ABSTRACT

Describing the goals for student equity developed by California's Cypress College, this Plan provides data on outcomes and projections for each goal through 1997 and strategies to be undertaken to meet those goals. Following an executive summary, introduction, and time line of student equity activities from April 1993 to spring 1995, data are provided on the following five goal indicators: access, course completion, transfer, degrees and certificates awarded, and basic skills and English as a Second Language completion. For each goal indicator, the Plan provides an overview of the status of the goal by the college's Student Equity Committee (SEC) and a table of barriers or needs, activities to respond, the person or group responsible for the activity, the funding source, and a time line for completion. A summary is then provided of results from a 1994 survey of the campus climate, including data from student, faculty, and staff responses and a table of barriers, activities, responsible parties, funding, and time line for improving the campus climate for each group's responses. Appendixes provide the subchapter on student equity from the California Code of Regulations, a list of SEC members, a description of services provided by 34 campus programs that foster student equity, and the campus climate survey instruments. The goals for Student Equity at Cypress College are:

Access: By 1996, the ethnic distribution of the enrollment will reflect that of the adult population of the North Orange County Community College District service area.

Retention (Successful Course Completion): 1) Historically underrepresented groups will reflect campus mean by 1998. 2) The standards and rigor of all courses will be maintained by compliance with criteria in the California Community College New Curriculum Handbook, maintaining or increasing the number of course articulation agreements with the CSU and UC systems and meeting all WASC accreditation standards related to instructional delivery.

Transfer: 1) The total number of students who transfer will increase by 10% each fall to 628 by 1997, as indicated for each target group on the chart on page 18. 2) The ethnic distribution of the transfer student will be equal to that of the enrollment four years earlier.

Degree & Certificate Completion: 1) The total number of degrees and certificates will increase 10% a year to 1040 degrees and 463 certificates awarded by 1997-98, as indicated for each target group on the chart on page 22. 2) The ethnic distribution of recipients will be equal to that of the enrollment four years earlier.

ESL & Basic Skills: The percentage of students from target groups that fall below the means for successfully completing the degree-applicable course in the discipline within three semesters of having completed the final ESL or Basic Skills courses will bring those groups up the college mean by 1998.

The groups for whom goals have been established are: Disabled; Blacks; Filipinos; Hispanics; Native Americans, Pacific Islanders; and Others.

To meet these goals, the college has established:

- An evaluation team of individuals to do an annual review of progress towards the goals
- New programs to assist members of the targeted groups, i.e., Puente Writing Lab, expanded tutoring to the community and expanded tutorial space on campus; consolidated ground-level DSPS Center; and specially-funded projects
- Continuation of programs assisting the targeted groups, listed in Appendix C

Resources targeted for these purposes include General, EOPS, Staff Development, Student Activities, Multicultural, VATEA, Matriculation, Financial Aid, Transfer Center, and Adult Continuing Educations funds.

CYPRESS COLLEGE STUDENT EQUITY PLAN

INTRODUCTION

The process of developing the Student Equity Plan began in the fall of 1993, with a meeting of interested parties representing the two colleges in the North Orange Community College District. After discussion and deliberation, it was agreed that each campus should develop its own Student Equity Plan, reflecting the unique characteristics of each student body, faculty and resources. Cypress College began the development of its Student Equity Committee with representatives of the Academic Senate, Adult Continuing Education, management, faculty, classified staff and student body, who began to meet to determine the process and procedures necessary to fulfill the expectations of the spirit of equity. The District office served in a coordinating role to facilitate the flow of information to the Chancellor and Board of Trustees.

The Cypress College Student Equity Committee was aware that the major factor in driving the plan would be research, both demographic and campus climate. The District Information Services Department provided extensive statistical data that is routinely compiled to track student demographics and performance and, with the efforts of the Research Sub-Committee chair and the staff of Information Services, the necessary information was gathered and the Committee was able to proceed.

In drafting the plan, the development committee worked from a set of principles that guided both the form and content of its work. It was agreed that the guidelines published by the California Community College Academic Senate would be followed as closely as possible with special commitment to academic rigor and standards, and that the activities to overcome barriers would be realistic and attainable. The committee realized that ultimately the success of the Student Equity Plan would be dependent on the ownership of it by all of the college constituencies and has made concerted efforts to educate the staff and students of Cypress College on the importance of the commitment of the campus to the success of all its students.

The Student Equity Plan is organized around the five goal indicators: Access, Course Completion, Transfer, Degrees and Certificates, and Basic Skills and ESL. Each section of the plan contains an introduction covering an overview of committee considerations, a graph that includes the definition of the goal indicator, the goal itself, baseline data, and a chart covering the barrier, activity, responsibility, funding and time line aspects of the plan.

The implementation activities described were formatted into strategies directed at specific target groups through the intensive work of the Student Equity Plan Committee, a shared governance body. A modified version of the California CPEC survey of faculty, staff, and students assessed campus climate; current strategies were identified and the need to strengthen these or add others was discussed by the committee. Two years of extensive analysis and discussion within the committee and networking with the college community produced the strategies directed toward specific target groups that appear in the plan.

Critical to the long-term effectiveness of the Student Equity Plan at Cypress College, it is essential that evaluations take place on a yearly basis, or as often as needed to provide a meaningful endeavor. To this end, we have included individuals from various segments of campus and community to aid in the evaluation process. Responsible parties from each area of evaluation are included in this document. Future planning will be contingent on campus resources.

Access

After interpretation of the data received from our District Information Services, the committee was heartened to realize that Cypress College has been maintaining a positive representative group in regard to access. We can point with pride to the efforts of EOPS, DSPS, Counseling and Student Activities in the area of recruitment. However, when observing the larger picture we realize that we need to look at other factors regarding student success.

eager to introduce additional ethnic studies courses and to offer programs and workshops to increase and there is a very active Multicultural Committee on this campus, which is faculty driven. We are access. Our campus Curriculum Committee has instituted a multicultural graduation requirement, The committee is dedicated, however, to the maintenance and improvement of Cypress College's all students' knowledge and understanding of the diverse cultures on our campus.

The chart on page 2 of this document illustrates the progress the College has made with respect to providing college access to various ethnic groups.

Goal:

By 1996, the ethnic distribution of the enrollment will reflect that of the adult population of the NOCCCD service area. The objectives are to:

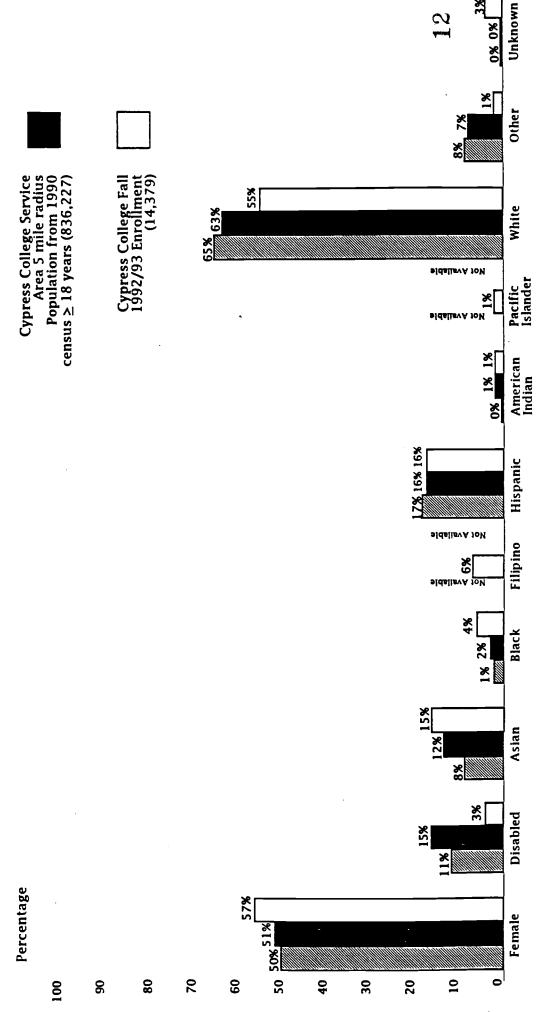

- Raise the disabled population to 11 15% by 1996
- Raise the "other" category to 7 8% by 1996

Academic Senate, the campus has made great progress in increasing the campus awareness of our diverse this campus have developed courses to satisfy the requirement. The Staff Development Office and the Multicultural Committee have offered many colloquia and lectures regarding innovative methods of instructional delivery. The Counseling Division has made an effort to educate the faculty on various a faculty-driven Multicultural Committee in the Spring of 1993. Among the many efforts to improve student success, the campus has instituted for the Fall of 1994, a course in multiculturalism as a Through the efforts of the Cypress College Staff Development Office, Curriculum Committee, and population and its various needs. In addition to the Office of Affirmative Action, the campus instituted requirement for graduation. Its emphasis is on contemporary cultural influences, and most divisions on learning styles that are culturally related. Although funds are limited, the faculty and counseling divisions are investigating means by which the classroom can become an area of cooperation for student retention. The campus is undergoing a reorganization plan which would emphasize student success through cooperative learning as a high priority. Reorganization will also place counseling in the same administrative line as instruction. We realize that effort must be placed on increasing the students' understanding of the importance of the subject matter they are required to take and in giving them the joy of learning and the thrill of successful completion cooperative effort between the Academic Senate and Administration in the preparation of the campus for this Although the general findings were positive, some caution should be exercised in the analysis of the document. Fourteen students, fourteen faculty, and four staff members commented negatively regarding the design, length, and repetitiveness of the surveys. The survey would have been better accepted had there been a greater Using the document from the State Chancellor's Office, the campus was surveyed in March of 1994.

Campus Climate Survey

of the document and their findings are included in a later section of this report. Several faculty members felt the document was racist which, upon close analysis, was proven not to be the case at all. Few understood the comparison surveys. Because of the number of "not applicable" answers and because of group meetings and discussions following the survey, a general rating of the campus appears to be from average to good regarding A researcher was hired to analyze the returned surveys and that summary begins on the following page. In addition, three sub-committees of the Student Equity Committee studied the tabulated results of each section analytical possibilities as the survey was formatted, but the committee will keep it for future follow up and

This section is formatted parallel to the first part of our Student Equity plan with Barriers, Activities, Responsible Parties, Funding, and Timeline. In many ways this becomes the most critical portion of the report, for as we improve climate, we will improve student success.

FACULTY LIFE (faculty, 2-7)

These questions asked for opinions on various aspects of faculty perceptions and interactions. The first question asked for approximate hours per week spent on various activities. As might be expected, faculty spent the most hours preparing for and teaching classes and the fewest hours discussing gender, racial, or ethnic issues with students and other faculty.

activities. In all 60 possible "Yes/No" items the responses were overwhelmingly positive, although on the research question Questions 2 through 12 dealt with appreciation by others of one's teaching skills; research; tenure decisions; relationships with other faculty; orientation for new faculty; types of perceived pressure; social interaction; and professional development and on several items relating to tenure, over half of the responses were "Don't Know/Not Applicable."

Questions 14 through 20 dealt with the respondent's perceptions of other faculty members. Once again, the responses were very positive, if the "Don't Know/Not Applicable" responses were discounted.

STAFF LIFE (staff, 2 - 8)

These questions asked for opinions on various aspects of interaction and perceptions with respect to department and campuswide staff colleagues. The first questions dealt with hours per week spent on various activities. Except for handling administrative matters, fewer than 20% of the responses indicated more than eight hours per week spent on any of 12 activities. Questions 2 through 14 dealt with appreciation by other staff members; evaluation of job performance; relationships with other staff members; orientation for new staff; types of perceived pressure; social interaction; professional development; and perceived effects of applying for another position. Again, discounting "Don't Know/Not Applicable" answers, the responses were overwhelmingly positive.

Questions 15 and 16 asked to categorize departmental staff members and supervisors by race, ethnicity, and gender.

Questions 17 through 22 dealt with the respondent's perceptions of other staff members. While most of the 56 possible responses were more than one-third "Don't Know/Not Applicable," nearly all of the "Yes/No" responses were positive.

INTERACTION WITH FACULTY (students, 2 - 4)

The first question asked for the ethnicity and gender of instructors with whom they had taken classes. Responses included:

14%	41%	84%
Native American:	Hispanic:	Both sexes:
14%	42%	%98
African-American:	Asian:	White/Caucasian:

The second question dealt with interaction with instructors. Over 88% marked "in class" and over 42% on a one-to-one basis outside of class.

The third question asked for personal attention by instructors. Over 41% received it from all, over 31% from those of other racial-ethnic groups, and over 43% from those of the opposite sex. Questions 4 through 8 dealt with ease of interaction with instructors and with students' perception of instructors' attitudes comfortable to teach. Of the 40 requested responses, 30 had more than a 30% "Don't Know/Not Applicable" response. Of toward certain groups of students; their needs, preparation for college work, those most fit to be on campus, and those most the "Yes/No" answers, 36 of the 40 had at least a 57% positive response, and the other four were more than 50% positive.

INTERACTION WITH STUDENTS (faculty, 7 - 8; staff, 8 - 10)

Questions 1 and 2 dealt with students who were advised, mentored, or served. All items for gender and racial-ethnic groups received over 90% "Yes" responses, again discounting "Not Applicable." Questions 3 and 4 dealt with perceptions of students most- and least-prepared for college. Both surveys had positive responses:

Questions 5 through 11 of the staff survey dealt with various types of interaction with students. While most items had a "Don't Know/Not Applicable" response, the remainder of responses were overwhelmingly positive.

THE CURRICULUM (student, 4 - 5)

The six questions dealt with the teaching of relevant topics, the contributions of various groups, and the discussion of multiple viewpoints on race, ethnicity, and gender. Six possible responses were given: "Almost Always, Frequently, Sometimes, Rarely, Almost Never, and Don't Know/Not Applicable." Counting the first three as positive and not counting the sixth responses, all but four of 23 items had positive responses above 75%, two were in the 70-74% range, and two were at 49%. The lowest two concerned the reluctance about discussing multiple viewpoints on race, ethnicity, and gender.

The questions on orientation programs yielded positive responses above 60% on all but three topics: diversity of the campus student body (52.4%), ways of interacting with people of different backgrounds (31.9%), and living arrangements (30.9%) Study groups in which they participated were most often developed by classmates (62.1%) and instructors (46.1%)

Of those who answered, the following guessed that at least 25% of their friends were Asian, 32.5%; Black, 7.5%; Hispanic, 17.5%; Native American, 8.2%; White 59.2%. On question 6, students reported interaction on campus with students from other racial-ethnic groups through classes (94.1%) and study groups (67.2%). All other situations were below 50%. ATTITUDES (students, 15 - 17; faculty, 18 - 20; staff, 21 - 26)

All three surveys had questions dealing with preferences for serving or being served with various groups, with special programs and policies, and with campus priorities. Questions on one or two surveys included general education courses, achieving greater equity in staffing, and with obstacles to achieving gender and racial-ethnic balances on the campus. All questions used a six-choice response from "Strongly Agree" to "Does Not Apply/No Opinion."

The first question concerned preferences of taking classes, teaching classes, or serving various categories of students or instructors. The students preferred "instructors knowledgeable about the class subject" (99%) and "good teacher" (97.7%). When instructors were categorized by groups, fewer than 25% of the responses either agreed or disagreed. Likewise the faculty and staff preferred students who were well-motivated (98.9% and 85.4%), academically well-prepared (97.0% and 79.5%), and in need of assistance to succeed in college (89.9% and 92.1%). All others had fewer than 30% "Agree/Disagree" responses.

responses varied from "multiple viewpoints on a particular topic" (91.5% and 96.4%) to "related specifically to women" (65.7% The student and faculty surveys asked for information that should be included in all general education courses. Positive and 61.2%). The staff survey suggested effective ways to meet student needs. The item "have all departments responsible for serving all students" had 88.7% positive response. Three suggestions for creating separate departments to meet unique needs of various groups had positive responses well below 50%. All three surveys included a question on attitudes towards special programs and policies. On both faculty and staff surveys the lowest positive 96.6%) and "maintenance of academic quality and recruitment of students from the entire spectrum of racial-ethnic groups" and one with personal priorities of the respondents. The highest positive responses for the first were "selecting the most qualified regardless of racial-ethnic groups" (95.8% and 93.3%) and "selecting those who are qualified and sensitive to students response was "enhancing the prestige of the campus" (55.3% and 34.3%). On the next question, personal priorities, the highest positive responses were "interact with students and personnel from the entire spectrum of racial-ethnic groups" (97.5% and (83.6% and 99+%). Another item appearing only on the staff survey, "have support in serving students," received a 99+%

On the student survey fewer than 30% expressed either an "Agree" or "Disagree" opinion on any item, and the Two questions appeared on the student and staff survey that dealt with obstacles to achieving gender and racial-ethnic balance positive responses ranged from 39.7% to 63.4%, with most between 44% and 55%. On the staff survey only three items had either an "Agree" or "Disagree" opinion above 50%, and only two had a positive response above 33%; these were below 50% The staff survey included two questions dealing with achieving greater equity on the staff with respect to women and to traditionally underrepresented racial-ethnic groups. On 19 of the 20 items, the "Agree/Disagree" responses totaled fewer than 50% of the respondents; the 20th item, reconceptualizing the definition of "qualified" when making hiring and promotional decisions" had 39 responses with 20 positive (51.2%) and 19 negative. The staff survey included a question on priorities for enhancing support of groups of students. "All students" received a 99+% positive response, and "retention of all students" scored 98.0%. The lowest positive responses were for "recruitment of students from specific racial-ethnic groups" (53.5%) and "recruitment of women students" (56.4%) The staff survey included a question on attitudes towards programs for groups traditionally underrepresented in higher education. Only two items received an "Agree/Disagree" response above 50%: "effective educationally" (91.9%) and "critical to the institution's mission" (80.0% positive). The last attitude question on the staff survey asked for level of agreement with 14 statements about the campus. Only five had a total response above 50%, and all of these had a positive response of at least 84%. The lowest positive response among the other nine items was "diversity of the administration" (71.0%).

DEMOGRAPHIC BACKGROUND (students, 17 - 19; faculty, 20 - 21; staff, 26 - 27)

The first question on all survey asked respondents to identify their racial-ethnic backgrounds, checking all that applied. Of the 13 categories the most frequently noted were:

Twelve questions were listed on the student survey only.

- The first asked for the highest educational level attained by each parent. According to the tabulator, there seemed to be some confusion; therefore, the results may not be valid.
- The second question asked for the respondent's primary language. Discounting 52 "no answers," English ranked first with 340 (76.1%). Vietnamese was second with 44 (9.8%). Eleven other languages were listed. In terms of serving large ethnic minorities, it may be noted that only 14 listed Spanish.
  - Two questions asked about living situations. The most frequent responses on both questions were "with my parent(s)
    - On the questions of respondent's age, of the 448 who answered, 111 (24.8%) were over 25 years of age.

Asked for semester of enrollment, 132 (29.7%) indicated fifth or greater numbers of semesters.

- Of the 444 responding students, 251 (56.5%) were enrolled in at least 12 units.
- Asked for hours working per week, 232 (46.5%) indicated more than 20 hours.
- Students listed 60 different majors or intended fields of study. The most frequent responses were Business (60), Undecided (32), Psychology (27), and Nursing (26). All others were noted fewer than 20 times.
- One hundred forty-eight students indicated attendance at other colleges and universities, and 55 different institutions were listed, including Cerritos (71); CSU Fullerton and CSU Long Beach (12 each); and Fullerton College (10). All others were listed fewer than ten times.
- The most common educational goal was Bachelor's Degree (200), followed by Associate's Degree (152 and Master's Degree (143) 10.
- Participation in campus organizations, teams, or clubs received 177 responses, including multiples. Athletic teams were most frequent (34)

Five questions appeared only on the faculty survey.

- The first question concerned academic rank, which probably is not relevant to a community college.
- The next question asked for percentage of time spent in various activities. As might be expected, "teaching" received by far the largest response.
- Forty-nine (22.0%) of the responding faculty have spent more than 20 years on the Cypress campus. Another 47 (21.1%) have been here between 11 and 20 years.
- Eighteen different academic departments, including all nine divisions, were listed.
- Of the 210 who indicated work status, two-thirds were full-time and one-third were part-time.

Five questions appeared only on the staff survey.

- Most of the respondents worked as support staff; four listed "administrator" and six "manager."
- indicated at least 40% devoted to enrolled students; no other group has as much as 15% of the respondents devoting Asked for approximate percentage of time devoted to various activities, approximately half of the respondents that much time to them.
- Six respondents have spent over 20 years on the campus; 23 others have been at Cypress between 11 and 20 years.
- Twenty-one different departments were listed, with none having as many as eight in one department 4.
- Full-time workers were 63, with six part-time and four no answers.

One final note: according to the tabulator, there were 480 variables on the student survey, 520 on the faculty survey, and 655 on the staff survey. "It is this observer's opinion that questionnaires of these lengths are too long when asking for

CAMPUS CLIMATE STUDENT RESPONSES

As can be seen in the summary of the Campus Climate Survey, students react very positively to the academic quality of Cypress College. Students are concerned that all precautions be taken to ensure that the continued excellence of instruction is maintained and that the college continue to develop multicultural courses and promote multiculturalism throughout the entire college curriculum. Although the student population seemed to be generally pleased with the climate and attitude of staff, faculty, and administration, there are concerns regarding graffiti, offensive slurs, and student-to-student, faculty-to-student, and staff-to-student racial-ethnic intolerance. Although this behavior is not pervasive, the goal of this campus is to eliminate discomfort in all areas of our campus by continued workshops, colloquia, and the distribution of educational materials regarding tolerance and sensitivity. An additional student concern was that of increased need for racial/ethnic role models among the staff and faculty. Even though facing a cutback in hiring, Affirmative Action will continue on this campus, and internships/future-teacher mentoring is being investigated as an alternative to our inability to hire full-time

CAMPUS CLIMATE FACULTY RESPONSES

The primary concern of the subcommittee on Faculty Barriers was the number of "not applicable" Cypress College. In addition, there are misconceptions about educational responsibilities regarding our changing demographics and reluctance to participate in activities stressing new teaching clear that there were needs for staff development workshops in multiculturalism for the faculty at and the ignorance of colleagues' ethnicity. By analyzing the number of "N/A's" it became very methodologies. The campus Administration, Senate, and Staff Development are making concerted efforts to promote workshops and colloquia dealing with multiculturalism and teaching/learning methodologies. Efforts have increased to purchase materials for our Library that relate to changing demographics, and our Multicultural Committee has representation from all campus constituencies actively involved in the education and promotion of diversity and multiculturalism. With the continued aid of Staff Development and Affirmative Action programs, the faculty of Cypress College will become vitally responsive to Student Equity.

The individuals listed on page 64 as responsible for evaluation will meet in early fall of each year to assess the progress made toward each listed goal and objective. This meeting will be convened as soon as possible after the data related to previous year enrollments, course completion, curriculum, committee action, degree and certificate completion, and ESL/Basic Skill completion have been summarized and distributed by the District Management Information System. These individuals will compile a summary report related to the progress toward the goals and objectives and submit that report to the College President and the Executive Vice President before the completion of fall term. If goals and objectives for the specified year have not been met, the individuals involved in the evaluation process will make recommendations to address the need. The reports, after review by the President, Executive Vice President, and the campus Budget and Planning Committee, will be disseminated to interested parties on campus.

Methodologies used for evaluating will include, but not be limited to:

- ♦ Data analysis related to

- Matriculation/orientation reports and data
- Reports of all programs related to support for underrepresented students, such as those listed in Appendix C
- ♦ Participation reports for Staff Development activities related to meeting needs of underrepresented students
- ♦ Curriculum Committee actions related to course standards and rigor
- ♦ Interim Accreditation Report

Financial Aid

Requirements for Financial Aid Programs

There are essentially two kinds of financial aid — grants and loans. Grants do not have to be repaid, while loans do. What follows is a brief overview of the various types of financial aid that are available. Students are encouraged to visit the Financial Aid Office in the Health Science Building to learn about specific eligibility requirements. Call 714/826-2220, Ext. 114.

Board of Governors' Grant

This state grant is designed to help financially needy California residents by paying the full cost of enrollment excluding Associated Student and parking fees.

Federal Pell Grant

Federal Pell Grant funds are awarded to all undergraduate students who have an eligible financial need. Awards vary, depending on need and student enrollment. You may receive funds even as a part-time student.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity (FSEOG)

FSEOG awards are made to students in exceptional financial need who, without the grant, would be unable to continue their education. Awards may range from $200 to $2,000 per academic year.

Extended Opportunity Program and Services Grant (EOPS)

EOPS Grants are designed for residents of California from disadvantaged and low income backgrounds. To qualify, students must be enrolled in a minimum of 12 units per semester.

California Student Aid Commission Programs

The State of California offers three major grants. Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office each December but may not be filed before January 1 or after the first week of March.

- Cal Grant A: This grant is for students who are transferring to fouryear schools.
- Cal Grant B: This grant is awarded primarily to students from low income backgrounds who demonstrate financial need.
- Cal Grant C: This grant is for two-year vocational students only, and eligibility is based upon financial need and academic promise.

Federal Work Study Program (FWS)

FWS provides jobs for students who have a financial need and who must earn part of their educational expenses. Award amounts are determined by financial eligibility and the number of hours the student can reasonably work within his academic program.

Federal Stafford Student Loan Program

This is a long-term, low-interest loan program in which students borrow from participating banks, savings and loans, and other lending institutions. Repayment begins six months after the borrower ceases to be enrolled at least half-time. Loan rates vary and are offered at the interest rate current at the time of application.

Cash Loans

Cash Loans are available to students who are enrolled in at least six units and who are recipients of a Federal Pell Grant. These loans allow for the purchase of up to $100 worth of books and supplies at our Campus Bookstore. A payment schedule will be determined at the time the loan is approved.

Scholarships

There are approximately 150 scholarships available during the academic year for students who have completed at least one semester of study. Recipients are selected based on factors that are specified by the scholarship donor.

Bureau of Indian Affairs Grant (BIA)

BIA Grants are offered to students who are at least one-fourth American Indian, Eskimo or Aleut, as certified by a tribal group served by the Bureau of Indian Affairs. This grant is based solely on need.

Student Employment

Cypress College maintains a Student Employment Office for the convenience of students who are not "packaged" with financial aid. This office provides students with career information and assists them in securing full-time and part-time employment.

The Cypress College Student Employment Office receives notices of new jobs each day. This service is available to any student who is enrolled in six or more units.

Jobs offered through this service come from both local and regional businesses.

Veterans' Benefits

If the student is a United States military veteran, or the spouse or child of a disabled or deceased veteran, he/she may apply for Veterans' Benefits through the Veterans' Office located in the Admissions and Records Office. Grants are paid directly to the veteran after proof of enrollment and after an approved educational plan has been submitted to the Veterans' Administration by the student.

Physical and Emotional Health

Health Services

Student Health provides medical and psychological services to help students achieve and maintain optimum physical, mental and emotional health. Services are supported by the student health fee.

Services provided include assessment of health and illness problems, laboratory evaluation, x-ray referral, accident management and insurance follow-up for on-campus injuries, first aid, emergency care and health education.

Psychological counseling is also available. Appointments can be made at the Health Services Office. Services are short-term crisis intervention in nature.

Part-time licensed physicians and psychologists are available by appointment. Licensed professional nurses are available, full-time, for consultation and referral.

In addition, a group health and dental insurance policy that covers the student and dependents is also available for purchase. Brochures explaining those policies are available in the Health Center.

Laboratory services are available at reduced cost and some medications are dispensed. The Health Services Office is located on the first level of Gym II, across from the swimming pool.

Learning Resources

Learning Center

The Learning Center, located on the third floor of the Humanities Building, room H-303, provides an opportunity to improve academic skills in order to become a more successful college student.

All Cypress College students are eligible to use the Learning Center. They must have their library card, which is used for the Computerized Electronic Attendance System.

Students enrolled in college classes may be assigned to complete audio-tutorial, computer, and/or video materials in the Learning Center. These materials help students to learn, practice, and/or apply the concepts, ideas and strategies presented in their regularly scheduled courses. Foreign language, English, ESL, reading, health and nutrition, economics, and nursing are some of the disciplines that utilize the facility.

In addition, students may go to the Learning Center to use any of several individualized programs to improve academic skills such as study habits, vocabulary, spelling, and reading rate. Students may earn credit for independent study by signing up before the end of regular registration.

These self-paced programs are also available throughout the semester for those wishing to improve their skills on a non-credit basis.

Library

Cypress College maintains an inviting, modern, comfortable and technologically up-to-date library. Two floors of books and study places are arranged in open, spacious patterns, providing a pleasant and relaxed atmosphere for study and research. Services provided include reference, research guidance, library instruction, inter-library loan, reserve reading, individual study carrels, photocopiers and group study rooms. The entrance to the library is on the second floor of the Administration building.

Through special arrangements, students may check out books at Cal State Fullerton, as well as at Fullerton College, Golden West College and Orange Coast College. A free Library Guide is available. An electronic security system is in operation to protect the library collection.

Searches for books and other materials can be made from the on-line catalog accessible at terminals on both floors. The catalog can also be searched from any personal computer with a modem by using an instruction sheet available from the library. Students can also determine, on the screen, whether a particular book is in the library or checked out.

Periodical research can be done from several heavily used data bases—computerized versions of periodical indexes such as Reader's Guide—as well as special subject area indexes in Biography, Business, Education, General Science, Humanities and Social Science. These indexes are available at CD Rom work stations and allow students to create a tailor-made bibliography at no cost.

The student picture identification card (ASB card) is required to check out material. Due to heavy use, magazine and newspapers must remain in the library. Most other library material can be checked out for two weeks, although students are urged to return materials as soon as possible, as a consideration to others waiting to use them.

For information, call 714/826-220, Ext. 124.

Math Center

The Mathematics Learning Center, located in room 209 of the Science/ Engineering/Math Building, is an area where students may study mathematics, chemistry, computer science, physics, and engineering assignments.

Students using the Math Center is to sign in at the computer (the hours recorded provide funding for the Center) and sign out on the computer when leaving.

When assistance is needed, help is close at hand. A mathematics instructor and qualified, experienced tutors are available for help on a first-come, first-served basis.

The Math Center has a videotape player on which tapes about algebra and arithmetic may be viewed. There is also a collection of reference books for math and physical science. Because students must share the tutors with everyone in the room, the most help is available when the room is least crowded—during afternoons or on Fridays.
