ABSTRACT

This guide outlines the core social studies course standards for Utah elementary schools. Using a graphic format, the guide delineates each course--beginning with Kindergarten and concluding with Level 6. It describes the course; lists column headings for time, people, and places; cites the appropriate standard; and educational objectives to be achieved. Course titles are: Kindergarten: "Self, Family, and School"; Level (1): "School and Neighborhood Communities"; Level (2): "Local Communities"; Level (3): "Environment and Indigenous Communities"; Level (4): "Utah Studies"; Level (5): "United States History"; and Level (6): "Ancient World Civilizations and European Influence." UNITED STATES HISTORY AND GOVERNMENT

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Through the lens of time, students will establish a chronology of critical events in the various time periods of United States history. It is not the intent that students study the historical events in depth. The curriculum is set to teach in three time periods: one-half of the time is to be used in studying the New World and the foundation of our nation; one-fourth, the 19th century (1800-1900); and one-fourth, the 20th century (1900 to the present). Students will examine the impact of people and places on the emergence of United States culture and history. Character and life skills will help students understand citizenship rights and responsibilities. Using social studies skills, students will compare governments, geography, and cultures of Canada and Mexico with those of the United States as students continue to make world connections.

ANCIENT WORLD CIVILIZATIONS AND EUROPEAN INFLUENCE

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Students will focus on time, people, and places along a historical continuum from the rise of civilization to the modern day. One-third of the year should be spent in the study of ancient cultures, one-third in the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, and one-third in the study of modern Europe. The influence of ancient cultures and European ideas on western civilization makes the sixth grade world connection. Using life, process, and character skills, sixth graders will gain a comprehensive awareness of the changes in our world throughout time. They will explore the beginnings of our governance system and practice the democratic process.
