ABSTRACT

Project REWARD (Reentering Education with a Real Determination) was designed to serve the single parent or homemaker with income below the poverty level who was interested in furthering his/her education. The project goals were to give instruction and encouragement in motivation, basic skills, communication skills, time and money management, career opportunities, and employment skills. Project participants included 14 new and 6 returning applicants. They were provided instruction in typing and word processing, written communication, and basic mathematics and calculating as well as information on financial aid for vocational educational programs. Other areas of instruction included basic study skills, enhanced self-esteem and confidence, value clarification, goal orientation, and interpersonal and assertiveness skills. Funds were also provided for child care, transportation, and tuition and books for one class at Elizabethtown Community College (Kentucky). (Appendixes include publicity items and example forms used in the project.) (YLB)

SYNOPSIS OF INTENT AND ACHIEVEMENT

Project REWARD was intended to serve the single parent or homemaker with income below poverty level and who was interested in furthering his/her education. The project goals were to give instruction and encouragement in:

motivation
communication skills
time and money management career opportunities
employment skills

The achievement of these goals has been demonstrated by lthe individual participant's enrollment in Elizabethtown Community College or the Elizabethtown Area Vocational Technical School. Each participant has expressed appreciation of the program and how it helped them to overcome feelings of unworthiness and inadequacy.

ACTIVITIES AND ACHIEVEMENTS

Project REWARD was intended to meet educational, vocational, and personal needs of impoverished single parents and homemakers. In order to accomplish this task, the directors and program coordinator attempted to fulfill specific objectives. The following is a summary of the objectives, the activities designed to accomplish these objectives, and an evaluation of the effectiveness of these activities:

- OBJECTIVE 1: TO PROVIDE THE OPPORTUNITY FOR OBTAINING BASIC LITERACY AND KNOWLEDGE OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.
- Activities: The participants were given six hours of instruction in typing and word processing, three hours of instruction in written communication, and three hours of instruction in basic mathematics and calculating during the sessions in July, 1986. Individual tutoring was provided by the coordinator throughout the 1986-1987 academic year. A tour of the vocational school was taken in July, 1986.
- Evaluation: The instruction provided to the participants was an aid in helping them succeed in some of the academic classes in which they enrolled during the 1986-1987 academic year. Of the 14 new participants, 11 enrolled in courses requiring mathematical, communication, and/or typing skills either at Elizabethtown Community College (ECC) or at the vocational school. Of the six returning participants, six enrolled in courses at ECC. Of these, 88% successfully completed the classes with an equivalent of C or better evaluation.
- OBJECTIVE 2: TO PROVIDE THE TRAINING FOR UP TO 40 PEOPLE. IF MORE THAN 40 PEOPLE APPLY, WE WILL FORM TWO GROUPS. EACH GROUP WILL BE LIMITED IN SIZE DUE TO SPACE AND RESOURCE RESTRICTIONS AT ELIZABETHTOWN COMMUNITY COLLEGE.
- Activities: There were 14 new applicants and six returning applicants. We provided training for each of these individuals.
- Evaluation: The participants provided positive feedback on the activities at the end of the July session as well as at the end of the academic year.
- OBJECTIVE 3: TO FURNISH INFORMATION ON THE AVAILABILITY OF AND FINANCING FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS IN OUR COMMUNITY.

Activities: During the July sessions, the financial aid officer at ECC informed the participants of the availability of and the processes involved in obtaining financial aid. The participants were also given a guided tour of the Elizabethtown Area Vocational Technical School and the cost of attending in addition to the availability of traditional and nontraditional training.

Evaluation: As a result of these activities, six of the participants in REWARD applied for and received financial aid either to attend ECC or to take classes at the local vocational school.

OBJECTIVE 4: TO DEVELOP PROGRAMS WHICH WILL PROVIDE THE PARTICIPANTS IN REWARD WITH THE OPPORTUNITY TO GAIN BASIC STUDY SKILLS.

Activities: The coordinator of ECC's Learning Resource Center presented a very thorough session in July, 1986, on study skills including instruction on note taking, listening skills, test taking, and study habits. Throughout the academic year, the coordinator continued to work with individual participants and they were informed of videotapes on study skills which are available in the Learning Resource Center at ECC. A simulated lecture was given to introduce the students to a lecture experience and actual note taking.

Evaluation: Each of the participants in REWARD had been away from the formal educational world for an extended period of time when they came into the program. In most cases, their study skills were less than adequate to meet the demands of a class at ECC or at the vocational school. REWARD provided a needed service in this area and as a result the participants were better prepared to meet the demands of their classes.

OBJECTIVE 5: TO PROVIDE GUIDELINES TO ENHANCE PARTICIPANTS' CONFIDENCE AND SELF ESTEEM.

Activities: A psychology professor at ECC presented a two-hour session on motivation and self esteem during the sessions in July. The session was entitled "The 'I Can' Attitude". During the 1986-1987 academic year, several sessions were held to help the participants gain confidence in themselves. These included a presentation on color analysis by Susan Rainey who is with Color Accents, Inc. The participants were encouraged to introduce speakers at the Single Parent Seminar (see Appendix) and to take part in the opportunity for employment experience offered by Project REWARD to help them gain confidence in their abilities.

Evaluation: The directors and coordinator observed a significant difference in the participants' attitudes toward themselves. Some of the participants verbalized as well as gave written comments as to their increased confidence and self esteem. Several participants agreed to introduce the guest speakers at the Single Parent Seminar and did so with composure and ease.

OBJECTIVE 6: TO INTRODUCE PARTICIPANTS TO THE CHANGING ROLES OF MEN AND WOMEN IN NONTRADITIONAL CAREER CHOICES.

Activities: During the initial sessions in July, the participants engaged in a round-table discussion on the vocational possibilities for men and women in the work force. The discussion was led by two directors of Project REWARD. A session entitled "Sex Bias and Non-Traditional Job Training" was held in April.

Evaluation: The sessions were conducted in a manner to allow the participants an opportunity to discuss what they had experienced with regard to changing sex roles in the vocational world. The participants shared experiences they had had in their attempts to obtain work in nontraditional careers.

OBJECTIVE 7: TO PROVIDE INFORMATION ON VALUE CLARIFICATION, ESTABLISHING PRIORITIES, AND REACHING GOALS.

Activities: During the initial sessions in July, the participants were shown "You Are What You Were When," a film intended to help individuals clarify their values and establish priorities. During the July sessions, the participants were introduced to DISCOVER, a computer based system designed to assess personal career attributes and interests. During the month of December, the participants completed the Myers-Briggs Personality Survey. In February, a pastoral counselor interpreted the results for the REWARD participants.

Evaluation: Four of the fourteen new participants completed the DISCOVER program. Due to the fact that DISCOVER was down early in the school year and never repaired, others who were scheduled to participate were unable to do so.

OBJECTIVE 8: TO PROVIDE INFORMATION IN EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT OF TIME.

Activities: During the initial sessions in July, a business professor at ECC presented a session on time management. The coordinator continued to work with the participants individually throughout the 1986-1987 academic year on how to more effectively manage their time.

Evaluation: The participants were effectively managing their time.

OBJECTIVE 9: TO DEVELOP PROGRAMS DESIGNED TO AID PARTICIPANTS IN COPING WITH STRESS.

Activities: Psychologists with North Central Comprehensive Care Center presented a session during July on managing stress. In September, the psychologists returned and presented a session on relaxation techniques.

Evaluation: Since the participants came from environments which were stress ful, these activities were essential. The participants appeared to be better able to cope with pressures during the 1986-1987 academic year. They learned how to relax.

OBJECTIVE 10: TO PROVIDE TRAINING DESIGNED TO ENCOURAGE POSITIVE INTERPERSONAL AND ASSERTIVENESS SKILLS.

Activities: During the July sessions, the participants listened to a psychology instructor at ECC speak about interpersonal relations and assertiveness. In November, 1986, a session was presented by Dr. Hannifan, a local psychologist, entitled "Assertiveness Training". The session emphasized learning how to be assertive. In May, 1987, the group held a potluck dinner. Manifestly, the potluck served as a time for an informal social gathering; however, a latent function of this session was the verbal and interpersonal interaction that took place between the participants, the coordinator, the directors, the Division Chairperson of the Division of Social And Behavioral Science and Related Technologies, and several other professors at ECC.

Evaluation: When the participants entered REWARD in July, 1986, they were very insecure about speaking out in public and about their ability to effectively interact with others. By May, 1987, a tremendous change had occurred. These participants were very vocal about their experiences in the REWARD project and about their success in reentering the educational world. In fact, several of the participants gained enough confidence in their communicative ability to introduce speakers at the Single Parent Seminar in April. (see Appendix)

OBJECTIVE 11: TO ENCOURAGE PARTICIPANTS TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF ECC'S "LATE START" PROGRAM SERVICES.

Activities: Early during the July sessions, the participants were informed of the "Late Start" program. The directors and coordinator asked one of the coordinators of Late Start to serve on the Advisory Council as a way to enhance communication between the two groups.

Evaluation: We are aware that at least one student began attending the meetings of Late Start. To the best of our knowledge, the meetings were discontinued before the second semester began.

OBJECTIVE 12: TO PROVIDE FUNDS TO PARTICIPANTS FOR CHILD CARE AND/OR TRANS-PORTATION SERVICES.

Activities: The participants were paid $10 each for each day attended to help offset child care and/or transportation expenses during the July sessions. The participants were offered the opportunity to work with professors in various disciplines during the academic year. They were paid for their assistance to help offset child care and/or transportation costs of school.

die,

Evaluation: Many of the participants would have been unable to attend without the additional funds to cover some expenses.

OBJECTIVE 13: TO PROVIDE VARIOUS SIMULATED CLASSROOM EXPERIENCES WITH FULL-TIME ECC FACULTY.

Activities: During the initial sessions in July, a psychology professor at ECC presented a lecture to the group. The professor asked them to take notes as they would if they had enrolled in a class. At the end of the lecture, questions were asked to determine if the students had gathered the primary points of the lecture. The participants also experienced simulated class-room experiences with three different business professors at ECC. In March, two nursing instructors presented a lecture on "Taking Control of Your Health".

Evaluation: The students gained confidence in their ability to take notes when a lecture was given and in their ability to determine the important points in a lecture.

OBJECTIVE 14: TO PROVIDE FUNDING TO COVER THE COST OF ONE CLASS AND TEXTBOOK IN A POST SECONDARY EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION.

Activities: Of the 20 new and returning REWARD participants, 17 enrolled in a class or classes at ECC or at the local vocational school. Of these 17, seven were provided with funding from Project REWARD to cover the cost of one class and textbook(s) for that class. The other participants received funding from another source and did not need funding from REWARD.

Evaluation: This service was needed. Very few of the participants could have enrolled in a class or classes without financial assistance from Project REWARD and/or the information on financial aid made available through REWARD.

OBJECTIVE 15: TO PROVIDE TUTORIAL/ADVISING SERVICES THROUGHOUT THE SCHOOL YEAR UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF A PARAPROFESSIONAL (COORDINATOR)

Activities: The coordinator for Project REWARD spent an average of 20 hours a week in tutorial and advising sessions with participants. The participants were exposed to not only services to help them grow academically, but also to services which helped them in their personal lives as well.

Evaluation: The participants needed help in academic, personal and social areas. The directors and coordinator were able to provide this needed service. In a couple of instances, the directors and/or coordinator intervened with social agencies on behalf of the participant to gain needed services.

OTHER ACTIVITIES AND ACHIEVEMENTS

In addition to meeting the above objectives, the directors and coordinator also participated in and/or organized the following activities: interagency communication, formation of an advisory council for Project REWARD, distribution of a single parent survey form on campus at ECC, sponsorship of a single parent seminar, and representation at state meetings and at the regional meeting held in Florida this past year.

The directors and coordinator met with representatives from various agencies in the community two times this past year. Agencies involved included the Elizabethtown Area Vocational Technical School, Lincoln Trail Domestic Violence Program, Adult Learning Center, and ECC's Learning Resource Center. We discussed various ways that the agencies could work together to help the single parent/displaced homemaker.

The directors and coordinator of Project REWARD felt a need to establish an Advisory Council to help with the planning and to offer advice on how we might improve the program offerings. The Council is composed of representatives from the following agencies: Elizabethtown Area Vocational Technical School, Communicare, Learning Resource Center at ECC, Lincoln Trail Domestic Violence Program, Adult Learning Center, Department of Human Resources and an advanced REWARD student. There are two male and five female members on the Council. (see Appendix)

In April, the directors and coordinator developed and distributed a questionnaire for single parents at ECC. Twenty-seven responded to the questionnaire. (see Appendix for copy of questionnaire)

On April 25, a single parent seminar was held. The goal of the seminar was to provide information that would benefit the single parent and/or provide insight on the special problems single parents might experience. There were 43 participants in the single parent seminar and the evaluations were very positive with most indicating a desire to have similar sessions again. Child care was provided for 26 children of the single parents attending the seminar.

Project REWARD was represented by the coordinator and/or directors at state training sessions for project personnel. The coordinator and a director attended the Regional Conference for Displaced Homemaker Network in Tampa, Florida.

RESULTS AND CONCLUSIONS

The 1986-1987 Project REWARD has been an extremely successful educational program. Not only has REWARD been successful in the high percentage of participants completing the academic aspects but also in successfully accomplishing the objectives to provide guidelines to enhance participants' confidence and self-esteem and to provide training designed to encourage positive interpersonal communication and assertiveness skills. The participants developed positively in these areas during the thirty hours of instruction in July 1986 and during the weekly individual sessions and monthly group meetings.

Last July, the directors met individuals who exhibited fear of returning to the educational and occupational worlds, fear of expressing themselves, and fear of failure. Project REWARD provided a setting for the participants to communicate with instructors, guest speakers, and each other. Through instruction in assertiveness training and interpersonal communication skills, filling out forms, English grammar, typewriting, mathematics and calculating machines, word processing, and personality inventory testing, the participants gained confidence and were made aware of their abilities. The participants came to realize that the community college and the vocational school were institutions composed of human beings willing to help them.

The employment experience program for the returning REWARD participants has been very effective. The program has provided a training opportunity for each participant to work with an educational professional that was especially stimulating or challenging relating to the participant's career goal or personality. The career training program contributes toward the further enhancement of the participant's confidence and sense of accomplishment. This program has been the only financial support that Project REWARD has given to the returning participants. The program has also allowed the participants a "work situation" that is flexible with their class schedule and provides an opportunity for the participants to gain an increased familiarity with the campus and the faculty and staff. The on-campus "work situation" is a positive experience for the participants. The directors and program coordinator feel strongly that this work opportunity is a valuable link in the nurturing of the returning participants; the program may also give the first-year participants something to look forward to.

Project REWARD has also made great strides to become more visible in the community. This year the directors and program coordinator helped establish an intra-agency (group) that met twice at Elizabethtown State Vocational Technical School. We also established an advisory council whose members were and are very eager to advise and support the program. On April 25, Project REWARD sponsored a seminar to address the needs of the single parent. The seminar was publicized in the newspaper and on area radio stations. The presenters of the sessions were positively impressed with the REWARD program. Ninety percent of the presenters volunteered to participate in another seminar. The 43 people attending were also very positive and wanted to know when we were having another seminar!

The participants, program coordinator, and directors are proud of their accomplishments during this past year! The participants have gained confidence in their ability to set realistic goals and ability to achieve their goals; they have learned to openly and honestly express their opinions and to ask questions about concerns they have. Each has learned "I Can!" And we are very proud of these brave individuals. A more detailed description of their accomplishments is stated under "Participants--Where They Are Now."

The program coordinator and directors have made contact with other agencies in the community. Some of the individuals who are served by these agencies meet the criteria which has been established for Project REWARD participants. The representatives from these agencies have expressed a desire to help their clients by informing them about the opportunities and advantages of our program.

PARTICIPANTS--WHERE THEY ARE NOW

1986-1987 Participants

- Linda Artman Linda attended ECC in the fall of 1986, but withdrew to accept employment at Non-Appropriated funds at Fort Knox.
- Donna Figg Donna was not eligible for financial assistance, due to the length of time away from school. She is, however, attending Vocational School in Louisville majoring in data processing.
- Lana Gilliam Lana enrolled in a course in the fall, but due to personal reasons, withdrew. She, however, enrolled full-time for the spring semester. Although Lana withdrew from several classes, she finished two classes. After completing the classes, Lana expressed a feeling of accomplishment. We were unable to obtain information from officials in the VA Disability Program regarding Lana's condition.
- Doreen Hines Doreen completed a course each semester and is interested in ECC's Nursing Program. Doreen works part time at a nursing home in Hodgenville.
- Judy Hammond Although we could provide no financial support for Judy, she completed one course in the fall semester and three courses in the spring semester. Judy is a bus driver for Hardin County.
- Pamela Horton Pamela was already receiving financial aid when she came to our program. She is a full-time student, interested in Nursing.
- Barbara McKinney Barbara is at the present time neither employed or enrolled in school. Barbara attended no meetings since the summer session.
- Julia Morefield Julia works in the deli at Kroger, is a substitute aide for Hardm. County Schools and has applied for financial aid to attend school this fall.
- Rita Muratalla Rita completed one course each semester and is interested in Early Childhood Education. Rita moved to Frankfurt, Germany, June 9, 1987, due to a change in duty assignment for her husband.
- Ann Settles Ann came into our program due to her husband's terminal illness. Ann was able to complete the fall semester, but was unable to enroll in the spring due to her husband's worsened condition. Ann moved to Louisville to be near her husband as he underwent treatment. Ann plans to return to school upon a change in her status at home. (See Appendix.)
- Susan Smith Susan enrolled in a course in the fall semester. She received a grant for the spring semester and completed two courses. Susan is interested in the field of Nutrition.

- Joyce Suggs Joyce enrolled in a course in both the fall and spring semesters and will continue next year. She did babysitting in her home.
- Shirley Tinsley Shirley enrolled and completed a course in the fall.

 She enrolled in another course in the spring. However, due to family problems, she was forced to withdraw. Shirley has a mentally retarded daughter and also has responsibility for an invalid mother. Shirley plans to re-enroll in the fall semester.
- Elfriede Wheeler Elfriede chose not to continue in the program after the summer session.

Returning Participants

- Elma Hernandex Elma completed six more semester hours this year. She is employed full time as a Computer Aide at a private school in Hardin County.
- Gay Melvin Gay took two courses in the fall semester, then returned as a full-time student in the spring. Gay worked in our Work Experience Training Program as a tutor in accounting. Gay also works one day a week at the newspaper in Hart County.
- Rhonda Parrett Rhonda was a Work Experience participant until January, when due to family pressures, she went to work full time at a local restaurant. Rhonda plans to return to school and work in the fall.
- Karen Langham Karen was a full-time student and Work Experience participant. She is working toward a degree in Elementary Education.
- Mary Pedigo Mary also was a full-time student and in the Work Experience Program. At the end of this last semester, Mary was accepted into the Nursing Program at ECC.
- Phyliss Richards Phyliss was a full-time student at the University of Louisville and also attended a course each semester at ECC and worked in our Work Experience Program.

REWARD ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Right.

The REWARD (Re-entering Education with a Real Determination) Advisory Committee held its first meeting on Friday, March 6, 1987, at 11:30 a.m. in the Student Center of Elizabethtown Community College. Members present were C. A. Brown, Loretta Foster, Karen Langham, Lynn Magoon, Diane Owsley, LaDrewe Parroff, Peggy Phalen, Terry Reams, Carolyn Rhodes, Vanessa Wilborn, and Janice Williams.

After introductions were made, La Drewe Parroff gave a brief summary of the objectives of our program.

The members of the group were then asked for any suggestions/input they might have in regard to ways to improve our program. Topics discussed were child care, transportation and recruitment procedures.

The brochure for next year was then discussed and recommendations were made for changes in wording in a few instances. The logo on the front of the brochure was also slightly modified. The requirement for the 1040 form to be attached was dropped.

Discussion was held concerning a display to be held at the Towne Mall on Saturday, April 4. The theme for the display will be "Educational Opportunities for Adults in Hardin County." We plan to have brochures available at this display.

REWARD discusses December test results

The REWARD (Re-entering Education with a Real Determination) Support Group met recently at Elizabethtown Community College.

Dr. Robert Dahl presented a program concerning the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator. Members of the group had taken the test in December. Results were distributed and the different types discussed in detail.

REWARD is a program designed to meet the needs of single parents and displaced homemakers re-entering education. Funding for the program is provided by a grant from the Department of Vocational Education. This year's program has 21 participants, including five returning students.

For more information, call ECC at 769-2371.
