ABSTRACT

This guide to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) presents brief descriptions of all five of the law's titles, and then focuses on the employment provisions of the ADA in Title I. It outlines who must comply with the law, who is protected by it, and how employers comply with the law. The booklet then provides descriptions of government and nonprofit agencies that can supply information concerning employment for individuals with disabilities. The 19 agencies are predominantly Florida resources, though regional and national resources are also represented. For each agency, information provided includes the address, telephone number, contact person, mission statement, and a list of types of services. A bibliography of 28 published materials and 6 videos about the ADA is also included. (JDD)

FLORIDA GOVERNOR'S ALLIANCE FOR THE EMPLOYMENT OF DISABLED CITIZENS, INC.

The Florida Governor's Alliance for the Employment of Disabled Citizens was established in 1986 by Governor Bob Graham in response to concerns, particularly from agencies serving people with disabilities, that there was no body at the state level to advocate and recommend policies for consideration by the Office of the Governor on employment of individuals with disabilities.

The Governor appointed a Governor's Board from nominations submitted by the 24 service delivery areas administering the Job Training Partnership Act and relevant state agencies. The board was closely aligned to the State Job Training Coordinating Council, which was responsible for developing employment and training policies for Florida's workforce. It was also designated by Governor Graham as state liaison to the President's Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities in Washington, D.C.

Some of the accomplishments of the board to date include:

- A set of directives and available technical assistance to service delivery areas in order to meet the Governor's goal to increase the placement of disabled job seekers by 10% annually in each service delivery area in Florida;
- An analysis of the corporate benefits of programs such as BKable sponsored by Burger King Corporation of Miami and located in four major Florida markets;
- Cosponsorship with the President's Committee of a national meeting for 4200 attendees in Tampa in support of then-pending Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA);
- Statewide participation in National Disability Employment Awareness month with proclamations of the Cabinet and Governor and a statewide program of awards for outstanding employers of people with disabilities and employees with disabilities;
- Inclusion of provisions for career planning for students with disabilities in postsecondary education in a study prepared by the Postsecondary Education Planning Commission;

CO - S P O N S O R S

- The establishment of five Mayors' Alliances in cities in Florida to address issues of concern to local residents with disabilities;
- A set of recommendations to the Office of the Governor regarding coordination strategies to implement provisions of the ADA.

This publication represents another activity undertaken by the Board of the Florida Governor's Alliance for Employment of Disabled Citizens in the interest of improving services to individuals with disabilities in the State of Florida.

FLORIDA DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND REHABILITATIVE SERVICES- ALCOHOL, DRUG ABUSE, AND MENTAL HEALTH PROGRAM OFFICE

The mission statement of the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Program of Florida is based in Florida Statutes, Chapters 394, 396, 397, 916, 917, which define the focus of publicly funded services for persons who are mentally ill and/or are addicted to drugs. The laws place priority on serving those persons who are most seriously affected but also provide for prevention and early intervention programs. The Florida Statutes stress that programs shall be researched and evaluated for effectiveness.

The mission statement, based on shared values and focused on the outcome of more fulfilling lives for persons who are mentally ill or addicted, is as follows:

- Provide, promote and evaluate a system of programs and activities which meet the needs of individuals, their families and communities by addressing the effects of alcohol and other drugs, emotional disturbances and mental illness and by meeting recognized standards for quality care;
- Provide and promote through public and private partnership the opportunity for persons affected by alcohol and drug abuse and mental illness to live, work and grow as part of the community in a manner which is safe for them and others;
- Promote citizen involvement, education and responsibility in the planning and delivery of an effective and accountable system of services.

AN OVERVIEW OF THE ADA

If you are an employer and you haven't already heard about the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) or details regarding the ADA's Title I provisions, you may find that this publication can save you a lot of time and money. If you are a consumer or other interested party, you may also find this information helpful in learning more about the ADA.

The ADA is a civil rights statute which was signed into law by President Bush on July 26, 1990. It prohibits discrimination against people with disabilities by offering such individuals protection similar to the protection given to women, minorities, and others by the enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. It is divided into five sections or titles, each with its own effective dates and regulations. Although this resource guide focuses on Title I of the ADA, details regarding all titles of the ADA are discussed below.

Title I of the ADA addresses all aspects of hiring and employing an individual with a disability. This publication can provide you the information and resources you may need in order to comply with the act regarding employment of one of the 43 million Americans with disabilities without breaking the law or going to court. This resource guide contains a basic outline of the ADA's Title I provisions and provides a listing of agencies and organizations that can offer further assistance to employers seeking to implement the necessary provisions of the ADA in businesses throughout Florida. Please see the next section in this publication entitled, "Questions and Answers on Title I of the ADA," for the effective dates regarding the various regulations discussed in Title I of the ADA.

Title I regulations on employment are enforced by:
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

(202) 663-4494 TDD
1-800-USA-EEOC or
1-800-800-3302 TDD

Title II of the ADA addresses the activities of state and local government agencies. Also regulated by this title are all aspects of public transportation including taxi cabs, rental cars, limousines, buses, light and rapid rail with fixed-route systems, paratransit, or demand-response systems and all transportation facilities. Air travel regulations regarding disabled persons are covered by the Air Carriers Access Act. These regulations are implemented by the Secretary of Transportation with various effective dates for each stipulation addressed by Title II of the ADA.

Title II provisions are enforced by:

AN OVERVIEW OF THE ADA

Title IV of the ADA regulates areas of telecommunications so that people with speech and/or hearing impairments are provided equal access to relay services 24 hours a day. The Act requires that television public service announcements, produced or funded whole or in part with federal funds, must also be close-captioned for the hearing-impaired. The effective date for Title IV is July 26, 1993.

Title IV provisions are enforced by:
Federal Communications Commission
Office of Public Affairs
1919 M Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20554
(202) 632-7000
(202) 634-1800
(202) 632-6999 Voice/TDD

For assistance with Title IV in Florida, contact:
Florida Council for the Hearing Impaired

Tallahassee, FL 32399-0696
(904) 488-5087 Voice/TDD
(904) 488-8062 Fax

The Florida Council for the Hearing Impaired seeks solutions and makes recommendations to break down barriers, promote independence, and provide hearing impaired individuals the same opportunities to access and benefit from services available to other Florida citizens.

Finally, Title V of the ADA is headed "Miscellaneous Provisions" and it generally describes the ADA's relationship to other laws, explains insurance issues, prohibits state immunity, provides congressional inclusion, sets regulations by the ATBCB, explains implementation of each Title and notes amendments to the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. It also provides that state and local laws, which afford persons with disabilities greater protection than the ADA offers, remain in effect.

WHAT IS THE ADA? WHAT IS TITLE I?

- The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a civil rights statute that prohibits the discrimination of disabled citizens in employment, public services, transportation, public accommodations, and telecommunications. It was proposed by the National Council on Disability and signed by President Bush on July 26, 1990.
- Title I refers to the employment provision of the ADA. It protects qualified individuals with disabilities from employment discrimination.
- Title I does not interfere with an employer's right to hire the best qualified applicant, nor does the ADA impose any affirmative action obligations.

WHO MUST COMPLY? WHEN DOES IT TAKE EFFECT?

- Title I prohibits discrimination in the public and private sectors and in state and local governments. The employment provision applies to employers, employment agencies, labor unions, and joint labor-management committees.
  - All businesses employing 25 or more workers must comply as of July 26, 1992.
  - All businesses employing 15 or more workers must comply beginning July 26, 1994.
  - Private membership clubs and religious organizations are exempt from Title I.

WHO IS PROTECTED BY THE ADA?

- The ADA protects approximately 43 million United States citizens who possess physical or mental disabilities that significantly limit activities such as working, walking, talking, seeing, hearing, or caring for oneself.
  - Both those individuals who have a record of such an impairment and those who are simply regarded as having such an impairment are covered by the ADA.
  - Also protected by the ADA are individuals with the AIDS virus or those who are HIV-positive.

NOTE: Employers may refuse to assign an individual with AIDS or who is HIV-positive to a job if transmission of this or one of the infectious diseases are included on the list published by the Secretary of Health and Human Services in August of 1991 and cannot be eliminated through reasonable accommodations.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

- Individuals actively participating in or who have successfully completed a rehabilitation program for alcohol or drug abuse;
- Individuals incorrectly regarded as using illegal drugs.

NOTE: Employers may prohibit alcohol or illegal drug use at the workplace. Employers may also require that workers not be under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs while on the job.

Individuals are NOT considered "disabled" by the ADA if:

- Individuals are currently using illegal drugs;
  - Solely because an individual is a transvestite.
- Conditions NOT considered a "disability" or an "impairment" are the following:
    - Homosexuality or bisexuality
    - Transvestism, transsexualism, pedophilia, exhibitionism, voyeurism, gender identification disorders and other sexual behaviors if NOT resulting from a physical impairment
    - Compulsive gambling
    - Pyromania
    - Kleptomania
    - Psychoactive substance use disorders resulting from illegal drug use.

WHAT ABOUT PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS?

- Drug testing is permitted and is not considered a medical examination by the ADA.
- Pre-employment medical exams can be required if they apply to all entering employees, without regard to disability.
- Employers may not ask if an applicant is disabled or about the nature or severity of a disability.
- Exams cannot be used to determine whether a person has a disability or to evaluate its nature or severity.
- Employers may ask whether an applicant can perform job-related functions.

HOW DO EMPLOYERS COMPLY WITH THE ADA?

- Employers must ensure equal opportunity in recruiting, testing, and hiring of qualified applicants with disabilities.
- Employers must ensure equal treatment in employing, recruiting, promoting, training, laying-off, paying, firing, designating job assignments, granting leave, providing benefits and all other employment related activities to qualified workers with disabilities.

NOTE: The ADA defines a "qualified" worker as an individual with a disability who with or without reasonable accommodation can perform "essential functions" of a job held or sought. Employers are left to judge what functions are to be deemed "essential." However, a written job description, developed by the employer, before recruiting or interviewing applicants, may serve as evidence of a job's "essential functions."

- Employers must provide reasonable accommodation for workers with disabilities. This may include:
  - making facilities used by workers accessible and usable for workers with disabilities
  - restructuring jobs, setting up part-time or modified schedules, purchasing or modifying equipment or devices
  - modifying examinations, training materials, or policies
  - providing qualified readers or interpreters.
- Reasonable accommodation is required for workers with disabilities unless "undue hardship" results for the employer.

NOTE: "Undue hardship" is defined as a significant difficulty or expense for the employer. Considerations given to:

- the nature and cost of the proposed accommodation
- the financial resources of the business
- the overall size of the business in terms of the number of workers and the number of facilities
- the structure and functions of the workforce.

GUIDE TO AGENCY LISTINGS

In preparing this publication, the Education and Awareness Committee of the Florida Governor's Alliance for the Employment of Disabled Citizens aimed to develop a publication that would be readily available to employers and consumers needing information on provisions contained in Title I of the ADA (Public Law 101-336). In pursuit of this objective, the committee developed an information instrument and distributed it as widely as possible to agencies and organizations that met the following criteria:

- Agencies or organizations which provide services of a statewide nature so that readers in any part of Florida could access a service described in the booklet.
- Agencies or organizations offering assistance at no cost or low cost to the interested party.

In establishing these standards, the board committee was aware of the plethora of information being offered by consultants and other agencies regarding the provisions of the ADA. However, the board committee surveyed the material available and determined that a first course of action of an information-seeker would be to request assistance offered by government and non-profit service providers. In designating a contact person for each entry, the board committee realized the possibility of resource person turnover, but felt that the advantage of having a personal contact point outweighed this disadvantage.

The list that follows is not exhaustive. However, it does represent those agencies who responded to the information instrument and who warranted inclusion in this booklet. Although the included agencies are predominately in Florida, there are references to a regional network that may be useful for some inquirers as well as references to resources available at the national level.

It is hoped that this publication will be useful and that the final outcome will result in greater advantages for individuals with disabilities to seek and retain gainful employment.

Additional copies of this booklet are available from the Florida Governor's Alliance.
