ABSTRACT

This manual is a guide to an interactive training program designed to address key skills necessary in today's high performance workplace. The module is intended to meet the learning needs of production workers who may have limited basic skills or literacy. This module, which addresses making suggestions, encourages and prepares workers to share their suggestions and become active participants in formal and informal suggestion programs. Workers using the module learn to assess the value of their ideas, and present their suggestions convincingly. This module contains six 1-1/2 hour lessons that cover the following topics: (1) looking for better ways of doing things; (2) getting the information you need; (3) the importance of planning; (4) designing clear and concise messages; (5) putting ideas on paper: preparing presentations; and (6) selling your ideas. The training manual includes an instructor's guide that contains activities for each lesson, transparency masters and student handouts, information sheets, teaching suggestions, and pre- and posttests; and a supervisor's guide that contains lessons on the supervisor's role and making suggestions: presentations. ## ▼ An Introduction

---

Module Description: One key responsibility of team members is to make suggestions about improvements they see for doing their jobs. Unfortunately, team members face several obstacles in their attempts to fulfill this responsibility:

- One is that many employees are not accustomed to discussing their ideas with others (especially with supervisors and upper management). These employees find sharing their suggestions uncomfortable and difficult.
- Another obstacle that employees face is the inability to find the information and the data they need to (1) support their ideas or suggestions and (2) show others how the suggestions will work.
- And then, even if employees have supporting information, they often face a third obstacle, the need to communicate the information effectively to the right person, that is, to someone who can do something with the information.

This module covers all the steps needed to make suggestions and addresses these common obstacles. Employees who complete this module will know how to put the pieces together and will find it easier to actually make suggestions as situations arise on the job.

Training Goal: To teach students the steps they must follow to make suggestions that can be implemented in their organizations.

Training Objectives: By the end of this module, students will be able to:

1. Understand how to identify areas of improvement and how to look for better ways of doing things.
2. Find the information they need to support their suggestion ideas.
3. Understand how to plan making their suggestions.
4. Design clear and concise messages.
5. Propose suggestions to their managers or supervisors.

Making Suggestions

Turning Ideas Into Action

Lesson 1

Looking for Better Ways of Doing Things

▼ Lesson Description

---

This lesson covers the basic concepts of making suggestions. Many students understand the concept of external customer and supplier, but do not think of internal departments or internal people as customers or suppliers, and these concepts are introduced in this lesson. In addition, the lesson attempts to get students to begin to think about ways to improve their jobs that can be turned into a formal suggestion in future lessons.

5. Explain the distinction between external customers and internal customers. Begin, for example, by saying:

"Each person has a customer and a supplier. The customer is the person to whom we hand off something when we finish. We can have external customers (for example, the customer who buys our product), and we can also have internal customers (for example, the next person individual or the next department in the process)."

Ask each student to give an example of one external customer. Then introduce the concept of internal customers by saying, for example:

"Let's say that I work for a company that makes widgets and that the widgets are sold in grocery stores. My external customer is the grocery store buyer who buys the widgets. If I work in the order department, then my internal customer might be the warehouse person who pulls the item. He is the person I hand the order off to. And his internal customer might be the shipping person who ships the order to the store."

6. Explain the distinction between external suppliers and internal suppliers:

"A supplier is someone who hands something off to us. We can have external suppliers and internal suppliers. An external supplier is someone from outside the company that supplies us with something. For example, if we use special plastic material to package our widgets, the plastic material company is an external supplier."

Glossary Words

1. Brainstorming - coming up with as many ideas as you can.
2. Customer - someone to whom you hand off something
3. Eliminate - to get rid of.
4. Improve - to make better.
5. Process - the act of carrying out or going through a series of actions.
6. Resources - assets, materials
7. Suggestion - an idea or a plan.
8. Supplier - someone who hands something off to you.
9. Task - a job, an amount of work which must be done.
10. Waste - trash or rubbish.

▼ Opening: (continued)

"An internal supplier is a person or a department that hands something to us. For example, the order department in the widget company is an internal supplier to the warehouse, and the warehouse is an internal supplier to the shipping department."

ASK students if they can name any of their external suppliers.

7. Tell students to introduce themselves to the rest of the class. Go around the room and have them introduce themselves:

By saying-

Who they are

Where they work

What they do

And by naming-

One of their internal supplier

One of their internal customers

8. say, "Now we know each other a little better, and we know who our customers and suppliers are."
9. Project "Glossary Words" on the overhead. Explain that every class will begin with a list of glossary words. The definitions will be given at the beginning of the class. At the end of the class, the group will review the definitions of the words.

▼ Activities*▼ First Activity: 20 Minutes

1. Ask the class to define the word suggestion.
2. On a whiteboard, a flip chart, or a blank transparency, write "Why do you think it is hard to make suggestions?" Then read the question aloud to the class.
3. Write their suggestions and ideas on a whiteboard, a flip chart, or a blank transparency.
4. Ask, "We can see from our list that it is difficult to make suggestions; however, why do you think it is important to make suggestions?"
5. Explain that in the next six sessions students will learn ways that will make it easier for them to make suggestions.

▼ First Activity: (continued)

6. Stress this point: "You must know your important job tasks before you can make suggestions on how to improve them!"
7. Group students into teams of 2 or 3.
8. Distribute a blank piece of paper to each person. Tell each person to write down his or her 2 or 3 most important tasks.
9. Tell each person to share his or her list with the others in the group.
10. Walk around and help any students who are having trouble.
11. Reassemble the class and ask for volunteers to share their lists with the whole class.
12. Summarize by explaining that we now understand our job process better. We know who our internal suppliers are, and we've identified 2 or 3 of our most important job tasks, and we know who are external suppliers are.

▼ Second Activity: 25 Minutes

1. Ask, "How do you come up with ideas for making suggestions?"
2. Distribute "9 Dots".
3. Tell the group to connect all 9 dots using 4 straight lines without lifting the pencil or retracing a line. (Give the group 2 or 3 minutes to figure this out.)

Answer:

4. ASK someone who has solved the puzzle to show her or his solution to the rest of the class.
5. ASK, "Why did you have such a hard time figuring out this puzzle?" EXPLAIN that most people assume we must stay inside the dots. However, sometimes we have to "think outside the dots or outside the lines" to come up with better ways of doing things. SAY: "Good ideas aren't always big changes! Sometimes the littlest change makes the biggest difference."
6. GROUP the class get into teams of 4 or 5.
7. ASK, "What is brainstorming?" Share this definition: brainstorming means "coming up with as many ideas as you can." EXPLAIN: "There are no bad ideas during the brainstorming process. No one judges the ideas until later, after all the ideas are suggested."

8. ASK the groups to brainstorm ideas for what we can look for when we are trying to find ways to improve our jobs. Remind the groups of the list of most important job tasks from the last activity. Explain that each group will present its ideas to the class.
9. walk around the room to help any group having difficulty.
10. When the groups are finished, walk around and ask each group to read one item from its list. continue until all groups have shared their complete lists. write all the items on a master list.
11. Make sure that your master list includes ways to:
  - Eliminate unnecessary steps in work processes.
  - Eliminate wasted resources.
  - Eliminate or correct steps where errors or problems frequently occur.
  - Make students' jobs easier.
  - Help students' customers or suppliers.
  - Improve quality.
  - Save money.
  - Save time.
12. ASK, "What do we do once we find an area we think we can improve?"
Answer: "We make a suggestion to our supervisor or lead."

Turning Ideas Into Action

Lesson 2

Getting The Information You Need

▼ Lesson Description

---

One of the first steps in making a suggestion is to identify what sources there are to get the information you need. Once you have found that source(s) you must then verify the information you receive. This is a problem with many suggestions. The person making the suggestion relies on a source as accurate without verifying the n information being used.

This lesson will 1) teach the student how to find information sources and 2) demonstrate the importance of verifying that information.

▼ Activities

▼ First Activity: 20 Minutes

1. Tell the group, "Now that you have some ideas of ways to improve your jobs, lets begin working on implementing your ideas."

2. Group students into "Suggestion Teams" (no more than 4 on a team). Tell them to form groups with people from the same department or the same product line.
3. Explain: Each "Suggestion Team" should choose from the 'Improving Your Job' assignment one idea that everyone in the group wants to work on—an idea that you could present to your supervisor, lead, or manager. You will be using this idea for the rest of the module, and in the last session you will present that idea to your lead or supervisor.
4. ASK the groups to assemble and to begin brainstorming for an idea.

Getting the Information You Need

For each question below, write down (a) the information you would need and (b) where you would find that information. Follow the example.

Example: What information would you need if you were going to pay your phone bill?
Where would you find that information?

Answer: You would need your telephone bill. You could visit until you get it in the mail, or you could call the telephone company to find out how much you owed.

1. What information would you need if your child needs a computer for school?

▼ Activities*▼ Second Activity: 20 Minutes

1. Discuss the importance of getting all the information students need to support their suggestions.
2. Distribute “Getting the Information You Need” to each student.
3. Tell students to fill out the worksheet individually. walk around to help any students who are having trouble.

Note these possible answers to “Getting the Information You Need”:

1. You would want to find out (a) the kinds of computers your child's school suggests and (b) the best computer for your child's needs. You would find that information by (a) calling your child's teacher, (b) talking to someone who knows about computers, reading about computers in a computer magazine, or (c) checking other reference materials.
2. You would need the recipe for the tamales. You would ask your mother for it.
3. You would need a parts log (if you've been keeping such information yourself) or a computer printout (if that information is stored on a computer).
4. You would need to find some kind of log or record of injuries for your department or the company. The company nurse, Human Resources, or possibly your supervisor might have that information.
5. You would need the MSDS sheets. You would need to know where that information is kept in your company.

4. Discuss the handout answers. Ask, “What happens if you don’t get the information you need to make your suggestion?”
5. Explain that sometimes you might not have or know all the information you need.

▼ Activities▼ Third Activity: 15 Minutes

Instructor: If you need more time, cover the information but skip the activity.

1. Discuss the importance of finding sources of information and verifying information.
2. Explain that co-workers are one source of information; co-workers provide us with much verbal information. Tell students that verbal information often presents problems and that they will complete an activity that demonstrates some of the typical problems.
3. Choose three volunteers. (Instructor: Be sure to choose people who can understand and then repeat a story that they hear!) Then ask Volunteer 1 to wait a moment while you ask Volunteers 2 and 3 to leave the room. When they have left, read the following story to Volunteer 1:

"Yesterday, I was driving past McDonalds on Main Street when I saw an accident. A blue truck had hit a black convertible. The two drivers were standing next to the cars and were yelling at each other. I think I overheard one of them threaten the other one. They were blocking the intersection."

(Instructor: For beginning audiences, skip the next paragraph!)

"Just when I stopped, three police cars pulled up, and one of the police officers went over to break up the fight between the two drivers. The second police officer went into the middle of the intersection to direct the traffic. The third police officer came over to my car and asked me to give her as much information as I could about the accident I had seen."

"Finally, after about 15 minutes they moved the cars out of the street, and I was able to leave."

4. After reading the story to Volunteer 1, ask Volunteer 2 to come into the room. Now ask Volunteer 1 to repeat the story to Volunteer 2. Repeat this process with Volunteer 2 repeating the story to Volunteer 3. Finally, ask Volunteer 3 to tell the story to the instructor and to the class.
5. Thank all three volunteers and ask them to sit. Now reread the original story to the class. Ask the class, "How did the story change after it was told four times?"
6. Explain that verbal information, things heard "through the grapevine," may not be accurate. Say, "You may want to check to make sure it is correct. As you just saw, information may change when it is passed from person to person."

Turning Ideas Into Action

Lesson 3

The Importance of Planning

▼ Lesson Description

---

An important element in a successful suggestion is including the benefit not only to the employee making the suggestion but also the benefit to the person to whom the suggestion is being made, the department and the company. This lesson will assist the employee in determining this benefit by getting the student to begin to think about this concept as well as how to determine simple cost savings.

▼ Objectives

By completing this lesson, students will be able to:

1. Identify appropriate people to give suggestions to.
2. Define WIIFM.
3. Understand and Identify supporting information.

▼ Activities*▼ Opening: 10 Minutes

1. Welcome students.
2. ASK students what information they found for their suggestions.
3. Project "Glossary Words" on the overhead. Discuss the definitions.
4. ASK, "Do you have all the information you need to make a suggestion?"

▼ Activities*▼ First Activity: 10 Minutes

1. Explain that when you make a suggestion, your first step is to identify the correct person to tell the suggestion to.
2. ASK, "Whom would you make the suggestion to in the following situations?"
  - a. You have an idea to redecorate a room in your house." (Possible answers: Your spouse; your landlord, if appropriate.)
  - b. You have an idea how to improve your child's work at school." (Possible answer: Your child's teacher.)
  - c. You want to change your will." (Possible answer: A lawyer)
  - d. You figured out a faster way to get to work." (Possible answer: Co-workers who live near you.)
  - e. You know someone who would be perfect for a job opening at (company name)." (Possible answer: Human Resources)
  - f. You discover a better way to do your job." (Possible answer: Your supervisor)
  - g. You have a great idea for the company picnic." (Possible answer: Human Resources)
3. Explain that a worker's ability to identify the right person to make a suggestion to is part of being successful. "Sometimes the right person is your lead. Sometimes it's your spouse. Sometimes it's someone else."
4. ASK, "What might happen if you make the suggestion to the wrong person?"
5. ASK, "How can you find out who the right person is?"

▼ Activities*▼ Second Activity: 25 Minutes

1. Write "WIIFM" on a flip chart or whiteboard. Say, "It's pronounced "wiffem" and it stands for 'What's In It For Me?'"
2. Explain, "Once you identify whom to make the suggestion to, you have to think about WIIFM!"
3. Now ask, "What do think this means?"
4. Say, "Let's pretend an engineer has just told you that she has changed one of your procedures. I'm going to read two different ways the engineer may tell you the information; then I'm going to ask you, 'What is the difference between the two statements from the engineer?' Here are the two statements:"

Statement 1: "Here's a new procedure. You should be using it starting today."

Statement 2: "I'm sure you are aware of the amount of scrap we have had lately on the line. I know how frustrating this must be for you and everyone in your department. That's why we changed the procedure. We think the new procedure will eliminate the problems you have been having and make things much easier for you. Here is the new procedure. ### Case Study Return on Investment

You work in a manufacturing company. You operate a machine that shapes small pieces of plastic. The machine automatically bags the pieces correctly by number and then seals the bags.

When each bag is full, it falls into a bin. When the bin is full, you have to stop the machine and empty the bin into a bigger bin in the front of the room. After you empty the bin, you must start the machine and begin again. This takes about 5 minutes.

Recently the engineers in your company fixed the machines in your area so they would produce more parts than before. You are spending more and more time emptying out the bins. In fact, you have been emptying the bins at least 10 times a day.

Right now you are making about 120 bags an hour. You think that if you had bigger bins, your productivity would be higher because you wouldn't be spending so much time emptying the bins. You want to make this suggestion to your supervisor.

1. How much time do you spend each day emptying the bins? (10 empties a day x 5 minutes for each)
2. If you had to empty the bins only 5 times a day, how much time would you save? (10 x 5) - (5 x 5)
3. If you had to empty the bins only 5 times a day, how many more bags could you produce in one day?
4. How many more bags could you produce in one year if you worked 250 days?
5. If there are 5 people in your department and you all produce about the same number of bags, how many more bags could your department produce in one year?

8. SAY, "Sometimes a little thing can make a big difference!"
9. ASK, "What other things would be considered a return on investment but not necessarily cost savings?" (Possible answers: reduced accidents, increased morale, better working conditions, improved service, etc.)

Turning Ideas Into Action

Lesson 4
Designing Clear and Concise Messages

Lesson Description

---

Among the hindrances employees face in writing suggestions is their limited knowledge of writing "rules" and their equally limited writing experience. This lesson focuses on developing students' drafting, editing, and proofreading skills. Students will then take those basic writing skills and discuss how to design clear and concise messages that are appropriate for the audience.

Objectives

By completing this lesson, students will be able to:

1. Identify the steps in the writing process.
2. Explain the importance of using words that are clear, specific, and correct.
3. Identify the appropriate audience.
4. Understand the importance of designing simple sentences.

Activities

First Activity: 15 Minutes

1. Project “The Writing Process.” Explain the meaning of process. Ask students to identify some typical processes that they follow every day (possible answers: “baking cookies, driving, getting ready for work,” etc.). For each suggested process, ask the student to name a few steps in that process (in the “baking cookies” example, two steps might be “gathering the ingredients” and “mixing the ingredients”). Discuss how knowing the steps in a process helps you use that process effectively.

2. Explain that writing too is a process. Stress how knowing the steps in the writing process helps you use that process effectively.

3. Introduce the first step, drafting. Discuss the need for planning what we write. Tell students the first step in the writing process is developing a first draft.

Explain: “A first draft is your first try at writing something. When you are writing your first draft, don’t worry about spelling or how you say it. The idea is to get your ideas down on the paper. You’ll fix it later!”

4. Introduce editing. Say, “The second step in the writing process is editing—your chance to fix it. Even professional writers do not write a perfect message the first time. The very best writers always reread their first drafts and edit their sentences. They look for ways to make sure the reader will understand the message.”

5. Stress how editing simplifies the writing process! Say, "Editing gives you a chance to correct errors, rephrase sentences, choose words that are more appropriate, etc.! It provides you with an opportunity to check your work and improve it!" Say, "The professionals edit. Why not copy the professionals?"
6. Say, "As you edit, you change words and phrases, and you correct any errors you find. Then you retype or recopy the draft."
7. Introduce proofreading. Say, "The third step in the process is proofreading." Explain that proofreading is a final check, "your last chance to check spelling, dates, math, etc., before you send your suggestion."
8. Review the three steps in the writing process. Reinforce the key concept by saying, "Using these three steps—following the process—will help you be a better writer."
9. Say, "Now that you know about the writing process, let's talk about what information you need to include."

▼ Activities▼ Second Activity: 25 Minutes

1. ASK, “Have you ever tried to explain something to someone and later on became angry with yourself because you left out something important?” EXPLAIN that we all leave out facts and details at times. Then say, “But when we are trying to get across an important idea or make a key suggestion, we want to make sure we do not overlook important details. We can do that by planning what we are going to say and by editing our message to check for anything we left out.”
2. ASK, “How do you know what is important and what is not?” Then say, “It is important to consider the WIFEM. What’s in it for the person we are making the suggestion to? What does he or she need to know in order to make a decision? Keeping that person in mind is the key to planning—and the key to editing.”
3. EXPLAIN, “The important points you want to get across are called the main points. The main points are the most important things in your message—the points you want to let the audience know. The main points will be different depending on whom we are making the suggestion to.”

Making Suggestions
Lesson 4: Designing Clear and Concise Messages

What is important?

You have a suggestion to improve the way your product is made. Specifically, you want to combine some of the steps you take to make the product.

You think your suggestion will have a number of benefits. You think that it will:

- Save time producing the product.
- Make the process easier.
- Increase productivity.
- Increase quality (because there are fewer steps, there should be less of a chance to make mistakes).
- Increase morale in your department.

You decide to present this idea to a couple of different people. Which of the above benefits would you want to include if you were presenting the idea to:

4. Ask, “Why will the main points be different depending on who we are making the suggestion to?”

Answer: Because each person will need and will want to know different things. We want to make sure to include the information the person we are communicating with needs and wants to know.

5. Discuss “What Is Important?” Pair off students to work together on this exercise. Tell them to keep in mind what the person whom they are making the suggestion to needs and wants to know.

1. Review the importance of including the information the receiver needs to know as well as designing clear and concise messages.
2. Ask the groups to complete “What Is the Idea?” by the next class.

3. Distribute “An Invitation”.

Note: that students need approximately 30 minutes at the beginning of the last class to prepare before the visitors come; therefore, the visitors should be invited only to the last hour of the class.

4. If time permits, help students fill out their invitations and encourage them to give the invitations to their supervisors, leads, managers, or engineers.

Instructor: If two or more students report to the same supervisor, they can give one invitation from all of them. Students may also give invitations to more than one person (for example, one to their supervisor and one to an engineer.) It is important that students invite people who would be impacted by their suggestions.

5. Project “Glossary Words” on the overhead. Review the definitions.
6. Say good-bye.

▼ Lesson Description

---

The purpose of this lesson is to prepare students to make their presentations. Students complete their company's suggestion form (this lesson includes a generic form for students whose companies have no standard suggestion form). Then students follow a recommended outline to prepare their presentations effectively.

▼ Activities▼ Opening: 10 Minutes

Instructor: Students often find it difficult to meet between classes to prepare for their presentations. If possible, you may want to include an extra class to allow them ample time to prepare their presentations.

1. Greet students and welcome them back to class.
2. Ask the Suggestion Teams to discuss their answers to “What Is the Idea?” from the last class session.
3. Distribute and Project “Glossary Words”. Explain that you will be discussing these words during the lesson.
4. Ask, “What are some different ways you can make suggestions?”
5. Explain, “Today we will be discussing (a) how you can use forms to make your suggestions and (b) how you can tell someone your suggestions.”

Employee Suggestion Form

Please type or print. Use a separate form for each suggestion, and submit the completed form to your supervisor. All suggestions will be acknowledged in a timely manner. If your suggestion is implemented, an appropriate award will be given.

▼ First Activity: (continued)

5. Tell students, "We have invited your leads, supervisors, and managers to attend the class. In that class, you will be giving presentations about your suggestions. Today you will prepare for those presentations."
6. Group students into their Suggestion Teams. Distribute a copy of the company's suggestion form to each team (or substitute the "Employee Suggestion Form").
7. say, "You should already have all the information you need to make your suggestions. Now you just need to put the suggestion on paper and present it."
8. Show students how to fill out the form. Tell them they will use all the information from the last four classes. Help the groups fill out their forms.

Presentation Outline

1. What is the suggestion you are making?
2. What happened (or is happening) that caused you to come up with this suggestion?
3. Where did you get the information you needed to make this suggestion? What sources did you use? How did you verify the accuracy of the information?
4. Think about the WIFIRM for the people in the audience. What is the benefit to them, their department, or the company? What is the return on investment? How did you figure it out?
5. What other information would be important for the people in the audience to know?
6. What visuals (charts, demonstrations, samples, etc) can you show to prove your point or make it clearer?
7. Who is going to be presenting the information?
8. How are you planning to present the information?

1. Explain that students now have all the information they need; thus they can begin preparing their presentations for the next class.

2. Distribute "Presentation Outline". Review the important points to cover in the presentation.
3. Explain, "How well you present your suggestion will have an impact on how the suggestion is received. If the audience is impressed with your presentation, they will view your suggestions more favorably. It is the same with a written presentation. If it is clear and simple and neat, it will make a better impression."
4. Distribute blank transparencies or flip chart paper and pens for presentations. Ask student to decide how they want to present their suggestions to the class and to the visitors. Recommend that students use the "Presentation Outline" to guide them in preparing their suggestions.
5. walk around to assist groups that need help.

Improving Our Jobs

There are lots of ways you can improve your jobs.

For example, you might think about ways to:

Eliminate unnecessary steps in work processes.

Eliminate or correct steps where errors or problems are occurring frequently.

Make your job easier.

Help your customers or suppliers.

Improve quality.

Save money.

Save time.

What are some specific ways you can think of to improve your job?

---

---

---

---

---

List one or two key suggestions to improve your job—suggestions that you could present to your lead, supervisor, or manager.

---

---

---

Glossary Words

1. Implement - to begin using a new process.
2. Information - facts, knowledge, an explanation of something.
3. Sources - the place where something comes from, the person information comes from.
4. "Through the Grapevine" - through an informal communication network.
5. Oral- expressed in spoken words.
6. Verify - to prove that something is true.

Getting the Information You Need

For each question below, write down (a) the information you would need and (b) where you would find that information. Follow the example:

Example: What information would you need if you were going to pay your phone bill?
Where would you find that information?

Answer: You would need your telephone bill. You could wait until you get it in the mail, or you could call the telephone company to find out how much you owed.

1. What information would you need if your child needs a computer for school?
Where would you find that information?

---

---

2. What information would you need if you want to make your mothers famous tamales?
Where would you find that information?

---

---

3. What information would you need if your supervisor wants you to report how many parts you produced today? Where would you find that information?

---

---

4. What information would you need if an OSHA inspector asks you how many injuries there were in your department in the last year? Where would you find that information?

---

---

5. What information would you need if there were a chemical spill in your area? Where would you find that information?

---

---

---

Identifying Information

1. What suggestion does your team plan to make?

---

2. What information do you need to support your suggestion?

---

3. Where can you go to find the information you need?

---

Find the information you need to make your suggestion. Write the information below.
Attach any additional sheets, if necessary.

Glossary Words

1. Appropriate - suitable for a purpose or use.
2. Objection - a disagreement or complaint against something.
3. Overcome - to defeat or get the better of someone or something.
4. Persuade - to talk someone into doing or believing something.
5. Presentation - something that is offered in front of a group.
6. WIIFM - Whats In It For Me?

WIIFM Exercise for Group A

Your goal is to persuade someone in group B to make a presentation at next week's class. The subject of the presentation is that person's job. The presentation length is 2 or 3 minutes.

Each presentation should address:

1. How will this presentation benefit them? (Check all that apply.)

Speak more English

Practice speaking in front of a group

Teach everyone about his or her job

Tell everyone what he or she does

Other _____

2. Why would he or she want to give this presentation?

---

---

3. What objections could he or she have about giving this presentation?

---

---

4. How are you going to overcome those objections?

---

---

---

WIIFM Exercise for Group B

Someone from group A is going to try to persuade you to make a presentation about your job during the next class session.

Please answer the following questions:

1. How do you feel about making a presentation about your job during the next class?

---

---

---

2. What are your objections to making a presentation during the next class?

---

---

---

Case Study

Return on Investment

You work in a manufacturing company. You operate a machine that shapes small pieces of plastic. The machine automatically bags the pieces correctly by number and then seals the bags.

When each bag is full, it falls into a bin. When the bin is full, you have to stop the machine and empty the bin into a bigger bin in the front of the room. After you empty the bin, you must start the machine and begin again. This takes about 5 minutes.

Recently the engineers in your company fixed the machines in your area so they would produce more parts than before. You are spending more and more time emptying out the bins. In fact, you have been emptying the bins at least 10 times a day.

Right now you are making about 120 bags an hour. You think that if you had bigger bins, your productivity would be higher because you wouldn't be spending so much time emptying the bins. You want to make this suggestion to your supervisor.

1. How much time do you spend each day emptying the bins? (10 empties a day x 5 minutes for each)

---

2. If you had to empty the bins only 5 times a day, how much time would you save?
(10 x 5) - (5 x 5)

3. If you had to empty the bins only 5 times a day, how many more bags could you produce in one day?

---

4. How many more bags could you produce in one year if you worked 250 days?

---

5. If there are 5 people in your department and you all produce about the same number of bags, how many more bags could your department produce in one year?

---

The Next Step

1. Who is the appropriate person(s) for your suggestions?

---

2. How will this suggestion benefit that person you are making the suggestion to, the department or the company?

---

---

3. Why would the person you are making the suggestion to want to implement this suggestion?

---

---

4. What objections could the person you are making the suggestion to have about this suggestion?

---

---

5. How are you going to overcome those objections?

---

---

6. What is the Return on Investment or cost savings for implementing this suggestion?

---

---

---

Glossary Words

1. Clear - easy to understand.
2. Concise - simple, short, to the point.
3. Design - to make a plan.
4. Main Points - the most important things you want to include when you are communicating with someone either orally or in writing.
5. Plan - to think about how things should be done before you do it.
6. Process - the steps it takes to do something.
7. Specific - clear or precise.

The Writing Process

1. Draft your message.
Plan what you're going to say.
Say it as clearly as you can.
Use simple sentences.
2. Edit your draft.
Reread it from the point of view of your reader!
3. Proofread the final copy.
Check for errors.

When you are writing, ask yourself:

1. Is it complete? (Any "main points" missing?)
2. Is it clear and specific? (Any "fuzzy meanings"?)
3. Is it correct? (Any errors in format, numbers, dates, spelling, grammar, etc.?)

What Is Important?

You have a suggestion to improve the way your product is made. Specifically, you want to combine some of the steps you take to make the product.

You think your suggestion will have a number of benefits. You think that it will:

Save time producing the product.

Make the process easier.

Increase productivity.

Increase quality (because there are fewer steps, there should be less of a chance to make mistakes).

Increase morale in your department.

You decide to present this idea to a couple of different people. Which of the above benefits would you want to include if you were presenting the idea to:

A co-worker? _____
_____
_____

A supervisor or lead? _____

Turning Ideas Into Action

Supervisor Lesson 1

▼ Lesson Description

---

This Supervisor Lesson is designed to give the supervisors the information they need to help their employees make effective suggestions. The supervisors are asked to think about obstacles to making suggestions in their company and are then given suggested ways to help their employees overcome those obstacles.

▼ Objectives

By completing this lesson, supervisors will be able to:

1. Understand what is included in the Making Suggestions module.
2. Support their employees' attempts to make suggestions.

▼ Materials Needed

▼ Hardware

1. Overhead projector
2. Flip chart
3. Flip chart pens
4. Masking tape

▼ Transparencies

- "Objectives" (Supervisor Transparency 1)
- "Supervisor Guidelines" (Supervisor Transparency 2)

Objectives

By the end of the module, participants will be able to:

Identify areas of improvement and develop ideas for better ways of doing things.

Find information they need to support their suggestion ideas.

Formulate and present their suggestions.

Design clear and concise messages in both an oral and a written format.

Propose formal suggestions to managers, supervisors, and CO-workers.

Supervisor Transparency 1

▼ Activities*▼ Opening: 10 Minutes

1. Welcome the group and introduce yourself.
2. Ask the supervisors to state their names and to identify their departments or areas.
3. Explain the purpose of the next hour: to become familiar with the materials that their employees will use in class the next few weeks.

4. Project "Objectives" on the overhead. Explain that by the end of the module their employees will be able to:

Identify areas of improvement and develop ideas for better ways of doing things.

Find information they need to support their suggestion ideas.

Formulate and present their suggestions.

Design clear and concise messages in both an oral and a written format.

Propose formal suggestions to managers, supervisors, and co-workers.

5. Ask the supervisors, "What do you want your people to get out of this training?" Write their responses on a flip chart or the whiteboard."
6. Explain, "We will be covering a lot of this information in the module."

▼ Activities

▼ First Activity: (continued)

5. Ask, "How would you like it if your employees
  - (a) came up with ideas,
  - (b) presented them to the right people,
  - (c) figured out "What's In It For You" and for the company, and
  - (d) supplied some cost savings figures?"

6. Explain, "These are our objectives in this module, but we need your help in order to meet those objectives."

7. Distribute "Supervisor Guidelines". Discuss the guidelines with the group. Explain the last guideline; tell supervisors that they will be invited to the presentations on the last day (about halfway through the last class).

Supervisor's Role in Training

Lesson 1: Looking for Better Ways of Doing Things

What you can do: Encourage any improvement ideas from your employees. Ask what you can do to help.
What to watch for: Employees will be looking for something in their work area that they want to improve.
Questions to ask: "What ideas do you have for improving the way we do things around here?"
Discussion topics: Have a brainstorming session on ways to improve your work area.

Lesson 2: Getting the Information You Need

What you can do: Help employees find the information they need to make their suggestions.
What to watch for: Employees will be looking for the information they need to make their suggestions.
Questions to ask: "What suggestion is your team working on?" "What information do you think you need to make your suggestion?"
Discussion topics: Where you can go to find information in your company. People you can talk to if you need information.

Lesson 3: The Importance of Planning

What to watch for: Employees trying to figure out who is the appropriate person to make their suggestion to. Trying to come up with objections to their suggestion and gathering information to determine a cost savings for their suggestion.
What you can do: Direct them to the appropriate people in the company. Help them find the information they need.
Questions to ask: "What are the benefits of your suggestion?" "How much money will I/the company save by your suggestion?" "How can I help you figure out a cost savings for your suggestion?"
Discussion topics: How to figure out a cost savings. Why it is important to look at benefits and obstacles for a suggestion.

Supervisor's Role in Training

Lesson 4: Designing Clear and Concise Messages

What to watch for: Employees trying to figure out what is important to the people they want to present their suggestion to. An invitation to the last class where employees will present their suggestions.
What you can do: Talk through the suggestions with the employee. Make your own suggestions of important information to include.
Questions to ask: "What information do you have to support your suggestion?" "What information do you think is important to include with your suggestion?"
Discussion topics: How to find out what is important to include when making a suggestion. What is important to the success of a suggestion at our company.

Lesson 5: Putting Ideas on Paper: Preparing Presentations

What to watch for: Employees preparing to make their suggestions. Employees turning in suggestion forms.
What can you do: Provide suggestion forms and encourage employees to fill them out.
Questions to ask: "Have you filled out a suggestion form?" "What can I do to help you fill out the suggestion form?"
Discussion topics: What happens to a suggestion at our company after it is turned in.

Lesson 6: Making Suggestions

What to watch for: The presentation of the suggestions.
What can you do: Attend the last class when employees will present their suggestions.
Questions to ask: "What are you going to do next?" "What help do you need to move your suggestion along?"
Discussion topics: How to follow up on a suggestion. What to do if your suggestion is not implemented.

Supervisor

▼ Activities

▼ Second Activity: 20 Minutes

1. Distribute "Supervisor's Role in Training." Review the information on the handout. Ask the supervisors to add any information they feel is important.
2. Ask, "Are there any particular areas that you would like the suggestions to focus on?" Write down any suggestions.
3. Discuss the importance of supervisor support and reinforcement to the success of this module. Explain that in order for the suggestion to be useful, the employees may need feedback and assistance.

▼ Activities

▼ Ending: 10 Minutes

1. Ask if the supervisors have any questions; ask too if they have any suggestions for making the classes go smoothly.
2. Remind the supervisors of the importance of their attending the last class.
3. Thank them for their time and participation.
4. Say good-bye.

Making Suggestions

Turning Ideas Into Action

Supervisor Lesson 2

▼ Lesson Description

---

The second hour of the Supervisor Lesson is combined with the employees' last class. Supervisors should attend the class (or classes) in which their employees are involved. Each supervisor will be asked to give feedback on the suggestion and to discuss how employees can move their suggestions through the system at their company.

See Lesson 6 in the Making Suggestions module for the rest of the instructor materials.

Supervisor Guidelines

1. Employees must have access to information.
2. Ask the employees how you can help them get the information they need.
3. Sometimes you may need to guide the employees to the right source for information.
4. Attend the last day of class when employees present their suggestions.

Supervisor's Role in Training

Lesson 1: Looking for Better Ways of Doing Things

- What you can do: Encourage any improvement ideas from your employees. Ask what you can do to help.
- What to watch for: Employees will be looking for something in their work area that they want to improve.
- Questions to ask: "What ideas do you have for improving the way we do things around here?"
- Discussion topics: Have a brainstorming session on ways to improve your work area.

Lesson 2: Getting the Information You Need

- What you can do: Help employees find the information they need to make their suggestions.
- What to watch for: Employees will be looking for the information they need to make their suggestions.
- Questions to ask: "What suggestion is your team working on?" "What information do you think you need to make your suggestion?"
- Discussion topics: Where you can go to find information in your company. People you can talk to if you need information.

Lesson 3: The Importance of Planning

- What to watch for: Employees trying to figure out who is the appropriate person to make their suggestion to. Trying to come up with objections to their suggestion and gathering information to determine a cost savings for their suggestion.
- What you can do: Direct them to the appropriate people in the company. Help them find the information they need.
- Questions to ask: "What are the benefits of your suggestion?" "How much money will I/the company save by your suggestion?" "How can I help you figure out a cost savings for your suggestion?"

Objectives

By the end of the module, participants will be able to:

Identify areas of improvement and develop ideas for better ways of doing things.

Find information they need to support their suggestion ideas.

Formulate and present their suggestions.

Design clear and concise messages in both an oral and a written format.

Propose formal suggestions to managers, supervisors, and co-workers.

Supervisor Guidelines

1. Employees must have access to information.
2. Ask the employees how you can help them get the information they need.
3. Sometimes you may need to guide the employees to the right source for information.
4. Attend the last day of class when employees present their suggestions.

Supervisor's Role in Training

Lesson 1: Looking for Better Ways of Doing Things

- What you can do: Encourage any improvement ideas from your employees. Ask what you can do to help.
- What to watch for: Employees will be looking for something in their work area that they want to improve.
- Questions to ask: "What ideas do you have for improving the way we do things around here?"
- Discussion topics: Have a brainstorming session on ways to improve your work area.

Lesson 2: Getting the Information You Need

- What you can do: Help employees find the information they need to make their suggestions.
- What to watch for: Employees will be looking for the information they need to make their suggestions.
- Questions to ask: "What suggestion is your team working on?" "What information do you think you need to make your suggestion?"
- Discussion topics: Where you can go to find information in your company. People you can talk to if you need information.

Lesson 3: The Importance of Planning

- What to watch for: Employees trying to figure out who is the appropriate person to make their suggestion to. Trying to come up with objections to their suggestion and gathering information to determine a cost savings for their suggestion.
- What you can do: Direct them to the appropriate people in the company. Help them find the information they need.
- Questions to ask: "What are the benefits of your suggestion?" "How much money will I/the company save by your suggestion?" "How can I help you figure out a cost savings for your suggestion?"
- Discussion topics: How to figure out a cost savings. Why it is important to look at benefits and obstacles for a suggestion.
