ABSTRACT

Described in the Scoutmaster's Guide are discussion topics and sensory awareness activities to be used by adult leaders in helping Boy Scouts to understand and involve handicapped peers in troop activities. Among suggested activities for a troop development session are discussions of the five senses and of similarities between handicapped and nonhandicapped boys. (LH)

ADULT LEADER DEVELOPMENT

INVOLVING HANDICAPPED SCOUTS--SCOUTMASTER'S GUIDE

PURPOSE

The purpose of this development experience is to have the Scoutmaster or his selected adult leader set up and conduct a project and discussion session within his troop to establish the atmosphere and acceptance essential to involving handicapped boys.

OBJECTIVE

As a result of this training experience the troop membership should be able to:

- 1. Fit the handicapped Scout into the normal program of Scouting and when the need exists, be able to tailor the program to his needs.
- 2. Involve the handicapped Scout by emphasizing his individual program abilities.
- 3. Develop the full potential of the handicapped Scout Through the advancement program.
- 4. Develop the leader's own self-confidence to reach and serve handicapped boys.
- 5. Minimize any concern that a handicapped boy might hold back the troop.

TROOP DEVELOPMENT SESSION

FIVE SENSES

- 1. Draw from the boys a list of the five senses--sight, hearing, touch, taste, smell.
- 2. Test each sense with tests similar to those listed below:

Sight -- with one eye, through colored cellophane, through dark glasses;

Hearing-bell, ticking of watch, whisper, fingernails dragged across tabletop;

Touch--Cloth, wood, apple, pencil;

Taste--Salt and sugar, apple and potato, ginger ale and vinegar; Smell-various spices, sulfur, aftershave lotion.

- 3. Ask boys if each sense is important. Why? Develop short discussion.
- 4. Ask a boy to lift a light weight and then a heavy weight, and another boy to walk across the room. Is muscle strength and dexierity important? Why?
- 5. Have another boy read briefly from the Scout Handbook. Vocally give a math problem and ask the boys to figure it out in their heads. Are mental alertness and ability to learn important? Why?
- 6. Ask: "Which of the five senses could you do without? How would you feel without one of these senses?"
- 7. How do you think you'd feel with poor muscle coordination? How do you think you'd feel without a sharp, clear mind? Do you recall anything that was hard for you to learn? Why was it difficult? Are you better at learning today? Have you ever watched a youngster trying to learn?

OUR NEW BOY

EXERCISES AND ACTIVITIES

With his handicap, he has to do some things differently from the way we do things. Let's try to see how he'd feel doing some of these things.

If handicap is "being blind" do these:

- a. Blindfold boys and have them walk across the room.
- b. Ask Scouts to tie knots behind their backs or in the dark (lights out or blindfolded).
- c. Blindfold some boys. Have them listen to voices, and then determine the direction, distance, and origin of the voices.
- Have a boy strip to his swim trunks (arranged ahead of time) and then dress in the dark.

(Add similar activities for the various other handicaps)

- Lead a discussion: How can we best make ____ feel at home? How can we involve him in patrol and troop activities? What are some of the things he can do better than we can do? How can this talent be worked into our Scout activities? (e.g., a blind boy can hear better; a deaf boy has sharper sights, etc.)
- 3. List some specific do's and don'ts about working with the handicapped. What would you do if \_\_\_\_\_ fell down or is about to bump into something? (Blind--let boy grasp your elbow, not vice versa. Don't grab for his Seeing-Eye dog or interfere with it. Don't be overly helpful.)  $\dot{0}$

HELPING THE HANDICAPPED BOY JOIN

- 1. Suggest patrol leader officially invite _______ to visit the next patrol meeting at _______p.m. on _____.
- 2. Set date for official joining.
- 3. Plan welcome or special greeting for the boy. Make assignments.
- 4. Close session by thanking boys for their understanding.
