ABSTRACT
       This document presents a bibliography of research addressing topics pertaining to women administrators, managers, and other professionals. Most of the studies were conducted in the 1960s, 1970s, and 1980s. A few earlier, groundbreaking studies also appear, as do contributions of scholars from various disciplines, including political scientists, sociologists, psychologists, education specialists, and anthropologists. The materials that this document presents appear under 35 subcategories, some of which are:
"Theoretical Concerns about Women Administrators and Professionals";
"The Family Environment of Women Managers"; and "Women in the Legal Professions." (SG)

PREFACE

Compilation and production of this Bibliography was done during my tenure as a research intern in the Center for Governmental Services of Indiana State University. I am thankful to many persons and organizations for their support in my research for this project.

This bibliography on women managers and other professionals is designed to provide a current list of conceptual and empirical studies in this field. Most of these studies were completed in the sixties, seventies and eighties. A few older works have also been included because these were path-breaking studies. Scholars from various disciplines have contributed to this area of research. These include political scientists, sociologists, psychologists, education specialists, anthropologists and other scholars. I hope the future researchers will find this bibliography useful in their work.

The materials for this bibliography were obtained from different sources. A short trip to the library of Congress was most useful in obtaining a list of some significant books and monographs that are not easily available from other sources. The newly computerized catalog of the Library of Congress expedited my work. I also made an extensive search of online data bases at Indiana State University. My Library Science Professor, Dr. Choon Han Kim, introduced me to the technique of doing on-line searches through a class project. Without this modern technology it would have taken a very long time to collect materials for this project.

Dr. Michael Erisman, Chair of Political Science Department and Dr. James McDowell, Political Science Department professor approved of my research internship.

Dr. Manindra K. Mohapatra, Director in Center for Governmental Services and Mary T. Richmond, Librarian of the Center provided many support services at the Center.

Professor Kathryn Puckett of Indiana State University introduced me to the study of Library Science as an exciting field of study and helped me in developing a critical insight in finding library material.

I was encouraged by my daughter Simani and my son Sangram to complete this work. Finally, I dedicate this work to my late sister-in-law, Mrs. Premalata Mohanty, who always was a source of my inspiration. She was a very effective woman manager of her household.
