ABSTRACT

This bibliography lists reference sources which are useful for research in psychology. Contents are selected, emphasizing clinical psychology. Two major sections of the guide, general and specific topics, supplement each other. The general section, arranged by form--dictionaries, handbooks, and encyclopedias--includes works which treat all facets of psychology. The major section of the bibliography is classified by topics dealing with specific facets of psychology or related disciplines. Special topics include behavior, child psychology, creativity, drugs and alcohol, educational psychology, mental health, psychic sciences, psychiatry, sexual behavior, social psychology, and testing. Within each special topic, entries are divided by type of document, such as handbook or bibliography. The McLennan Library call numbers, full citations, and short annotations are provided for all entries. A final section includes related-discipline reference materials, also arranged by type of document. (ND)

 * Documents acquired by ERIC include many informal unpublished *
 * materials not available from other sources. ERIC makes every effort * * to obtain the best copy available. Nevertheless, items of marginal *
 * reproducibility are often encountered and this affects the quality * * of the microfiche and hardcopy reproductions ERIC makes available *
 * via the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS). EDRS is not *

 * supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made from the original. *

This bibliography is a guide to the wealth of literature available to students and researchers in psychology. Because psychology is a multi-faceted discipline there is psychological material in most of the McGill libraries, but the major resource for books and periodicals in psychology is McLennan Library. In addition there is considerable material on educational psychology in the Education Library, on social psychology in the Social Work Library, and on drugs and psychiatry in the Medical Library and the Allan Memorial Institute Library. Although materials in these other McGill libraries have been examined and considered for inclusion in this guide, an emphasis has been placed on material in the McLennan Reference Department and on materials dealing with clinical rather than experimental psychology.

This guide is arranged both by form of material and by subject. In the general section headings are listed by form (Dictionaries, Handbooks, Encyclopedias, etc.) and include works which treat all facets of psychology. In the sections for special topics, dictionaries, handbooks, bibliographies, etc. specifically dealing with specific facets of psychology or related disciplines are grouped together. Materials in these two sections supplement each other.

The final section includes related material again arranged by form.

All locations for titles mentioned in this bibliography have not been indicated. For additional locations check the McGill Union Catalogue under the entry used in this guide.

If you have any difficulty using this bibliography or the reference sources listed in it, please do not hesitate to ask for assistance from a reference librarian.

This bibliography was compiled by Barbara Lachance, Reference Librarian, McLennan Library.

The leading abstracting journal in the field. Lists books, periodicals, official documents and dissertations, grouped by subject, with a signed summary of each item. Author index in each issue with cumulated author and subject indexes in each annual volume. Its forerunner Psychological Index; a Bibliography of the Literature of Psychology and Cognate Subjects (Cutter BI .1P95 McL.) covers 1894-1935, listing original publications in all languages as well as translations into English, French, Italian and German. Includes books and periodical articles. Arranged by subject, with author index. Approximately 5,000 entries per year. No abstracts. The retrospective value of Psychological Abstracts is enhanced by the cumulative indexes. The Medical Library provides a convenient although somewhat expensive on-line search of Psychological Abstracts from 1967 to the present. Contact the Medical Library for more information, 392-5375 or 392-4339.

.S65
Ref. Index Lib. has: 1973-
Stands

Yearly publication based on the principle of citation indexing. Covers over 1,000 journals in the social sciences, including many psychological journals. Each issue consists of: a Source Index, listing by author works published during the year in selected periodicals; the Citation Index, listing by author all primary and secondary research studies cited in articles noted in the Source Index; the Permuterm Index, which provides a subject approach to articles in the Source Index by means of a computerized pairing of the significant words in the title of an article.

G. Current Awareness Bibliography

Through the current awareness tools listed below one may keep abreast of what new journal articles have been published in the field. Each month these bibliographies copy the table of contents pages from selected magazines, often before the journal has been published and well before the article would appear in a current bibliography. These sources are best used for maintaining your knowledge of a discipline and should be scanned regularly.

27403 Current Contents. Life Sciences. 1958- Philadelphia.
.C8x
Botany Lib. has: v. 9:36, 1966-

Current awareness service reporting weekly tables of contents in original format of more than 900 foreign and domestic research journals. Coverage includes behavioral sciences and physiology.
