ABSTRACT

This program assessment instrument, developed for use by administrators, professional counseling staff members, and community representatives, is designed to assess guidance and counseling programs and to provide an informational basis for establishing goals. The instrument is presented as a useful tool for validating exemplary programs, conducting self-appraisals, developing long-range goals, planning inservice training, planning and evaluating federal programs, and disseminating information. The instrument's criteria rating items are delineated in terms of philosophy, leadership, program, personnel, resources and evaluation. The complete assessment instrument is provided for the reader in this document. (JAC)
