showing how to dress and act when interviewing for a baby-sitting job.

Present a panel discussion using students who have held baby-sitting jobs. Discuss how to secure jobs.

Read Reiff, pages 141-142 and decide which girl got the job and why.

CONCEPTS: Exploring Baby-Sitting Experiences: Responsibilities

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify responsibilities and appropriate behaviors for baby-sitting.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the responsibilities of a sitter, the employer, and the sitter's parents.

Give evidence of becoming a responsible and ethical baby-sitter by developing a sitter's notebook and a code of ethics.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

- Read Reiff, pages 107-128, and make a list of:
1. Sitter's responsibilities to employer.
 2. Sitter's responsibilities to own parents.
 3. Employer's responsibilities to sitter.

Survey class members and compile findings regarding pay per hour, responsibilities and problems.

View films, "The Baby-Sitter" and "To a Baby-Sitter" to learn about the skills and knowledge needed by the baby-sitter.

Discuss important points in an agreement between: sitter and employer.

Develop a sitter's guide - a notebook listing certain information and providing space for specific on-the-job information.

Develop a sitter's code of ethics from the idea of each student contributing "do's and don'ts."

Discuss problem situations in which having a code of ethics would be useful guide for action.

---	---

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Add information from a survey of difficult or hazardous situations for children at different ages identified by class members. Compile a safety list for children of different ages.

Participate in buzz groups to explore do's and don'ts of safety for a given age group. Report to class on findings.

Construct a bulletin board "Danger, Watch Out," using pictures of situations dangerous to children. Discuss what you could do to change each dangerous situation shown.

Perform the following activity:
Pretend a child is playing with your purse. Remove each item and tell if it might be dangerous and why.

View films, "Children at Play With Poison" and "Poison in the House" to learn how to keep children safe from poisons and how to administer first aid when necessary.

Demonstrate or role play ways of safeguarding children after reviewing Reiff, pages 107-127 and Clayton, pages 54-77 to be sure the information you present is accurate.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Write rules for keeping a child safe.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of value of play to children.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe play equipment and materials which would help a child develop a normal, well adjusted, personality.

Plan appropriate play activities for children of specific age groups.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Observe children at play, using a class developed observation sheet.

Play with children to discover their likes in play activities and materials.

Read Hurlock, pages 241-253 to find out some reasons why the children you observed and played with liked the play equipment and the toy they seemed to prefer. Discuss with classmates your conclusions based on reading and experiences.

Examine a display of play materials and equipment. Select three toys from the display and name appropriate age level.

Make a Sitter's Kit by collecting safe play materials using inexpensive or throw away items.

Construct a homemade toy or game. Try it with child and report outcome to class. Locate and record a story telling the age for which it would be appropriate.

View filmstrip, "Toys and Activities for Pre-School Children" and discuss ideas presented in classrooms, "Homemade Developmental Toys." Decide on the advantages of homemade toys.

Guiding and Disciplining

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Show comprehension of value of play to children.
Demonstrate comprehension of positive and negative child guidance techniques.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe four ways in which play benefits the child.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Brainstorm examples of toys, materials and activities that encourage play as shown on bulletin board - Play is the Way A Child Learns - pictures to illustrate captions such as: "Dramatics", "Active", "Social", "Creative."

Using self selected references and resources, discover value of play to a young child.

Plan and present skits which portray discipline techniques for different ages. Use teacher prepared material as a guide.

Discuss alternative methods of dealing with several kinds of behavior.

Discuss and evaluate skits which were examples of the following guidelines for coping with discipline problems with children such as:

1. Consistent
2. Immediate
3. Appropriate
4. Positive

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

Future Expectations

Two Week Mini Unit

145 / 146

Overall Objectives: Show comprehension of personal qualities to career plans.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Categorize personal assets and liabilities with regard to future life plans.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Listen to record and view filmstrip from Career Decisions Kit. Discuss such questions as: How has media influenced our image of certain careers such as medicine, law, detective work, etc.? How can parents influence job choice?

View filmstrip, "Who's You". Use student work sheet (mini guide) to get an idea of your assets and liabilities.

Write a paragraph on how you might capitalize or use your assets to best advantage. Include ideas about how to strengthen your liabilities.

Using present ideas of what a future occupation may be, list personal qualifications that would be needed, placing them in two columns headed My Assets and My Liabilities. Are there any qualifications needed for the occupation which you do not have at present?

TEACHING RESOURCES

Filmstrip and Record: J. C. Penney Company. Career Decisions Kit.

Filmstrip: J. C. Penney Company. Career Decisions Kit.

CONCEPTS: Establishing Goals: Immediate and Long Range

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of interests and activities to career plans.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Evaluate hobbies, free time and school activities for potential as a vocational or avocational pursuit.

Use the dictionary to define terms vocational and avocational. Discuss examples of activities for each. Participate in a hobby show. Share with classmates some of the activities and satisfactions from your hobby.

Read Lewis, pages 447-460 to discover some of the possible occupations that relate to your individual interests and qualifications.

List your free time activities and interests on chalkboard. In a pop-up discussion, suggest possible careers related to each activity.

List your interests and activities and select possible career or job opportunities related to each.

Read McDermott and Nicholas, pages 134-143 and discover how your present activities help you to prepare for the future.

List volunteer services and part-time jobs that may lead to a future career. What career would each relate to?

Survey community for available part-time jobs.

View filmstrip, "Getting You and The Job Together." Discuss why some occupations are obscure and others so evident.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify factors which influence career entrance and development.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

List three possible career choices and state the entry level and credentials necessary.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Listen to a taped interview of parents and other persons engaged in entry, intermediate and professional level jobs of a given category, discuss their job, how they became interested in this field, how they prepared for the job and the satisfaction they have derived from their work.

Identify in writing the chosen jobs and careers of your parents or two adult friends and determine the qualifications needed for their jobs.

Identify several career possibilities for yourself. Using reference materials, research each possibility and determine what qualifications (education, work experience, etc.) are necessary to enter each career. Use chart in Lewis, Page 450 as one source.

Listen to a guidance counselor, employment agent, etc. talk on qualifying for jobs. Ask questions to learn if your understanding of entry level requirements and advancement possibilities is accurate.

Define the following terms:

1. Career.
2. Dead end jobs.
3. Career ladders.
4. Career clusters.

After viewing filmstrip, "Choosing Your Career", identify the different types of careers.

List five jobs with a possibility of advancement, then make a list of five jobs with little or no advancement. Discuss specific reasons why some jobs provide advancement and others do not.

Using "Widening Occupational Roles" kit choose five jobs listed under: People and Animals or Ideas and Things. Write name of the job educational training.

TEACHING RESOURCES

CONCEPTS: Exploring PreparationOVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify factors which influence career entrance and development.BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES*LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Using five jobs from job cluster chart shown on page 450, Lewis, discuss how advancement can be made from entry through professional training. Look at bulletin board on career ladders. What does the term career ladder mean?

Construct mobiles to illustrate career clusters.

Construct a bulletin board "A Career Ladder" showing professional development in one vocation.

Describe characteristics of a good employee.

View transparencies and list qualities necessary for successful employment.

Read case studies and identify qualities of employees.

Role play situations in which employees demonstrate qualities that are desirable or undesirable. Show possible causes and consequences.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of career roles to life styles.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe how parents' work roles influence family life styles.

Explore three work roles other than those of parents, and describe how each would influence life style of a family.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Review definitions of terms role and family life styles. Write definitions on the chalkboard and discuss.

Describe in writing, several aspects of family life that are influenced by parental work roles. Examples: mealtime, finances, recreation, location of family, responsibilities for certain functions in the home.

Examine current statistics on number of working women and working mothers. Construct a lifeline diagram on bulletin board or chalkboard to illustrate life events of the average working mother. Include age of marriage and ages during child birth period until last child leaves home. Decide when and how much time is available to be devoted to a career. Prepare the information with a one page report on "Working Mothers." Take it home for your mother to read and discuss your mother's reaction and response with class members. What factors are influencing the trend for more women to work outside the home?

Write a paragraph on three persons telling how their work role influences their family life. Examples: concert artist, movie actor or actress, circus performer, factory worker, teacher.

Write a paragraph describing a future career for yourself. Describe how your choice will affect your life style.

CONCEPTS: OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of the function of food to health and appearance

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe how food prejudices limit food selection.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Participate in brainstorming session to list food likes and dislikes of class on the board.

Define food prejudice. Analyze food dislikes to determine the ones that are food prejudices and devise a plan for overcoming them.

Summarize food prejudices of class members.

Participate in buzz group and record the foods you like best.

Read selected reference related to food habits and determine reasons for food prejudices and preferences. Through circular response discuss findings.

Analyze reasons for food likes and dislikes such as:

1. Family traditions.
2. Lack of education.
3. Religious beliefs.
4. Food prepared poorly.
5. Emotions attached to certain foods.
6. Others. (name)

Sample unfamiliar foods at a tasting party. (Include a variety of foods such as brains, liver, tongue, yogurt, cottage cheese, and specific fruits and vegetables.) Keep a record of new foods tried at the tasting party and seek to be a member of the "I Learned to Try It" club by trying a specific number of unfamiliar foods.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Show comprehension of the function of food to health and appearance.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the characteristics of a healthy person.

Explain the classification of nutrients and their function in the body.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Prepare a list of traits of a person who enjoys good health and compare with a reference.

View filmstrip, "Go, Grow and Glow." Identify nutrients, food groups and food sources.

Read and study selected references on food nutrients to learn their function in the body.

Participate in a committee to study and prepare visuals for one of the following:

1. Food groups.
2. Food sources.
3. Classification of nutrients, protein, fats, carbohydrates, minerals and vitamins.

Categorize various snacks according to their food nutrients value. Write statements about the various groups as to calories, color and texture.

Prepare and serve snacks from one or more of the above categories.

Play nutrient bingo.

Observe a bulletin board, such as:

Two Week Mini Unit

167/168

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate ability to use conventional table manners when eating.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Interpret acceptable table manners and reasons for use.

Explain the relationship of the surroundings and table setting to the enjoyment of food.

Demonstrate setting the table appropriate to different menus.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Take pre-test, "The Way I Eat at the Table." Analyze the results as a basis for improvement.

View selected filmstrip to learn conventional manners and the reasons for social conventions. List the manners observed.

Define social practice "manners and etiquette", and "table etiquette."

Write on a card questions about eating situations described. Exchange cards by drawing and find out the conventional way of eating in that situation. Demonstrate how to the class.

1. Using knife and fork to eat meat.
2. Eating soup.
3. Eating chicken at a picnic.

Sexuality and Reproduction

Two Week Mini Unit

175 / 176

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Demonstrate comprehension of male and female reproductive functions.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Define sexuality as an entity within healthy interpersonal relationships.

Describe the origin of life in humans.

Name reproductive organs and describe functions of each.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Listen to records of current popular tunes to provide basis for discussion of loneliness, sex and love. Differentiate between two meanings of love, romantic love and mature love. Decide why love is important. Discuss the definition of sexuality. Consider the importance of accurate knowledge for self understanding and healthy interpersonal relationships.

Take a pre-test on the origin of life, the human reproductive system conception, heredity and fetal development. Discuss pre-test.

Discuss reasons for misinformation about sexuality. Identify and evaluate sources of information, friends, media, parents, teacher, books, etc.

Participate in a review discussion of how life begins as a single cell and how this all resulted from joining of egg cell of mother and sperm from the father. View transparencies and ask questions when necessary.

Label diagram, of the male and female reproductive anatomy, following a presentation with transparencies and definitions of terms involved in the human reproductive system.

View film, "Understanding Human Reproduction", Parts I and II. Summarize main points in writing.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES:

Show comprehension of male and female reproductive functions.
Show comprehension of biological developments in fertilization and heredity.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe the process of conception in writing or drawing a diagram of how the sperm and egg cell unite.

Identify heredity traits.
Describe how traits are inherited from parents.

Identify factors that influence the human sex drive.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Begin a human sexuality notebook. Compile information, diagrams and vocabulary list. At the end of each class, write a statement to summarize what you have learned and how you feel about the study of human sexuality.

View transparencies on fertilization to learn how it occurs.

View film, "Understanding Human Reproduction", Part III and discuss.

Discuss questions previously collected in a question box. Research answers for accuracy.

List the characteristics you inherited from your parents. Trace these back through your family as far as you can. Adoptive children may list characteristics you assume that you inherited.

View transparencies, "Heredity" and discuss how chromosomes and genes function.

View filmstrip, "Life Begins", to discover the way traits are inherited. Write summary sentences on chalkboard and discuss.

Use references provided by the teacher to diagram the brain, labeling the cerebral cortex and the hypothalamus. On the diagram list the functions of each.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

TEACHING RESOURCES

In committees, develop reports on the difference between human sexuality and the sexuality of lower animals.

Discuss the benefits and dangers in pleasure seeking.

Working with a partner, write a paragraph on each of the following, relating to effect on sex drive for the male and for the female:

- Touch
- Smell
- Sight
- Pornography
- Personality
- Alcohol
- Affection
- Love
- Physical attractiveness
- Intelligence
- Sense of humor
- Compatibility
- Commitment to partner

Discuss in class, and summarize by drawing a diagram of the factors influencing the sex drive. Include physical, psychological and social forces, and the results or consequences of fulfillment.

Describe the physical, emotional and social changes which occur during menstruation.

Read pamphlets and selected reference related to menstruation. Working in three class groups, prepare reports on the physical, emotional and social changes which occur during menstruation. Report to class.

View film, "It's Wonderful Being a Girl" and follow with a discussion of main points brought out in film.

Contribute questions in a box which you desire to have

Two Week Mini Unit

185/186

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify medicinal articles and suggest use in providing emergency care. Describe emergency care procedures for injuries and crises conditions.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Assemble items for an emergency first aid kit and describe the use of each.

Demonstrate procedures for common emergencies.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Prepare a display of first aid supplies. Label each item.

Given index cards with common emergencies described, select the first aid items needed from the display and describe how to use them.

Prepare a first aid kit for the homemaking department.

Prepare a first aid kit to use at home.

List injuries and crisis situations where help is needed before the doctor arrives. Read reference to find out recommended procedures for each kind of emergency identified.

Discuss, demonstrate and practice correct procedures in handling emergency crises until the doctor arrives.

View filmstrip, "First Aid Procedures" to see how emergency care is given.

Watch demonstrations and practice first aid treatment for the following:

1. bleeding

CONCEPTS: Caring for Personal Health: Emotional

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Identify factors which contribute to emotional health. Identify ways of handling emotions.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

Describe healthy and unhealthy emotional status.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Define mental illness and discuss factors that contribute to it.

Read case studies on emotions to identify healthy and unhealthy emotions.

View transparencies, "Emotions and Social Attitudes", to discover the relationship of emotions to one's attitudes.

Discuss a chart showing choices available to the individual and possible consequences of the choices made.

Describe constructive ways of dealing with emotions.

Read Lewis, pages 37-39, to identify some characteristics of emotionally healthy people.

Participate in role playing: Without identifying individuals, on a slip of paper write the most upsetting thing that has happened lately between you and another person. Place the slips in a box. Divide the class into groups and role-play a situation drawn from the box, showing how using one's sense of humor may help to change the outcome of the situation.

Brainstorm for constructive ways of dealing with emotions such as:

1. Talking over problems.
2. Writing about your feelings in a diary.
3. Creative activities (drawing or painting).
4. Physical activities.

OVERALL OBJECTIVES: Recognize factors which affect physical health.

BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

- Describe how selected factors affect physical health:
1. Diet.
 2. Sleep.
 3. Exercise.
 4. Regular physical and dental checkups.
 5. Personal hygiene.
 6. Proper elimination.

LEARNING AND EVALUATION EXPERIENCES

Prepare a puppet show to present to sixth or seventh graders. Puppets can be made from construction paper, paper bags or fabrics. Each puppet may represent some aspect of physical health. Example: diet, sleep, exercise, etc. Each puppet may play a part that reveals the contributions it makes to keeping physically healthy.

Write a letter to a sixth or seventh grader to advise and recommend practices which promote optimum physical health. Use references to verify your recommendations. Include recommendations for each of the following factors:

1. Diet.
2. Sleep.
3. Exercise.
4. Regular physical and dental checkups.
