ABSTRACT

The 1982-83 Team Building/Building Teams Project, developed by the Washington State Sex Equity in Education Program staff, is described in this report. The focus of the project is described as district team-building with building level implementation of the district's identified needs in attaining sex equity in education. Project summaries are given for school districts which had demonstrated administrative and policy commitments to sex equity in education and were selected to participate in the project. This report also includes a timetable of the project, related correspondence to the participating districts, program agendas for three state-level meetings, and evaluations of the meetings. An equity plan, a follow-up plan, and a project report from three of the districts are included in this document. (JW)

OVERVIEW

Washington State's Sex Equity in Education Program provides technical assistance to 1,700 public schools in 299 operating school districts. There are 40,679 certificated staff and 750,447 students in the public school system. 55% of the total certificated staff are women; 48% of the student enrollment is female.

The state education agency's program plan for sex equity in the schools includes regulatory, programmatic and administrative responsibilities. Washington State's 1975 anti-sex discrimination legislation, Chapter 28A.85 RCW, requires the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction to monitor the compliance by local school districts with this chapter. A minimum of 20 on-site reviews of local school district compliance is conducted each year. All 299 districts have turned in compliance forms to the state education agency as of January, 1983.

Educational equity for all students must go beyond paper compliance and good faith efforts. Classroom teachers and students need to be actively practicing both the spirit of the law to not only prohibit "discrimination on the basis of sex for any student in grades K-12 of the Washington public schools," but also to encourage each individual to develop interests, abilities and talents without restrictions based upon sex stereotyping.

The 1982-83 Team Building/Building Team Project was one of the activities developed by the sex equity staff to influence institutional change. Ten school districts that had demonstrated administrative and policy commitments to sex equity in education were selected to participate in this Project. These school districts were: Battleground, Bellevue, Everett, Highline, Kelso, Moses Lake, Prosser, Puyallup, Tacoma, and Walla Walla.

This report includes a description of each of the building sites, team members, building goals, activities and outcomes. An Appendix of related correspondence is also included along with team evaluations and one district's 1983-84 follow-up plans.

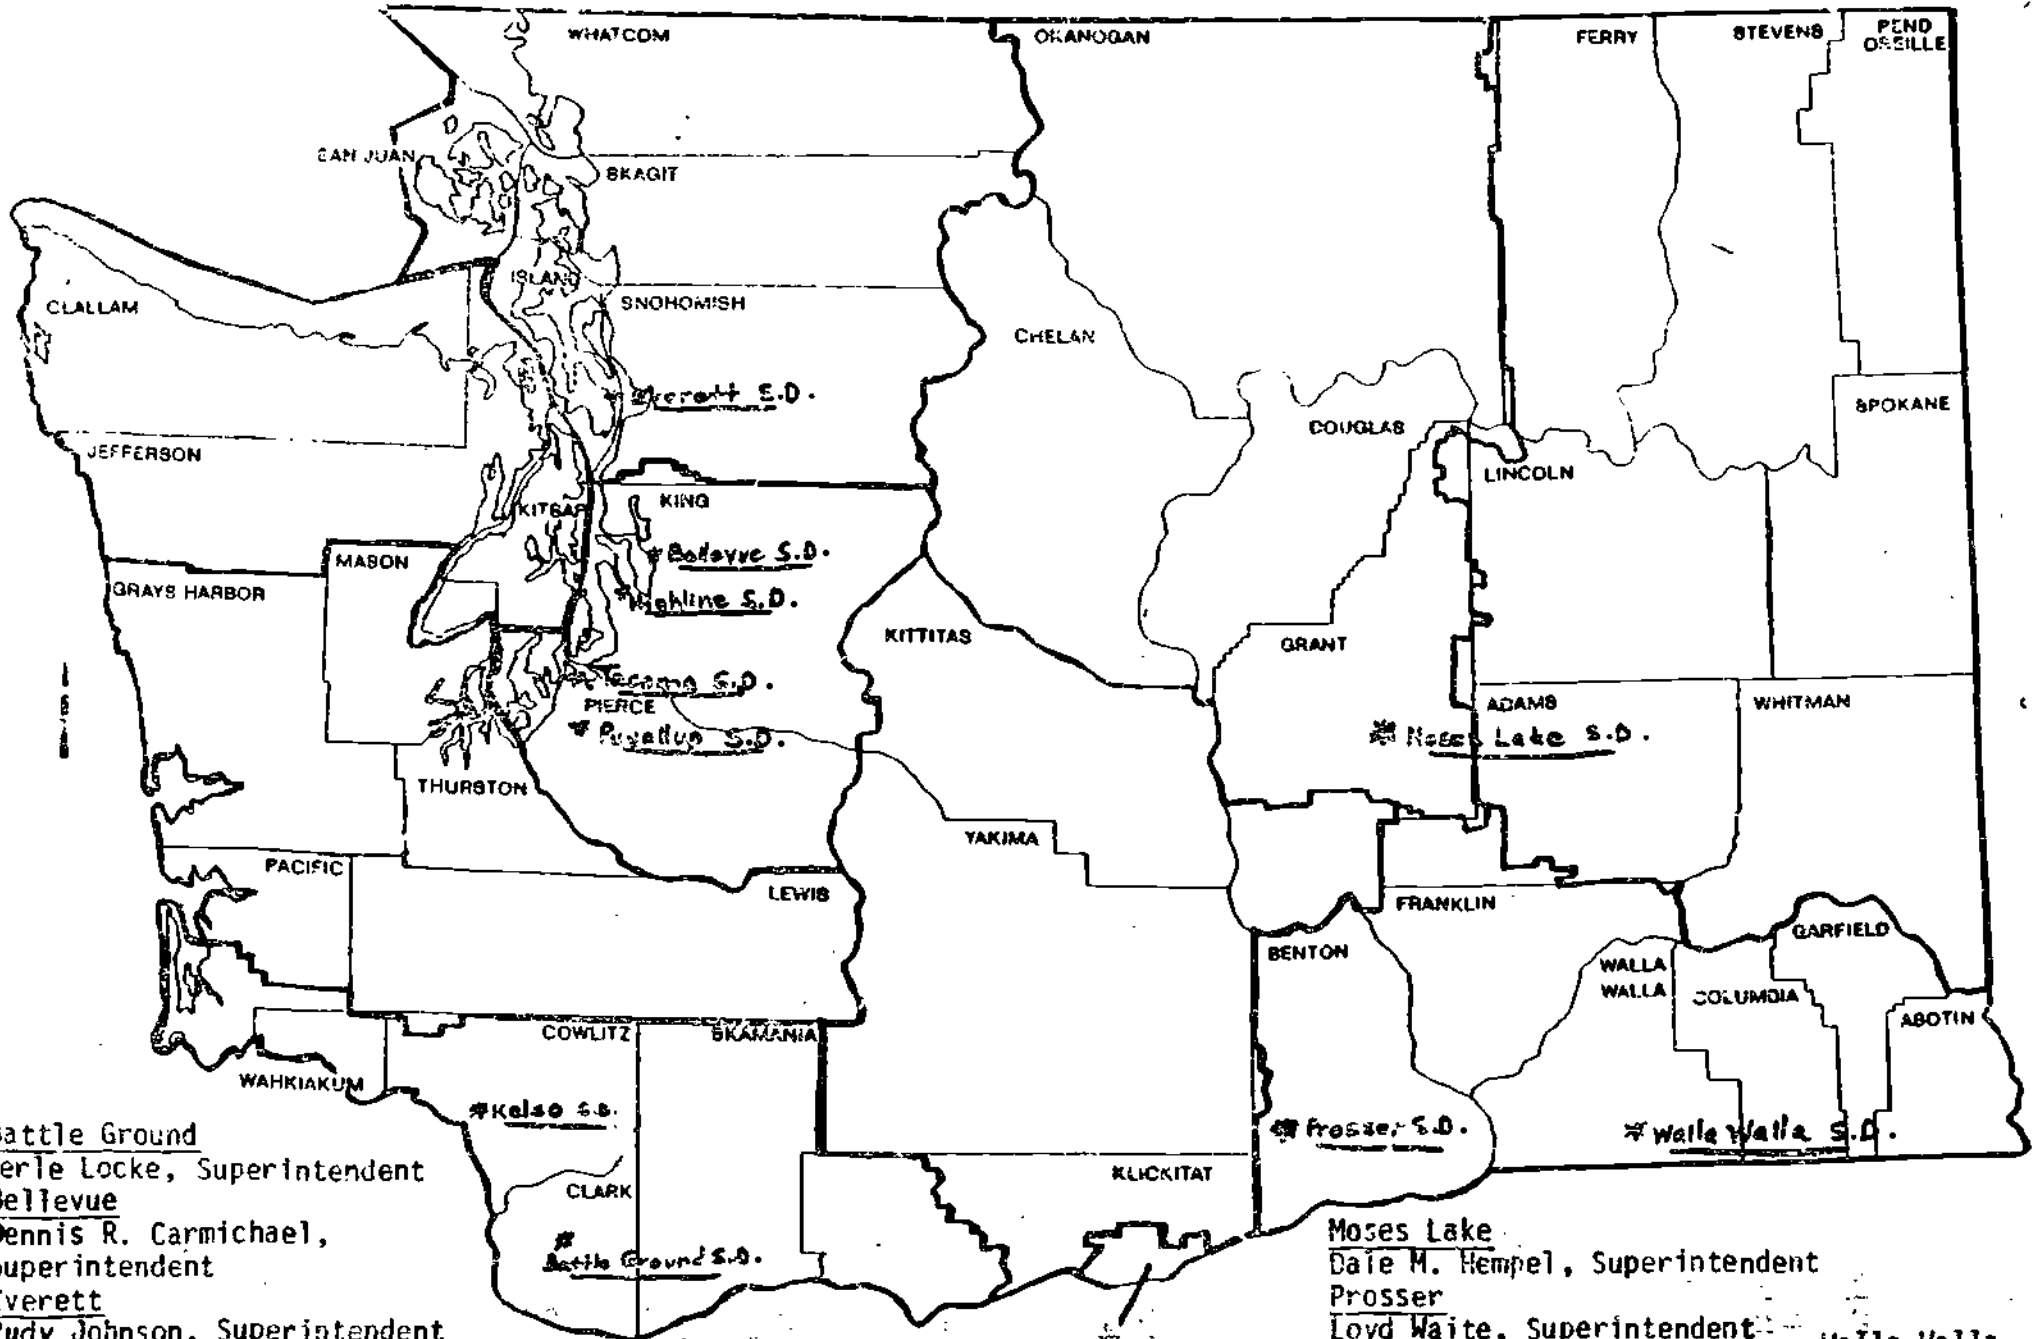

This institutional change model will be continued with ten new district building teams in 1983-84.

RATIONALE

According to the Kettering Foundation research on excellence in schools, "the nature of change is such that significant change and improvement must occur at the building rather than at the district level." The classroom is the daily environment where student's interests, abilities and talents are illuminated. Classroom interactions need to be based upon the unique needs and skills of the individual.

This team building/building team project for sex equity in education was designed to develop goals, activities and outcomes within the individual classroom and school building. The teams consisted of a minimum of one classroom teacher, one building administrator and one central office administrator. Most of the teams also included one counselor and one parent. The districts provided both professional and fiscal support to this project. Team members were provided awareness, programmatic and strategic change technical assistance toward actualizing sex equity within their school buildings.

Dear

The state sex equity in education program would like your district to participate in one of our projects this year. This project will involve ten districts in the state that have demonstrated the ability to go beyond the baseline paper compliance of the federal and state anti-sex discrimination legislations: Title IX of the 1972 Education Act and Chapter 28A.85 RCW, 1976 state legislation.

Many educators have already taken the initial steps toward attaining sex equity in education. The awareness level in our state that boys and girls have equal opportunities to reach their potential, both for individual fulfillment and for full utilization of our state's human resources, is steadily increasing. Your district has already taken positive and exciting steps beyond the initial awareness level.

This particular project focuses on district team-building with building level implementation of your own district's identified needs in attaining sex equity in education. We hope you will consider working with us and nine other districts in this project.

Please review the attached proposal and call me at 753-2560 (Scan 234-2560) if you have any questions.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

SEX EQUITY IN EDUCATION PROJECT

Team-Building Proposal
1982-83

OVERVIEW

According to the Kettering Foundation research, "the nature of change is such that significant change and improvement must occur at the building rather than at the district level". Washington State's teachers and administrators have already taken the initial steps toward attaining sex equity in education. They all care about what happens to their students. Policies and procedures have been developed to assure education for all students. 93% of the school districts have filed their Chapter 28A.85 RCW Assurances Form with the State Office of Public Instruction. This constitutes the baseline paper compliance with our State's anti-sex discrimination legislation passed in 1976.

This paper compliance does not provide any qualitative information regarding students in the classroom. Schools are one of our institutions that contribute to the socialization of children. Institutional practices, both overt and covert, may limit the full utilization of a child's human potential. This project will provide a district with the opportunity to not only share existing practices that involve the goals of sex equity, but to also develop a specific building level plan toward attaining sex equity in education.

PARTICIPANTS

Each district team will consist of 3-5 district staff members: Minimum must include one central office administrator, one building administrator, one classroom teacher. The team may include one counselor or one community person. The project will reimburse each staff member for per diem and actual travel expenses to three state meetings. These meetings will include the ten selected school district teams. The primary objective of the meetings will be team-building toward the development of a building sex equity in education action plan.

BUILDING PLAN

It is essential that the building administrator and classroom teacher come from the same building. It can be any level-elementary, middle school/junior high or high school. This project will provide a review of the literature research and resources in sex equity. This will be a part of the state meetings. The individual building teams will then identify their own local needs specific to the particular building. A building action plan would be completed by the team on or before March 31, 1983.

PROCEDURE

Fifteen school districts will receive invitations to join this project. The Superintendent will review this proposal and discuss the possibilities for inclusion with appropriate district staff. Your district contact person with this office has been _____.

We would appreciate your response to this invitation no later than October 15, 1982. We hope to have the first team-building meeting with all ten districts in November.

Dear Mr. Ray:

Thank you very much for responding positively to the Sex Equity in Education Team Building Project. We are eager to meet you and your team members.

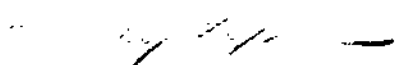

The first meeting of the ten school district teams is scheduled for December 2 and 3, 1982 at the SeaTac Hyatt Hotel. We plan to begin at 1:30 p.m. on Thursday and conclude at 4:00 p.m. on Friday, December 3rd.

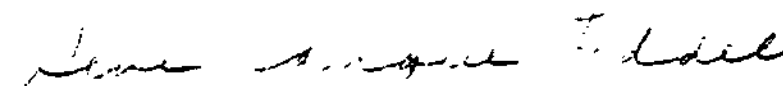

We need a list of your district team members. Please remember that each district team can consist of 3-5 persons; minimum must include one central office administrator, one building administrator and one classroom teacher. Information and materials regarding our first meeting will be sent directly to team members after we receive their names and addresses from you.

We are looking forward to a most productive experience with you. Please call me at 753-2560 if you have any questions.

Thank you for your time and support.

I learned that We don't have to re-invent the wheel when it comes to this equity-in-curriculum project. If we just know where to look for the information.

I would like more information about any materials that would help us design a careers/study skills unit with emphasis on equity.

Please include the following at the April 14 and 15 meeting: A social time to get to know those from the other teams. They are good resource people for the future. We should know them better.

Additional comments: The time spent on force fielding was most beneficial. I wish we could have had time to completely take at least one of our goals through the Process. The Program presented in the evening by Ardine Martinelli was, also, very beneficial. We could have had her speak for a longer afternoon session. She had so much to share on what worked and what didn't work.

I027K7.00

I learned that a great deal needs to be considered in the future of education related to high tech and a practical method of developing projects.

I learned alot about instructional materials analysis from Ardine Martinelli. Her talk really helped me to understand what sex equity is all about. Also, the film Killing Us Softly really made me aware of the media and sexism. Really well done!

I learned that each team had worked out a program with individual needs dealt with.

I learned that Prosser is right on target, some schools are experiencing a tad more difficulty!

I learned that there can be a real methodology to the process change. Following that methodology can save a lot of wheel spinning.

I learned that what was expected from previous meeting to be accomplished by this 2nd meeting, what others were doing, assistance in during our direction and plan of attack.

I learned that my background in preparing students for math related fields were poor.

I learned that evaluation of books for sex equity take careful consideration.

I learned that we are doing a good job with our equity tasks, based on what the other groups shared. We were feeling bad about time constraints, but we really are accomplishing a great deal.

I learned that other schools and districts are facing some of the same problems.

I learned that I needed to expand our project.

I would like more information about anything that could help others to become more aware.

I would like more information about pre-post tests for faculties/students.

I would like more information about exactly what to say to teachers who oppose ideas of equity.

I would like more information about the need for support and service jobs in the 21st century.

I would like more information about methods used and plans being implemented by other districts.

I would like more information about ways to involve staff at the building level in promoting equity in education.

I would like more information about how to incorporate sex equity education into existing curricula in various subject areas.

I would like more information about the agenda for Yakima prior to our departure so we know ahead what to take with us.

I would like more information about sex equity regarding discipline - research, other district projects etc.

Please include the following at the April 14 and 15 meeting:

More planning time with team, more opportunities for teams to converse with plans and successful techniques used by other districts, rotating teams to meet and share information with an entire team from another district.

I'd like to hear small segments from all groups rather than just half of the teams.

More chance to be involved with other individuals than your own team.

More time for group work on program development. A social time for group on Saturday evening.

More equity material for curriculum - elementary level.

Suggestions for implementing sex equity at all levels of the district.

Sharing of building projects.

Additional Comments:

Good Job!

Second day presentation going through organization process was especially helpful.

The Thursday evening presentation on what did and did not work in creating sex equity awareness was excellent - very practical. Friday mornings' group work in planning was especially helpful - would like to have had more time for task completion and evaluation of that process.

We feel pressured to come up with a "lesson" to model for this group. We want to put our energy into what we're doing in our district and feel we need to find time now to develop some kind of presentation for April 14-15. We'd sure appreciate an anxiety reducer in the form of a notice from you clearly explaining the format, content, etc. you are hoping the teams will present. It's too nebulous for us at this point. Thank you for your help and communication.

There are some super people that each of us can learn from in many ways.

I really enjoyed the last session and found it to be very worthwhile.

Well organized and informative.

Descriptions of presentations - not just titles would be very helpful.

Thanks for all the additional help!

Dear Jeanne:

Thank you very much for your valuable and active participation at our Sex Equity in Education Team Building workshop in Yakima. We had some exciting higher level critical thinking happening as the team members presented their lessons to us.

Your commitment to providing quality education for all children was evident throughout this Project and, as Dr. Shirely McCune of the Education Commission of the States pointed out to us at our December luncheon, "You are on the cutting edge of truly providing educational equity for all children." This Project was guided by the Kettering Foundation research that stated that the nature of change is such that significant change and improvement occurs at the building rather than the district level. We know that your influence does make a difference to students.

Please help us evaluate this Project. The enclosed evaluation form is one aspect of the overall evaluation. We encourage any comments and suggestions for the second phase of this Project.

We hope to have our follow-up meeting in early October.

JEFFERSON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

SEX EQUITY PROJECT

1982-83

Team:

Jo Love Beach, Lynnette Liffrig, Brian Webber

Goal:

To create an awareness of sexual equities/inequities in the classroom.

1. Curriculum materials
2. Discipline procedures
3. Classroom management

Procedure:

Time line

December 15 - First meeting with the entire staff.

1. Information regarding the December 2 - 3 workshop
2. Questionnaire regarding awareness

January 5 - Second meeting with the entire staff

1. Give back results of awareness questionnaire
2. Brainstorm - ideas for our building
3. Consensus - goals for our building
4. Formulate a plan

JEFFERSON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

SEX EQUITY GOALS

1982-83

Curriculum Awareness

1. All staff members will evaluate curriculum materials used and bring in questionable items for group discussion at regularly scheduled faculty meetings (first and third Wednesdays of each month).
2. The librarian, Jill Daverso, and a staff member, Sue Madison, will acquire a list of books and materials for use in the classroom which will aid teachers.

Discipline Awareness

1. The month of February will be used to gather data on discipline procedures used by second grade teachers, a middle school teacher and a high school teacher. This data will be compiled and used as a form of awareness and basis for discussion at a March building meeting on sex equity. (See attached survey.)

Legislation Awareness

1. The staff "Weekly Update" will contain a "Do You Know" each week.
2. A staff meeting will be held specifically to discuss current laws and legislation and how they effect us at the building level.

JEFFERSON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
CONSENSUS OF DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS
1982-83

(Grade 2 - Month of February)

- * Number of students in Grade 2: 73
 - * Number of students disciplined in the classroom: 26 Boys 18 Girls
 - * Number of students sent to the office: 1 Boys 0 Girls
 - * Punishment given to girls and boys was the same.
 1. A verbal warning. Example: In one classroom 10 girls were warned 31 times, 10 boys were warned 57 times.
 2. Time out.
 3. Positive sentence writing.
 - * Teachers felt the same students were most often disciplined. Most listed boys were punished for the following reasons:
 1. Talking.
 2. Poor work habits.
 3. Fighting and bad language.
- Girls' infractions:
1. Mainly talking
- * Teachers felt they were very consistent and no preferential treatment was shown to boys versus girls.
 - * Teachers feel our discipline policy does not discriminate.

JEFFERSON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
CONSENSUS OF STUDENT DISCIPLINE SURVEY

1982-83

Grades K-5 using 36 students (randomly selected)

1. - 3 out of 18 boys felt they were never in trouble. The other 15 felt they were seldom in trouble.
 - 6 out of 18 girls felt they were never in trouble. The other 12 felt they were seldom in trouble.
 - None of the 36 surveyed felt they were frequently in trouble.
2. - 1 out of 18 boys felt girls get into more trouble, 2 felt that it was equal, and 15 felt that boys get into more trouble.
 - 2 out of 18 girls felt girls get into more trouble while 16 felt boys get into more trouble.
 - Out of 36 students surveyed 3 felt girls get into more trouble, 31 felt boys get into more trouble, and 2 felt it was equal.
 - Consensus of why boys get into more trouble was because boys talk too much (too verbal and too loud), boys are more physical (fighting, etc.), and boys break more rules. Girls get into trouble because of tantrums and teasing.
3. - Most (exception of 2) felt punishment given was fair.
4. - 15 did not know what happened before they got into trouble, the rest felt they were breaking classroom rules.
5. - 18 felt bad, sad, or mad before they got into trouble, the rest did not know how they felt.
6. - 17 felt worse, sad, embarrassed, and knew they shouldn't do it again after they got into trouble, 7 did not know how they felt, and the remainder felt fine or happy it was over.
7. - 31 out of 36 felt that the same students were always in trouble.
8. - 34 out of 36 felt girls and boys were treated the same way when disciplined, 1 said, "No", the other said, "Sort of".
9. - Each student knew exactly what happened in their classroom when a student was disciplined. Each teacher has a system and students are aware of the process.
10. - 15 students felt there were times in the day when students got into more trouble such as recess, during or after reading and SSR, during work times, during free times, before spring break, or right after flag salute. 21 students did not know.
11. - All 36 students had ideas of what kinds of things they should get into trouble for. The main things were physical abuse, verbal abuse, throwing rocks, and breaking school and classroom rules.

Jay DeVries

Purpose and Goals

The purpose of the junior high equity team was to expand the equity program into Ceweeman and Huntington Junior High Schools. The team was composed of Joan Gallagher; Jay DeVries; Doug Waite, Ceweeman Coordinator; Kathleen Williams, Huntington Coordinator; Ted Teigs; Michael Trinner; and Darcy Lees.

Funded in cooperation with the Team Building Project, Office of Equity Education, Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Kelso team determined two goals:

To create a specific unit within the curriculum to increase awareness in sexual and racial equality.

To create an awareness of equality issues within the faculty on an on-going basis.

The first goal was met by the inclusion of equity learning objectives in the new career/study skills course for eighth graders and Project Equals training program for math teachers proposed by Dot Joslin and Jim Biver.

The second goal, a building activity packet, is designed to be presented and disseminated by the building coordinator. These packets will be shared with the elementary and high school building coordinators.

The activity packet includes faculty meeting presentations, handouts, and bulletin board materials. Attached is a schedule of awareness activities, schedule of Equals presentations, a 1983-84 junior high timeline, an evaluation plan and a list of resource needs.

Project EQUALS
TIME-LINE

- August, 1983 Participate in 7th grade Parent Orientation Night
- September, 1983 Conduct a survey of participation in mathematics course 7th-12th according to subject and sex
- October-December, 1983 Inservice faculty awareness of sex-related differences in young people's education through participation in selected 5-10 minute activities
- October-December, 1983 Acquaint mathematics teacher 7th-12th with EQUALS materials through brief presentation in departmental meetings.

Evaluation Plan

1. Short monthly questionnaires.
2. Follow-up staff needs assessment--shortened form given in May, 1984.
(Original was administered in January, 1983.)

Resource Needs

Type materials--district

Copy materials for district packets--print shop

Assemble packets--print shop

Darcy Lees--coordinate

Copy materials for staff at buildings per building coordinator request--print shop

$50 budget for each junior high building coordinator to purchase posters and other resource materials.

Future Plans and Possibilities

1. Human Equity speaker for the preschool district-wide meeting.

Possible speaker: Beverly Postlewaite, Administrator for the Sex Equity Unit of the Commission for Vocational Education.

2. A credit course on human equity.

Possible instructors and colleges include Margaret McGuire (206-281-2014) from SPU or Linda Davenport (206-543-1847) from UW.

3. A half-day early dismissal workshop similar to what was done for computers. Any of the above people or Gene Liddell from SPI.

Draft letter to Staff

Greetings from the human equity committee:

Last spring all of you completed a survey on human equity. Those surveys have been tabulated and the Kelso Equity Education project will be offering you help in several areas.

Many teachers indicated that equity materials were not available for use in their classrooms. K.E.E.P. will supply lists of films, books, and other materials to teachers so that those of you wishing to develop an equity strand can do so.

A project called Math EQUALS has been initiated to aide and encourage girls in math.

In addition, some of you indicated that you were not sufficiently aware of human equity issues. Short presentations will be made at faculty meetings throughout the year to acquaint you more fully with these issues.

Finally, the Careers/Study Skills class has been chosen as the are of curriculum in which to concentrate on equity concerns with students.

We hope to send some of you to workshops during the school year. If you would be interested in attending a workshop on a released-time basis, please talk to one of the committee members.

The human equity project is going well in the elementary schools. Please let us know if you have any ideas that will make it equally successful at the junior highs.

Sincerely,

Kelso Equity Evaluation Project

During the 1982-83 school year, the Newport High School Equity Education Committee studied the textbooks and other resources used in English and Social Studies classes. We attempted to determine the messages these materials give students either directly or indirectly about equity between males and females and among diverse racial and ethnic groups. The results of our study appear in the report that follows.

Using an abbreviated guideline for assessing materials, we examined textbooks and anthologies and prepared short annotations for each one we studied. We also prepared a response to lists of books used for particular courses. Additionally, we compiled lists of possible supplementary materials, including books available for use in the resource center and in the library collection. We determined quantities available and recommended books to be purchased or supplied in larger quantities.

Checklist

In examining both texts and materials lists, we used the following checklist, which enabled us to make a quick but useful assessment of the books and lists; we recommend you try it, too:

1. Invisibility: The gender or ethnic or racial group is not the focus of any work or section. The history, accomplishments, cultural contributions, or problems of these people simply do not appear in the text or list.
2. Stereotypes: The group appears, but only in certain predetermined ways that perpetuate some myth about the group.
3. Fragmentation: Material about the group appears to have been added in as a separate section in a later edition and appears only in part.
4. Imbalance: One or two representatives of the group are superficially included.
5. Lies: The book reports as the truth outright untruths about the group.
6. Language: The language of the author or text excludes the whole group; or systematically includes it, but as the outsider; or perpetuates disrespect for the group.

Rationale

About this effort to help amend the misrepresentation or under-representation of women or certain minority ethnic and racial groups in instructional materials, we make the following assumptions:

1. that we are required by both federal and state law as well as by district policy to provide equity education for all students, and we should do so in both letter and spirit;

2. that most teachers want to treat students equitably, but our efforts are limited by existing institutionalized practices, including the use of certain books;
3. that no one wants us to be censors; rather we need to select and use materials with increasing consciousness of the effect they will be having on students;
4. that many of the materials we do find racist or sexist can be used effectively if we acknowledge the problems they present and examine them critically;
5. that students really do, for sound educational reasons, need to see something of themselves, their history and culture, in texts;
6. that demeaning roles or an absence of "parts" for women and members of minority groups in the texts students use really does limit their present interest in learning as well as future choices they make about their lives;
7. that high school students' aspirations, particularly young women's, tend to be somewhat limited; that we could make many more possible futures implicit in what we give them to read and study; and
8. that an equal-opportunity education can lead to an improved educational climate, more interest in learning, and greater joy in teaching.

Comments on the Lists

The book choices for Survey of English reflect a conscious effort to include books by women, strong female lead characters, and some cultural diversity in new acquisitions such as Mildred Taylor's ROLL OF THUNDER, HEAR MY CRY and DREAMSPEAKER.

Literature One/Introduction to Literature offers the possibility of introducing diverse poetry and short stories, though existing anthologies are somewhat limited. A new book choice last year features the life of a famous woman--Frances Farmer--in SHADOWLAND. THE TAMING OF THE SHREW introduces the question of equality between the sexes.

American Literature needs an infusion of women and minority writers only partly provided by the short story and poetry selections.

British Literature resources offer some options so that women writers can be included.

Intensive Literature offers some cultural diversity and provides the option of two books by women from among fourteen major works.

World Literature offers much cultural diversity but no major works by women.

Myth/Classical Literature provides an excellent opportunity to deal with racial, ethnic, and sex-role stereotypes, even when white male writers and editors predominate. The Jewkes Uses of the Imagination series does offer some diversity.

Some notable works of science fiction have been written by women, so the Science Fiction class could easily be supplemented with novels and stories by Ursula LeGuin, Joanna Russ, and Kate Wilhelm.

An Annotated List of Materials in Use in English

Bullfinch's

MYTHOLOGY. 1959.
Greek and British medieval myths about women, need offsetting by some discussion of the real role of women in times represented.

Carrier, Neumann

LITERATURE FROM THE WORLD. 1981.
Colette and Gabriela Mistral are among the few women included in this anthology which contains stories, plays, and poems from Spain, Brazil, Israel, Greece, Germany, India, Russia, Norway, Zimbabwe, China, etc.

An Annotated List of Materials in Use in English (con't)

Clurman,

FAMOUS AMERICAN PLAYS OF THE 30's. 1959.
Contains OF MICE AND MEN, no plays by women.

Current-Garcia, ed.

AMERICAN SHORT STORIES: Third, Fourth editions.
Third edition contains 41 stories, seven by female writers. The Fourth edition drops one male and adds two female, two male. Third contains Ernest J. Gaines, Langston Hughes; fourth adds Toni Cade Bambara.

Evslin,

HEROES AND MONSTERS OF GREEK MYTH. 1967.
Of six focal characters, one is female, Atalanta, but she loses the race.

Farrell, et al.,

SCIENCE FACT/FICTION. 1976.
Of 48 selections, three are written by women. Some ethnic and cultural diversity.

Frakes, J.R. and Isadore Traschen,

SHORT FICTION
Stories by 28 men, 3 women; includes American, Russian, German,
French, Irish, and English writers.

Gassner, ed.,

A TREASURY OF THE THEATRE.
Two of twenty-seven playwrights are female. English, Irish, American,
Scandinavian and French writers.

Goodman,

DRAMA ON STAGE.
Only two plays feature women: MEDEA and THE VISIT. Both are destroyers. No female playwrights.

Green,

KING ARTHUR AND HIS KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE. 1953.
Retold tales of witches, bewitching maidens, adulterous women, and gallant and fearless knights. Reinforces all existing stereotypes.

Hamilton,

MYTHOLOGY. 1940.
Demeter ranks with Dionysus in this collection, which features
Greek myth but also includes Nordic myths.

Hewes, ed.,

FAMOUS AMERICAN PLAYS OF THE 1940's. 1967.
Includes McCuller's MEMBER OF THE WEDDING. Anderson's LOST IN THE STARS dramatizes CRY, THE BELOVED COUNTRY.

Jewkes, Frye,

MAN THE MYTHMAKER. 1961.
Of 67 selections, 12 are by women. Wide collection of myths from a variety of cultures--Greek, Indian, Native American, African, etc.
Uses generic from the title on.

An Annotated List of Materials in Use in English (con't)

Jewkes, Frye,

THE PERILOUS JOURNEY. 1973.

Low on women writers and female focal characters, but good cultural cross section.

Mercier, ed.,

GREAT IRISH SHORT STORIES.

Stories by the Irish. Only two women among 31.

Miller, Hayden and O'Neal,

THE LYRIC POTENTIAL. 1974.

Out of over 300 poems, fewer than one-eighth are by women. Far fewer are by Black poets. No Hispanic or Asian-American surnames appear in the Table of Contents.

Pickering, ed.,

FICTION 100.

Fiction is international but of 64 selections, 13 are by women, 4 by Black men, mostly American and Northern European.

Pooley, ed.,

ENGLAND IN LITERATURE. 1963.

The score is 85 male, 6 female.

Robinson,

MYTHS AND LEGENDS OF ALL NATIONS. 1976.

Worldwide reference to myths of many cultures. Male heroes predominate.

Rouse, ed.,

THE ODYSSEY.

Good source book for ethnocentrism--everyone not Greek is a monster. Female stereotypes abound: Circe, who turns men to swine; Calypso, who has magic powers; Naussica, who gets in a dither over a man; the Sirens, who destroy men with their beautiful voices; and Penelope, who stands by her man for twenty years.

Scheld, ed.,

DESIGNS IN FICTION. 1974.

Short stories by 17 male, 2 female writers.

SIX GREAT MODERN PLAYS. 1956.

Contains Williams, Miller, Chekhov, Ibsen, Shaw, and Sean O'Casey.

SIX GREAT MODERN SHORT NOVELS. 1954.

Contains one selection by Katherine Anne Porter, NOON WINE.

Stanford,

MYTH AND MODERN MAN. 1972.

Good representation of many cultures' myths--Norse, Maori, Swahili included. Stories of women feature evil-doers, but the book provokes a discussion of the cultural ramifications of the "male" attitude.

An Annotated List of Materials in Use in English (con't)

Strasberg, Lee, ed.,

FAMOUS AMERICAN PLAYS OF THE 1950's. 1962.

Contains Lillian Hellman's THE AUTUMN GARDEN, plus plays by Williams, Anderson, Albee and Gazzo.

Warriner,

CHARACTERS IN CONFLICT. 1981.

Predominantly British and American stories; 18 male writers, 5 females.

Supplementary Materials: Available in the Resource Center

Adams, Elsie, and M.L. Briscoe,

UP AGAINST THE WALL, MOTHER. 1971 (32).

Contains many interesting essays, stories and poems both for and against women's rights. See Philip Wylie's "Common Women" for an incredibly vituperative essay.

Chace, JoAn and William, eds.,

MAKING IT NEW. 1973 (26).

Contains a collection of contemporary American poems, including work by Sonia Sanchez, Anne Seyton, Sylvia Plath, Victor Hernandez Cruz, Robert Hayden, Gwendolyn Brooks, LeRoi Jones.

Recommended for use in American Literature.

Chapman, A, ed.,

BLACK VOICES. 1968 (87).

Poetry, fiction, autobiography and literary criticism by over fifty Black writers. Includes Ann Petry, Paule Marshall, Margaret Walker, Naomi Long Maggett, Mari Evans, and Gwendolyn Brooks.

Used in American Literature.

Clarke, ed.,

AMERICAN NEGRO SHORT STORIES, 1966 (35).

Contains 31 short stories by 27 Black men and 4 Black women.

Recommended for use in Survey of English and American Literature.

Jewkes, and Frye,

USES OF THE IMAGINATION (Series) about 1972.

WISH AND NIGHTMARE (32)

CIRCLE OF STORIES ONE (38)

CIRCLE OF STORIES TWO (34)

THE GARDEN AND THE WILDERNESS (35)

THE TEMPLE AND THE RUIN (33)

A WORLD ELSEWHERE: ROMANCE (41)

A WORLD ENCLOSED: TRAGEDY (43)

A WORLD REMADE: COMEDY (34)

Although introductions to this series use the generic, the books are balanced ethnically and many of the writers are female. Myths from around the world are complemented with modern stories and poems.

Supplementary Materials: Available in the Resource Center (con't)

Moffett,

POINTS OF VIEW. 1966.

Contains 40 short stories, 9 by women. Ethnic mix is American, Russian, Welsh, French, and English.

Olsen,

TELL ME A RIDDLE. 1960 (33).

Collection of four complex, compassionate, and profound stories. Three of them focus on the experience of women and children, and one ("Oh, Yes") on the relationship between two adolescent girls.

Very appropriate for American or Intensive.

Class set in Resource Center.

Ross,

YOUNG AND FEMALE. 1972 (30).

First person accounts from Shirley MacLaine, Shirley Chisholm, Dorothy Day, Emily Hahn, Margaret Sanger, Althea Gibson, Edna Ferber, Margaret Bourke-White.

Could be used in Introduction to Literature, American Literature, or Survey of English.

THE WORLD SPLIT OPEN. 1974 (3).

Four centuries of women poets in England and America; some inclusion of Black poets in American Section.

Supplementary Materials: Available in Limited Quantity in Resource Center (con't)

Brown,

MANCHILD IN THE PROMISED LAND. 1965 (15).

Memorable autobiography of a Black American who grew up in Harlem.

Could be used in Composition if students were assigned autobiographies to read.

Cade, ed.,

THE BLACK WOMAN. 1970 (3).

Collection of poems and essays by and about Black women.

Cather,

MY ANTONIA. 1926, 1949 (5).

The central character is a strong immigrant pioneer American woman.

Recommended for use in American Literature.

Recommended for purchase of class set.

Chester, Barba,

RISING TIDES. 1973 (1).

Contains ample work of 70 American women poets from Gertrude Stein to Nikki Giovanni. Includes short biographical sketches.

Recommendation: buy more copies.

Cornillon, Susan K,

IMAGES OF WOMEN IN FICTION. 1972 (5).

Collected essays about women in literature. Joanna Russ' "What Can a Heroine Do?" Or Why Women Can't Write" lucidly explains the difficulties we have in finding literature about women without stereotypes.

Flexner,

CENTURY OF STRUGGLE. 1974 (1).

A history of women's rights in America.

Include in research unit as resource in a history of human enfranchisement.

Friedan,

THE FEMININE MYSTIQUE. 1963 (11).

Marks the beginning of recent interest in women's rights in the United States.

Use in research collection, Composition.

Goulianos,

BY A WOMAN WRIT. (4).

Literature from six centuries by and about women in England and America.

Hansberry,

TO BE YOUNG, GIFTED, AND BLACK. 1969 (2).

Partly poem, partly journal, partly drama, by a gifted Black American playwright who died at age 34.

Supplementary Materials: Available in Limited Quantity in Resource Center (con't)

Hughes, Langston

SIMPLE'S UNCLE SAM. 1965 (8).

A collection of stories with a civil rights thrust.

Use as model of narration as essay in Composition or Expository Writing.

McLuhan,

TOUCH THE EARTH: A SELF-PORTRAIT OF INDIAN EXISTENCE. 1971 (1).

Short passages by Native American writers, illustrated with Curtis photographs of Indian life.

Recommended for Survey of English.

Recommended for purchase.

Merriam,

GROWING UP FEMALE IN AMERICA: TEN LIVES. 1971 (18).

Contains parts of the life stories of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Maria Mitchell, Anna Howard Shaw, mother Mary Jones, and six other remarkable women.

Recommended for Survey of English or American Literature.

Purchase to complete class set.

Momaday,

THE WAY TO RAINY MOUNTAIN. 1969 (30).

A personal attempt by the author to get in touch with his Native American past.

Showalter, Elaine

WOMEN'S LIBERATION AND LITERATURE. 1971 (4).

Contains classic essays by John Stuart Mill, Virginia Woolf, and Kate Milletc as well as Ibsen's A DOLL'S HOUSE.

Recommended for use with advanced students.

Available in the Newport Senior High Library

Greenburger, Ingrid

A PRIVATE TREASON. 1973.

Memoir of a German woman who fled to Southern France during WW II and worked in the French underground.

Excellent for history of English.

One library copy.

Available in the Newport Senior High Library (con't)

Seller, Maxine Schwartz

IMMIGRANT WOMEN. 1981.

Some of the poetry and the biographical sketches are appropriate for American Literature; would be good as part of a collection used in Composition or Expository for writing a research paper.

One copy in our library.

Senesh, Hannah

HANNAH SENESH, HER LIFE AND WORK. 1972.

Includes diary, letters and poetry of a young woman who was executed at age 23 by the Nazis after she parachuted into Central Europe to rescue Jews trapped by the Germans.

Wand, David Hsin-Fu

ASIAN-AMERICAN HERITAGE; AN ANTHOLOGY OF PROSE AND POETRY

Many of the works are set in Seattle or the Northwest. Filipino-Americans and Southeast Asian Americans are represented as well as Japanese- and Chinese-Americans.

Some of the short stories might be especially enriching to an American Literature class.

One copy in our library.

Not Available at Newport but Recommended for Review and Possible Purchase

Faderman, Lillian and B. Bradshaw.

SPEAKING FOR OURSELVES. 1969, 1975. Second edition.

Substantial collection of stories, poems and essays by Asian American, Black, Hispanic, Native American and Jewish writers.

SOCIAL STUDIES

After reviewing existing Social Studies texts, Social Studies members of the committee recommended the following books be purchased in larger quantity:

Bragdon and McCutcheon, HISTORY OF A FREE PEOPLE
Branson, AMERICA'S HERITAGE
Foreign Policy Association, GREAT DECISIONS
Mazour, PEOPLE AND NATIONS
Mehlinger and Patrick, AMERICAN POLITICAL BEHAVIOR
PERSPECTIVES: Close-up Foundation

An Annotated List of Books in Use in Social Studies

Antell,

ECONOMICS, INSTITUTIONS AND ANALYSIS. 1978.
Lacks sensitivity to sex and race issues; pictures traditional.

Bailey and Kennedy,

THE AMERICAN PAGEANT. 1979.
Ethnocentric, though new edition contains more material on women and ethnic minorities.

Bragdon and McCutcheon,

HISTORY OF A FREE PEOPLE.
Terminology not always non-sexist but includes women, minorities in vignettes.

Branson, Margaret

AMERICA'S HERITAGE.
Treats women and minorities well, no fragmentation, but shows minorities and both sexes in a variety of roles. Many pictures of men and women working together. Illustrations balanced.

Burns, et al.,

WORLD CIVILIZATION. Sixth edition.
Little has been done with role of women, minorities. Asian societies represented, but little on Africa.

Foreign Policy Association,

GREAT DECISIONS. 1983.
Editors include six women, three men. Women show as political party leaders.

Recommended for purchase.

Fraenket, et al.,

DECISION-MAKING IN AMERICAN GOVERNMENT. 1977.
Minorities and women play a minor role but case studies are interesting. Captions, study questions supply sensitivity.

An Annotated List of Books in Use in Social Studies

- Hofstadter, Miller, et al.,
THE UNITED STATES
College level but speaks of "Red" China and employs generic "man".
- Magruder,
AMERICAN GOVERNMENT
Uses generic "Congressman." Mehlinger and Patrick book is a better choice.
- Mazour,
PEOPLE AND NATIONS. 1983.
Role of women in Ancient China explained. Photos show women working.
Covers Spanish-American War from standpoint of Filipino-Americans.
- Mehlinger and Patrick,
AMERICAN POLITICAL BEHAVIOR. 1977.
Revised to provide balance of women, minorities. Illustrations especially show non-stereotypical roles for women and minorities in political process. Case studies include females and minorities.
- Merriam, Eve, ed.,
GROWING UP FEMALE IN AMERICA: TEN LIVES
Well written and edited excerpts from letters and autobiographies of American women: a school girl in 18th Century Maine; a founder of the women suffrage movement; an astronomer; a southern officer's wife; a pioneer; a minister and doctor; a slave; a labor organizer; a Jewish immigrant; a Winnebago Indian.
- Meier and Rudwick,
FROM PLANTATION TO GHETTO
A scholarly work, valuable supplement though language excludes women.
- PERSPECTIVES: Close-Up Foundation. 1981.
Uses generic Man...he. Authors: 9 women, 65 men. But behaviorist approach to political schince often takes the sexism out of language and approach.
- Schofield,
NORTHWEST HERITAGE. 1978.
Lacks adequate treatment of women, Asians in Northwest history.
- Snider,
ECONOMIC MYTH AND REALITY. 1965.
Outdated, but format is thought- and discussion-provoking.
- Wallbank,
CIVILIZATION PAST AND PRESENT.
Few pictures of women, little treatment of women's history.
- Wallbank,
HISTORY AND LIFE. Second edition. 1982.
Updated, shows sensitivity to sex equity and minority issues. See section on women rulers in history. Well outlined source.
