ABSTRACT

An instrument to help administrators assess the liability resulting from alcohol-related activities on the college campus is presented. The hazards and associated liability of these events can be reduced by developing an aggressive risk management strategy designed to inform, educate, and coordinate the actions of individuals and groups associated with these activities. An affirmative response to a question on this checklist indicates that a preventive risk management measure exists, while a negative response identifies an area for further attention and possible development. The 103 questions concern: alcohol policy, advertising, general procedures, parties and social events, staff training, faculty/staff advisers, approval agents, sellers of alcohol, servers of alcohol, prevention and alcohol education, social hosts, program identification and treatment, and research. # COLLEGIATE ALCOHOL RISK ASSESSMENT GUIDE

The liability resulting from alcohol-related activities on the college campus can be significant. The hazards and associated liability of these events can be reduced by developing an aggressive risk management strategy designed to inform, educate, and coordinate the actions of all of those individuals and groups associated with these programs.

While no system, regardless of its thoroughness, can eliminate all accidents, injuries, or their potential resulting legal action, some attention to the myriad of related issues will assist in minimizing this risk. Institutions should be aware that there is no one single set of standards which is appropriate; individual institutional histories and traditions, specific philosophies, state laws, local statutes, and evolving case law all need to be taken into consideration when examining the institution's approach to risk management.

An affirmative response to a question on this checklist indicates that a preventive risk management measure exists; a negative response identifies an area for further attention and possible development. Administrators can create a risk management profile and develop a comprehensive risk management plan from this assessment.
