ABSTRACT

This checklist was developed to be used for evaluating and enhancing the performance of established workplace education programs. With minor modifications, the document also may be useful for evaluating other types of training and education programs. Management, labor, and education partners may use the checklist as a stand-alone evaluation instrument or as a progress check on items identified by the partners during prior program design meetings using a companion document, the "Workplace Education Design Checklist: A Tool for Program Planning." The checklist is organized in four sections that cover the following topics: (1) program design and administration indicators; (2) participant achievement indicators; (3) program outcome indicators; and (4) evaluation tools. The checklist also contains a list of key terms with definitions and the names of two related resources. (KC)

Additional comments were provided as a result of pilot-testing by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company -- United Rubber Workers, Local 904 -- Madison Area Technical College partnership program which is a participant in the Wisconsin Workplace Partnership Training Program. Further review and suggestions were offered by the Maryland State Department of Education -- Metropolitan Baltimore Council of AFL-CIO Unions, partners in the Labor Education Achievement Program -- Project LEAP.

Wordprocessing was performed by Jennifer Dungan, Michael Mahoney, and Clifford Wind (Center on Education and Work, University of Wisconsin - Madison).

This document was developed under a U.S. Department of Education National Workplace Literacy Program grant awarded to the Wisconsin Workplace Partnership Training Program (WWPTP) in the amount of $1,205,234 (52%) with committed private sector matching funds of $1,125,622 (48%), bringing the total program resources to $2,330,856. The WWPTP is administered by the Wisconsin Technical College System in partnership with Wisconsin State AFL-CIO, Wisconsin Manufacturers and Commerce, and Center on Education and Work, University of Wisconsin - Madison.

How to Use this Checklist

The Workplace Education Evaluation Checklist: A Tool for Assessing and Improving Performance is an aid for evaluating and enhancing the performance of established workplace education programs. With minor modifications, this document also may be useful for evaluating other types of training and education programs.

Management, labor, and education partners may use this checklist as a stand-alone evaluation instrument or as a progress check on items identified by the partners during prior program design meetings using a companion document, the Workplace Education Design Checklist: A Tool for Program Planning.

Whether used as a stand-alone evaluation tool or in tandem with the companion document, it is suggested

Checklist Uses As an Evaluation Tool to Assess Program Performance As a Semi-Annual or Annual Progress Check on Items Identified on the Workplace Education Design Checklist As an Action Plan for Future Program

or Evaluation Enhancements

that each workplace education management-labor-education partnership discuss this checklist as a team. Partnerships may elect to discuss and complete this checklist in a team meeting, or alternatively may request each team member to independently complete the checklist before meeting as a group to discuss and aggregate the findings.

To aid in referencing checklist items during partnership discussions, the items are numbered sequentially within each of the four sections of this document: program design and administration (Section 1), participant achievement (Section 2), program outcomes (Section 3), and evaluation tools (Section 4). The number appears within parentheses following each item. For easy reference to subsection items, the range of numbers within each subsection is identified on the Table of Contents (page iii).

For each item within the four sections, effectiveness indicators are provided. After discussing an item, partners determine whether that aspect of their program is exceeding expectations, meeting expectations, needing improvement to meet expectations, or does not apply to their current situation or program design. A box is provided for partners to check the appropriate option(s). In addition, partners may identify items, such as those they wish to enhance or add to their program design, as future actions. If an item is selected for future action, space is provided for the partners to specify the activity, the responsible parties, and a reasonable timeline for completion.

Definition of Key Terms

Partners

Participants are employees who receive instruction or educational Participants services through the workplace education program.

> Partners are responsible for initiating and maintaining a workplace education program. Typically, workplace education partnerships involve at least one decision-maker representing the employer (a manager), the workforce (a labor leader, if it is a unionized workforce; or an employee representative, if the workforce is not unionized), and the education partner (e.g., the Technical College Workplace Education Coordinator, etc.).

Peer Advisors

In general, peer advisors are volunteers from all levels of the employer organization; often a majority are program participants. Peer advisors are committed to the success of the workplace education program and typically provide information to other employees one-on-one, assist with marketing and promotional activities, obtain employee input, and aid in furthering the program goals and objectives.

Stakeholders

Stakeholders are individuals with a vested interest in the success of the workplace education program. Most commonly, workplace education stakeholders include: management-labor-education partners, program participants, steering committee members, and peer advisors.

Steering Committees

Steering committees often are formed to guide the development and continuation of a workplace education program. Membership typically consists of one to three representatives from each of the partners as well as participants, peer advisors, and other representatives who are involved in or affected by the program (e.g., training, human resource and quality department staff, and supervisors).

Workplace Educational Skills Analysis

Workplace Educational Skills Analysis (WESA) is a process used to identify and analyze the basic educational skills required to satisfactorily perform a particular job or a cluster of jobs. Other similar processes include: job task analyses and literacy audits. The six stage WESA process is fully described in the Workplace Educational Skills Analysis Training Guide. For more information on the WESA Training Guide, see the "Other Resources" section below.

Program Design and Administration Indicators

SECTION 1 -- PROGRAM DESIGN AND ADMINISTRATION INDICATORS

Below is a list of quality indicators for the design and administration of effective workplace education programs. Indicators are provided for the following program components: program design and planning, education center development and maintenance, workplace educational skills analyses, curricula development, program support services, participant recruitment and program promotion, peer advising, instruction, participant assessment, professional development, and program evaluation.

How would you evaluate your workplace education program relative to each of these indicators?

Evaluation Tools

SECTION 4 -- EVALUATION TOOLS

Below is a compilation of evaluation tools which have been used independently and in various combinations by successful workplace education programs. How would you evaluate the effectiveness of the workplace education program evaluation tools that you have used? Are there evaluation tools listed below that you have not yet used, but would like to include in your future evaluation activities?
