ABSTRACT

The Texas Interagency Council on Early Childhood Intervention (ECI) serves 23,000 children a year and funds 71 comprehensive programs and 12 Milestones programs throughout Texas. Comprehensive programs offer a variety of services to help families who have babies and toddlers with disabilities or delays, providing services in the home or integrated community settings. Milestones programs identify newborn babies who may need further evaluation and help link parents with primary health care providers. This directory lists ECI Comprehensive and Milestones programs by city in Texas. Program names, addresses, telephone numbers, and fax numbers are provided, as well as service area information. The guide also provides information on referral and eligibility and definitions of terms used in the directory. Supplementary information includes Texas telephone numbers of various professional groups, a listing of other state and national resources, and a listing of Texas research and demonstration projects impacting children in Texas with developmental delays. About ECI

The Texas Interagency Council on Early Childhood Intervention (ECI) serves Texas families who have babies and toddlers (children, birth to age 3) with disabilities or delays. Currently, services are provided at no cost to the family.

The agency serves more than 23,000 children a year and funds 71 comprehensive programs and 12 Milestones programs throughout Texas. ECI received more than $42 million in state and federal funds (IDEA Part H, Public Law 102-119) for fiscal year 1997.

ECI services are delivered through local community programs funded by ECI. Some of these programs also receive funding from the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, the Texas Education Agency or private organizations, such as Easter Seal.

Texas ECI families act as partners with the agency at the state level and with ECI programs at the local level, helping children with disabilities or delays reach their potential. The agency's council, which is the governing board of the statewide system of services, consists of 3 parents of children with disabilities or delays and 6 representatives from the Texas Departments of Health, Human Services, Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Protective and Regulatory Services, the Texas Education Agency, and the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

Families are also represented by a 22-member advisory committee whose members are nominated from local ECI programs, advocacy groups, parent support groups, and other entities. At the local level, families work with ECI program staff on a team to develop an Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP), outlining services for their child and family. Programs also may have local boards consisting of family and community members.

Comprehensive Programs

ECI comprehensive programs offer a variety of services to help families who have babies and toddlers with disabilities or delays. Services are provided in the home and/or community, in locations with children who do not have delays.

Together, families and ECI program staff create a service plan and choose the appropriate services for a child. Staff then provide or arrange for these services, such as physical therapy, or special instruction, according to the child's needs. Together, families and ECI program staff help children enrolled in ECI Comprehensive Programs to reach their potential.

Milestones Programs

Milestones programs identify newborn babies who may need further evaluation. Programs also help parents maintain a link with their primary health care providers. Parents of newborns with a very low birth weight are interviewed at the hospital before discharge and are offered the opportunity to enroll in the local Milestones program. Services are provided to eligible babies at no cost to the family.

Referring a child

When should you refer?

What the law says:

The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA, P.L. 102-119) is the federal law that sets up a system of services throughout the United States to serve children, birth to age 3, with disabilities or delays. The Texas Interagency Council on Early Childhood Intervention (ECI) is the state agency that governs that system of services and programs in Texas.

The law requires that professionals refer children for services within two working days of determining a delay or disability.

This directory of Texas Early Childhood Intervention programs was published to help you quickly find your local ECI program when you suspect a child might need services.

How should you refer?

Call the:

ECI Comprehensive program or Milestones program near you

See the list of programs beginning on page 8 to find the program that serves your area. The program will screen children for potential eligibility at no cost to families.

or call the:

ECI State Office at (800) 250-2246

The State Office in Austin provides an information and referral service regarding ECI and will refer you to a program in your community or across the country.

Finding programs

This directory lists each ECI Comprehensive and Milestones program by the city in Texas where its main office is located. Program names, addresses, phone and fax numbers are provided, as well as service area information.

To find the ECI Comprehensive program that serves your area, refer to the map on page 10 and the program list that follows it. Locate your city, or the largest city nearest you, in your region of the state and contact the program listed. A program list, by county, begins on page 11.

To find the ECI Milestones program that serves your area, turn to page 8 and locate your city or the largest city nearest you and contact the program listed.

You can also refer a child and find out about programs and services by calling the ECI Care Line at (800) 250-2246.

People in Texas with hearing or speech impairments can call Relay Texas, (800) 735-2989, using telecommunication devices (TDDs), to contact the ECI Care Line or organizations listed in this directory. There is also a TDD line at the ECI State Office, (512) 424-6770.

Eligibility

After referral for ECI services, the child is evaluated by an interdisciplinary team. The team includes the child's family and ECI program staff members who have professional experience in a variety of fields, such as education, physical therapy, speech-language pathology, or social work.

If the child is eligible, as determined by a medical diagnosis, atypical development, or developmental delays, program staff and the child's family will develop an Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP), which will outline ongoing services for the child and the family.

If the child is not eligible for ECI, program staff will recommend other appropriate resources to the family.

Comprehensive programs

- Children are eligible for ECI Comprehensive services if they are under age 3 and documented as having delays, have a diagnosed physical or mental condition that has a high probability of resulting in delays, or exhibit atypical development. A child with delays must show a significant delay, beyond acceptable variations in normal development, in one or more of the following areas:

- cognitive
 - gross or fine motor skills
 - language or speech
 - social or emotional
 - self-help skills
- A child who may perform within the appropriate age range on testing instruments, but whose behavior or behavior patterns are atypical, is also eligible.

- Children are eligible if they have a medically diagnosed physical or mental condition with a high probability of resulting in delays. These conditions include, but are not limited to:

- Down syndrome and other chromosomal abnormalities
- sensory impairments, including vision and hearing
- inborn errors of metabolism
- microcephaly
- failure to thrive
- seizure disorders
- fetal alcohol syndrome

Milestones programs

Children are eligible for Milestones services if they weigh 1500 grams (about 3 1/2 pounds) or less at birth and do not otherwise qualify for ECI comprehensive services or any other publicly funded service coordination program.

Anyone may refer a child for ECI services.
ECI programs determine eligibility.

Comprehensive services

Once a family is enrolled in an ECI Comprehensive program, they will receive a Family Rights Handbook, which outlines the rights of families whose children are enrolled in ECI and what services to expect.

Service delivery

ECI services are provided in group settings or individually, depending on how a child benefits most. Services can be delivered in:

- the home
- community
- settings with children who do not have delays in their development

ECI Comprehensive services are:

- provided to children from birth to age 3, who have disabilities or delays
- currently provided at no cost to the family, regardless of income
- available to children who are Texas residents

Comprehensive services are included in the Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP), according to the needs of each child and family. The plan includes some of the following services as appropriate:

Assistive Technology Services - a service that directly assists a child with a disability in the selection, acquisition, or use of an assistive technology device.

Audiology Services - screening, evaluation and assessment of hearing, including range, nature and degree of hearing loss and communication functioning. Referral for medical and other services necessary for the habilitation or rehabilitation of children with auditory impairment. Provision of auditory training, aural rehabilitation, speech reading and listening device orientation and training. Provision of services for the prevention of hearing loss. Determination of the child's need for individual amplification, including selecting, fitting and dispensing appropriate listening and vibrotactile devices, and evaluating the effectiveness of those devices.

Early Identification, Screening and Assessment - procedures to identify children who might be eligible; to evaluate them developmentally and to determine their strengths and needs.

Family Counseling - guidance for the family, such as help from trained personnel to improve child and family interaction.

Family Education - training and information about child development, the child's delay and how to help the child.

Home Visits - services provided in the home.

Health Services - assistance to enable a child to benefit from other services, including: clean intermittent catheterization, tracheostomy care, tube feeding, the changing of dressings or ostomy collection bags, and consultation with service providers concerning special health care needs.

Medical Services - diagnostic or evaluation services by a licensed physician to determine a child's developmental status and the need for early intervention services. ECI programs do not pay for other medical services.

Nursing - health status assessments, nursing care to prevent health problems or improve functioning, administration of medications, and regimens prescribed by a licensed physician.

Nutrition - services provided by a dietitian or nutritionist who determines the child's nutritional status.

Occupational Therapy - services to help the child learn skills needed for play and daily living, including designing and providing assistive devices to help the child.

Physical Therapy - services to identify movement problems and to help prevent or reduce movement problems.

Psychological Services - include counseling, analysis of functioning, and interpretation of behavior.

Service Coordination - (previously called Case Management) - help in obtaining or accessing the services needed by the child and family, providing information about ECI services, and finding other services in the community.

Social Work Services - assessments of the child in the family setting. Counseling and social skill building activities.

Special Instruction - helping the child develop learning skills.

Speech/Language Pathology - helping the child who is behind in understanding language or in speaking.

Transportation - coverage of travel costs that are necessary to enable an eligible child to receive services.

Vision Services - screening, evaluation and assessment of vision. Referral for medical or other professional services necessary for the habilitation or rehabilitation of visual functioning. Communication skills training, orientation and mobility training, visual training, independent living skills training, and additional training necessary to activate visual motor abilities.

Comprehensive Programs

Finding ECI Comprehensive Programs

The map of Texas below includes some of the major cities where ECI Comprehensive programs are located. A regional list of programs begins on page 16.

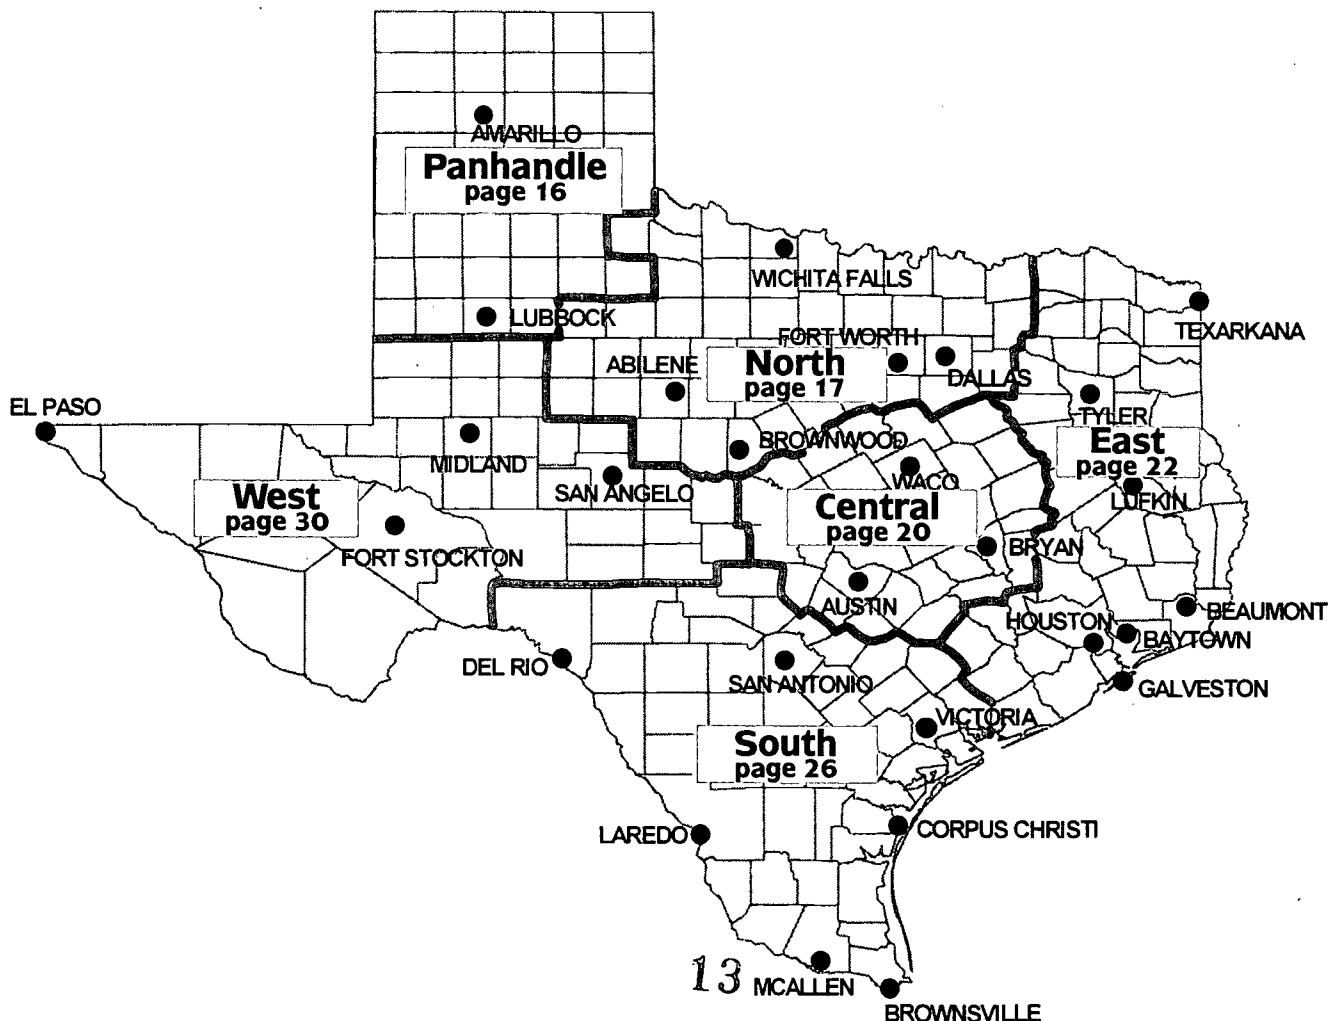

ECI programs are listed under the city in the region where their main office is located. Some programs have satellite offices where referrals can be made.

Counties served by each program are also listed. In some cases, more than one program serves a particular county. These counties are multi-served, programs which serve them are indicated by an asterisk. These programs have designated service areas within multi-served counties to ensure each child in Texas is served. Service areas may be listed by zip codes, school districts, or other boundaries. Service area information is listed in detail below the program.

To find the program that serves your area, locate your city, or the largest city nearest you within your geographic region of Texas, and contact the program listed. Or, use the following program list, by county.

If you have any questions about what areas are served by a particular program, or if you are referring a child to another state, or across the country, please call the ECI Care Line at (800) 250-2246.

Note: Some programs' service areas cross regional boundaries
