ABSTRACT

The course will contribute to competency in all office occupations by equipping students with the basic skills needed to apply grammar, punctuation, capitalization, abbreviations, and number style to simple business communications. Offered as an elective, the course is intended for 12th grade students and has no prerequisites. Performance objectives are listed, and suggested procedures, strategies, and learning activities are offered. Evaluative items are suggested. A five-page bibliography of student and teacher resource materials includes books and booklets, workbooks, reference manuals, filmstrips, and tapes. A 17-page appendix presents a sample assignment sheet for the sentence and specific suggestions for evaluative items with sample tests. (MW)

I. COURSE TITLE—BUSINESS GRAMMAR IN GOOD TASTE

II. COURSE NUMBER—5128.11 (New: 7770.11)

III. COURSE DESCRIPTION

A. Synopsis

Equips students with the basic skill needed to apply grammar, punctuation, capitalization, abbreviations, and number style to simple business communications.

B. Subject Status—Elective

C. Textbook

A state adopted textbook for Business English and/or one of the school's choosing is recommended.

D. Occupational Relationships

This course will contribute to competency in all office occupations. Clear and accurate use of English can be a deciding factor in getting any job and in being promoted to a position of responsibility, especially if business communications are included in the functions of the position.

IV. COURSE ENROLLMENT GUIDELINES

A. Grade Level

While this course is intended for students in the twelfth grade, younger or older students may enroll if their counselors agree they are ready for this course.

B. Pretest

An inventory test covering the performance objectives of this course is an effective device for revealing student weaknesses and pointing out the need for drill in specific areas.

C. Prior and Future Experiences Needed

There are no prerequisites for this course; however, it is recommended that the student also enroll in Righting Your Writing (Language Arts—5111.01) if strengthening of skills is needed. Spell It Right (Business Education—5128.12) should be taken before or after this course.

V. COURSE OF STUDY PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES

Upon successful completion of this course, the student will be able to—

1. supply missing punctuation and capitalization and correct grammar errors on a one-page business excerpt with a minimum of 90 percent accuracy;
2. demonstrate understanding of basic grammar and punctuation rules by writing a paragraph on an assigned business subject with no more than one error in either area;

V. COURSE OF STUDY PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES, Continued

3. recognize and point out the subjects and predicates in at least four assigned sentences;
4. identify complete sentences and fragments of sentences from a given list of ten or more sentences and fragments;
5. classify given sentences as either simple, compound, or complex in structure;
6. write the plural forms for nouns in a given list including proper names, foreign nouns, compound nouns, and nouns ending in "y";
7. select the appropriate form of a pronoun from several selections in each of a group of sentences;
8. select the correct verb form that will make the sentence correct in each of at least four given sentences;
9. supply the tense and past participle forms for at least five irregular verbs;
10. classify each verb in five given sentences as transitive or intransitive;
11. underline and correct any errors in predicate agreement in at least four sentences;
12. select the correct adjective or adverb to be used as a modifier in at least four sentences;
13. select the preposition that correctly completes each of at least four sentences;
14. choose the sentence that does not violate parallel structure from each of ten given pairs of sentences;
15. underline errors in preposition or conjunction usage and make corrections in each of at least four sentences;
16. indicate the correct mark of punctuation to be used in at least four sentences and choose an applicable rule for each from a supplied list;
17. encircle letters that should be capitalized in a supplied business excerpt;
18. locate and correct errors in the expression of numbers in at least four sentences that contain one or more errors in the expression of numbers; and
19. find and correct errors in the use of abbreviations in at least four given sentences.

  2. Numbers written in figures

VII. SUGGESTED PROCEDURES, STRATEGIES, AND LEARNING ACTIVITIES

There are many instructional approaches to learning grammar and punctuation. A variety of techniques should be used to maintain a high level of interest. In individualized instruction, student progress is more rapid; mastery of each unit is measured before students progress to the next unit. Programed materials are excellent but few students can make satisfactory progress with programed materials alone.

A. Learning Activity Packages

It is suggested that a teacher-prepared unit of work be assigned to each student. It should include objectives as well as activities. A sample unit is supplied in the Appendix of this course.

B. Small Groups

Filmstrips for reinforcement drill in problem areas could be viewed by small groups of ten or less students. Discussion of problem areas in this type of group is also an extremely effective technique.

C. Teacher-Prepared Tapes

Individuals or small groups could listen to audiotapes that the teacher has prepared for each unit. It is easier to tape explanations for frequently-asked questions than to answer the same questions thirty times. If there are adequate facilities in the classroom or if a learning resource center is available in the school, it is suggested that the teacher also prepare videotapes that show the diagraming of sentences, letter structure, and other similar activities. The county-prepared videotape for Touch Typing entitled Parts of Letters, #11S-MP-26, would be appropriate for students who have not viewed the tape prior to this course. Students enjoy the responsibility of setting up the equipment before listening to the tapes, but they should be checked thoroughly on correct procedures.

D. Practice Drills

Drills for practice should be provided for each unit. Progress checks should be made by the teacher as soon as drills have been completed (or a key could be provided so that the student could evaluate his/her own progress). Some students may need more drill than others; therefore, a short pretest for each unit might be a very useful tool for the teacher in determining how much drill should be assigned to each student.

E. Original Sentences and Paragraphs

A great deal of practice in composing sentences and paragraphs should be provided. During this process, all students should be encouraged to interact with the teacher on an individual basis so that immediate feedback can be provided.

F. Special Activities

Although there is little time to cover all the course material, an occasional change of pace during the first few minutes of the class period is recommended. Such an activity would be a "spoonful of sugar" to sweeten up the monotony of drill. Several suggested activities follow:

TYPE	PROCEDURE
Original sentences	Allow approximately five minutes at the beginning of the period for the students to write original sentences describing anything they have learned about sentence structure. Have them exchange papers, pick the most entertaining sentence on the paper, and read it aloud. A list of the best ones could be posted on the bulletin board.
Parts of speech game	Tell students that they are helping you write a paragraph by supplying the parts of speech that are missing. Let individuals in the class supply missing words and then read the completed version aloud. In preparation for this activity, the teacher could write on a transparency a paragraph with words missing and display it to the class on an overhead projector.
Illustrating parts of speech used in a poem	Choose a poem that emphasizes one part of speech and have students read and pick out all words illustrating this part of speech. An example to illustrate adjectives and adverbs would be Elinor Wylie's "Pretty Words."

VIII. EVALUATIVE INSTRUMENTS

Each unit of work should be tested. If progress is to be based on the mastery of the unit, there must be a minimum passing score before the student can progress to the next unit. A minimum score of 80 percent is suggested on the final test. Grading can be based on the number of units successfully mastered. A suggested list of evaluative items are given. Some units of work are tested with closely related units.

TYPE	PROCEDURE
A. Business Excerpt	Proofreading practice to find errors and apply rules by correcting errors in grammar and mechanics
B. Original Paragraph	To determine if the student can apply studied grammar principles to his writing

TYPE	PROCEDURE
C. Recognizing Subjects and Predicates	To determine if the student can identify correctly the subject and predicate of a sentence
D. Classifying Sentences as Compound, Complex, or Simple	To determine if the student can recognize dependent and independent clause functions in sentences
E. Noun Plurals and Possessives	To test the student's ability to form plurals and possessive forms for nouns, pronouns, proper names, foreign nouns, etc.
F. Pronoun Choice	To determine if the student can use correctly the nominative, objective, and possessive forms of pronouns
G. Verb Usage	To measure the student's understanding of rules for selecting correct verb forms and making each agree with its subject
H. Adjective and Adverb Choices	To determine if the student can identify the correct modifier
I. Preposition and Conjunction Usage	To determine if the student can locate and correct errors in preposition and conjunction usage
J. Recognizing Parallel Structure	To measure the student's ability to recognize balanced sentences and parts of sentences
K. Using Correct Punctuation	To determine if the student can apply the rules of punctuation that he studied
L. Capitalization, Abbreviation, and Number Usage	To measure the student's understanding of the rules that govern mechanics of English

SAMPLE ASSIGNMENT SHEET FOR THE SENTENCE

Rationale:

Most of you can readily supply the definition for a sentence, but how many of you always write complete sentences? Since the sentence is the core of language, it is logical to begin your study of grammar here. This unit will help you to recognize complete, coherent sentences. To identify complete sentences you must be able to select the subjects and predicates in the sentences. You will review the simple, compound, or complex structure of sentences.

Materials to be used:

1. Selected basic textbook
2. Pretest
3. Practice exercises
4. Programed material
5. Final test
6. Prepared keys for practice material

Time: Maximum of four class periods

Instructions:

1. Take the pretest before you do the activities. The key for checking the test is on the teacher's desk. If you score above 80 percent, consult with your teacher for permission to take the final test without completing the activities.
2. For the listed activities you will check your own work. This work is not to be turned in. It is your drill work.
3. Feel free to consult with the teacher at any time if you do not understand a rule.

Performance Goals:

The student after completing activities will be able with 80 percent accuracy to:

1. identify the subjects by underlining once, and predicates by underlining twice, in 25 sentences;
2. correctly identify complete sentences from a list of 20 sentences;
3. classify each of 20 sentences as simple, compound, or complex.

Activities:

1. Take the pretest and check your answers. This will indicate areas where you need practice.

Activities, continued

2. Read the assigned chapter in your textbook and complete practice drills. Check and correct errors.
3. Using assigned programed materials, do frames or lessons for sentences.
4. Take the final test. If your score is below the minimum passing score, plan with your teacher for additional practice drills and retake the test.

TURN THE PAGE AND BEGIN PRETEST

Note: Testing material is not included. The teacher may choose any sentences that match objectives for the pretest, practice drills, and final test.

SUGGESTIONS FOR EVALUATIVE ITEMS

Tests are available in the Instructor's Manual for the textbook and in programmed materials. These can be supplemented by teacher-made tests.

A. Business Excerpt

Use a chosen article or part of an article omitting capitalization, punctuation, and leaving errors in grammar usage.

B. Original Paragraph

Suggested subjects: My Plans for Earning a Living, Why Clear and Accurate Use of English is Important, The Person I Most Admire.

C. Recognizing Subjects and Predicates

In the following sentences, underline the subjects once and the predicates twice.

1. All signs point to a change in the stock market.
2. I believe both you and they will be pleased with the attractive prices.

D. Classifying Sentences

On the blank line, identify each sentence as either complex, compound, or simple.

- _____ 1. Mr. Watson prepared the report, and Miss James sent it by airmail.
- _____ 2. Is there any difference between a shirtwaist and a blouse?
- _____ 3. If it is possible, I would like the report to be typed.

E. Noun Plurals and Possessives

Write the singular plural in the first answer column, the singular possessive in the second column, and the plural possessive in the third answer column:

	Singular Plural	Singular Possessive	Plural Possessive boss	1.	2.	3.
attorney	4.	5.	6.
man-of-war	7.	8.	9.

F. Pronoun Choice

Select the correct pronoun from those given in parentheses.

1. She didn't tell (we, us) girls the truth.
2. You can count on both Jean and (she, her).

G. Verb Usage

Write a plus sign in the space provided if a sentence is correct. Draw a line through the error in each incorrect sentence, and write the correct form in the space provided.

_____ 1. If I was you, I'd drive more carefully.

_____ 2. When that time arrives, we will all be dead for many years.

H. Adjective and Adverb Choices

Select and encircle the one correct word in parentheses in each sentence.

1. I thought she looked (beautiful, beautifully) today.

2. If you just speak (sharp, sharply), the dog will behave.

I. Preposition and Conjunction Usage

Circle the correct word of the two given in parentheses.

1. Pretend (that, like) you do not notice the new clerk's nervousness.

2. Do not leave (without, unless) you first turn out the lights.

J. Parallel Structure

Choose one sentence from each pair that does not violate parallel structure.

Pair 1:

a. I expected him to be angry and to reprimand her.

b. I expected him to be angry and that he would scold her.

K. Punctuation

Punctuate the following sentences; then circle the number or numbers that identify the punctuation you have supplied.

1. apostrophe

2. comma

3. semicolon

4. quotation marks

5. colon

6. question mark

1 2 3 4 5 6 This is not my book but you may read it if you like.

1 2 3 4 5 6 I have known the shock of young men who look like the kings of Wall Street and speak like shoe clerks.

L. Capitalization, Abbreviation, and Number Usage

Underline any incorrect capitalization, abbreviation, or use of numbers in each of the following sentences. Write your correction in the blank provided. Write a plus (+) if a sentence is correct in all respects.

_____ 1. Ray Benson, Senior, is now on the council.

_____ 2. If you take advantage of the twenty percent discount, the pencils will cost you less than two cents each.

_____ 3. Bangor, Me., is the site of a new community college.

M. Punctuation Matching

Place the identifying letter (Column B) in the parentheses next to the item that describes it in Column A.

Column A	Column B
( ) 1. used for important events and documents	a. period
( ) 2. used at the end of an imperative sentence	b. question mark
{ } 3. used in dates and addresses	c. exclamation point
{ } 4. used after an interrogative sentence	d. comma
{ } 5. used to set off titles of chapters within a book	e. colon
{ } 6. used to show the omission of a letter	f. dash
{ } 7. used to set off unrelated words in a sentence	g. quotation marks
{ } 8. used between hours and minutes	h. capital letter
{ } 9. denotes ownership or possession	i. semicolon
{ } 10. used for proper nouns and adjectives	j. apostrophe

N. Adjective and Adverb
