ABSTRACT

This booklet provides career orientation teachers in middle/junior high and high school with ideas for bulletin boards because students learn best when ideas are presented visually. Following a brief description of the project that developed it, the bulletin board booklet gives ideas for creating bulletin boards on career exploration, the 15 job clusters, and employability skills. The booklet contains 100 ideas on the following career orientation topics: (1) self-awareness; (2) occupational clusters, general; (3) occupational clusters, specific; (4) planning for success; (5) educational/training alternatives; (6) job acquisition; (7) part-time/summer jobs; and (8) career club. INTRODUCTION

Through an informal survey, it was determined that the Career Orientation teachers needed a booklet with ideas for bulletin boards. Research has indicated that many students learn best when ideas are presented visually. The bulletin board ideas booklet would provide teachers with a readily available source of ideas for creating bulletin boards on career exploration, the fifteen job clusters, and employability skills.

OBJECTIVES

The objectives of the project were:

1. To provide an opportunity for Career Orientation teachers to submit usable ideas for bulletin boards for Career Orientation classrooms.
2. To develop and disseminate a Career Orientation bulletin boards ideas booklet.

PROCEDURES

A letter was sent to Career Orientation teachers in the state asking them to submit ideas for the bulletin board ideas booklet. An artist was hired to take the ideas and put them into a form suitable for the booklet. Approximately one hundred ideas were selected from those sent in by the teachers. Career Orientation supervisors worked with the artist on the booklet development. After the camera-ready copy was prepared, it was delivered to the Wrightsville Prison for printing. After completion of the printing, the booklet was then distributed to Career Orientation teachers and teacher educators. Additional copies were taken to the Arkansas Vocational Curriculum Dissemination Center where they will sell for $5.00 a copy to other interested individuals.

FINDINGS AND EVALUATION

Many positive comments have been received concerning the bulletin board ideas booklet. A survey relative to the value of the booklet will be given to teachers and teacher educators in August at the Career Orientation Inservice Training so that they can evaluate the booklet. Pictures of bulletin boards that teachers have developed using the booklet will be taken by Career Orientation supervisors.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Career Orientation supervisors and teachers were pleased with the outcome of the project. It is felt that the many usable ideas were developed as a result of the booklet and that the objectives were met. The bulletin boards created as a result of the booklet will present to students visual ideas relative to career exploration, the fifteen job clusters, and employability skills. A copy of the booklet is attached.

THE POWER OF WORDS

WASHINGTON - President-elect Bush bestowed cautious praise on President Reagan's parting budget Monday, saying he "agrees with its intent" while making clear he will develop his own proposals. "I will continue to review it asked to stay on - told reporters that "work is actively under way" on Bush's budget modifications. "It is certainly possible that much of the current budget will remain on the table, though it is too early to say. I will continue to review it stage to offer more suggestions."

Budget

Continued from page 1. House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta said it "the last word" of the Reagan administration. But Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady said reporters that he would produce the draft budget for Congress to review. "I think it's what they call the 'final' draft," Brady said.
