ABSTRACT

This guide on the employment of minors is intended for 14- through 17-year olds, their parents, and employers. It first lists requirements for employers who hire minors. Then it lists the jobs that 14- and 15-year-old workers can do, both the types of businesses that would hire them and examples of the kinds of jobs that 14- and 15-year-olds may apply for. It also describes restrictions on jobs that 16- and 17-year-old workers can do. Other sections address the following: working hours for 14- and 15-year-olds and for 16- and 17-year olds; working conditions (breaks, meal periods, adequate work, weight lifting); paychecks (minimum wage, overtime, paydays, deductions, uniforms, final paychecks); agriculture employment (who can work, power driven machinery, agricultural minimum wage, hours in agriculture); entertainment productions; canneries; door-to-door sales; and youth camps. The final section lists prohibited/hazardous occupations or operations for 16- and 17-year-olds. (YLB)

Going To Work For The First Time

Child labor laws protect young people in the work force. Although minors are no longer required to have work permits, they, their parents and employers should be aware of laws and regulations applying to young people, ages 14-17 and the kinds of jobs and working hours that are allowed.

EMPLOYERS WHO HIRE MINORS MUST:

- ▶ Comply with all child labor laws
- ▶ Verify the age of each minor hired from an appropriate proof of age document such as passport, driver's license or birth certificate
- ▶ Maintain a list of all minors hired
- ▶ Post a validated Employment Certificate in a conspicuous location where all employees may readily see it. To obtain an Employment Certificate, an employer must file an annual Employment Certificate Application with the Bureau of Labor and Industries' Wage and Hour Division. Applications are available at all bureau offices or employers can call the Child Labor Unit in Portland, 503-731-4074 and have an application sent to them.
- Employers fill out the application and send it to the bureau's Child Labor Unit, 800 NE Oregon St. #32, Portland, Oregon 97232
- When the application is approved, the bureau sends a validated annual Employment Certificate to the employer
- If the employer changes the work duties of minors at any time, the employer must fill out a Notice of Change in Duties form and send it to the bureau for approval
- The bureau sends employers renewal notices approximately six weeks prior to the expiration of their annual certificate.
