ABSTRACT

The materials listed in this reference circular are recommended to libraries and organizations as basic resources for providing a current information service on visual impairments and physical disabilities. The selections, which are based on the holdings of the Reference Section of the National Library Service (NLS) for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, have been made on the basis of currency and authoritativeness. All titles are in print and, with a few exceptions, have been published since 1980. Pricing and ordering information have been provided in most cases. The following aspects of visual and physical disabilities are represented in book format: accessibility; aging; assistive devices; blindness and visual impairments; deaf-blindness; deafness and hearing impairments; developmental disabilities; education; employment and rehabilitative services; independent living; learning disabilities; legal rights; library services; medical aspects of disability; neurological disorders; orthopedic disorders; parent education; psychosocial aspects of disability; recreation; and travel. Directories and other reference resources which present information on assistive devices, agencies, programs and services, materials in special formats, and other supplemental references are also listed, as well as relevant periodicals, free and inexpensive materials, NLS resources, and information centers and online services. A list of other reference circulars and bibliographies published by the NLS reference section concludes the circular. (MAB)

Introduction

The materials included in this reference circular are recommended to libraries and organizations as basic resources for providing a current information service on visual impairments and physical disabilities. The selections, based on the holdings of the Reference Section, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, were made on the basis of currency and authoritativeness. All titles are in print and, with a few exceptions, are published since 1980. All major aspects of visual and physical disabilities are represented.

Prices are subject to change and are shown for comparative purposes. Full publishers' addresses are included when they are not readily obtainable through libraries and bookstores.

The Reference Section publishes Added Entries, a quarterly selected list of current acquisitions to its collection of materials on disabilities. Libraries and organizations wishing to receive Added Entries on a regular basis should contact the Reference Section, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20542, to be placed on their mailing list.

V. NLS RESOURCES

The National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (NLS) of the Library of Congress, in cooperation with a network of state and local libraries, administers a free national library service that provides braille and recorded books and magazines for individuals who are unable to read standard print because of visual or physical impairments. NLS publishes catalogs and bibliographies listing braille and recorded materials currently available; directories of library resources for blind and physically handicapped individuals, of volunteer groups who produce materials for blind and physically handicapped readers, and of music resources for braille and large type scores and recorded music instruction; newsletters related to library services for blind and physically handicapped persons; and monographs and articles describing current and historical practices designed to meet the needs of blind and physically handicapped library users.

The NLS Reference Section compiles reference circulars, bibliographies, and package libraries on various aspects of handicapping conditions.

The NLS Braille Development Section provides manuals and other publications to support its free correspondence courses in braille transcription and proofreading.

The NLS Music Section publishes catalogs, circulars, and factsheets concerning the availability of music scores and instruction in special formats.

The following NLS publications are available free under the conditions noted.
