ABSTRACT

Definitions of 33 terms used by state agencies concerning licensing of private and independent colleges are presented. Information was obtained from statutes, rules, and regulations. In an effort to address the question of whether a set of terms and common definitions could be devised for licensing and approval officials, definitions are proposed for the following terms: accreditation, agent, approval, college, degree, instruction, institution, license, minimum standards, operation, out-of-state, ownership, permit, registration, solicitor, surety bond, and university. The proposed definitions are purposely brief with the intent to facilitate communication among officials. A list indicating the states that submitted materials and whether the state agency is concerned with degree-granting or nondegree granting is included.

INTRODUCTION

A great deal of concern has been expressed recently concerning a common terminology to be used in the state licensing of private degree granting institutions. In his article, "Ph.D., Anyone?" George Arnstein states "... singly and in combination, the various systems of eligibility and approval, accreditation, and recognition tend to leave the educational consumer unprotected because he may not know just what each of these words means. In response to the same problem, The Education Commission of the States, in the Report of the Task Force on Model State Legislation for Approval of Postsecondary Educational Institutions, calls for regulating the use of academic terminology in naming or otherwise designating education institutions. The problem of definition of terms is also mentioned in the Airlie Conference Report: "Approaches to State Licensing of Private Degree-Granting Institutions." The report refers to the set of problems that arises from definition (or lack thereof) of terms used in statutes.

DATA COLLECTION

The terms compiled in this glossary were selected from primary data including statutes, rules and regulations submitted by state agencies involved in licensing private and independent colleges throughout the nation and collected by the Florida State Board of Private and Independent Colleges and the Center for State and Regional Higher Education of the College of Education, The Florida State University. The terms are, for the most part, terms which appear to be significant after examination of material submitted by most of the states.

The following table lists the states that submitted materials and indicates whether the state agency is concerned with degree granting or non-degree granting.

GLOSSARY

The terms and definitions most common to state statutes and regulations are given in this glossary. Although there are numbers of common standard used terms in evidence, there are few uniform definitions utilized by the states. At times, it appears that terms have not been explicitly defined in the procedures for licensure and the meaning of such terms can be determined only by the text of the legal authority.

There are definitions for 33 terms in this section.

The terms include the following:

(Connecticut)

(North Carolina)

3. For postsecondary vocational education institutions, accreditation by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Office of Education may be accepted by the commission as evidence of compliance with the minimum standards established hereunder and the criteria to be established under Section 49-3906 of this chapter; provided, the commission may require such further evidence and make such further investigation as in its judgment may be necessary. Accreditation by a recognized accrediting agency may be accepted as evidence of such compliance only as to the portion or program of an institution accredited by such agency if the institution as a whole is not accredited.

(Tennessee)

For degree-granting postsecondary educational institutions, accreditation by an accrediting agency recognized by the National Commission on Accrediting may be accepted by the commission as evidence of compliance with the minimum standards established hereunder and the criteria to be established under Section 49-3906 of this chapter; provided, the commission may require such further evidence and make such further investigation as in its judgment may be necessary.
