LET'S EAT

Eating is a basic in our lives. Be they good or bad choices, we all either eat to live or live to eat. Jeff Smith, "The Frugal Gourmet" of TV fame, is quoted as saying, "Cooking is the last language we have for communicating our culture. Feasting and memory are directly related. If you want to remember who you are, teach your children to cook. But unless you want your children to learn only how to defrost, you must learn your grandmothers' recipes for dishes that define your heritage."

Thus, the reason for this REPEATER, "Cookbooks and Good Eating". We cannot list all the many thousands of cookbooks which are available. A browse through your local bookstore will reveal many more interesting titles. We hope, with these reviews of special cookbooks and sources, you, too, may be tempted to stray into the kitchen, trying various recipes, finding a way to keep to that "special diet", or just a time to enjoy yourself. Many of us spend long hours in various forms of employment, volunteerism, or care of a special person, so our time is very limited.

Some of the cookbooks we have discovered here at PAM Centre are helpful in various situations. The price and availability of the listings are subject to change.

Answers to quiz on back page: 1. D. The terms "light" and "lite" are often ambiguous. Many manufacturers use these terms to describe the taste, texture or color of a product; however, most consumers assume the term refers to less fat or fewer calories. When used on meat and poultry items the term indicates that the product is 25% lower in fat, calories or sodium than usual. 2. C. Butter and margarine both contain 4 grams of fat and 36 calories per teaspoon. Margarine that lists liquid oil as the first ingredient is your best choice. Reduced fat margarines have 1/3 to 1/2 less fat and calories. 3. A. Cheeseburgers weigh in at 15 grams fat, 320 calories. Fried fish and chicken sandwiches have about 33 grams fat and 520 calories. Speciality sandwiches can contain a whopping 36 grams fat and 620 calories. Biscuit and croissant sandwiches are loaded with fat. 4. B, D, and E. These cookies also contain fewer calories than most cookies. 5. A and D. Contrary to popular belief, not all white cheeses are low in fat. One ounce of Swiss or Monterey Jack cheese contain the equivalent of 2 teaspoons of butter. 6. E. The American Heart Association recommends that saturated fat make up no more than 10% of the diet. Coconut and palm oils are used extensively in commercial foods, even where you would not expect to see them, i.e., many brands of granola, non-dairy creamers, snack crackers and shortening.
