Preface

Originally issued in December 1986, this directory is a revised listing of projects funded by the Office of Educational Research and Improvement (OERI) in the U.S. Department of Education. It includes the addresses, telephone numbers, mission statements, major activities, and key staff of the regional educational laboratories, the national research and development centers, the ERIC clearinghouses, the National Assessment of Educational Progress, and the National Education Longitudinal Study of 1988. Also included are the OERI project officers monitoring the projects for the Federal Government.

This directory was prepared by Elizabeth T. Payer, Information Services.

Information Office

The Information Office is staffed with statisticians and education information specialists who can answer questions about education statistics, research, technology, and practice, particularly as they relate to programs in the Office of Educational Research and Improvement.

To contact our Information Office, call toll free (800) 424-1616 (in the Washington Metropolitan Area call 526-9854) or write: Information Office, Room 300, 555 New Jersey Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20208-1325.

Regional Educational Laboratories: Mission and Functions

OERI funds nine regional laboratories which carry out applied research, development, and technical assistance for educators, parents, and decisionmakers in the 50 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and the Pacific Basin Region. Each laboratory serves a geographic region and is governed by an independent board of directors.

Laboratories plan programs through an ongoing assessment of regional needs, a knowledge of the current trends in research and practice, and interaction with the many other agencies and institutions that assist communities and schools with educational improvement. Improving schools and classrooms is the goal of the laboratories, a goal they carry out through a common set of five tasks or functions:

- o Working with other regional organizations to apply research and improve schools. Partner organizations include State departments of education, intermediate school districts and intradistrict collaboratives, universities, colleges, and State associations of educators and parents.
- o Assisting State-level policymakers on the implications of educational research and practice for policies and programs.
- o Conducting applied research and developing materials, programs, and publications that support the mission of school and classroom improvement.
- o Collaborating with other laboratories, research centers, and national associations to extend and enhance related research and development.
- o Developing effective internal management, governance, planning, and self-evaluation, as well as reviewing regional needs and developments.

National Research and Development Centers
Mission and Functions

The National Research and Development Centers are university-based projects that focus research on topics of national significance to educational policy and practice. Each center works in a defined field on a multi-year (and usually multi-disciplinary) program of research and development. Each center's role is to:

Exercise leadership in its mission area.

Conduct programmatic research and development.

Attract the sustained attention of the best researchers to education problems.

Create a long-term interaction between researchers and educators.

Participate in a network for collaborative exchange in the education community.

Engage in a dissemination program.

Los Angeles, California 90024
(213) 825-8886

Director: Amado M. Padilla

Affiliated Institution: Center for Applied Linguistics (CAL)

Mission

This Center is also known as the Center for Language Education and Research (CLEAR). Its mission is to assist in developing a language-competent American society. Its primary goals are to develop the English language competence and academic skills of language minority students and to develop the second/foreign language experience and competence of English-speaking, monolingual students. In pursuit of these goals, CLEAR's staff of social science and education researchers are involved in research, development, and dissemination activities which will improve knowledge, instruction, curriculum and materials in bilingual and foreign language education.

Mission

The Center's research program seeks to improve the knowledge base for deciding who should teach what work-related skills to whom, when, how, and for what purposes. Toward this objective, it supports research by economists, sociologists, psychologists, and policy analysts. The Center also has an active program to communicate this knowledge to those who can use it, and, in conjunction with policymakers, to explicate and synthesize its implications for work-related education in this country.

Co-Directors: James McPartland
Edward McDill

Mission

The mission of the Center for Research on Elementary and Middle Schools is to produce useful knowledge about how elementary and middle schools can foster growth in students' learning and development. The work of the Center is designed to produce: (a) better scientific understanding of how elementary and middle schools can foster student learning of academic knowledge and skills and student development of valued personal characteristics such as strong self-concept, civic values, and independence; (b) research-based practical methods for improving the effectiveness of elementary and middle schools; and (c) specific strategies for implementing effective research-based school and classroom practices.

Director: Fred M. Newmann
Associate Director: Gary Wehlage

Mission

The Center seeks to learn how to improve student achievement in secondary schools. Special attention is directed to the needs of disadvantaged and less successful students. Research on improving academic achievement is guided by three central assumptions: (1) since the concept and measurement of achievement are problematic, the mission should not be simply to increase student scores on tests currently in use; (2) to improve academic achievement, we must first understand how to increase student engagement in academic work; and (3) although policies and conditions originating beyond the school have substantial impact on student achievement, more attention must be given to the strategies that teachers and administrators can use to alter conditions in schools to increase students' engagement and achievement.

Mission

The Center focuses research, development, and dissemination activities on college classroom learning and teaching strategies, curricular structure and integration, faculty attitudes and teaching behaviors, organizational practices, and use of emerging information technology. It emphasizes cognitive development of undergraduate students in colleges that concentrate on teaching as their primary mission. This emphasis was chosen because recent research in cognition holds great promise for improving learning and teaching in higher education.

Mission

The mission of the Center is to improve the effectiveness, efficiency, and equity of teaching, research, and public service in postsecondary education. This mission is carried out through policy research and dissemination of information designed to improve governance, management, and finance practices. The Center is pursuing the concerns of postsecondary education at the institutional, inter-institutional, State, and Federal levels. This includes: 1) promoting learning through teaching, 2) creating knowledge through research and scholarship, and 3) disseminating knowledge and providing assistance through public service activities.

and Michigan State University.

Mission

The Center produces research that: (1) is useful to policymakers and their constituents; (2) focuses on the relationships between policy and teaching, learning, school organization, and student performance; (3) strengthens the connections among policy, practice, and performance; (4) provides information about a range of policy approaches to influence education practice; (5) contributes to theory and knowledge about which policies work best under which circumstances; and (6) fosters a continuing and strengthened dialogue between the producers and consumers of research.

Mission

The National Center for Research on Teacher Education seeks to produce useful knowledge to improve the quality of teacher education. The Center views teacher education as one of many influences on teachers and examines the purpose and role of programs relative to these other influences. It asks what impact various approaches or alternatives to teacher education have on teachers and how particular kinds of learning opportunities influence teachers. These questions are examined as they relate to the teaching of two academic subjects: writing and mathematics. To date, there has been more argument than inquiry about these questions, and rarely have the issues been defined in a way that allowed careful investigation. Therefore, the Center's work consists as much of conceptual development as it does of gathering empirical data. The goal is to improve and expand conceptual and empirical studies of teacher education and teacher learning and, in so doing, to help focus debates about teacher education and inform teacher education policy and practice.

Mission

The Center seeks to create new knowledge that will be useful in teaching students how to become competent thinkers, learners, and problem solvers. The Center's research focuses on understanding the skills underlying successful thinking and learning in three areas of the school curriculum: mathematics, science, and social studies. The research is directed at children of all ability levels, from the hardest to teach to the most talented.

Mission

The primary mission of the Center for the Study of Writing is to improve the teaching and learning of writing. Focusing on writing as a means of communication, a skill to be developed, and a way to help students learn across the disciplines, the Center encourages research that places emphasis on learning and on the teacher's interaction with the learner. The Center's major goal is to engage in "practice-sensitive" research that will create "research-sensitive" teachers. Its major objective is to develop workable theories that will increase the number of successful writers as well as stimulate further research.

Mission

The Center's goal is to find ways of using the computer and other information technologies to teach science, mathematics, and computing more effectively. Research focuses on "targets of difficulty" that were identified by subject matter experts, researchers, and teachers. Mathematics work focuses on word problems, algebra, and geometry. Projects in all three areas use the computer's capacity to provide concrete representation of difficult-to-grasp concepts. Two science projects examine the use of simulations to teach concepts of weight and density, and heat and temperature, while a third science project focuses on teaching the process skills involved in scientific inquiry and the nature of science as an enterprise. Also underway are computer education projects aimed at clarifying students' difficulties in learning to program and at exploring the classroom usefulness of software applications. Two additional projects explore the educational potential of emerging technologies.

Mission

The primary mission of the Center is to conduct research that will help us to become "a nation of readers" through applied and basic research activities in teaching and learning. RREC's aim is to produce knowledge that will benefit practitioners and others. Focusing on higher-order literacy skills and on the reading of content texts, the Center's research program addresses the following:

- o Acquisition of Knowledge and Skills: How can students learn the skills that will enable them to acquire knowledge from textbooks in different academic subjects?
- o Instruction in Reading: How can teachers become more effective in helping students learn to read?
- o Text Structure: How can textbooks be improved to optimize student learning?
- o Testing of Reading Proficiency and Evaluation of Instruction: How can reading proficiency be better measured and how can various instructional approaches be validated?

The Center also has three major institutional activities that are designed to ensure that knowledge about reading becomes infused into practice: (1) improving school textbooks, (2) improving teacher education, and (3) raising the level of literacy about literacy.

The Arts Education Research Center is jointly funded by the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) and the Office of Educational Research and Improvement (OERI). The NEA administers and monitors the Center. The Arts Education Research Center has two locations: New York University and the University of Illinois, Urbana - Champaign.

Mission

The New York University (NYU) Arts Education Research Center's mission is to conduct research that uses both qualitative and quantitative methodologies to study the following three areas that have direct impact on the teaching of art and music at the secondary level: (1) the nature of aesthetic response; (2) strategies for teaching; and (3) curriculum development designed to elicit such response. Second year research activities involve teachers in rural and suburban areas. In the third year of research, a third art discipline (dance or literature) will be added to the plan of work. The NYU Arts Center's primary objective is to identify and/or create models of excellence in teaching the arts, demonstrate how and why these models work, and disseminate the results of such research so that the models can be replicated in public and private schools across the nation.

The University of Illinois (UI) Arts Education Research Center is dedicated to developing a deeper understanding of the complex issues surrounding teaching, learning, and evaluation in the arts at the elementary and secondary levels. The principal mission is to provide national leadership in three related areas: (1) conducting research that is germane to schools and schooling and that assesses the acquisition of knowledge and skills in the arts; (2) conducting research related to teaching and learning in the arts in elementary and secondary school settings; and (3) providing leadership for the arts teaching profession by disseminating information and organizing collaborative exchanges.

These institutions coordinate their research agendas and collaborate on research activities and findings. The activities of the Center are overseen by a single National Advisory Panel.

Mission

The Center for the Learning and Teaching of Elementary Subjects has prepared a plan to: identify exemplary practices, particularly for teaching and learning problem-solving and higher-order thinking; develop and test hypotheses through school-based research; and make specific recommendations for improvement of school policies, instructional materials, assessment procedures, and teaching practices. The Center focuses on the issues of: (1) what content should be taught, (2) how teachers frame and focus their teaching to best utilize their resources, and (3) in what ways good teaching is subject-matter specific. The Center addresses these issues as they relate to the elementary education subject areas of arts education, literature, math, science, and social studies.

Mission

The mission of the Center for the Learning and Teaching of Literature is: to provide an intellectual focus for literature research and practice; to conduct research that contributes to the improvement of teaching and learning; and to act as a clearinghouse that promotes good practice in the teaching of literature. The goal of the Center is to explore fundamental issues in the literature curriculum which have potential for improving classroom practice. To achieve this goal, the Center is examining the amounts and types of literature to which students are exposed, the objectives of the literature curricula, and the assessment of student performance. The programmatic research concerns are organized in three broad areas: (1) Current Emphases in Instruction, which examine the major alternatives to current emphases in the curriculum, primarily through systematic study of the content and the organization of literature instruction in unusual programs across the United States and in other nations; (2) Teaching and Learning Processes, which examine the ways in which individual readers approach individual texts and the interactions between classroom approaches and what readers learn to do; and (3) Assessment, which examines the ways in which literature is assessed and the relationships among the different kinds of literary knowledge represented. The research findings will be applicable to grades K-12 in both public and private schools.

Mission

The Center for the Learning and Teaching of Mathematics has a research program that seeks to provide a research base for the reform movement in school mathematics. The Center has contracted with the Mathematical Sciences Education Board to assist with its research, development, and dissemination activities. The Mathematics Center is addressing effective instructional strategies and processes specific to mathematics content matter, the relationship between mathematics content matter and the curriculum, and, mathematics assessment. The activities focus on two areas: Instruction/Learning and Curriculum/Assessment. The programmatic research design addresses: (1) how to build relationships between research on students' cognition and problem-solving ability and research on instruction in the content specific areas of Early Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, and Rational Numbers; and (2) how to build a relationship between current efforts to reform the school mathematics curriculum and the procedures and techniques of assessing student achievement in mathematics as a result of studying the curriculum. The latter relationship examines the nature of the current curriculum reform movement; the state of current practice and the problem of curriculum alignment, and the influence of assessment in the curriculum.

Mission

The Research Synthesis Center for the Teaching, Learning, and Assessment of Science provides conceptual and practical leadership across areas of major interest in science education, by promoting changes in state and local education agency policies that affect science assessment, curriculum, and instruction. In doing so, the Center is serving as a mechanism to bridge gaps between research and practice in science education by synthesizing what is known from current research and practice. The Center's research agenda is comprised of a series of integrative studies that enable it to: (1) understand the current status of assessment, curriculum, and instruction in science; (2) enhance, link, and integrate current efforts to establish what ought to be the future state of science education; and (3) create products and processes that help science education progress toward its stated goals. The Biological Sciences Curriculum Study (BSCS) assists in carrying out the mission and activities of this Center.

Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC)
Clearinghouses and System Components

The Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) is a national education information system responsible for developing, maintaining, and providing access to the world's largest education research database.

The ERIC system includes a network of clearinghouses, each of which acquires and reviews documents and prepares indexes and abstracts. With the assistance of the ERIC Processing and Reference Facility, these document abstracts are entered into the ERIC database. The database, which contains over 650,000 abstracts, is made available to a wide variety of users through multiple means, including microfiche collections (available in over 700 libraries around the world) and through vendor-provided online and compact disk-read only memory (CD-ROM) searching. Users may gain entry to the ERIC database in libraries, in schools or in their homes through periodical catalogs of current documents, or computer terminals with CD-ROM capability or online access to the ERIC database.

Periodic reports, digests, and other documents are prepared by the clearinghouses, each of which covers education research and practice in an assigned topic area. Each clearinghouse also provides a variety of user services, including training, and responds to numerous individual requests for information.

The ERIC Processing and Reference Facility is a centralized information processing unit serving all components that contribute to the ERIC system: Central ERIC, 16 Clearinghouses, the ERIC Document Reproduction Service, Oryx Press (publisher of the Current Index to Journals in Education), and the Government Printing Office (publisher of Resources in Education). Services include: facility management and support; facility operations; reference and user services; and technical support for systems maintenance. The Facility produces a variety of products and publications from the ERIC database, including Resources in Education and its semi-annual indexes, ERIC Thesaurus and other system publications, and copies of the ERIC database tape that it provides to subscribers around the world.

Affiliated Institutions: Education Testing Service (ETS) and WESTAT.

Mission

NELS:88 is a longitudinal study that begins with a survey in 1988 of eighth grade students, their schools, teachers, and their parents. This study will track the critical transitions experienced by young adults as they progress through junior high school, high school, and postsecondary education into the world of work. This cohort will yield policy-relevant information about topics such as effective high schools, discipline, homework, coursetaking patterns, cognitive ability, dropouts, private schools, vocational education, special education, instruction for limited-English-speaking students, postsecondary access and choice, student financial assistance, employment during high school and college, transfer behaviors, vocational training, on-the-job training, labor force participation, employment stability, family formation, and graduate/professional training.

National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP)

Educational Testing Service
P.O. Box 2923
Princeton, New Jersey 08541
800-223-0267

Executive Director: Archie Lapointe
Associate Director: Ina Mullis

Mission

NAEP surveys the educational attainment of 9-year-olds, 13-year-olds, 17-year-olds, and at grades 4, 8, and 12, and periodically, young adults. The surveys are conducted in areas such as art, career and occupational development, citizenship, literature, mathematics, music, reading, science, social studies and writing. Different learning areas are assessed every two years, and all areas are periodically reassessed to measure changes in educational achievement. Since 1969, about 1 million young Americans have been assessed by NAEP in 10 different subject areas. NAEP is not intended to support or evaluate any specific education concept, program, or approach.
