ABSTRACT

Aimed at teaching young men some of the skills they will need in "home management" whether they live as bachelors or husbands, the course is intended for use at the junior high or senior high grade level. The curriculum guide is offered as a planning and teaching aid. Supporting concepts, objectives, and student performance objectives are stated for each unit, and the material is presented in outline form and organized according to content and generalizations, teaching strategies, learning, evaluating experiences, and corresponding resources. Some of the topics treated in the course are: social development, family, career development, clothing selection, nutrition, management for food preparation, child development, the role of the consumer, banking, credit, financial security, and the responsibilities of and factors influencing home selection and management. Suggested resource materials are varied and conveniently correlated to the topic being taught. Classroom materials include games, self-evaluation checklists, overhead transparencies, case studies, sample tests and forms, puzzles, and a play script. A list of books, booklets and pamphlets, case studies, charts, films, filmstrips, kits, periodicals, posters, slides, teaching guides and units, and transparency masters is offered. A list of publishers addresses concludes the guide. (MW)

FOREWORD

This guide was developed to be used as a resource guide in planning and teaching a home economics course for young men at either the junior high or senior high level.

The purpose of a bachelor living course is to teach young men some of the skills they will need in "home management" whether they live as a bachelor or a husband.

It is important to plan carefully for introducing this class into the curriculum. If such a class fails, it will be difficult to initiate another class for some time.

The following are some thoughts which may aid a teacher in planning for a bachelor living class:

1. Young men in our society today are not necessarily uncomfortable assuming homemaking responsibilities. Their generation has become accustomed to working mothers and responsibilities shared by all family members. They can enjoy and take pride in homemaking activities quite naturally.
2. Boys like action; they like to be involved in activities and are curious about the "why" of what they are doing. The scientific approach appeals to boys.
3. While some boys may be boisterous, these same boys work diligently when they are interested and encouraged.
4. Boys of the same age and/or grade level will vary greatly in maturity and ability to work independently on projects.

The guide was edited by Pat Schrader, Editor, Curriculum Development Center, University of Kentucky.

The cover and other art work were designed by Raymond Gilmore, Staff Artist, Curriculum Development Center, University of Kentucky.

A. Personality Development 1. Personality is a composite of personal characteristics that make each person unique.	Note to teacher: As an interest approach, prepare a bulletin board entitled "Keys to Personality Plus For Men" which contains seven large keys. Read references and formulate an individual definition of personality. Compare individual definitions and choose the best definition.	Bulletin Board Suggestion:  Dictionary Books: No. 46, Teen Guide to Homemaking, 3rd ed., p. 52. No. 4, Call Me Mister, pp. 196-203. No. 47, Thresholds to Adult Living, Ch. 2.

Brainstorm desirable personality traits and list them on the chalkboard.

Define and discuss the meaning of each personality trait listed.

Note to teacher: Ask the students to choose the seven personality traits which they feel are most important to forming a good personality and label the seven keys on the bulletin board with these traits.

View a filmstrip which depicts how one's unique personality is projected to others.

Recall personality traits that are undesirable.

Circle all personality traits in the puzzle found in the Appendix.

Differentiate between the desirable and undesirable personality traits found in the puzzle, and list them in the appropriate columns.

Define the words found in the personality puzzle.

Work a crossword puzzle from the above definitions.

View cartoon transparencies which depict personality traits.

Prepare posters similar to the transparencies.

Note to teacher: Students who do not draw may trace pictures from coloring books and make up appropriate slogan.

2. Each individual projects himself to others differently because of his unique personality.

3. With an insight into desirable and undesirable personality traits a person is able to recognize traits that may offend others and stand in the way of friendships.

Group work: Read the poem, "The Guy In The Glass." Discuss and analyze its meaning. Report the group analysis to the class.

Discuss and determine how a positive view of one's self contributes to confidence in facing new situations.

Role play reactions to various personalities to illustrate the types of behavior associated with one's self-image. The following are some examples:

- The class cut-up
- The self-centered ballplayer
- The bashful boy

Review current TV programs and note the behavior of the characters. Analyze why the characters react as they do in different situations.

Read a story in a current teen magazine such as "Harvest Home" found in Co/Ed. Describe the character's personality and how it changes in the story.

List personality traits an employer would want in an employee, and give reasons why each trait would be desirable.

Evaluation: Complete the following open-ended sentences:

- "I like myself when . . ."
- "I wish I could . . ."
- "I would like others to see me as . . ."

2. One of the first steps in the improvement of personal grooming is to recognize one's areas of strength and weakness.
3. An attractive appearance results from the following:
 - a. Planned self-improvement
 - b. Daily care
 - c. Continued effort

Note to teacher: Prepare a "Question Box" in which students may deposit questions of concern about grooming problems throughout the entire unit. Check the box daily and either discuss the questions or save them for the appropriate lesson.

Analyze strong and weak points in personal grooming by completing a check sheet.

Identify personal grooming habits that need improvement.

Am I most handsome of all,
Or am I sloppy as can be?"

7. Some available grooming aids will enhance one's personal appearance while others are nonessential.

Collect and display a variety of essential grooming aids and toilet articles. Compare costs of various products.

Select and research one of the above grooming aids. Report the following to the class:

- Purpose of product
- Cost of product
- Use of product

Group work: Collect pictures and make a collage of various grooming aids for a specific area of concern, such as the following:

Magazine, newspapers, and circulars.

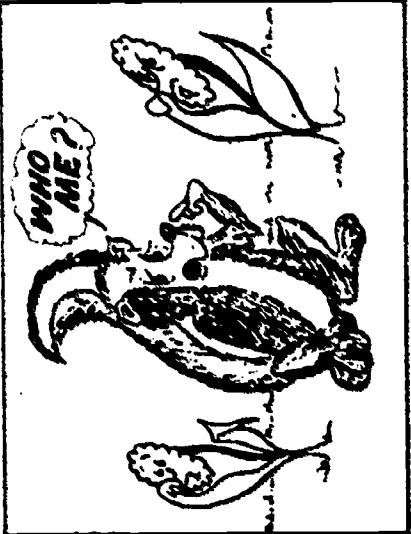

- Teeth
- Skin
- Nails
- Hair
- Shaving
- Bathing

- a. Creams
- b. Roll-ons
- c. Sprays
- d. Sticks
- e. Liquids
- f. Pads

13. One's skin type and skin condition will determine the care one's skin needs.

14. Acne is an inflammation of the oil glands and hair follicles on the face, neck, chest, shoulders and back.

15. Cleanliness is basic to a healthy skin condition and appearance.

Distinguish between deodorants and anti-perspirants.

Collect and display different types of men's deodorants.

Discuss function and/or effectiveness of each type of deodorant on display.

Write an advertisement for a favorite soap or deodorant.

Note to teacher: Answer questions from the "question box" pertaining to complexion or body care.

Brainstorm to list some skin types and skin conditions.

View a suitable filmstrip which illustrates the cause and care of acne.

or

Read references to find the cause and care of acne conditions. Report findings to the class.

Devise steps in normal skin care.

Designate products suitable for the skin types and skin conditions listed in the brainstorming session.

Determine the benefit of stimulation for all skin types.

Determine eating habits that may cause complexion problems.

Observe the agar or gelatin under a microscope or a magnifying glass.

Relate the findings of the above experiment to the need for constant hand care.

Examine suitable equipment for the care of hands and nails and observe a demonstration of the correct procedures for using this equipment.

Decide how the information concerning the care of hands and nails applies to the care of feet and toenails.

View a transparency on the care of feet and shoes.

Collect pictures of hair styles. Discuss how one may determine his hair style by considering his age, face shape, head shape and the occasion for which the hair is being groomed.

Group work: Research the history of hair styles and their social significance through the ages. Report findings to the class.

Cite examples of selecting hairstyles to suit the kind of activities in which one participates.

Read references to determine hairstyles most suitable to variations of the following:

- Personal features
- Head shapes
- Face shapes
- Hair types

Draw or find a picture which illustrates your choice of hairstyle. Defend your choice.

18. A pedicure--care of feet and toenails--is equally as important as the care of the hands and finger nails.

19. Attractive hair styles need to be chosen according to one's age, face shape, head shape, and occasion rather than by following popular fads.

20. The current variety of hair styles allows for freedom to express one's personality by the hair styles one chooses.

2. Dating

Note to teacher: Prepare a bulletin board entitled "Do You Rate As a Date?" Display the cartoon character Lucy, fishing. Provide fish cut-outs which the student will label later.

Bulletin Board Suggestion:

- a. Dating is a means of becoming acquainted with opinions, attitudes, ideas, qualities and characteristics of members of the opposite sex.

Survey students in the school to determine qualities and characteristics boys and girls like and dislike in a dating partner. Report to the class significant findings. Compile a list of desirable and undesirable characteristics of a date. Label fish on bulletin board with these characteristics.

or

Buzz groups: Compile two lists of desirable and undesirable dating characteristics, one for a boy and one for a girl. Use these characteristics to label the fish for the bulletin board.

Using the compiled list of desirable and undesirable traits, decide which traits apply to you by answering the following questions:

- Would you choose yourself as a friend?
- What are your strong points?
- Which traits need improvement?
- Other appropriate questions chosen by the class

SUPPORTING CONCEPTS:

- A. Social and Psychological Aspects of Clothing

- B. Factors to Consider in Individual Clothing Selection

- C. Factors to Consider in the Purchase of Clothing

- D. Care of Clothing

- E. Basic Clothing Construction Techniques

UNIT OBJECTIVE: By participating in the activities suggested in this unit, the student will demonstrate his ability to personally manage his clothing through careful selection and purchase, proper care, and basic clothing construction techniques.

STUDENT PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES: The student will:

- A. State the factors that influence the type of clothing we wear.

- B. Utilize the principles and elements of design in clothing selection.

- C. Solve problems concerning the selection of clothing using the guidelines of quality and buymanship presented in the unit.

- D. Exhibit the ability to personally care for and maintain clothing.

- E. Demonstrate basic clothing construction techniques by making a simple garment.

b. A fad is an item of dress that usually does not last long in the fashion world.

Complete the fashion games for guys.

Read information on fashions and fads.

Identify fad items that are currently in style in men's fashions.

Participate in buzz groups and list reasons why fads are popular.

Discuss the question, "How may one determine when to buy basic garments and when to buy fad garments of lesser quality?"

Bring to class a fad item and tell the following about the item:

- How much it cost
- How satisfactory it was in your total wardrobe
- How serviceable it was

Create a display of the fad items.

Evaluation: Write a case study in which someone had to decide between buying a fad item and a basic item. Exchange case studies and give a solution to the one you read.

Bring to class items of clothing that have not held up well under wear. Explain why the clothing did not wear well.

Read for information on judging quality in the following men's clothing:

- Shirts

MAJOR CONCEPT: III. Men, Man the Food

SUPPORTING CONCEPTS: A. Selecting Nutritious Foods

B. Table and Meal Service

C. Management for Food Preparation

D. Dining Out

UNIT OBJECTIVE: By participating in the activities suggested in this unit, the student will develop some skills in selecting, preparing, and serving foods and in dining out.

STUDENT PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES: The student will:

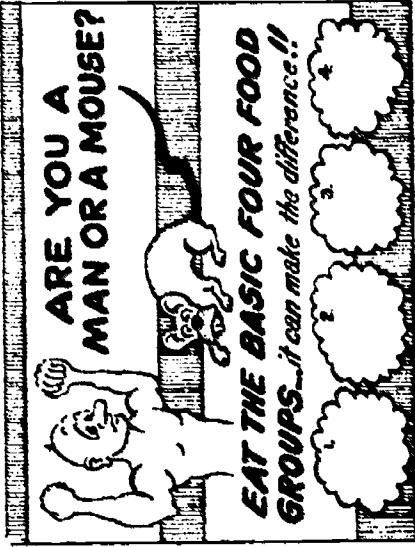

A. State the significance of the basic four food groups in a well balanced diet.

B. Demonstrate the use of correct table setting, meal service and table manners.

C. Practice safety, cleanliness habits, and basic food preparation techniques while working together in the laboratory.

D. Practice acceptable manners and the role and responsibilities of a host when dining out.

Add to or take away from the group's original selection to make an adequate food plan for one day, based on the basic four.

Note to teacher: Choose the best diet displayed by the groups. Use the foods they selected to complete the bulletin board. Point out how the requirements for each of the basic four food groups were fulfilled in the menu selected to use on the bulletin board.

Review foods found in each of the basic four food groups.

Play the game, "Basic Four Bingo."

c. One needs foods from each basic four group each day.

List all foods eaten for one day. Determine if the foods eaten fulfill the recommended number of servings for each of the basic food groups. Decide what foods could have been added or substituted to the diet to have provided an adequate number of servings of each of the food groups.

Ask a friend outside of your class to list the foods he ate for one day. Advise the friend if his diet contains the recommended number of servings from each group and how his diet could be altered to fulfill the basic requirements. Report the results to the class.

Plan an adequate menu for one day using the basic four foods groups as a guide.

(2) Dish washing is easier and more efficient if the following rules are observed:

- Organize dishes and supplies.
- Prepare dishes for washing.
- Practice safety.
- Wash with hot soapy water in proper order.
- Rinse in hot water.
- Air dry.
- Store dishes.
- Share responsibilities.

Note to teacher: Reward the group with the best list.

Demonstrate washing dishes correctly.

Observe a demonstration of the care and use of the dishwasher.

Develop a "cleaning code" for use in the foods laboratory.

d. Working Together In Groups

- (1) Working with others in the foods laboratory will be easier and more pleasant if each worker assumes the responsibility of the job assigned.

Group work: Determine the following:

- The qualities of a good group member
- Personal characteristics of good workers
- Guide for working together effectively
- Ways of distributing jobs
- Other hints for working together in groups

View a filmstrip which depicts a father preparing a steak dinner and his need to plan ahead and organize his time to prevent disaster in the kitchen.

Read references and determine why it is important to have a work schedule when preparing a meal at home as well as when working together in a foods laboratory.

Define dovetailing and determine how dovetailing can save time and energy.

List ideas that can save time when preparing meals at home.

Using the above list, place a check by each item that would also save energy when preparing a meal.

Decide how tasks may be simplified to conserve energy.

(1) A workable time schedule aids the preparation and service of foods.

(2) Dovetailing means doing two or more things at the same time and is necessary in meal preparation if all foods for the meal are to be ready at the same time.

b. Energy

(1) The organization of activities in meal preparation saves energy as well as time.

(2) The following is a list of energy saving food preparation ideas:

---Arrange work space for convenience.

- Additional information given on the labels

Note to teacher: As an interest approach, prepare the suggested poster or bulletin board concerning advertisements. Display advertisements in the puffs of smoke.

Suggested poster or bulletin board:

- (4) Comparison shopping using the advertisements in the newspaper helps one save money and plan shopping before going to the market.

Read a newspaper to compare the methods of advertising used by various stores. Look carefully at items advertised and determine if any food is cheaper at one store than another.

Answer the following questions:

- Do the advertisements tell the quality of the food?
- Do they tell the size?
- Do they tell the brand names?

Compare an item found in more than one advertisement and select the best buy. Point out how the decision was made.

d. Materials

Brainstorm how money may be saved by the way food is utilized and stored.

Determine ways the misuse of food may add to the cost, such as the following:

- Buying in too large a quantity to use or store properly
- Wasting food in preparation such as peeling away too much of the potato, etc.
- Other misuses

(1) The way food is stored affects the amount of food waste.

5. Planning a Simple Meal Using Convenience Foods

a. Meal Planning

- (1) Things to be considered in meal planning include the following:
 - People to be served
 - Foods needed for growth
 - Cost of the food
 - Appearance and taste of the food
 - Time available
- (2) A wise selection of various foods results in a meal with pleasing color, flavor, texture, and variety.

Evaluation: Draw the name of a food and complete the following activities:

- Write the forms in which the food can be purchased or prepared.
- Suggest some ways the food may be prepared.
- List cooking techniques or rules to follow in the preparation of the food.
- State the characteristics of the food when it is prepared correctly.
- Suggest ways the food may be served.

View a filmstrip about planning and serving attractive meals.

List the criteria for good meal planning.

Study pictures of various meals. Discuss the meals for variety in form, texture, flavor, and color.

E. Dining Out

1. For most people eating in a restaurant is a special treat; however, people who must eat in restaurants enjoy a home cooked meal.
2. Eating out may mean either dining in an exclusive dining room or in a cafeteria, a drug store, a snack bar, or a drive-in.
3. There are special terms used in menus to describe the way meals are served and priced.
4. Good manners are important in public places. Knowing the correct way to act saves embarrassment.

Brainstorm reasons for eating out.

Compile a list of local places to dine and determine the following about each place listed:

- Type of dress appropriate
- Type of service
- Kinds of food served
- Approximate costs
- Time it takes to be served
- Formality

Define and discuss terminology such as a'la carte, table d'hote, au jus, entree', smorgasbord, cafeteria, ordering, tipping, etc.

Study a sample menu from a local restaurant.

Find an a'la carte listing of foods and compare cost with a complete meal (table d'hote). Decide which you would choose and which costs more.

Describe embarrassing situations that have occurred or might occur while eating out. The following are some examples:

- Not having enough money to pay the bill
- Dropping a piece of silver
- Overturning a glass of water
- Other situations

Discuss how to cope with or avoid embarrassing situations.

b. Allowances

- (1) An allowance is money given by parents to a child on a regular basis to cover all or some of his personal expenses.
- (2) An allowance gives young people the opportunity to manage money and introduces them to living within a given income.

c. Dole

- (1) The dole is a hand-out system in which parents give money to a child as it is needed.

Define allowance.

Read references to determine the advisability of providing allowances for teenagers.

Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of an allowance as a way of teaching money management.
Include the following:

- Always have definite amount
- Can plan purchases according to amount of money
- May have less money to spend
- Inability or unwillingness to manage money this way
- Other advantages and disadvantages

Explain the responsibilities assumed by both the parents and the teenagers when the allowance system is used.

Answer the question, "What is the 'dole' system?"

MAJOR CONCEPT VI: A Man's Castle

SUPPORTING CONCEPTS: A. Factors Influencing the Selection of a Home

B. Selecting Furniture For The Home

C. Male Role and Responsibilities in the Home

UNIT OBJECTIVE: Upon completion of this unit the student will be able to analyze factors related to housing need'.

STUDENT PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES: The student will:

- A. Evaluate house plans as to how they would meet the needs of a family or an individual.
- B. Defend his choice of a piece of furniture including its cost, comfort, style, function, appearance, and construction.
- C. Make a list of safety and maintenance responsibilities one assumes when renting or buying a home.

Play "The Match Game."

Note to teacher: To play "The Match Game" divide the class into two teams. Members from opposing teams will compete individually. Hold up a picture which represents a stage in the family life cycle. The first of the two competing team members to ring a bell are given the opportunity to answer which stage in the life cycle the picture represents and the type of housing that would be suitable for that family. Points are given for each correct answer. The team with the most points wins.

b. Life Style

Life is the animate existence of an individual. Style is a particular distinctive or characteristic mode of action or manner of activity. Therefore, life style may be defined as "how an individual lives."

Define life style.

Describe trends in today's life style that may affect housing selection such as the following:

- Mobility
- Population pattern changes
- Shorter work week with more leisure time
- Changes in the roles of family members

Conduct a survey to determine the number of families that have moved in or out of a given area within the past year. Compile class findings.

Interview parents or neighbors to determine how they think their life style differs from their parents and the effect this change made on their housing selection. Report findings to class.

(2) Housing provides a setting for the social development of individuals and families.

(3) Having space to entertain friends in one's home provides an individual security in his social development.

(4) Housing which is a source of pride allows a family to make satisfying social adjustments.

(5) The need for self-expression may be satisfied through the housing environment by providing a place for the following individual activities:

- Developing hobbies and interests
- Raising a garden, flowers or potted plants
- Using decorating skills to provide a pleasing atmosphere
(cont.)

Determine the social implications of housing. Prepare a mural to illustrate the relationship between your choice of housing and the educational, recreational, and cultural resources in the community.

Using a circular response, list the types of entertainment and recreational activities which the home provides and the space required for each activity listed.

Plan some "at-home" activities which would increase an individual's pride in his home and/or make better provisions for the development of friendships. This plan may include the following:

- Providing additional recreational facilities for the entire family
- Clean-up projects
- Providing areas for privacy
- Providing additional storage space
- Decorating projects
- Other activities

2. Types of Housing

- a. Making a housing choice is more difficult today because of the wide variety of housing types on the market.

As an interest approach, view pictures depicting a variety of types of dwellings. Name and define each type of dwelling as the picture is viewed.

Note to teacher: The pictures prepared for viewing will need to include the following types:

- Apartments
- Mobile homes (various sizes)
- Duplexes
- Condominiums
- Town houses
- Split level houses
- Prefab houses
- Ranch style houses
- One, one and one half, and two story houses
- Ultra-modern style homes
- Other types of housing

View the pictures of types of housing again and determine how many families and/or how many members of a single family could live comfortably in each type of dwelling.

- Arrangement

Divide into buzz groups and discuss storage problems related to seasonal items found in most households.

Note to teacher: Ask each buzz group to choose one person to serve on a panel to report on the conclusions of the group.

Listen to a panel discussion of good storage for seasonal items.

Collect and share pictures of accessories or examples of accessories which aid in the arrangement of articles in storage. Evaluate these accessories from the standpoint of cost, durability, and serviceability.

or

Collect and mount pictures of well-arranged storage areas. Tell why you consider them well arranged and suggest any improvements that could be made.

3. Housing Layouts

- a. Well-planned homes are zoned into different areas.
- b. Floor plans that are well designed have short, direct traffic lanes that do not cut through the main parts of any room.

Note to teacher: Prepare transparencies of floor plans or use some other technique which will allow the student to view floor plans which illustrate the following areas:

- Rest
- Storage
- Work
- Recreation
- Entertainment
- Eating
- Food preparation

View floor plans of houses and identify each area of each home according to its use. Discuss how well these areas of each home viewed are grouped and how they relate to each other.

Read reference on traffic patterns.

Choose a floor plan from newspapers or magazines. Using colored pencils or crayons, draw traffic lanes on the floor plan. Evaluate the traffic patterns of this floor plan for both circulation and privacy using the following criteria:

- Traffic lanes that go between zones but not through them
- Doors that close together or rear corners to save steps and allow for ease in furniture arrangement
- Entrances that distribute traffic to all areas
- Bathroom doors located for privacy
- Food preparation area close to the food serving area

Listen to a real estate agent discuss physical construction features that should be sound when selecting a house to purchase.

Collect illustrations of windows, doorways, roof lines, chimney styles and other structural features. Determine the structural problems that may be associated with each feature.

Role play a real estate agent showing a couple both old and new houses. Determine some questions that might be asked to help the couple make a decision.

Read and discuss references about the following:

- Precut components of prefabricated houses
- Custom built homes

Estimate and compare the costs of the two above types of houses. Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of each type.

Study trade magazines and advertisements to learn a variety of exterior construction materials such as the following:

- Aluminum
- Glass
- (cont.)

(2) Knowing the name and function of a variety of structural features will enable a prospective home buyer to

- understand the salesman's explanations,
- learn more about the house by asking intelligent questions,
- make more realistic appraisal of the home.

c. Heating and Cooling

(1) There are a variety of heating systems used in houses today such as the following:

- Forced warm-air heating
- Forced hot-water heating
- Central-heat pump
- Radiant heating

(2) Each heating system has advantages and limitations that may influence the final selection of a house.

Organize a panel to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the following:

- Materials commonly used for windows
- A variety of window styles

Determine how the above materials and styles may affect the following:

- Natural lighting
- Appearance
- View
- Heat loss
- Privacy
- Ventilation
- Decoration

Survey the class to determine the types of heating systems used in individual homes.

d. Electrical Wiring

(1) A knowledge of some electrical terms is essential for the understanding and judging of the household electrical systems.

Read references and define the following electrical terms:

- Lighting outlet
- Receptacle
- Grounding wire
- Meter
- Ampere
- Volt
- Panel box or fuse box
- Circuits
- Main switch
- Fuses
- Circuit breakers
- Kilowatt
- Watt

Prepare a checklist for determining the number, type, and location of electrical outlets needed in homes of the following sizes:

- Under 1200 square feet
- 1200 to 2000 square feet
- Over 2000 square feet

(2) Adequate wiring is necessary to safely provide for the following:

- Household equipment
- Background lighting
- Decorative lighting

Observe an electrician as he uses a blueprint of a house to point out adequate wiring.

Analyze blueprints of house plans to determine if adequate wiring is planned.

Determine the signs and dangers of inadequate wiring as applied to your home.

Discuss the steps to follow when replacing a fuse. Make a chart of the fuse box at home and indicate the areas in the house controlled by different fuses.

Resources

Suggested resource persons: industrial arts teacher or other knowledgeable teacher or student.

Book No. 28, Homes With Character, pp. 308-309.

Observe a resource person demonstrate the rewiring of a plug and the repair of an electrical cord.

Make or repair an extension cord, a lamp, a nightlight or any electrical appliance cord.

Take field trips to various types of housing available in the community such as a new house, an older house, a mobile home and an apartment.

Observe the following:

- Floor plans
- Traffic patterns
- Storage
- Structural conditions
- Building materials
- Heating
- Electrical wiring

Evaluation: Answer the following questions about the house plan you have previously chosen.

- Would it be structurally sound?
- What type of building materials would you use if you were building this house?
- How would you plan to have this house heated and cooled?
- Is the wiring shown on the plan adequate? If not, what needs to be added?

5. Economic Factors

- a. The same type of house may vary in cost due to the following:
 - (1) Location
 - (2) Taxes
 - (3) Insurance
 - (4) Type of financing
 - (5) Luxury additions made by the owner

- b. In buying a home the following factors are used as a standard guide:
 - (1) The cost of the house may not exceed two and one-half times the annual income.
 - (2) The monthly house payment may not exceed one fourth the monthly income.

Make a collection of advertisements of houses for sale. Select several two or three bedroom home examples and make a chart showing the price range. Discuss the reasons for the differences in price.

Find out the current interest rates on home mortgages charged by various lenders in the community.

Compare the costs of a specific house using different methods of financing such as:

- FHA loan for 15 years
- FHA loan for 30 years
- Conventional loan for 15 years
- Conventional loan for 30 years

Using the chalkboard, compute the approximate amount a family could spend for buying a home if they had a certain income.

Brainstorm why a family might be able to pay more or less money for housing than the standard guide. Compile a list of variables that would cause a difference in a family's housing expenditures. Include the following:

- A small family could have fewer expenses in other areas and may wish to spend more on housing.
- A couple may have a large savings and may wish to use it all on a down payment to purchase a more expensive house.
- A family may have large medical expenses and be unable to pay a very large house payment.
- A family with many members might have large expenses on education or other needs they felt more important.

Bulletin board idea:

2. Furniture comes in many qualities and the cheapest is not necessarily the least expensive because it may have the least quality per dollar cost.

3. A knowledge of furniture quality helps one recognize true sales savings and will help one get better quality furniture in any price range.

Discuss factors which should be considered when purchasing furniture, such as:

- Cost
- Service and durability
- Comfort
- Suitability /
- Ease of care
- Aesthetic value

Observe and discuss indications of good furniture construction such as the following:

- Dowel joint
- Mortise and tenon
- Smooth drawer operations
- Corner block screwed rather than nailed
- Other indications

Examine different kinds of wood or wood samples.

Discuss such terms as solid wood, veneer, genuine and finish.

PERSONAL PLAN FOR SELF IMPROVEMENT

Personal Trait I Want To Develop	Why I Want To Develop This Trait	My Plan For Developing This Trait	What I Did	Results

THE GUY IN THE GLASS

When you get what you want in your struggle for self
And the world makes you king for a day,
Then go to your mirror and look at yourself
To see what the guy has to sa .

For it isn't your father or mother or wife
Whose judgement upon you must pass,
The fellow whose verdict counts most in your life
Is the guy staring back from the glass.

He's the man you must please, never mind all the rest
For he's with you clear to the end,
And you've passed your most difficult, dangerous test
If the man in the glass is your friend.

You may be like another and "Chisel" a plum
And think you're a wonderful guy,
But the man in the glass says you're only a bum
If you don't look him straight in the eye.

You can fool the whole world down the pathway of years and get pats on the back as you pass,
But your final reward will be heartaches and tears
If you've cheated the guy in the glass.

THE GROOMING GAME

Spinner: Make a spinner from cardboard with a construction paper arrow and a brass brad. It should be approximately 8 1/2" x 10" and contain the numbers 1 - 10.

Game Board: Reproduce the game board from the example and tape it together.

Tokens: Make tokens from various colors of construction paper. They should contain names of the following grooming characters:

--Sam Skin ✦

--Freddie Foot

--Terry Tooth

--Henry Hair

--Clean Shaven John

Directions: Divide the class into groups of 4 or 5 players. Each group has a spinner and a game board, and each player has a token. Each player spins once. The player who lands on the lowest number in each group begins the game on the square marked "Go." Players spinning successively higher numbers take their turns in order. Each player spins to move and moves his token around the board counter-clockwise following the numbers toward 40 and "You Win" unless directed by the square on which he lands to move backwards. Each player follows the instructions for the square on which he lands before the next player spins to move. As the player nears the finish, he must spin the exact number required to land on 40 or "You Win" square. If a player spins too high, he does not move. The game is a matter of luck. However, in the real life grooming game, it takes more than luck to be a winner.

MANNERS-GO-ROUND

Manners-Go-Round is an information-giving classroom game intended to inform Home Economics students of current and acceptable behaviors at home, school, church, on dates, in restaurants, movies, at parties, dances or just walking in the park.

The manners given are for both boys and girls so each can learn what role to expect from the other as well as for themselves. It is very good for use with disadvantaged youths.

The object of the game is to travel around the path to the finish. The moves are made according to the directions given on the cards drawn by the players which contain manner rhymes.

To start the game divide the students in the classroom into two teams, Group I and Group II. Separate the cards and shuffle well. Put the cards in a pile face down. It may be necessary for the teacher or someone so designated to pass the cards from one group of players to the other if they cannot be placed within reach. A player from Group I draws the top card from the pile and reads aloud the manner rhyme. He moves from "Start" the number of spaces indicated on the card. A player from Group II follows in turn. Each time a new card is drawn a new player in the group draws and reads aloud the manner rhyme. He moves the playing piece unless someone has been so designated. Each group is represented by a different color playing piece. Players from each group begin at the Start and travel in the direction of the arrows around the circles. When a card is drawn that indicates to move backward, the player counts the space next to the one he occupies, the same as moving forward. Two players may occupy the same space.

If all cards are used and the game is not finished, reshuffle the cards and use the pile over again.

The first group to reach "Finish" wins the game.

Don't be a fool, No fighting at school, Just play it cool, and obey the rule! Move ahead two; remember what not to do!	How crude and rude of Dick to eat, A sandwich while walking down the street, Perhaps, he nibbles on the roam, Because he's starved by his folks at home! Move ahead three; are you alone?
Sex and marriage, Go together like a horse and carriage, You were told by mother, You can't have one without the other. Move back two; let this be a lesson to you.	While you are eating, do not chat, Constantly of this and that. Select a subject that's pleasant and you'll see, The meal will be better for you and me, Move ahead three!
The boy I date is polite, To go out with him is delight. He acts as a gentleman should do, And remembers to say, "Please and thank you!" Move ahead two!	You are out with Ted, and up comes Nan, But even if she'd like your man, You politely say, "Nan, this is Ted." Name lad to gal, not gal to lad. Move forward one, Isn't this fun?
Though perfect grooming is good to see, Please don't show us how it came to be. Renew your make-up, comb your hair, Where there is no one near to watch and stare, Move ahead two; does that please you?	No guy who wants to impress his date, Will stand around and watch and wait, While she struggles with her coat, you see. But helps her take it off with glee, And you can move ahead by three.

It may be a bore to learn, All the do's and don'ts and will's and won'ts. But you may be laughed at if you don't! With good manners, move ahead three, You'll be glad you listened to me.	When you ride on a bus with Ray, You know that you should pay your way, Unless he makes a firm request, That you go with him as his guest. Move ahead three, honey bee!
When you go on a date, Give good grooming a whirl, Then you'll probably see, More of that girl. Move ahead two, as fast as you can!	When out on a date, Don't act like Calamity Jude, Even though by day you rate, The name of "Dungaree Dude." Move ahead three, the place won't be the same.
Be sure your costume is not too drastic. Suitable for the occasion, Will be most attractive, And your date will say "Fantastic": Move ahead three, and call out "whee"!	At proms and balls, this is the way. When you have had your dance with May, Return her to her date once more-- Don't leave her standing on the floor! Move ahead four!
When you finish the bubble gum treat, Don't dare throw it in the street, Act like a young lady or gentleman, By placing it in the nearest trash can. Move ahead three, that's a nice way to be.	When you do shopping, Money don't waste, Choose only items that Fit your taste. Move ahead two, time don't waste!

Try to be polite, And a sheer delight, By being sweet and kind, And not getting out of line! Move ahead three, You're as nice as can be!	When you finish with that paper, bottle or can, Don't be a litter bug, Drop it in the trash can. Move ahead two, I'm proud of you!
Go to school, Get a good education, and work for the best For your generation! Move ahead three, sounds good to me!	When eating out, Money don't waste, Choose only dishes that Suit your taste. Move ahead three, make haste!
When you have a date, Just be on time. When the date is at eight, Don't get there at nine! Move ahead two, and you're on the line.	When Dick invites you out to eat, The waiter guides you to your seat, No need to wonder what to do. You follow him, Dick follows you. Move ahead two!
When someone looks sad and dissatisfied, Like they are all torn up inside, Smile and give their back a pat, Let them know where their friends are at! Move forward two, and I'll tip my hat!	Think before you leave a person out, And hurt his feelings without a doubt, Remember all persons are equal--it is agreed, Regardless of race, color or creed! Move two ahead, if you heed!

MANNERS-GO-KOUCID

The line was long; you had to wait, You see that you will get home late. You know you should be home in bed, Think of Mom and phone ahead! Move forward two, you super kid!	You should not drag Jo'm to where, His wallet will be stripped quite bare, Unless he says, "You name the spot." "And how much it costs, matters not." Go back two, you silly tot!
When you go to the prom, Make your date proud, Don't laugh or yell or Talk too loud. She'll think you're great, as you will see! And now you can move ahead three.	Sit up straight at the table, and be very polite. And when you are finished, Thank the hostess for a nice night. Move ahead two, you were right!
When you are out among the crowd, Don't ever gossip long and loud, Don't mention names, for who can say, Who may be listening in today! Move ahead three, let's play!	When at a dance, you're sure to go, and bid the chaperon "Hello!" It's not so difficult to do, Remember that she's human too. Now move forward two, will that do?
Just now the words you'd like to write, Are "Dearest, darling, my life's light." Suppose that in five weeks or ten, She reads your letters aloud--what then? Move ahead three, am I your friend?	Good morning and goodbye, Are very nice to say, To the family you love, As you go and come each day! Move ahead three, Hurray!

The proper gifts for you and Tish, To send each other when you wish, Are pictures, flowers, candy and books, These never raise embarrassed looks. Move forward three, listen to me!	Don't ever leave a gal alone, At parties where she is not known Include her when you chat with friends, Don't let her wander at loose ends! Move ahead one and have fun!
We all must wait in vain, While Peggy chats with friends again, Perhaps she thinks that she alone, Is privileged to use the phone. Move ahead three, you'll soon be home.	A dirty joke is not a must, It may leave nothing but disgust, So though you think it does no harm, Forget the salesman and the firm. Move ahead two, don't be alarmed!
When Tom escorts you on the street, In city, town, or county seat. If he has courtesy and pride, He'll always walk on the outside. Move ahead three, don't slide!	Don't talk back to your teacher, Be polite in what you say and do, You may not always agree with her, But remember she is human too! Move ahead two!
If you and Joe must share your gal, Please be as friendly as a pal, If you fuss with her in-between She again may never be seen! Move ahead three, now I'm not so mean.	Beware of wolves! Play safe, my pet, Don't speak to guys you've never met, "I'm sure I've seen your face before!" Are words you'd do best to ignore. Move ahead four!

Be sure to greet guests at the door, "How are you, Joe?" "How nice Lenore," Escort them out when they must go, "So glad you came, Lenore and Joe." Ahead three you may go.	When playing games, you should recall, That winning trophies isn't all, If you must lose the game you play, Lose well, and win another way. Move four ahead, I hope you stay.
Don't give Bill gifts that cost a lot. Or you may find you're on a spot, How sad and silly it will look, To give a watch and get a book. Move back one, you silly snook!	Allow all males to open doors, It's one of their more manly chores, Until they do so, you should wait, Be they brother, dad or date. Move ahead four, wish it were more!
At meals you stacked the dishes high, To see if they would reach the sky, If John gets red, he's not to blame, All boys frown on such a game. Go back one, for shame for shame!	If you tell lies, to friend or foe, The very first thing you know, Your nose may grow very long, Just like Pinocchio! Move back one, now you know!
Unless you have to, never break, A date for anybody's sake. Though Jim may be your pet heart throb, If Bob asked first, you go with Bob. Move back one, don't sob!	Save us from Larry the bore, Who always wants the floor, To tell his stories long and loud, The girl he dates is not so proud. Move ahead three, don't squeal too loud!

You played around with pot and Now you're surely on the spot. You shouldn't play around with grass, Just go along and let it pass. Go back two, as a lesson to you.	To greet folks with a smile and grin, Is the best way I know to make a friend! Move ahead three, You look good to me!
We went out on an early date, You promised Mother you wouldn't be late. She told you to come home at seven, Here you come walking in at eleven. Go back two, next time remember what to do!	When Doug takes a date out for a spin, He helps her out and helps her in, He makes a very grand chauffeur, The sort of guy all gals prefer. Move ahead two, yes sir!
While you are dancing, do not chat, Constantly of this and that. Such conversations soon will pall And leave you girlless by the wall. Move ahead three, don't fall.	A gentleman talks in a quiet voice, Always sounds like he is smiling, And he will get the girl of his choice. When her phone he is dialing! Move ahead three, you're a darling.
Leave your cigarettes at home, When you come to school, Because smoking here is against the rule. Go back one, and that's no fun!	A gentleman must learn to say, Three magic words every day, "Please and thank you" shows that you Are thoughtful of others too. Move ahead three, let's play.

To make your room, A better place, Keep it clean, And make more space. Move ahead three, and stay in the race!	You should reserve your kisses for the girl, Who is a genuine pearl. Don't hand them out to every chick, But learn to exercise restraint real quick. Move back one, that's no fun.
Go to church on Sunday, Obey the golden rule, On God you can depend, Whenever you need a friend. Move ahead four, With you we'll soon score!	When you are walking down the street, And finish that candy bar so sweet, Don't drop the paper at your feet, Put it in a trash can and be neat! Move ahead three, you can't be beat!
For miles around they sneer and gawk, If you talk in baby talk, Though you believe it "Oh, so cute." Your date may much prefer you mute. Move ahead three, now does that suit?	Deliver us from John the snob, Who is always on the job, Impressing people with a lot Of tales about all the money's he's got. Move back one, you're on the spot!
You are always going around, Trying to act like a clown, Your nose is much too thin, To constantly butt in! Move back two, let this be a lesson to you.	I know a boy who had oily curls, His name was Lou, He was always blue, Girls with him would have nothing to do! Go back two!

When you go to church on Sunday, And there is something you want to say, Please wait, it's best not to whisper, Whether sitting with girlfriend or sister, Move ahead three, and the finish you will soon see!	She loves to go to proms with Jim, Because she can depend on him, To ask what color (not just a guess), Of flower will go with her dress. Move ahead two, I'm impressed.
When dining out with Fred or Si, She called out, "Bring on the pie." She should tell her date the food she'd wish, And let him order you the dish. Move back one, tish, tish!	Don't hold hands in a public spot, Don't ever bill and coo a lot, Where there are strangers who are apt, To frown at couples so enrapt. Move back one, don't run.
To tell a friend, "I'm not studying you," Is a very impolite thing to do. Stop and think how they feel, Before you scream at them for real, Move forward three, you'll get ahead, you'll see.	When callers come, you should be dressed, In something nice, if not your best. Unless you're ill, it's not "O.K." To greet them while in negligee. Move forward four, shut the door.
When you are talking in the hall, You know how time will pass, So remember, don't be late, Your teacher will think you're great. Move forward three, you are head of the class!	When Tom comes in to make a call, He'll blush to find you all asprawl, With hot pants on and legs in the air, Aren't you grown-up, or don't you care? Move back one, we'll never get done.

"MANNERS MINGO"

Manners are definitely a part of our everyday life. Manners are a set of rules that help us to do the "right thing" at the "right time." Some basic desires of all people are: 1) to be accepted by our peers, 2) to please others and 3) to feel wanted. These desires may be fulfilled if we use good manners. Manners are not inherited; we first acquire them at home, then we are influenced by all the people with whom we come into contact. All of us have manners, whether they be acceptable or unacceptable. Today, we want to play a game and also learn good manners.

The name of the game is "MANNERS MINGO" patterned after Bingo. A Bingo set is used, changing the lettering at the top of each card to appear as the sample below:

		MANNERS
M	I	N	G	O
School	Restaurant	Tea or Social Gathering	Store	Table

Directions: All players take a card and about 15 buttons to cover their numbers. They may cover the "Free" square first. The teacher first calls the numbers and places them on the check card. As a number is called, a rule of manners is read. Example: M - 6 is called and then the teacher reads "Don't run in the halls, the administrator might be tempted to enter you at Churchill Downs." The reading of numbers and manners are continued until a player covers a row vertically, horizontally or diagonally and calls, "Mingo." Everyone holds his cards and as the winner checks his numbers against the caller's check sheet, he must repeat back the same number of rules as he has numbers covered. The rules repeated must concern the situation on which he has won. For example: if he "mingo's" on the letter "M", he has to state five rules concerning school manners. If he cannot repeat the five rules, the game continues until a winner is declared.

The players who do not "Mingo" must do a homework assignment of listing as many rules read as they can remember and turn in the next day. Leave enough time to discuss any rules they are particularly interested in or which they may question.

"MANNERS MINGO"M MANNERS AT SCHOOL

1. Don't drop paper in the halls or on sidewalks.
2. Handle text and library books with care.
3. Do not scratch your name on tables or desks or write on walls.
4. Don't block traffic at doorways or on stairs by stopping to talk with friends.
5. Wait patiently your turn in the lunchroom line.
6. Be considerate of the speaker or performer in assemblies.
7. Try to control your emotions and avoid showing outbursts of temper.
8. Accept your responsibility; don't make excuses for continuous lack of responsibility.
9. Each classroom is your HOME for 55 minutes. Don't write on the tables or desks and leave the room clean for the next group to come.
10. A SMILE, THANK YOU and PLEASE are wonderful traits to win friends.
11. Remember, the school's NAME is judged by how YOU act.
12. Try to find good traits in everyone with whom you come in contact.
13. Remember, freedom is followed by responsibility.
14. Handle all equipment and materials as if you had paid for them.
15. Don't push or shove but wait your turn when waiting to enter a school function.

I. MANNERS IN A RESTAURANT

16. When you arrive at a restaurant the hostess or head waiter greets you and shows you to your table.
17. The ladies follow the hostess to the table and the gentlemen go next.
18. If no one shows you to a table, the gentlemen goes first and finds a table.
19. The gentleman draws out the chair to seat his date.
20. "Cover charge" means a set amount charged for each person at the table. This is used where there is entertainment or dancing and this fee is in addition to the food.
21. A federal cabaret tax is a fee added for later dining and dancing or entertainment.
22. A cover charge is the amount that you will have to pay regardless of how much or how little you order to eat.

23. The gentleman always checks his topcoat and hat, the lady may check her coat or she may lay it over the back of her chair.
24. The gentleman may suggest one or two dinners from the menu to give his guests some idea of what cost he is prepared to pay.
25. Guests need to be specific when making a meal selection. Never say, "I don't care" when asked what you would like to order.
26. The lady tells the gentleman her order and he orders for both of them. All conversation with the waiter should be done by the gentleman.
27. If you have a legitimate complaint about the food, the gentleman handles it in a quiet, dignified manner, so as not to cause a scene.
28. Paying the bill is the responsibility of the host or hostess who invited you. In some cases, each person pays his own bill.
29. The gentleman may ask for a bag for bones to take home to a pet.
30. Tipping is a gracious way of expressing thanks for a meal well served and is an almost universal practice. 15% of the cost of the meal is commonly paid. Lesser amounts may be expected of teenagers.

N MANNERS AT A SOCIAL GATHERING

31. Don't attend a function unless invited.
32. Try to dress appropriately for the occasion.
33. Don't be a GLUTTON when being served.
34. Thank the hostess for a nice time--or at least for the effort put forth to have the function.
35. At a tea or open house, don't stay too long; it is a way of entertaining a lot of people in a small amount of space.
36. Try to dress in accord with your date.
37. If you accidentally spill food, make as little fuss about it as possible.
38. Don't call the hostess beforehand and ask who has been invited.
39. When pouring hot drinks at a tea, you should be seated.
40. Take only a small amount of food--don't try to sample all kinds.
41. Don't go back for seconds unless urged by the hostess to do so.
42. Try to mix with all guests; don't spend all your time with close friends.
43. ANSWER an invitation if it has RSVP on it.
44. A written note of thanks to the hostess shows special thoughtfulness.

45. Don't leave a function and then return (with or without uninvited friends).

G MANNERS IN A STORE

46. Always say PLEASE and THANK YOU to show appreciation.
47. Hold the door for a lady who may be entering or leaving the store at the same time you do.
48. Obey health laws when trying on shoes; wear socks. This prevents spreading athlete's foot or other foot disorders.
49. When just looking at merchandise with no intentions of purchasing, be considerate of the saleslady's time.
50. Always leave the merchandise as neat as you found it.
51. If you knock some merchandise down from a display or shelf, pick it up.
52. If you disagree with the saleslady, be POLITE--she may have had a lot of other grouchy customers that day.
53. Don't try to return used merchandise.
54. Don't try to return merchandise to a store other than where it was bought. Sometimes they will accept it if bought from a branch store.
55. Keep the saleslips until you are satisfied with a product.
56. Don't be offended if asked to show identification for a charge or check.
57. Be considerate of the saleslady's time when shopping near closing time.
58. Stand in line, or take your turn to be waited on.
59. Count your change in front of the salesperson before returning it to your pocket. Everyone makes honest mistakes.
60. Do not squeeze or bruise fruit and vegetables or open packages in the supermarket.

O MANNERS AT HOME

61. Sit erect, feet on floor and elbows off table.
62. Say PLEASE and THANK YOU--they are two of the most important terms you will ever use.
63. Accept a small portion of all food passed to you; eat only what you want without comment.
64. Wait for your hostess or parents to begin eating.
65. If in doubt as to which silverware to use, work from the outside in.

66. Once a piece of silver has been used, never put it back on the table.
67. Place the napkin in your lap before eating; open it halfway.
68. Get food onto a fork without use of a "pusher" (i.e. fingers, bread, etc.).
69. RAISE the food to your mouth; don't bend to meet the food.
70. Chew food with mouth closed.
71. Help pass all food before beginning to eat.
72. Swallow one bite before you put another bite into your mouth.
73. Swallow food before drinking; the only exception would be if you have food in your mouth too hot to swallow. Cool it with a sip of water.
74. Don't talk with food in your mouth.
75. Let extremely hot foods cool slightly before eating them; do not blow or stir to cool. The top and outer edges of food are cooler than center.

CASE STUDY

FAMILY PATTERNS

Have you ever thought about the way families are organized? Perhaps not, for that is the kind of thing we take for granted until we meet a situation where the expectations of another person are different from our own. Take Joe and Peggy as an example. They had been married nearly a year, but they still were not able to make even simple decisions. One evening, when they mentioned their dilemma to Tim and Sue there was silence at first. Then Tim laughed and said that he and Sue agonized over decision making too, but their problem was that they were constantly making decisions that conflicted.

"I don't understand" said Peggy, "For example, when I was growing up my father would decide if we were going to a movie or whatever. There was no big fuss about it. Last Saturday Joe and I spent all morning discussing whether or not we would go bowling that evening.

"That's the way it was with my parents, too," commented Tim. "Mother didn't argue with dad about it and we three kids certainly didn't think about saying anything. It wasn't up to us, and it certainly kept peace and harmony that way."

"Well, Dad might have made some suggestions about what the family would do," said Joe, "but the decision was up to Mother. We all knew that and no one was unhappy about it!"

"Wait a minute," interrupted Sue, "maybe you have just identified our problem!"

The other three looked at her quizzically.

"Joe, you just said that you mother made the family decisions, right?" Sue continued.

"Right, when we wanted permission to do something we had to ask Mother. Why do you ask?" inquired Joe.

"Well, that's how it was with my parents, too," continued Sue, "but Peggy and Tim said it was different in their homes."

"It certainly was," said Peggy, "and I think I am beginning to see what you are getting at."

"Me too" chimed in Tim. "Because Peggy's father made the decisions for their family, she expects Joe to assume the role of decision maker."

"Sure," agreed Joe. "I see now, and because my mother was the decision maker, I just expect Peggy to do the same thing."

"Yes, and Tim and I are just the opposite," grinned Sue. "In following my parent's example, I go ahead making decisions without realizing that Tim's father was their family head, so he sees that as his role. Then when we have made conflicting decisions we feel the other person is being selfish or inconsiderate."

"It's strange, isn't it," laughed Joe. "I never thought about how our family was organized before. I guess I thought all families functioned just like ours."

"Me too," added Peggy, "but as I think back, I remember a friend who talked about their 'family council'. She told me that whenever they were going to do something, like take a vacation, the whole family would get together and talk about what each one wanted to do and then somehow they would decide together what the family would do. It seemed strange to me, and it wouldn't have worked at our house."

"I have come to a conclusion," stated Tim.

"Hear ye, hear ye!" teased Joe.

"Right!" continued Tim. "This is profound. We've all told of the different ways that certain families function and we have also said that in each instance it worked out smoothly. What we haven't said, but what I think we have implied, is that the family members agreed on that kind of organization."

"Yes," continued Sue. "So it must mean that, while there are several ways for families to organize themselves, the best way is the one that works best for a particular family. I can't see my father making the decisions for our family. He traveled a lot, and then the role just doesn't seem right for his personality. On the other hand, Tim, I can't see your parents in any different roles either."

What conclusions can you draw from this conversation?

What other types of marital problems might result when two people accustomed to different family organizations marry?

How might these problems be resolved?

SUGGESTIONS FOR FILLING OUT AN APPLICATION FORM

1. Obtain two copies, if possible, so one may be used as a rough draft and file copy.
2. Fill out the application form in ink--or use a typewriter.
3. Read form thoroughly.
4. Answer every question that applies to you. If a question does not apply, you may write "NA", meaning not applicable, or draw a line through the space to show that you did not overlook the question.
5. Be sure every item is accurately and clearly stated.
6. Give your complete address, including your zip code.
7. The question on marital status simply means whether you are single, married, separated, divorced or widowed.
8. Spell correctly. (If you aren't sure about how to spell a word, try to use another word with the same meaning.)
9. A question on job preference or "job for which you are applying" should be answered with a specific job title or type of work. Do not write "anything" --employers expect you to state what kind of work you can do.
10. The question on place of birth means the city and state in which you were born--not the name of the hospital.
11. Try to have in mind all of the schools you have attended and the dates of your attendance. (If there are several, it is a good idea to write them down before you apply for a job.)
12. Be prepared to list several good references. You should ask permission of those you plan to list. Some good references may include the pastor of your church, a teacher who knows you well, friends who are established in business.
13. When you write or sign your name on the application, use your correct name--not a "nickname."
14. Be as neat as possible. (The employer expects that your application will be an example of your best work.)
15. Be sure you follow directions. Notice if the directions are to print or write, last name first, etc.
16. Submit the application unfolded, unwrinkled, and free from finger marks.
17. When returning by mail, include a letter of explanation, fold properly and insert in an appropriate size envelope.

VEGETABLE COOKERY SKIT

Willie White
Potato:

Wow, do I ever have a story to tell all of you! You just wouldn't believe what I have gone through--and how these so-called "human beings" have treated me. First of all that woman came at me with a knife--yes, I said a knife-- If she had only used a peeler and pared thinly, it wouldn't have been so bad, but when she started to cut off my skin, she cut in so deeply that I thought I was going to die. In fact most of my vitamins escaped since she cut off so much of my skin. Next she cut me up into many, many tiny pieces, and simple drowned me in water. What a swim I had that day!

Billy Beet:

You sound as if you had an experience quite similar to mine, Willie.

Willie White
Potato:

Really! What happened to you, Billy?

Billy Beet:

Like you, I was cut up into many slices. Instead of being placed in that stimulating boiling water, I was dumped into ice cold water and had to stay there and nearly froze to death before the water started warming up.

Willie White
Potato:

I bet you were glad when you finally got warmed up!

Billy Beet:

Well, yes, I was glad, but it got boiling hot and they kept me in there till all the color was cooked out of me and I was just about ready to fall apart.

Willie White
Potato:

Well, what happened to you?

Billy Beet:

After they had nearly cooked me to death, they poured all of that hot water along with the nutrients and my color down the drain. I was left so scared I was nearly white! If they had saved all of that leftover water full of nutrients and had used it with something else--look at what they would have saved!

Gary Green
Bean:

At least they took you out of the water. They just left me soaking in that old water even after I was done cooking. What good did that do me, I ask you? Oh, yes, I was tender. In fact I was so tender I nearly fell apart when someone tried to pick me up with a fork. I don't even want to mention my color.

- Billy Beet: You know, I have a friend who gave me a hint. She said that when soda is added to the cooking water my color is preserved. Just imagine how great it would be to be a "true red" instead of that faded out color!
- Gary Green
Bean: Yes, that's true, Billy, but it's also true that when you add soda you destroy the vitamins. I've found that the best way to prevent excessive color loss is to cook the vegetable just the right length of time--until they are tender, but have lost most of their original crispness.
- Willie White
Potato: Well, I heard that if you cook vegetables uncovered you preserve the color.
- Gary Green
Bean: True, but cooking covered saves nutrients. So what do you want, color or nutrients?
- All together: We want both!
- Gary Green
Bean: O. K. What have each of you learned today that will help you out?
- Willie White
Potato: I learned (write on board) that the primary principles of vegetable cookery include
- cooking in small amount of water,
 - cooking for a short period of time,
 - cooking with as little surface area exposed as possible.
- Billy Beet: (Write on board) Qualities of a correctly cooked vegetable are
- tender, but firm
 - a minimum change in color,
 - a maximum retention of nutritive value.
- Gary Green
Bean: Fine job! I do hope all of our cooks will keep that in mind the next time they cook us (Point to the chalkboard.)--and that includes all of you! (Point to students in class.)

JOE AND BOB--AIRLINE PILOTS

Joe Rider and Bob Miller, both twenty-five years old, are pilots for United Airlines, flying the Denver to Newark run. They share an apartment in Ivy Hill in Newark which costs them each 84.50 per month. They each make $325 per month take home pay. Their uniforms are furnished and the company pays their health and life insurance. Joe has an ancient Ford that is paid for, but Bob has payments of $80.00 per month to make on his GTO. They have agreed to share the common expenses of keeping up the apartment, including the cost of food. The rental fee of the apartment includes furnishings but no utilities.

Prepare a joint budget for Joe and Bob and then a separate personal budget for each of the men for the income they have left over after meeting their joint expenses.
