ABSTRACT

Written to accompany the Adult Basic Education (ABE) Level III reading skills workbook of the PATHWAYS Curriculum, this teacher's guide contains brief explanations of the various skills presented in the workbook, suggested teaching strategies, answers to workbook exercises, and a list of available commercial materials that may be used to supplement the exercises. Lessons are grouped under the unit topics of word analysis, vocabulary, comprehension, and study skills. Units contain a total of 15 lessons, each addressing a specific skill such as root words, prefixes and suffixes, compound words, context clues, drawing conclusions, identifying cause and effect, use of the dictionary, and map and graph reading. The teaching strategies for each lesson include ways to clarify information for students, provide additional practice, and facilitate participation in group activities. The preface describes the organization of the series of six ABE reading and writing workbooks stressing that the books provide a sequential, systematic approach to adult basic education and contain material based on the culture of Indian tribes of the Southwest. ## PREFACE TO THE TEACHER

The teacher's guide was developed to facilitate the teaching/learning process. The guide corresponds to the ABE student workbook and may be used as the answer book as well as a reference manual. It is comprehensive in that it contains concise explanations of the various skills presented, suggested teaching strategies, answers to workbook exercises, and a list of available commercial materials with specific pages cited. These materials may be used to supplement the exercises in the workbook.

Following is a brief summary of what is to be found in the reading and writing workbooks and how they are organized:

ABE reading and writing workbooks. The content material of the books are culture-based and provide a sequential, systematic approach to adult basic education. Utilizing Southwestern Indian myths, legends, history, and information on religious beliefs, architecture, fine arts, and social practices, the student workbooks present well-researched information about the rich heritage of Indian culture of the Southwest. The nature of the materials makes the curriculum unique and offers adult educators an alternative approach. The aspect of cultural relevance creates interest, curiosity and a sense of self-pride.

There are six student workbooks, three each in reading and writing, covering three levels of readability. The corresponding grade levels of the workbooks are listed below:

LEVEL	EQUIVALENT GRADE	READABILITY
I	3rd	2.7 - 3.9
II	4th	3.5 - 4.9
III	5th	4.5 - 6.0

Readability formulas have been applied to all selections to ensure the appropriate level of difficulty.

The lessons in the workbook are arranged so that each lesson instructs a skill. The lesson begins with an information presentation section wherein the particular skill or concept is explained to the student and examples are provided. Next, exercises requiring application of the skill or concept presented are provided for the student.

All related, individual skills are presented in the workbooks in units. Individual lessons in a unit should be completed in sequence, since the later lessons are based on concepts presented in previous lessons.

At the end of each unit, a unit test has been included in the student workbook to enable the teacher to measure the student's mastery of the skills contained in the unit and to let the student know of his/her progress. It is recommended that a student receive a score of at least 75% on each lesson before proceeding.

To help the student with word usage and increasing his/her vocabulary, a glossary has been included at the back of each workbook covering all literary, grammatical and technical terms used.

Other information available to the teacher and program directors come in two separate handbooks. They are entitled: "A Continuum of Reading and Writing Skills" and "Implementation Handbook."

The Continuum is a master list or framework of PATHWAYS Curriculum covering the ABE and Pre-GED levels. It contains a scope and sequence of reading and writing skills. It identifies those skills which should be introduced at each grade level and indicates the order of presentation. It may be used by the teacher for planning instruction for individuals or groups.

The Implementation Handbook is a guide for teachers to use the curriculum materials for maximum results by knowing the essential elements of adult education. The handbook contains information on Understanding the Native American Learner (including learning styles); Overview of Curriculum Components; Diagnosis, Evaluation, and Placement; Effective Teaching; Classroom Management; and Recordkeeping.

I. WORD ANALYSIS

I.A. Root words

A root is the base part of a word. A suffix or prefix can be added to a root word. Understanding the meanings of the root words in this lesson can help a student learn the meaning of new words.

The root words to be studied in this lesson are: audio, cred, duc, fac(t), ject, mit, mis, viv, rupt, ver(t), port. Be sure students have a good understanding of the meaning for these root words before preceding with the lesson.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. List several words from the lesson on the board. Ask various students to underline and give the meaning of the root for each word.
2. Ask students to use each of the words listed above in a sentence.

ANSWERS:

A prefix or suffix changes the meaning of the word to which it is added.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. List several words with prefixes on the board. Ask students to underline the prefix and give the meaning of each of the words.
2. List several words with suffixes on the board. Ask students to underline the suffix and give the meaning of each word.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Have students give as many compound words as possible. List the compound words on the board. Ask other students to find the two words that make up the compound.
2. Make two lists of words that can be joined to make compound words. Ask students to make as many compound words as they can from these lists, using one word from each list to form the compound word.

II.B. Using context clues

Context clues are used to figure out the meaning of an unfamiliar word. The word may be defined in the same or a near-by sentence, or the other words around it may give a clue to its meaning. To know which meaning of a word with multiple meanings is intended, you must consider the context in which the word is used.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Give examples of words with multiple meanings. Ask students to explain each meaning of the word.

Ex: play

The children play in the river.
I went to a play at the school.

Other examples to use are: camp, case, drain, guard, hand, light, roll, right.

2. Make a handout containing sentences with unfamiliar words underlined. Ask students to choose the correct meaning of the underlined word from a group of words.

Ex: Jewelry making is an important source of revenue in Zuni.

silver, money, crafts

3. Bring in short stories with key words left out. Ask students to supply missing words.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Have students list pairs of synonyms, antonyms, or homonyms and use each in a sentence.
2. Give students a word and ask for a synonym, antonym, or homonym.

UNIT III

III. COMPREHENSION

III.A. Following directions

Following directions means being able to read or listen to instructions and to carry them out as directed. Following the correct sequence is an important part of following directions.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Draw a map of your community. Label various streets, sites, buildings, etc. Give verbal directions using the map. Give a starting point, then directions down certain streets, past certain buildings, etc. Students should all arrive at the same destination.
2. Use the above map and have students take turns giving directions for the others to follow. Each student can choose a starting place and then give directions to a destination of his choice.
3. Use the above map. Give a student a starting place and a destination. Students can take turns giving oral directions for the class to follow.
4. Have students collect and bring in simple directions found on can labels, recipes, "how to" books, newspapers, etc. Let class select a "project" they can work on in class. Each student can bring in an item to make or build the "project." Allow each student to participate by performing one step of the directions. Class can share the "project."
5. Have a "treasure hunt." Before students arrive, prepare clues on slips of paper and hide them around the classroom or around the school yard. Each "clue" gives directions for finding the next clue. Students should end up back in the classroom where you have something like punch and cookies waiting for them.

ANSWERS:

1. in small bunches
2. 30 minutes
3. hot
4. yes

III.B. Sequencing

Sequencing refers to the order of events in a story or directions. Events may occur in order by time or by steps to achieve the desired outcome.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Cut apart cartoon panels from the newspaper. Have student arrange the panels in the correct sequence.
2. Write each sentence from a short passage on a slip of paper. Have student arrange sentences in the correct sequence.
3. Read a short paragraph which contains a sequence of events. Ask, "What happens first, next, last?"
4. Discuss how the outcome could be affected by changing the sequence of events in the paragraphs used in #3.

ANSWERS:

III.C. Identifying the main idea

The main idea is what a paragraph or passage is all about. Without a main idea there is no purpose to guide the writing of the paragraph. The main idea is usually stated in the topic sentence of a paragraph. The main idea is often stated in the first sentence of a paragraph, but it could come in the middle or at the end of the paragraph. The other sentences give you more information about the main idea.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Xerox short passages from newspapers, magazines, etc. Students should identify and discuss the main idea for each (group activity); student should underline main idea of passage (individual activity).
2. Have students provide a title for each of the passages in #1.
3. Cut apart the titles from several stories, passages, newspaper articles, etc. Ask students to match the titles to the correct story, passage, etc.

III.D. Recognizing supporting details

Supporting details are facts and information that "support" or tell more about the main idea. Details often tell when, where, what size or shape, what color, how many, etc.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Bring in various forms of advertisements. Ask students to tell some of the details such as the price, the size, the color(s), store hours, services offered, etc.
2. Have students underline the supporting details in stories, passages, articles.
3. Using various objects such as jewelry, pottery, baskets, etc., have student provide details that describe shape, size, and color.

III.E. Drawing conclusions

To draw a conclusion means to use the facts and information given in a passage to make a decision. It is important to understand all the information and statements in the passage in order to draw a correct conclusion.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Bring in simple poetry with the endings left off. Ask students to predict what the ending might be.
2. Provide cartoon panels with the captions cut off. Ask students what the dialogue could be in each panel.
3. Research traditional Native American persons' names. Compile a list of 10-15 names. Discuss how some people have gotten their names, such as "Old woman who sits by the side of the road." What can you tell about the people from their names?
4. Xerox several short stories. Remove the endings of the stories. Ask students to provide an ending to the stories.
5. Again, using a series of cartoon panels, leave out one of the panels. Ask students to draw conclusions about the missing panel.

III.F. Identifying cause and effect

Cause and effect refers to the relationship between what happened (the effect) and what caused it to happen (the cause). For example, hitting your thumb with a hammer (the cause) can cause pain (the effect).

Other examples are:

Cause	Effect
heavy rain	flood
poison	sickness
smoking	cancer
nutrition	health
wind	sandstorm

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Use examples from tribal myths, legends, and ceremonies to illustrate cause and effect relationships.
2. Have students give examples of cause and effect relationships they find around them.

Ex: Rain causes crops to grow.
Gasoline causes a car to run.
Cars cause pollution.
Drought causes streams to dry up.
Overgrazing causes water to erode the land.

III.G. Distinguishing between fact and opinion

Distinguishing between fact and opinion means recognizing the difference between what is true and can be verified as true (fact) and what someone feels or thinks is true (opinion). Facts are impersonal; they can be proven. Opinions are personal; they cannot be proven. Opinions often express the speaker's own individual preference or belief and often begin with "I think," "I feel," or "I believe."

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Use newspaper and magazine advertisements to discuss the difference between fact and opinion.
2. Make several statements: some containing facts, some containing opinions. Ask students to identify which are facts and which are opinion.
3. Have students take turns making fact or opinion statements. Other students must identify which are facts and which are opinions.
4. Choose a topic of interest to the student, such as a local issue. Discuss what facts could be stated and what opinions could be made about the issue.

Ex: a candidate for tribal office
a local political or economic issue

IV. STUDY SKILLS

IV.A. Use of dictionary

The dictionary is an important tool for vocabulary building and reading comprehension. Students should have ample opportunities to practice using the dictionary. At this level, students should be able to use the dictionary to determine: Meaning, pronunciation, spelling, and form.

TEACHING SUGGESTIONS:

1. Give student words to look up in the dictionary. Student should write the guide words for each.
2. Write two spellings for a word on the board - one correct, one incorrect. Student should identify the correct spelling by using the dictionary.
3. List pairs of homonyms on the board. Student should locate and define each using the dictionary.
