II. BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The Older Americans Act of 1965 has been amended 10 times since it was enacted. The original Act set forth the Nation's commitment to assuring the well-being of older Americans; created the Federal Administration on Aging; provided a program of grants for community planning, services and training; created a program of grants for research and development; and created a program of grants for training and developing curricula in the field of aging.

In 1967, Congress extended the Act for two years, providing additional funding and requiring a study of the future personnel needs for carrying out Older Americans Act programs. The 1969 Amendments reauthorized the Act for an additional three years, created a National Older Americans Volunteer Program, and provided increased support for a new areawide model project initiative. In 1972, the Nutrition Program for the Elderly Act, which created a major new program providing congregated meals for older Americans, was established under the auspices of the State Units on aging.

The 1973 reauthorization brought major changes to the Act, including the introduction of the substate administrative structure, Area Agencies on Aging, which assumed primary responsibility for developing and coordinating resources for the delivery of services at the local level. The 1973 amendments also incorporated the Older American Community Service Employment Act, and expanded the research and demonstration projects funded under the Act.

In 1974, Congress authorized a special program for transportation services and extended the authorization for nutrition programs for three years. 1975 brought more significant changes, including a special reservation of funds for Indian tribes, mandated priority services, established model projects for ombudsman services and day care services, and expanded support to educational institutions for career training in gerontology. The 1977 amendments made minor changes to the Nutrition Services Program relating to the use of surplus commodities.

In 1978, the Older Americans Act programs were again extended for three years. The Act was significantly restructured, with consolidation of social services, multipurpose senior centers and nutrition services into a single title III, designation of three distinct categories of priority services and requirement that 50 percent of title III funds be spent on these services, and the inclusion of language which assured preference in the delivery of services to those in the greatest economic or social need. In addition, a new title provided for grants directly to Indian Tribes.

The 1981 amendments reauthorized the Act for three years, and focused primarily on modifications designed to give State and area agencies more flexibility in administering programs. Among the changes were provisions allowing 2, 3 or 4 year planning cycles; modification to the priority service requirement to require area agencies to spend an "adequate proportion" of funds rather than a fixed percentage; and allowing States to transfer up to 20 percent of separate allotments for nutrition and supportive services among such services. In addition, the amendments consolidated authorizations under title IV and added emphasis on the transition of Title V community service employment participants to private sector employment.

In 1984, Congress again reauthorized the Act for three years. The transfer authority among allotments for nutrition and supportive services was allowed to gradually increase up to 30 percent in 1987. These amendments also added a new Title VII to support institutions of higher education in developing standardized programs of health education and training for older persons to be operated in multipurpose senior center facilities, and added victims of Alzheimer's disease and other neurological and organic brain diseases as an area of special emphasis for Title IV demonstrations. In addition, the 1984 amendments placed a statutory limitation on the amount of federal funds that can be used for administration by community service employment programs.

TITLE II—1991 WHITE

WHITE HOUSE

ENCE AUTHORIZED

SEC. 201. (a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

(1) the number of individuals 55 years of age or older was approximately 51,400,000 in 1986, and will, by the year 2040, be approximately 101,700,000;

(2) more than 1 of every 6 persons age 55 or older will be hospitalized during the next year;

(3) persons 55 years of age or older have a higher average out-of-pocket medical cost burden than younger persons; approximately 17 percent of individuals age 55 to 64 experience out-of-pocket costs in excess of 20 percent of their family income and the average per capital out-of-pocket cost of persons 65 years of age or older is expected to equal 18.5 percent of income by 1991;

(4) there is a great need to ensure access and the quality of affordable health care to all older individuals;

(5) the need for a comprehensive and responsive long-term care delivery system is great;

(6) the availability and cost of suitable housing, together with suitable services needed for independent or semi-independent living, still cause concern to older individuals;

(7) the ability to lead an independent or semi-independent life is contingent, in many cases, upon the availability of a comprehensive and effective social service system for older individuals;

(8) the availability and access to opportunities for continued productivity and employment is of great importance to middle-aged and older individuals who want or need to work;

(10) there is a continuing need to maintain and preserve the national policy with respect to increasing, coordinating, and expediting biomedical and other appropriate research directed at determining the causes and effects of the aging process;

(11) false stereotypes about aging and the process of aging continue to be prevalent throughout the United States and policies should be nurtured to overcome such stereotypes; and

(12) the talents and experience of older individuals represent a valuable community resource which should be developed and more widely shared within the local community.

(b) POLICY.—It is the policy of the Congress that—

(1) the Federal Government should work jointly with the States and their citizens to develop recommendations and plans for action to meet the challenges and needs of older individuals, consistent with the objectives of this section; and

IV. COMMITTEE VIEWS

TITLE II—ADMINISTRATION ON AGING

Administration on Aging

In light of the significance of issues related to the field of aging, the fact that the Administration on Aging has responsibilities to coordinate its activities with a multiplicity of other federal programs, both within and outside the Department, and the apparent inclination within the current structure to usurp both funding and resources intended by Congress to be used to support the Administration on Aging for other programs within the Office of Human Development Services, the Committee has found it necessary and appropriate to elevate the status of the Commissioner on Aging to report directly to the Secretary. In doing so, the Committee expects the Commissioner on Aging to be included in appropriate departmental decision making, to have independent access to the Secretary, and to function with the same level of authority as assistant secretaries and other commissioners within the Department. By elevating this relationship, the Committee intends that the Commissioner shall have control of all salaries and expenses decisions within the Administration on Aging and that the Department shall allocate adequate funds for salaries and expenses to carry out the intent of the Act.

In addition, the Committee has created the position of Associate Commissioner for Native American Aging, who is expected to act as a visible advocate for Native Americans within the Department and with other agencies on issues affecting older Native Americans, and to administer and evaluate programs funded under Title VI of the Act. In addition, the Associate Commissioner for Native American Aging will lead a new interagency task force on older Indian needs and services.

The Committee was disturbed by the lack of data available for policy analysis and decision making with regard to services provided and individuals served. The Commissioner's existing data collection functions are, therefore, expanded to include information regarding the types of services being provided, the amount of funds being spent, and the number of individuals who are being served. The Commissioner is also required to collect data on the extent to which area agencies on aging are satisfying the requirements of Section 306(a)(2) and 306(a)(5)(A). The Committee does not believe that a three-year rotational sampling of area agencies is satisfactory to meet these data collection requirements, nor would it be administratively cost effective. Each area agency is expected to collect data and report such data to the State agencies; State agencies are expected to collect data and report to the Commissioner. The new reporting requirements are to take effect in fiscal year 1989;

the Committee expects the Commissioner and State and area agencies to develop and put into place uniform data collection systems during fiscal year 1988, and to begin to collect such data during fiscal year 1989.

The reporting requirements for legal assistance services providers are to be uniform nationally, and as consistent as possible with those used by the Legal Services Corporation. While the Committee wishes to protect the identity of legal assistance clients, and therefore has included a provision which prohibits the divulgence of information protected by the attorney-client privilege, this provision is not intended to exempt legal services from routine reporting requirements.

A new provision is added which requires the Commissioner to publish annually for public comment specific goals to be achieved by implementing the Act. This requirement is intended to encourage visible national leadership by the Administration on Aging, and to provide a framework for Administration on Aging activities for the year.

The Committee has also added the following to the list of agencies with which the Commission must consult: the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration, the Administration on Developmental Disabilities, and the National Advisory Panel on Alzheimer's Disease.

Federal Council on Aging

The required composition of the membership of the Federal Council on Aging has been modified to ensure that a clear majority of the members are older individuals, and to include a representative of Indian tribes on the Council. The Committee believes that policy guidance should directly reflect the views of older individuals and their peers who will be affected by such policies, and encourages State and area agencies to also follow the practice of having older individuals be a majority of advisory committee members. The current provisions for representative membership are maintained, and the Committee intends that the diverse needs and characteristics of older individuals be considered in appointing Council members.

TITLE III—SUPPORTIVE SERVICES

Targeting Services under State and Area Plans on Aging

In response to testimony about the lack of effective targeting of services to low income and minority older individuals received during the course of hearings on the bill, the Committee has included a number of provisions intended to strengthen title III requirements with respect to planning and service delivery to these groups, and to require documentation of how State and area agencies meet their service needs. These provisions include requirements that State and area plans identify the number of low income and minority older persons in the planning and service area, and to describe methods used to meet their needs the previous year. State agencies, in dividing the State into planning and service areas, and area agencies, in developing comprehensive and coordinated services systems, are required to consider the number of older persons with the greatest economic or social need, with particular attention to low income minority older persons. Provisions are also added to assure effective outreach to such individuals and to require that evaluation of these outreach efforts takes place. In addition, a new requirement is intended to assure that service providers under the area plan specify how they will meet the needs of low income minority older persons and that they provide services to such individuals in at least the same proportion as they represent of the total older population in the area.

Services to Individuals with Disabilities

Like the growing population of elderly in the United States, there is also a growth in the number of elderly persons with disabilities, including those with severe or lifelong disabilities. Although many of their needs are similar to the needs of other older persons, older individuals with disabilities face a number of unique problems which are often compounded by having had a disability over a lifetime. The Committee recognizes that older individuals with disabilities are already included under the Act, but believes that reaffirming their inclusion and focusing services to their special needs is appropriate. In recognition of the special needs of older Americans with disabilities, the Committee has included several new provisions to assure that programs under the Act address this ever growing population.

The Committee includes definitions of individuals with disabilities and individuals with severe disabilities. The Committee stresses the functional nature of these definitions and points out that they are compatible with the Rehabilitation Act Amendments of 1986 and S. 1417, the Development Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act Amendments of 1987. The definition of individuals with disabilities includes a list of conditions which might result in one or more disabilities. The list is not meant to be exhaustive. Thus, for example, conditions of post polio and hearing impairments are obviously included.

The Committee has included several new requirements for State and area agencies on aging to coordinate planning and activities with agencies and organizations providing services to individuals with disabilities. It is the intent of the Committee that these coordination efforts be mutual, and these provisions in the Committee bill parallel similar amendments in S. 1417, the Development Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act Amendments of 1987. The Committee believes that coordination of activities of the aging network and the disability community can significantly improve opportunities and services for older Americans with a variety of special needs including those related to disabilities.

The Committee recognizes that older individuals with disabilities are among those designated as having the "greatest social need" under the Act and intends that they derive the full benefits of all provisions of the Act relating to individuals with the greatest social need.

Single Organizational Unit

An important aspect of outreach into a community is the ability of an area agency to be as visible and recognizable to the elderly as possible. This is particularly true in the case of the frail and vulnerable elderly who often face barriers to accessing direct services. The Act calls upon area agencies to ensure that access to services is facilitated.

The bill requires that a single organizational unit be identified in each area as the agency on aging. The Committee wishes to make it clear that local officials may continue to include the area agency within an "umbrella" agency, such as a city or county human service department, council of government, regional planning commission, or regional planning district, as long as the area agency remains an identifiable unit. Further, the area agency unit that is housed in such a multi-purpose agency may absorb its equitable share of expenses incurred by the operation of the aging program as allowable under an indirect cost allocation plan, provided that the relevant federal agency has not explicitly rejected the indirect cost allocation plan.

Priority Services

In light of structural changes in the Act which create new subparts and the need for additional flexibility to meet local needs, the Committee has deleted the requirement that an adequate proportion of Part B funds be spent on access and in-home services. However, access services must be provided under Part B, and in-home services must be provided under Part D. Funds from Part B may still be utilized to provide in-home services.

Legal Services

The Committee wishes to express its continued support for the provision of legal services under the Act. The Committee intends that State agencies on aging have flexibility in determining the minimum level of funding necessary for the provision of legal assistance services by each area agency. The Committee expects the State minimum to reflect a floor, rather than a ceiling, for such expenditures. The Committee does not intend to encourage State and area agencies to diminish their existing legal assistance funding levels. However, the Committee does authorize area agencies to request a waiver of the minimum requirement to fund legal assistance services when the such an agency finds that the current capacity of established and operating legal assistance entities, including the Legal Services Corporation and the private bar, meets the existing legal assistance needs.

When an area agency requests such a waiver, the State agency shall provide notice to individuals and providers of legal assistance services in such area of intention to grant such a request. Individuals and providers shall have thirty days from the date of notice within which to request a hearing by the State agency regarding the waiver request. The State agency will grant such a waiver request only after (1) providing the aforementioned notice, (2) completing any hearing requested in a timely manner, and (3) fully evaluating the area agencies finding regarding the current legal assistance services and needs.

The Committee also wishes to note that the use of nonlawyers, where permitted by federal and State law, can be effective in meeting the expanding legal assistance needs of older persons, particularly to discover and assist older persons regarding public benefit problems. While direct attorney supervision of nonlawyer advocates is not required, the Committee believes that the support and utilization of this network by title III-B funded lawyers and other lawyers should be encouraged. The Commissioner should encourage their utilization, and make provision for training and support to nonlawyers.

Senior Centers

The Committee wishes to reiterate the intent of section 306(a)(3) of the Act, which encourages area agencies to designate a neighborhood focal point for comprehensive service delivery, giving special consideration to multipurpose senior centers as such designees.

In addition, the Committee wishes to clarify that section 321(b)(2) of the Act does not require that senior centers be receiving funding for facilities construction in order to qualify for funding under Part B of the Act for operations. While not technically a "supportive service," and, thus, not included in the list of supportive services under 321(a), it is the intent of the Committee that funds made available under Title III, Part B, be available to fund activities listed under section 321(b)(2).

Assistive Technology Services

Technology can have a significant impact on the functional ability and the vitality of older Americans and assist them to maintain their independence, maximize their options, and improve the quality of their lives.

The Committee acknowledges the importance of technology in helping older individuals increase or maintain their functional abilities by including several provisions to promote the use of assistive technology services. The Committee has modified the purpose of the Act to include functional limitations as one of the special needs of older individuals to be addressed under the Act.

The Committee has also made explicit the definition of supportive services to include the provision of assistive technology services and has included a definition of assistive technology services. Such services constitute a systematic approach for enabling older individuals to obtain the products, services and information they need in order to appropriately use technology to compensate for functional limitations or disabilities.

Individuals with functional limitations experience a reduced ability to perform such basic activities as eating, personal hygiene, shopping, dressing, and meal preparation. Functional limitations are often a result of natural aging, but may accompany disease or a related pathological condition, and may be severe enough to constitute a disability.

There is a wide range of technology available. Most technological interventions are simple and include things like a magnifying lens to read small print, assistive listening devices, bathroom safety grab bars, or a seat that helps one stand up. A few individuals will need more comprehensive technological support systems such as motorized wheelchairs and mechanical lifts. Efforts to increase awareness of the availability and applicability of both simple and complex technological solutions are central components of Assistive Technology Services.

Long Term Care Ombudsman Program

In recognition of the importance of the State long term care ombudsman program in improving the quality of care for residents of long term care facilities, the Committee has added a number of provisions to strengthen the program and has also added a separate authorization of title III funds to carry out the new responsibilities contained in the bill. The amendments made by the Committee are intended to respond to recommendations made by the Institute of Medicine in its 1986 report, "Improving the Quality of Care in Nursing Homes," and by others. Amendments include provisions designed to clarify certain functions of the program, to require training of ombudsmen and to provide legal protections for persons carrying out ombudsman responsibilities. Other provisions are designed to prohibit conflict of interest in the operation of the ombudsman program, and to improve reporting of complaints made by or on behalf of facility residents.

The amendments specify that the State agency on aging will establish and operate, either directly or by contract, an Office of State Long Term Care Ombudsman. They clarify that the Office is to investigate and resolve complaints relating to action, inaction or decisions of providers of long term care services, public agencies, or social service agencies which may adversely affect the health, safety, welfare, or rights of long term care facility residents. In addition, the amendments clarify that the State agency must require the Office to make recommendations with respect to needed changes in Federal, State and local laws, regulations and policies affecting long term care facilities and services in the State and as part of public information activities. In addition, the State agency on aging is required to establish a toll-free hotline to facilitate communication of complaints to the ombudsman from residents or persons acting on behalf of residents.

The amendments recognize the importance of local, sub-State ombudsman programs, and require that such local programs be included as subdivisions of the Office. Persons staffing these programs, either as employees or as unpaid volunteers, are to be treated as representatives of the Office. The bill requires that representatives of the Office be afforded certain protections. The Committee has made a distinction between responsibilities of the State and responsibilities of the State agency on aging with respect to assuring such protections. In this regard the bill requires the State to make the following assurances: that representatives of the Office will not be liable under State law for good faith performance of official duties; that willful interference with representatives of the Office is unlawful; that retaliation and reprisals by long term care facilities is prohibited; and that appropriate sanctions will be applied in the case of any interference with official ombudsman responsibilities or of retaliation and reprisals by facilities. The State is also required to ensure that representatives of the Office will have access to facilities and residents, and have the ability to review resident medical and social records.

The Committee requires the State agency on aging to assure that the Office will have adequate legal counsel in the implementation of the program and that legal representation will be provided in cases of legal action against any representative of the Office. The State agency is also required to assure that the Office will have the ability to pursue administrative, legal and other appropriate remedies on behalf of residents. The Committee has included a provision which protects the identity of clients of the ombudsman. This provision, however, is not intended to prevent normal oversight of ombudsman records by the State agency.

The bill contains a number of provisions designed to prohibit conflict of interest in implementation of the ombudsman program. The State agency on aging is required to assure that persons responsible for the designation of the long term care ombudsman, or the head of any subdivision, or any representatives of the Office, are not subject to conflict of interest. In addition, the Committee bill requires the State agency to establish procedures to identify and resolve situations which may lead to any conflict of interest.

The Committee recognizes that the responsibilities established for State and local personnel implementing this program are complex. Ombudsmen must not only be familiar with a wide range of Federal, State and local laws, regulations, and policies on long term care, but must also be equipped to carry out investigations as to their effect on residents who make complaints. The Committee also recognizes that the vast majority of persons staffing the program are volunteers. In view of these considerations, the Committee has added provisions to increase training opportunities for persons who carry out ombudsman functions. First, a new provision under title III requires the Commissioner to provide technical assistance and training to State long term care ombudsman programs. In addition, the bill specifies that the State agency is responsible for training of Office staff, including volunteers and other representatives of the Office. Training must include information on Federal, State and local laws, regulations, and policies affecting long term care facilities and also investigative techniques which may be used by the ombudsmen. The State agency is responsible for assuring that officers, employees, or other representatives of the Office are prohibited from investigating any complaints unless they have received training and are qualified for the complaint investigation.

The Committee recognizes that clients residing in long-term care facilities comprise a diverse population of frail elderly, elderly who are mentally ill, persons who are developmentally disabled, and persons with severe physical disabilities. Under current law elderly individuals who are mentally ill and persons with developmental disabilities are entitled to advocacy services under the Protection and Advocacy Systems for Mentally Ill Individuals and the Protection and Advocacy Systems for the Developmentally Disabled. The Nursing Home Ombudsman Program has jurisdiction in providing advocacy services for the entire population residing in long-term care facilities. However, lack of adequate resources limits the ability of all three programs to provide comprehensive advocacy services. Therefore, the bill requires the State agency to coordinate ombudsman activities with the protection and advocacy systems established under authority of the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act and under the Protection and Advocacy for Mentally Ill Individuals Act of 1986 to provide high quality, effective advocacy services.

The Committee is particularly interested in improvement of data collection and reporting of information gathered under the auspices of the ombudsman program. Therefore, the bill adds a new requirement as part of other title II reporting responsibilities that the Commissioner compile an annual report for Congress summarizing data collected through the program. The report is not only to identify significant issues, particularly relating to quality of care and residents' rights, but also to make legislative and administrative recommendations to resolve issues. In addition to the Federal reporting requirement, the bill requires State agencies to prepare an annual report on complaints and to make recommendations to resolve identified issues. These reports are to be made available to appropriate Federal agencies.

In order to carry out these responsibilities, the bill creates a separate authorization of appropriations for the ombudsman program, and provides $20 million for fiscal year 1988 and such sums as may be necessary for the four succeeding fiscal years. The new provisions added by the Committee bill will only take effect in years in which funding for title III-B is in an amount greater than the fiscal year 1987 level. If funding is equal to or less than the fiscal year 1987 levels, the current law provisions will apply, though the Committee encourages States and State agencies to implement the new provisions to the extent that current funding permits. The bill also specifies that amounts appropriated for the program are not to supplant State or local resources used for ombudsman services.

In addition to these provisions, the bill also require the Commissioner to conduct a study to examine the impact of the ombudsman program on issues affecting residents of board and care facilities. The Commissioner is also required to conduct a study on the effectiveness of recruiting, supervising and retaining volunteer ombudsmen. This is viewed as especially important, since volunteers are a primary staff resource for implementation of the program.

Roles of State and Area Agencies

The Committee wishes to reemphasize the continuing advocacy role of State and area agencies on behalf of all older individuals. The Committee expects such agencies to represent the interests of older individuals within the community by reviewing, monitoring, evaluating, and commenting on Federal, State and local plans, budgets, regulations, programs, laws, levies, hearings, policies and actions which may affect older individuals, and by recommending any changes in such items which the agency considers to be appropriate. The Committee wishes to distinguish between the permissible activities of advocating policy and policy changes through the legislative and rule-making process, as opposed to advocating the success or failure of a particular candidate or political party.

In-Home Services for Frail Older Individuals

The Committee bill adds a new part D to title III, authorizing grants to States for non-medical in-home services for frail older person, including victims of Alzheimer's disease and other neurological and organic brain disorders, and their families. While current law establishes in-home services as a priority services under title III-B, the Committee believes that a separate authorization of funds for this purpose is necessary in order to expand the Act's commitment to home-based social services and focus new resources in this area. Based on the projected growth of the elderly population and current utilization patterns of long term care services, major increases in the demand for community-based services, especially the types of in-home services authorized by the bill, are anticipated in the future. Recent research conducted by the Department of Health and Human Services has indicated that many disabled elderly living in the community require assistance which is primarily nonmedical in nature but is not covered by other service programs. This research found that about 4.6 million older persons living in the community have some kind of functional limitation.

The Committee recognizes that limited funds will be available, but among the services authorized are homemaker and home health aide; visiting, telephone reassurance, and personal emergency response; chore maintenance; respite care for families, including adult day care; and minor remodeling of homes not covered by other programs. These in-home services are intended to enable older individuals with functional disabilities to remain in their own homes rather than enter an institution.

Under the new part D, funds are to be awarded to State agencies on aging based on the current title III formula, that is, based on the State's population aged 60 years or over as compared to all States. The bill requires the State agency to develop eligibility criteria for use of in-home services funds. The criteria must take into account the following factors: age; greatest economic need; non-economic factors contributing to frailty; and non-economic and non-health factors contributing to the need for services.

Funds authorized under part D are to be used by States to supplement funds already being spent or that would otherwise be expended by Federal, State, or local authorities. This includes area agencies on aging which have in their planning and service areas existing services to primarily serve victims of Alzheimer's disease and related disorders, and the families of such victims. It is the Committee's intent the existing service providers be used to the maximum extent possible in carrying out the activities authorized by this provision, but recognizes that gaps in services may exist and expects State and area agencies to actively encourage the development of needed services.

It is also the Committee's intent that State and area agencies coordinate the planning and delivery of in-home services authorized by the bill with existing agencies and organizations providing similar or related services. The Committee bill has incorporated provisions which delineate this intent. First, an amendment to Section 307 requires State plans to assure that these in-home services will be coordinated with State and local agencies and private non-profit organizations which administer and provide health, social, rehabilitation, and mental health services. Secondly, area agencies are required to coordinate with other community agencies and voluntary organizations providing counseling and training for family caregivers and support service personnel. This includes coordinating with existing agencies and organizations which provide functional and needs assessment services, assistance with locating, arranging for and coordinating services, case management, and counseling prior to admission to nursing homes.

The Committee recognizes that programs such as Medicare and Medicaid support a range of in-home services for the functionally impaired elderly. However, these programs as currently structured are limited in their ability to respond to the social service needs of the chronically impaired elderly. For example, Medicare's benefits are focused primarily on acute medical care needs. To the extent that Medicare covers home care, it does so only when a need for skilled nursing care of physical or speech therapy is first demonstrated. State Medicaid programs, on the other hand, can cover a broader range of in-home services, but only for those persons who meet income-related eligibility requirements. Many frail elderly persons who are not poor enough to qualify for Medicaid and who do not meet Medicare's medically-related criteria require in-home services to live independently. Older Americans Act services are targeted strictly on the elderly and may be provided without the health-related restrictions of Medicare and without the income tests of Medicaid. For these reasons, title III services may be used to assist persons who are ineligible under other programs.

Health Education and Promotion for Older Americans

In recognition of the vital need and potential long run saving in health care costs, the Committee has included a new authorization for the provision of health education and promotion services for older Americans. This program is intended to provide health screening, education and other health promotion services to older Americans. The Committee intends these services to be provided primarily in congregate settings, particularly in senior centers and congregate meal sites. The Committee expects State and area agencies to utilize the services of community based organizations and other providers whenever feasible to provide these services.

Elder Abuse Prevention

The Committee has included an authorization for a program to prevent abuse of older individuals. The bill requires that such programs be carried out in a manner that is consistent with relevant State law and coordinated with State adult protective services activities and other State and local elder abuse prevention and protection. It also provides for public education and outreach services to identify and prevent abuse, neglect and exploitation of older individuals; receipt of reports of such abuse, neglect and exploitation; the referral of complaints and other reports of abuse, neglect or exploitation of older individuals to the appropriate agencies. It also encourages the active participation of older individuals in these programs.

The Committee wishes to stress that the programs are to be designed so as to complement and not duplicate any existing State or local elder abuse prevention or protection programs.

Study of State Cost-Sharing Programs

The Committee is aware that a significant number of States administer state-funded social service programs for older individuals on a cost-sharing basis. The Committee has considered several proposals which would have permitted states to provide federally funded Title III services on a cost-sharing basis, as well.

Proponents have argued that cost-sharing will permit an increased level of services without increasing federal funding. In addition, it is argued, that a federal cost-sharing program could easily be structured to utilize monies generated through fees to increase services to those most in need, thus increasing low-income and minority participation in Title III programs.

Finally, it has been suggested that cost-sharing need not be mandatory; States could have the option of whether to participate, depending upon needs and conditions, and participants (even those residing in States who choose the cost-sharing option) would not be turned away because of a refusal or inability to pay.

Despite the worthy intentions of the cost-sharing proposals, the Committee is concerned that implementations of such a program has the potential to produce undesirable results. There is concern that such arrangements may produce results exactly opposite of those intended, causing participation of the neediest individuals to decline due to a misunderstanding of the cost-sharing requirements or an unwillingness to disclose financial information. There is also concern that cost-sharing could provide administrative incentives for State and area agencies to serve relatively higher income older individuals, and that, consequently, services to minority and low-income individuals could suffer.

Since the potential impact of cost-sharing policies on services under the Older Americans Act is unknown, the Committee will request that the General Accounting Office conduct a study of current State cost-sharing systems and report its findings to the Committee by September 30, 1990. Among other issues, the Committee believes that the study should examine the effects of cost-sharing systems on: access to services by older individuals; increases or decreases in the number of older individuals served, particularly low-income and minority individuals; the nature of the fee scales used and the differential effects of such arrangements; and the characteristics of participants who pay fees and those who do not. In addition, the Committee believes that such a study should identify the similarities and differences between Older Americans Act programs and State-funded programs with regard to the scope of services covered, funding levels, and the social and economic characteristics of the participants.

TITLE IV—RESEARCH AND DEMONSTRATION PROGRAMS

Multidisciplinary Centers of Gerontology under Title IV Training Authority

Beginning in 1980, under title IV training authority, the Administration on Aging supported a number of multidisciplinary centers of gerontology primarily located in institutions of higher education to serve as national policy study centers in various areas of importance to the elderly, including income maintenance, health, employment, and housing. The purpose of these centers was to engage in policy analysis and research directed toward major policy issues in the field of aging. Although these centers made contributions in manpower development, preparation of personnel for the field of aging, knowledge building, and policy analysis, they are no longer receiving funding to carry out these activities as centers of gerontology.

Current law gives the Commissioner discretionary authority to support multidisciplinary centers of gerontology to conduct training, research, and policy analysis, and to function as technical resources for the Commissioner, policymakers, service providers, and the Congress. Because of the unique contributions which such centers can achieve and because such initiatives are no longer receiving support, the Committee believes that this current discretionary authority of the Commissioner should be made mandatory. Therefore, the Committee bill includes a provision which requires the Commissioner to support such centers. Moreover, the Committee explicitly expanded the areas for special emphasis by the Centers to include disability, mental health, assistive technology and minority population concerns.

Special Projects in Comprehensive Long-term Care

Section 423(a)(1) of current law gives the Commissioner discretionary authority to support special projects to support the development of comprehensive, coordinated systems of community-based long term care. The projected growth of the elderly population with long term care needs in the future necessitates continued focus on efficient and effective services and programs to meet these needs. Therefore, the Committee bill contains a provision which would mandate the Commissioner to use title IV funds to implement this provision.

In requiring that the Commissioner make grants for special projects in comprehensive long term care, it is the Committee's expectation that eligible applicants include State agencies, area agencies, institutions of higher education, and other public agencies and private nonprofit organizations. Further, the Committee expects that such grants will support the development of comprehensive, coordinated systems of community long term care for older persons. The Committee further expects: that such grants will be awarded on a competitive basis; that activities will place particular emphasis on program development, research, education, and training that supports State and area agencies, providers and services funded under the Older Americans Act; and that the Commissioner will formally evaluate performance annually and factor results into renewal decisions.

Outreach Demonstration Program for SSI, Medicaid and Food Stamps

The Committee has included a provision authorizing $3 million to fund demonstration programs to test whether the Older Americans Act system can effectively reach and assist eligible individuals who are not currently receiving SSI, Medicaid and Food Stamps to begin receiving program benefits. The bill authorizes such sums for fiscal years 1989 through 1992, and should the demonstrations prove viable, the Committee intends to significantly expand coverage of these programs as indicated by the program results in fiscal year 1988.

Home Care Quality Assurance Demonstrations

The Committee has authorized $2 million in 1989 and 1990 to demonstrate the most effective methods for ensuring that home care services provided under the act are of high quality. Methods which may be tested include, but are not limited to, consumer education, hot lines, ombudsman services, legal assistance, protection and advocacy services, and the use of community service agencies.

Special Disability Emphasis

In recognition of the shortage of programs and personnel who are trained to provide supportive services to older individuals with disabilities, the Committee acknowledges the need for training, research, and discretionary projects to focus on the needs of elderly with disabilities. The Committee has included specific references throughout Title IV with the intent of assuring that the special needs, including mental health needs, of individuals with disabilities are given appropriate attention in Title IV programs. The Committee specifically authorizes the Commissioner to make grants or enter into contracts to provide and develop training programs for care providers to enable them to meet the special service needs of older individuals with disabilities. Moreover, the Committee adds the provision of services to elderly individuals with severe disabilities and the provision of rehabilitation services and communication aids to the list of special health care needs of the elderly to which the Commissioner shall give special consideration when making grants and contracts.

Assistive Technology Demonstration Project

One of the difficulties in the application of technology with older individuals results from a lack of information to individuals who would benefit from it. The Committee adds to the list of projects to be given special consideration those designed to study and demonstrate methods of improving older individuals' awareness of, access to, and use of assistive technology services to increase their functional independence. Consistent with current law, the Committee intends that such demonstration projects include provisions for dissemination of project information and results to State and area agencies on aging to better meet the Committee's intent of emphasizing the inclusion of assistive technology services among supportive services under Title III of the Act.

TITLE V—COMMUNITY SERVICE EMPLOYMENT PROGRAMS FOR OLDER AMERICANS

Community Service Employment

In response to testimony regarding the potentially serious impediments to program operation imposed by the existing cap on title V administrative costs, the bill freezes the cap at 13.5 percent and establishes specific criteria to be used to evaluate whether the cap should be waived. The Committee fully expects Title V funds to be administered efficiently.

The bill also exempts Title V wages from consideration for the purpose of determining eligibility or computing monthly rents with regard to federally-assisted senior citizen housing for Title V workers. Further, it exempts such income for the purpose of making income determinations under the Food Stamp Act.

The bill requires that additional funds provided over the amount appropriated in fiscal year 1987 be first used to fund two new national contractors, one representing older Indians and one representing older Pacific/Asian Americans. This provision is not intended to take funding away from current contractors or State programs, and the Committee intends that any new funding provided over and above the amount for the new contractors should continue to be divided in the same proportion as currently among the national contractors and State agencies. The Committee expects the Department of Labor to continue to pursue geographic equity in the administration of such contracts and to provide appropriate contract oversight of all title V grants and contracts.

The bill also provides clarification that education services as defined by title V include literacy tutoring.

TITLE VI—GRANTS FOR NATIVE AMERICAN PROGRAMS

Title III Eligibility

The Committee bill repeals several provisions of existing law to clarify that Indians are eligible for services under both titles III and VI. The deletion of these provisions corrects the unintended effect of existing law which can result in making ineligible for Title III services older Indians who could be served by a Title VI grant but are not, or in making older Indians who receive only one type of service under Title VI ineligible for any other services under Title III. These changes are also intended to assist tribal organizations and area agencies to broaden the scope of their cooperation in developing more comprehensive service delivery.

Programs for Indian Tribes, Eskimos, Aleuts, and Native Hawaiians

The Committee has recognized both the similarities and differences among American Indians, Aleuts, Eskimos, and Hawaiian Natives by including an overall structure authorizing programs for these groups as Native Americans, as well as providing for separate Parts within the title which are designed to meet the specific circumstances for the groups being served.

The Committee was careful to preserve the integrity of the current Indian programs. A two-part Title VI was created: Part A, which preserves and expands the current program for Indian tribes, Eskimos, and Aleuts; and Part B, which creates a new program to serve Native Hawaiians. The bill also preserves separate Congressional findings relative to Indians, and includes a provision which calls for a special study of the needs of Indian elders and training for Indian service providers.

Overall authorization levels for Title VI have been increased by over 50 percent. Based on Census data showing the numbers of older Native Americans, funding for the Native Hawaiian Part B is limited to not more than 10 percent of the total funding for the title. In addition, the Committee has included a provision which ensures that programs for Native Hawaiians are not funded at the expense of current Indian programs.

The Committee views the inclusion of Native Hawaiians in a modified title VI program for Native Americans as an extension of past policy on this issue followed by both the Committee and Congress. The term "Native Americans" was first defined by Congress to include Native Hawaiians, along with American Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts, under the Community Services Act Amendments of 1974. Since then, Title III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, the Job Training Partnership Act, Section 8(a) of the Small Business Administration Act, the Native Americans Programs Act, the Vocational Education Act, and the Rehabilitation Act have all been amended to include Native Hawaiians in the definition of Native Americans.

The basis for the inclusion of Native Hawaiians as Native Americans is clear. Native Hawaiians are an easily identifiable group of indigenous, aboriginal people with a land-based culture. They have had treaty relationships with the United States, and in the the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act of 1921, the United States recognized their collective right to traditional native lands and the income from those lands.

Under the new Part B, authorizing a program for Native Hawaiians, there is a specific requirement that such programs be coordinated with the State agency on aging. It is the expectation of the Committee that the Native Hawaiian grantees will work with the State agency to develop and implement programs of benefit to Native Hawaiians which are consistent with the overall State plan.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON AGING

White House Conference on Aging

The bill authorizes the President to call a White House Conference on Aging in 1991 to be administered by the Secretary of Health and Human Services in consultation with the Commissioner on Aging and the Director of the National Institute on Aging.

Since the first conference was called by President Harry S. Truman in 1950, the Congress, the Executive Branch, and the Nation have relied on these conferences to provide direction, leadership, and innovation in Federal policy for the elderly. In 1958, this Committee approved legislation to request President Dwight D. Eisenhower to call a White House Conference on Aging in 1961. Many of the proposed recommendations from the conference (such as Medicare and Medicaid, the Older Americans Act, and annual increases in social security benefits) have shaped the Federal aging agenda since that time. Conferences in 1971 and 1981 further defined and developed the Federal agenda. As demographers project that the portion of the population age 55 or older will continue to increase well into the next century, the need for a national strategy session to address the implications of an aging population is imperative.

It is the intent of the Committee that the 1991 conference examine issues relating to or affecting aging, and develop recommendations for comprehensive national policies. The Conference shall be conducted in such manner as to permit delegates to participate in each issue area addressed during the Conference. The Committee believes that the Conference should focus on a limited number of issues of a determinable scope and foster consensus recommendations. These issues, though limited in number, should cover the wide range of concerns of the elderly and the diversity of their needs. The Committee intends that the scope of the conference will include the emerging needs of the elderly, as addressed in these amendments, including promoting independence through various methods.

This Committee is aware of the importance of the delegates to the Conference. It is the Committee's intention that every effort will be made to ensure a broad cross-section of opinions and views within the aging community. As in the past, the Committee anticipates vigorous debate concerning the direction of Federal aging policy. This is the main purpose of the Conference and should be encouraged in order to assure that the recommendations and the Conference report are truly representative of the community of thought regarding Federal policy for the elderly.

Previous White House Conferences have been preceded by State conferences designed to develop issues for consideration at the national Conference. The Committee recognizes the value of, and does not intend to preclude, pre-conference activities. It encourages planners to consider State and local Conferences, so as to provide States a greater opportunity to provide recommendations regarding the impact of national policy goals on particular regional, State and local needs.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE RESEARCH

Requirement for Clinical Trials

Recognizing the need to fund additional research on drugs to treat and abate the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease, the Committee has authorized $2 million for each of fiscal years 1988, 1989 and 1990 for this purpose. It is the intent of the Committee that the clinical trials required by this subsection be conducted through the centers supported under section 445 of the Public Health Service Act and through such other public and nonprofit private entities as the Director considers appropriate.

The Committee supports efforts underway to determine the safety and efficacy of tetrahydroaminoacridine drugs to retard the progression of symptoms of Alzheimer's disease and improve the functioning of individuals with such disease. The Committee does not intend that this authority will forestall or require review of current clinical trial efforts. The level of funding available at this time is expected to cover the costs of clinical trials with respect to the drug tetrahydroaminoacridine. The Committee will review such ceiling on the authorization as appropriate if new drugs become available and warrant additional funding for testing.

* Less than $500,000

The costs of this bill fall within functions 500 and 600.

Basis of estimate: This cost estimate of S. 887 reflects the new and extended authorizations for programs under the Older Americans Act of 1965. Most of the programs in this bill are authorized at stated levels for 1988 through 1992. Authorization levels are only stated for 1988 for the ombudsman, preventative health services, outreach, and older individual abuse prevention programs. In all these programs, the outyears are authorized at such sums as may be necessary. Estimated levels for these such sums authorization at the stated levels adjusted for inflation.

estimate for the currently unfunded program for personal health education and training, authorized at such sums for 1988 through 1992, is based on the most recent stated authorized level adjusted for inflation.

The 1991 White House Conference on Aging is authorized at such sums for 1989, 1990, and 1991. We have assumed full funding in 1989, based on the cost of the 1981 conference adjusted for inflation.

Section 165 would exclude wages received under Title V of the Older Americans Act from income when determining eligibility for federally subsidized housing, and when determining eligibility and benefits under the Food Stamp program. The housing assistance provision affects eligibility and not the size of the subsidy and so would not affect costs. The food stamp provision, however, would increase food stamps benefits for households with Title V wages.

Using the August 1984 Characteristics of Food Stamp Households database, we estimate there are 105,000 food stamp recipients 55 and older with earned income. Between 10 and 15 percent of these recipients were assumed to be employed under the Older Americans Act.¹ Wages for food stamp recipients 55 and older averaged $310 monthly in August 1984. Excluding this earned income for households with Title V earnings would increase benefits by an estimated $60 monthly for 80 percent of such households, resulting in a total increase of $10 million annually. The remaining households would receive no benefit increase, primarily because they are already receiving maximum food stamp benefits.

S. 887 authorizes $3 million in 1988 and such sums in the out-years to allow state agencies to conduct demonstration projects for outreach activities to inform older individuals of the availability of benefits under the Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Medicaid, Medicare and Food Stamp programs. Funding these pilot projects could increase the number of benefit recipients in these programs. Costs in these programs could increase $3 million in 1988 and $6 million annually in subsequent years as a result of the outreach projects.

Total outlays are estimated assuming full funding of estimated authorization levels. Estimated outlays for existing programs reflect the current spending pattern. Estimated outlays for new programs reflect the spending pattern of similar existing programs.

6. Estimated costs to State and local government: Several programs amended by this bill, including services and centers, congregate and home-delivered nutrition, community service employment, personal health education and training, and the child care food program, require agencies receiving federal funds to pay for a portion of costs from non-federal sources. We estimate the total non-federal contribution required if this bill were fully funded to be about $200 million in 1988, increasing to about $265 million in 1992.

7. Estimate comparison: None.

8. Previous CBO estimate: On May 18, 1987, CBO prepared a cost estimate on H.R. 1451, The Older Americans Act Amendments of 1987, as ordered reported from the House Education and Labor Committee. H.R. 1451 authorized similar programs through 1991. The House bill included meals for adult day care centers, higher funding for the outreach program, and the reauthorization of the Native American Programs H R 1451 bill did not include some of the smaller new programs authorized in S 887

VIII. REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT

In compliance with paragraph 11(b) of Senate Rule 26, the Committee has determined that the bill will not increase the regulatory burden on individuals, businesses, or consumers. The bill continues existing authorities for five years and adds authority for expanded social services programs. Data collection responsibilities of the Federal and State authorities which administer the program authorized by this Act are clarified. Responsibility of the Federal government to develop regulations to implement provisions of the bill are updated to reflect the bill's reauthorization period.

(5)(A) A State which on or before October 1, 1980, had designated with the approval of the Commissioner, a single planning and service area covering all of the older individuals in the State, in which the State agency was administering the area plan, may after that date designate one or more additional planning and service areas within the State to be administered by public or private nonprofit agencies or organizations as area agencies on aging, after considering the factors specified in subsection (a)(1)(E). The State agency shall continue to perform the functions of an area agency for any area of the State not included in a planning and service area for which an area agency has been designated.

(B) Whenever a State agency designates a new area agency on aging after the date of enactment of the Older Americans Act Amendments of 1984, the State agency shall give the right to first refusal to a unit of general purpose local government if (i) such unit can meet the requirements of subsection (c), and (ii) the boundaries of such a unit and the boundaries of the area are reasonably contiguous.

In designating an area agency on aging within the planning and service area or within any unit of general purpose local government designated as a planning and service area the State shall give preference to an established office on aging, unless the State agency finds that no such office within the planning and service area will have the capacity to carry out the area plan.
