ABSTRACT

Prepared primarily by the Iowa State Department of Education, this annotated bibliography of materials by Iowans or about Iowans is a revised third edition of the original 1969 publication. It both combines and expands the scope of the two major sections of previous editions, i.e., Iowan history and literature, and out-of-print materials are included if judged to be of sufficient interest. Nonfiction materials are listed by Dewey subject classification and fiction in alphabetical order by author/artist. Biographies and autobiographies are entered under the subject of the work or in the 920s. Each entry includes the author(s), title, bibliographic information, interest and reading levels, cataloging information, and an annotation. Author, title, and subject indexes are provided, as well as a list of the people indicated in the bibliography who were born or have resided in Iowa or who were or are considered to be Iowan authors, musicians, artists, or other Iowan creators. Directories of periodicals and annuals, selected sources of Iowa government documents of general interest, and publishers and producers are also provided. (CGD)

PREFACE

Developing understanding and appreciation of the history, the natural heritage, the tradition, the literature and the art of Iowa should be one of the goals of schools and libraries in the state. The bibliography, Iowa and Some Iowans is presented as an aid to the accomplishment of this goal.

The first edition of the bibliography was prepared by the Professional Relations Committee of the Iowa Association of School Librarians and published by the Department in 1969.

The second edition was prepared by the Department with the assistance of the Iowa Educational Media Association (successor to the Iowa Association of School Librarians). Two statewide committees involving school librarians and media specialists, teachers, school curriculum and administrative personnel, authorities in Iowa history or Iowa literature from a number of colleges, universities, libraries, and historical and professional associations gave graciously of time and information to create this edition edited by Betty Jo Buckingham and Mary Lou McGrew, and published by the Department in 1974. Two supplements to this edition were published by the Department, the first, edited by Betty Jo Buckingham, in 1978 and the second edited by Betty Jo Buckingham and Eleanor Blanks in 1982.

The third edition has been prepared by the State of Iowa, Department of Education with the Assistance of the Iowa and Some Iowans Third Edition Committee, chaired by Betty Jo Buckingham. The committee has representatives from, or persons recommended by, the Iowa Educational Media Association, Iowa Library Association, Art Educators of Iowa, International Reading Association - Iowa Chapter, Iowa Communication Association, Iowa Council for the Social Studies, Iowa Council of Teachers of English, Iowa Music Educators Association, the State Library, the State Historical Society, the Area Education Agency Media Centers, and the Department. In addition Lucille Lettow of the Youth Collection at the University of Northern Iowa, Shirley Shisler of the Public Library of Des Moines, and Pauline Millen, former Iowa "book finder" were asked to serve because of their special knowledge in the field of Iowa literature.

With each edition there have been changes and expansions of the publication. In the previous editions Iowa History and Iowa Literature entries have been separated into two major sections. The committee for the third edition has decided to broaden the scope of the history and the literature thrusts and to combine the two sections into one. History, geography, nature study, culture, biography and fiction about Iowa or Iowans and the literary and artistic efforts of Iowans will be included.

The primary audience addressed in this bibliography is library media specialists, teachers and students of the schools of Iowa. However, the needs of public, higher education and special libraries, and historical and literary groups are also important to this bibliography. Especially useful sources for school library media centers are starred to call them to the attention of users.

The selection criteria used for previous editions have been changed to reflect the broadened scope and the different format of this edition:

1. The primary audience is elementary and secondary school students and their teachers and library media specialists. Secondary audiences include special, academic and public libraries, historical associations and Iowa interest groups.
2. County and local historical materials will be omitted unless they have a direct bearing on the general history, architecture, etc., of the state, or are likely to be widely available. Bibliographies of such materials will be included.
3. Out-of-print materials will be included if the committee considers that they deserve to be. Scarce items may be omitted.
4. Materials may be included regardless of quality, historical accuracy, racial, cultural or sex bias, but the evaluative comment should point out these weaknesses.
5. Both print and non-print in various media will be included but periodical articles generally will not be included.
6. State government publications are generally omitted. A source directory will include pertinent state agencies.
7. Authors and artists will be included if they were born in Iowa or have been Iowa residents for a significant period of time.
8. Novels, short stories, poetry, plays, biographies and essays are appropriate literary forms to consider. Cartoonists and nonfiction authors, especially those writing for children, artists and musicians and game creators may also be included. Entries need not necessarily be about Iowa, but annotations should indicate Iowa settings.

and "the Iowa connection".

9. Some of the titles and/or annotations may be omitted for prolific authors.

10. Authors of textbooks except for writers of texts about Iowa generally will be omitted.

This bibliography is a working document. We know we have missed items that should be included and that we have included items which may not seem appropriate. We are fairly certain that we have made errors on entries. We hope users will let the editor know what these changes should be so they can be considered for a future supplement.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

All members of the Iowans and Some Iowans, Third Edition Revision Committee (see page v) were committed to the concept of Iowa and Some Iowans and provided as much assistance as they could. We need to give special recognition to Karen Laughlin, Lucille Lettow, Shirley Shisler and Frederick Crane who provided most of the new entries and their annotations. Lucille Lettow and Shirley Shisler also provided most of the information to establish the "Iowa connection".

Charlene Lakin, retired librarian from Roosevelt High School in Des Moines, "pulled" information on the entries from the State Library's OCLC terminal.

We are especially grateful for the assistance of Elizabeth Martin, Head, Library Science Department of the University of Northern Iowa, who invested much time and effort in an attempt to regularize the classifications and subject headings.

We want to acknowledge the assistance of George Carlson and Ruth Bartels on the preparation of directories and appendices. George Carlson and Gloria Kratz did most of the work on the indication of State Library holdings.

Margaret Bonney, Lynn Nielsen and O. J. Fargo, from the contributors (see page vi) and Shirley Shisler, Lucille Lettow, and Karen Laughlin from the committee provided a final content check on the document, also making the final recommendation of items for the basic collection. Lucille Lettow and O. J. Fargo gave special attention to the basic collection.

We appreciate the help of all those who contributed entries or recommended people who might do so. We have tried to acknowledge all those who submitted actual entries in writing in the list of contributors.

The art for the cover and divider pages was adapted from the art used for the first and second editions to provide a sense of continuity in acknowledgement of the dependence of the Third Edition of Iowa and Some Iowans on the preceding two editions. Tonya Cox, graphic artist from the Department, prepared the art for this edition.

Becky Erickson, Word Processor from the Department, deserves special thanks for her patience in entering, correcting, and rearranging information to produce this bibliography.

Carrie Bozis and Krista Dennis, from the Typesetting Division, State Department of General Services, were responsible for typesetting. Carrie Bozis was responsible for paste-up.

HOW TO USE IOWA AND SOME IOWANS

Iowa and Some Iowans is a classed bibliography of materials by Iowans or about Iowa. It is in the same order in which the average school or public library or media center would shelve materials, that is, nonfiction in order using the Dewey Decimal System, and fiction in alphabetical order by author. Biographies and autobiographies may be entered under the subject, or in the 920's.

An attempt is made to provide most of the information needed to catalog each title including the Iowa-related subject headings, and the joint authors, artists and series titles pertinent to the bibliography. These items are included at the bottom of the entry as numbered "tracings" and are a record of the items included in the indexes. The author or creator of a work and the title of the work are indexed also.

The entry itself is entered under author or artist if available, then under title. The parts of a sample entry are identified to assist users of the bibliography.

Legend

- ¹ Classification or Dewey Number
- ² Author: authors, and the entries included below following Roman numerals, are included in the Author Index.
- ³ Title: titles are also included in the Title Index.
- ⁴ Joint authors listed here will appear below and in the Author Index, editors, illustrators, etc. may appear in Author Index.
- ⁵ Publisher: addresses for publishers and producers are supplied in the Directory of Publishers and Producers when available and pertinent.
- ⁶ Date of publication or production.
- ⁷ Description, pages, minutes, etc.
- ⁸ Call number of items held by State Library of Iowa.
- ⁹ Annotation: should explain content and include evaluation if available.
- ¹⁰ IL refers to interest level and RL, to reading level.
- ¹¹ Tracings: entries introduced by Arabic numerals are subject headings, used in the Subject Index. Entries introduced by Roman numerals are co-authors, editors, pseudonyms, or alternate or series titles. The former are included in the Author Index in addition to the author (see 2. above), the latter are included in the Title Index.
- ¹² Authors and artists identified in the Appendix under "Iowa Connection".

Some Clues To The Classification Numbers

For those not familiar with the use of the Dewey Decimal system or those who are a little rusty, the following clues for numbers used in this bibliography are offered:

- | | |
|---------|--|
| 000-099 | General works (Bibliographies, Newspapers, Journalism) |
| 200-299 | Religion, Mythology |
| 300-399 | The Social Sciences (Economics, Statistics, Law, Government, Education, Commerce, Communication, Transportation, Customs and Folklore) |
| 400-499 | Language and Languages |
| 500-599 | Pure Science (Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Zoology) |
| 600-699 | Technology (Medicine, Engineering, Agriculture, Home Economics, Manufacturing, etc.) |
| 700-799 | The Arts (Architecture, Drawing, Painting, Music, Sports, Recreation, Drama) |
| 800-899 | Literature (except that most fiction is entered under F at the end of classed categories). |
| 900-999 | Geography and History (Atlases, Biography, Ancient and Modern History) |

In addition it may be helpful to remember that 977 or 9777 usually used at the end of a number means that it relates to Iowa.

The 19th edition, Dewey Decimal Classification, was used. Preferences given in that edition to placements of such subjects as biographies with subject fields and the American Indians in 970.00497 and relocations like those which occurred with Sociology (301) resulted in the classification numbers being different from those assigned when the titles were published. Generally four decimal digits have been provided with no indication that the number could be either longer or shorter. Not all titles were available for examination.

The Sears List of Subject Headings, 13th edition, was the basic source for headings, but Library of Congress headings were occasionally used so that more precise headings and Iowa relationships could be shown. Iowa, in the noun form, could then be used as a geographic subdivision. The first purpose of the subject headings is to develop the Subject Index of the bibliography to help users find material relating to something about Iowa or Iowans. Subject headings are, therefore, omitted for items entered as literature or art by an Iowa author or artist unless the subject of the item also relates to Iowa.

To help users find Iowa authors and other creators, a section of appendix, "The Iowa Connection", provides lists of the people indicated in the bibliography as having been born in, or having been residents of, Iowa who were or are considered to be "Iowa Authors", "Iowa Musicians", "Iowa Artists" or "Other Iowa Creators".

IOWA AND SOME IOWANS

The entries are in classed order, that is, by Dewey Decimal classification, as they would appear on a library or library media center's shelves. Entry is under author or artist or under title when individual authors or artists are not designated. Author, title and subject indexes are included after this section to provide access to the list from different approaches. Individual biographies are entered with the subject or under 920.71 or 920.72. Fiction and short stories by one author are labeled F and are in alphabetic order by author's name at the end of the classed section. Johnson continues in Test Pattern . . . the same indictments of mass media which he earlier presented in How to Talk to Your Television Set; he extends the indictments to include the media's hand-in-glove partners, modern corporations. He also issues a Thoreauvian call to the simpler existence, exemplified by two weeks of isolated camping with his sons in the mountains and forests of West Virginia. Miscellaneous, loosely-related quotes and aphorisms fill every other page, they enrich the book but can also distract the reader from the continuity of Johnson's own text. IL 8-Adult

- 811.5 Sigmund, Jay G. Pinions. J. T. White and Co., 1923. 80pp. [Iowa, 811, Si2]
 An example of an earlier generation of regional writers, Jay Sigmund was well thought of in the 20's and 30's. William Braithwaite, editor of Anthology of Magazine Verse said, "There is unquestionably an individual note in Mr. Sigmund's poems. Quaint whimsies find their way often into his verse as well as the human touch which gives his work great charm."

811.54 Evans, David Allan, 1940- Train Windows. Ohio University Press, 1976. 56pp.

Evans, a native of Sioux City, evokes a wide range of imagery. Some of the most accessible is drawn from physical activity and from the sense of geographical place. Pole Vault is a powerful poem which may provide a satisfying id with the track sport described, but which is rewarding on a more sophisticated level for its broader connotations and nuances. Other exemplary poems in the collection are Some Lines After the Razing of the Sioux City Armour's Plant and Interstate 29. Evans was born in Sioux City and attended junior college & taught in Marshalltown before moving to South Dakota. 11-Adult

In Atlantic Book of Modern Plays, pp330-397, 1979 reprint 1927 ed.; Univ. Microfilm International, 1980. Considered with Suppressed Desires, two of the best short plays in English. Shows the ultimate in the direction a dreary farm life can take. Several women go with their husbands to investigate a farmer's death, and by noticing "trifles" discover what led the farmer's wife to kill him. The play is based on a Glaspell short story "Jury of Her Peers." Sandra Neving, (Centre Production, 1976) and Martha Moran (BFA Educational Media) 1979, prepared videotape versions.

- 812.54 Rabe, David William, 1940- Basic Training of Pavlo Hummel, and Sticks and Bones: two plays. Viking, 1973 Penguin, 1978. [Iowa, 812.5. Rab]

Profanity and obscenity, brutality and grotesquery are organic to the substance of Pavlo. The play's use for secondary school reading must be reserved for special situations and very mature students. Sticks and Bones also by Rabe, brought him national acclaim by winning the 1972 Tony Award. It is as profane and brutal as Pavlo. A useful short story of a 17-year old's stark confrontation with human mortality, "Ben Schmidt's Old Shoes", also by David Rabe, appeared in Mademoiselle, April, 1974. The author was born in Dubuque. - 812.54 Rabe, David, William, 1940- Streamers. Knopf, 1977, distributed by Random House, 1985. 128pp. 109pp.

In this play Rabe once again explores dark and violent themes in the context of U.S. military involvement in the Vietnam War. Among the major characters are three soldiers sharing a barracks room—a pathological misfit, and two aging, career-soldier sergeants. The mix of values, backgrounds, neuroses, and attitudes which explodes in this situation seems to reflect and comment pessimistically upon American society. Streamers opened as a dramatic production in New York in April, 1976 and received New York Drama Critics Circle Award, Best American Play of 1976. IL 11-Adult

The 1965 excavations at the Wittrock site show structural evidence of a heavily fortified earth lodge village dating from about 1400 AD. Part of the Mill Creek culture of northwest Iowa, it is comparable to the Middle Missouri Tradition of the Plains which subsequently gave rise to the Mandan of historic times. Artifacts of bone, shell, stone, and pottery are explained against a background of artist's drawings based on ethnographic and archaeological data reconstructing the prehistoric village. The prehistoric (circa AD 1000) Grant Oneota village of northeastern Iowa provides one example of the widespread tradition linked to later Siouan speaking tribes. Archaeological structural remains of huge longhouses, 15 feet wide and up to 90 feet long are shown and then interpreted through similar houses described by the explorers in the Midwest. Combining archeological, historical, and ethnological accounts, the film concludes with a reconstruction of life in the Grant Oneota summer village which was likely characterized by house clān residential units. - 973.918 Miller, Merle, 1919- Plain Speaking: An Oral Biography of Harry S. Truman. Berkley Publishing Corporation, distributed by Putnam, 1974. 448pp. [AT SL]
Miller spent hours in Independence, Missouri recording informal, candid discussions with the retired President. He uses dialogue format, in generally chronological order beginning with Truman's recollections of his early life. A few other speakers contribute: for example, the President's sister, Mary Jane Truman. Miller was born in Minburn and received part of his education at the University of Iowa. He also prepared Lyndon: An Oral Biography, and wrote On Being Different: What It Means To Be a Homosexual, (1971). May require community openness and student sophistication in some school libraries. - 973.926 Mollenhoff, Clark Raymond, 1921- President Who Failed: Carter Out of Control. MacMillan, 1980.
This Pulitzer Prize winning journalist has been viewing government and presidents with alarm for years. He made no exception for Carter despite the fact that he voted for Carter. This book written halfway into Carter's presidential term saw him as well intentioned, honest, and not corrupt, but accused him of making poor appointments and making compromises without understanding the possible outcomes. Other titles on presidents include Game Plan for Disaster, (Nixon); and The Man Who Pardoned Nixon (Ford). Mollenhoff was born in Burnside and attended Webster City Junior College and Drake.

F Miller, Merle 1919- That Winter. Sloane. 1948. 297pp. [Iowa, F. Mil]

That Winter is about the return of three young men from the armed forces in World War II. Peter - the first-person narrator of the story - is a native of a town called Hadley, Iowa. He is called "home" by the death of his father; through his visit and associated reminiscences, he conveys much of the expatriate attitude toward his small-town, Iowa background. Dick, older than Peter, and also from Iowa is the author of a novel depicting "all the turmoil and anguish of Iowa" in the early Depression years. Miller was born in Montour, graduated from Marshalltown H.S. and attended UI. IL 11-Adult

- F Van Vechten, Carl 1880-1964. Tattooed Countess. Knopf, 1924; AMS Press, reprint, 1981. 286pp.
- In 1897, the Countess Nattatorrini returns to her childhood home in Maple Valley (Cedar Rapids) to recover from an indiscreet affair with a young French boy. The town finds it hard to accept her, and their worst suspicions are confirmed when she goes off with Gareth Johns after his high school graduation. Has some wonderful description of how people spoke and acted at that time, but the basic plot might offend some. The author was born in Cedar Rapids. IL Adult

- F* Wilson, Margaret, 1882-1973. Able McLaughlins. Harper, 1923; Berg, reprint, 1976. 262pp.
This is the story of Scotch immigrants to eastern Iowa at the time of the Civil War. Wilson, who was born in Traer, utilizes humor, her Scotch tradition and excellent character portrayal to tell of the hardships, family life, romance and daily experiences of Iowa farm folk. The novel won the 1924 Pulitzer Prize for fiction. The Law and the McLaughlins, Doubleday, 1936 was a sequel (inferior) to The Able McLaughlins centering on a lynching and the unsuccessful attempt to bring the criminals to justice. IL 10-Adult

Many agency titles have been changed because of the reorganization begun in July 1986. Where there has been significant change either in the current reorganization or the recent past, the former title has been included in parentheses. Addresses are likely to change for many of these agencies within the next few months or years.
