I. Techniques

1. Grip

Refer to page 12 .

2. Footwork

Refer to page 12 .

3. Carrying Position

Refer to page 12 .

4. Fielding the Ball

Refer to page 12 .

- a. Foot. The ball may be legally trapped with the foot by placing it on top of the ball and lowering the heel whereby avoiding any movement of the ball once it comes in contact with the foot. Advancing the ball is illegal and will be called by the umpire should the ball bounce off the foot.
- b. Hand. In case the ball is in the air it is legal to catch and drop the ball immediately to the ground. This stop is used only in special situations and could be dangerous; therefore, it is usually not recommended.

5. Dribble

Refer to page 13 .

6. Pass

Refer to page 13 .

- a. Flick. This pass is very similar to the push pass in that a backswing is not used and a low long follow through is necessary. The right hand is moved down the shaft as the player reaches forward and to the right to position the stick slightly under the ball. As the push is given to the ball the left hand rotates the stick quickly to the left causing the ball to rise slightly with a spin. The flick is short and difficult to intercept; therefore, perfection of this skill enhances the players offensive maneuvers.
- b. Scoop. Even though the scoop is easily anticipated by the opponent, it is effective as a shooting, dodging, or passing technique. The right hand is positioned approximately nine inches below the left hand and top of the handle. The stick's toe is placed under the ball. With a lifting action from the right hand and a pushing action from the left hand the ball is raised a few inches up and forward. The forward impetus should coincide with the purpose in using the scoop.

7. Drive

8. Tackles

Refer to page 13-14.

- a. Right-hand Lunge. The player with the ball is on the tackler's right. Skills used in this tackle are the same as those used for the left-hand lunge with the exception of two items. The hand position and stick position are reversed. The toe of the stick actually stops the ball. This is a weak tackle and should be avoided when possible.
- b. Jab. This tackle may be executed from the opponents left, right or straight forward. Either hand is near the top of the stick (depending on the side of the tackler). A long reach with an extended arm enables the tackler to use quick jabs in an effort to spoil the opponents control of the ball. Like the right-hand lunge, this is a weak defense tactic and should be used sparingly.

9. Dodges

- a. Reverse Stick. As the tackler approaches reverse the stick and pull the ball to the right. Continue dribbling forward or pass to a teammate.
- b. Scoop Dodge. Executed the same as a scoop pass (page ____). The ball is scooped over the opponents stick and proceeds in a forward direction.
- c. Triangular. As the opponent approaches the player with the ball, a short pass to a teammate evades the tackler. The passer then runs to the stick side of the tackler and receives the ball again by a short pass from her teammate.

10. Roll-In

11. Bully

Refer to page 14 .

J. Strategy and Tactics

1. Position play

Refer to page 15-18.

2. Strategy

Refer to page 19 .

3. Tactics

a. Individual

- (1) Offense. All forwards and halfbacks should be skilled in drawing, dodging, passing, shooting and picking up passes. Drawing, similar to feint in basketball, is used to get an opponent out of position. This can be accomplished by moving to right or left and taking the opponent with her. The pick up pass is used to gain control of the ball without stopping the forward motion of the ball. The forward should face in the direction she wishes to take the ball after the pick up.
- (2) Defense. The prime objective of individuals playing halfback and fullback should be to get the ball and put their team on the offense. It is important to play your position yet work as a team. You should outwit the opponent and anticipate her actions. Mark your opponent and stay with her. Experience will contribute to your effectiveness. Place yourself in a position to intercept or tackle the ball. Many times this action will hurry the opponent's pass. Emphasize tackling back as soon as the opportunity permits. Clearing, a hard hit to get the ball out of the circle, should be directed toward the sideline or through an open space and to a teammate. Wild hitting only results in fouls or giving the ball to the opponent. The goalkeeper must keep her eye on the ball and watch for all possible angles the ball may be hit to score. Depending on the angle, she can set herself up and cover the shot to prevent a goal being scored. The "goalie" should have a clear view and not be obstructed by her own fullbacks.

b. Team

- (1) Offense. Individual players must play their positions. Forwards need to be skilled in executing the triangular pass and be alert to breaks in the game. Rushing or following-up a shot for the goal reveals the determination of competitive players and may result in a point scored. Halfbacks back up the forward line ready to pick-up passes should the opposing team tackle the ball and/or intercept clearing shots. The team should be encouraged to use creative play, to vary the style of play, and to foster alertness to play.

- (2) Defense. The backs marking the forward line of the opposing team must also take advantage of open spaces and anticipate passes. Caution should be used against gathering around the ball. Diagonal, rather than vertical or horizontal, lines of attack should be included in the general plan of a team's defense. Within the circle, if the ball goes past all defending players, let the goal-keeper do her job. Each team should work as a group and develop tactics as the individual's skill improves.

B. Tournaments

Refer to quinmester course Adapted Physical Education.

C. Drills and Skills Practice Techniques

1. Ball Control Drills
