About NASSGAP and this Report

The National Association of State Student Grant and Aid Programs (NASSGAP) is dedicated to the promotion, strengthening, encouragement, and enhancement of high standards in the administration and operation of student grant and aid programs, in order that these programs be available to students in all states to expand and further their postsecondary educational opportunities.

NASSGAP serves as a forum for the development and exchange of information, ideas, policy positions, procedures, and needs for student financial assistance for the benefit of member agencies and other organizations. NASSGAP also acts as a collective voice of reasoned opinion before state, regional, and national councils with respect to student financial aid programs.

NASSGAP conducts research, publishes reports, holds conferences, and otherwise engages in activities which help existing student aid programs to become more responsive to federal, regional, and state public policy goals and objectives.

Each year, NASSGAP completes a survey regarding state-funded expenditures for postsecondary student financial aid. This report, the 41th annual survey, represents data from academic year 2009-10. Please note row and column data in the tables may not add to row and column table totals throughout the report due to rounding.

Comments, suggestions, or questions concerning this report may be directed to NASSGAP at 202.721.1186 or nassgapsurvey@nassgap.org.

Electronic Resources

NASSGAP's Web site is www.nassgap.org. The site has many elements of interest to student aid policymakers and researchers including position papers and an online library (www.nassgap.org/Library) of student aid research. Electronic copies of this report, and reports from several previous years, are available in PDF format free of charge at the site.

An online query tool that will allow for customized queries of survey data is available at: www.nassgap.org/customquery.

A State Data Quick Check tool which shows expenditures by programs for a selected year is available at: www.nassgap.org/survey/state_data_check.asp.

A PDF version of the this year's survey instrument is available at: www.nassgap.org/survey/NASSGAP_Survey_Instrument_2009-10.pdf.

An explanation of the terms used in the survey and a copy of the survey instrument are available on the NASSGAP web site.

Executive Summary

A national organization recently suggested that among the top ten issues in higher education were the fiscal condition of the states, tuition policy and prices, enrollment capacity, and college readiness, all of which can affect college completion, another one of the hottest issues in higher education. While it may be the case that some progress has been made in several of these areas, and in some cases perhaps even significant progress, it is arguable that there is as much, if not more, yet that could be done. For many, the goal of completing college and receiving a degree seems almost unattainable, and little or no additional help may be on the way. One of the things the Morrill Act did was to "change the game" and increase the opportunity for regular citizens to get the skills and training they needed to succeed. These days, the chance that a potential "game-changer" like the American Graduation Act, America 2000, or even eliminating the Department of Education will fundamentally alter the education landscape remains distant.

This report provides data regarding state-funded expenditures for student financial aid and illustrates the extent of efforts made by the states to assist postsecondary students. Information in this report is based on academic year 2009-10 data from the 41st Annual National Association of State Student Grant and Aid Programs (NASSGAP) survey.

Data Highlights

- In the 2009-2010 academic year, the states awarded about $10.8 billion in total state funded student financial aid, an increase of about 3.8 percent in nominal terms and 6.0 percent in constant dollar terms from the $10.4 billion in aid awarded in 2008-09.
- The majority of state aid remains in the form of grants. In 2009-10, more than 4.07 million grant awards were made representing about $8.9 billion in need and nonneed-based grant aid, an increase of about 3.6 percent from the $8.6 billion in grants awarded in 2008-09. Of the grant funds awarded in 2009-10, 73 percent was need-based and 27 percent was nonneed-based, almost the same percentage as seen in 2008-09.
- Funding for undergraduate need-based grant aid increased $275 million nationwide from about $6.1 billion in 2008-09 to about $6.3 billion in 2009-10, an increase of 4.5 percent.
- Ten states (California, New York, Texas, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New Jersey, North Carolina, Washington, Indiana, Minnesota) collectively awarded more than $4.6 billion in undergraduate need-based grant aid, accounting for about 74 percent of all aid of this type.
- States provided more than $1.9 billion in nongrant student aid, including loans, loan assumptions, conditional grants, work-study, and tuition waivers, up about 4.4 percent from last year. Loans and tuition waivers again accounted for 71 percent of nongrant funds awarded.

All fifty states (plus Washington DC and Puerto Rico) reported state-funded undergraduate programs with a need component, of which 48 states (plus Washington DC and Puerto Rico) had a program that was exclusively need-based. Thirty states identified programs which made awards based only on merit. Exclusively need-based aid constituted 47 percent of all aid to undergraduates, exclusively merit-based aid accounted for 18 percent, with the rest, 35 percent, accounted for by other programs and by programs with both need and merit components. The amount of undergraduate aid awarded in 2009-10 through programs with a merit component increased to about $3.4 billion from about 3.2 billion in 2008-09. This compares to $4.5 billion awarded to undergraduates through programs based only on need.

South Carolina, Georgia, Washington DC, and West Virginia provided the greatest amount of grant aid on a per capita basis. South Carolina, Georgia, West Virginia, Tennessee, and New Jersey were the largest providers of aid per capita for the population between ages 18 and 24. South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey, and West Virginia again provided the most undergraduate grant dollars compared to undergraduate full time equivalent enrollment. South Carolina, Georgia, Vermont, Tennessee, and West Virginia had the highest proportion of total expenditures for state-funded grants compared to State fiscal support for higher education.

FY10 fiscal support data from Grapevine. Does not include federal stimulus monies.

Corrigenda

Texas did not report the Designated Tuition Grant (DTG) for 2009. The grant is funded from set aside tuition and fees. Expenditures for the program in 2009 were $95,763,017 to 59,537 recipients. The DTG is a need-based grant that increases the total for Texas in Table 1. The online database has been changed and the new figures are reflected in the 2009 numbers in this report.

The Washington DC TAG Grant was reported in 2009 as a need-based grant. Although there is a maximum income for eligibility, the grant does not use means testing, EFC, or ability to pay and should not be considered need-based. Changing the grant conditions changes Washington DC's position in 2009 Table 12 from 8th ($648.19) to 44th ($62.93). The online database has been changed.

The Delaware Institute for Dental Education and Research Tuition Stipends (DIDER), Delaware Institute for Medical Education and Research Tuition Stipends (DIMER), and Delaware State University Scholarships were reported as need-based aid for 2008 and 2009. Both tuition stipend programs have need and non-need components. The need component has been eliminated from DIDER starting in 2011. The programs were reported as grant aid without a need component in this year's survey (2010) and the database has consequently been changed to make the programs, as well as the Delaware State University Scholarships, non-need based for 2008 and 2009.

South Dakota prematurely reported S/LEAP figures and associated state spending in 2009. The figures should have been reported for 2010. This means that not until this year did all 50 states have a need based student aid program. The online database has been changed and the new figures are reflected in the 2009 numbers in this report.

Illinois reported the Nurse Educator Scholarship as a "grant" in 2009. It should have been classified as a "conditional grant or loan". The database has been corrected.

Wyoming has offered the Hathaway Scholarships since 2006. The program consists of four separate merit scholarships, each with specific eligibility requirements, and a need-based scholarship for eligible students that supplements the merit awards. Because the program is not administered by the NASSGAP agency in Wyoming, 2010 is the first year the program has been reported. 2010 expenditures for the Hathaway Scholarships were reported as $13.6 million to 5,800 students.

The table of student-funded programs (Note to Table 1) in the 2009 report was not updated from the 2008 report. These programs are important to note because while they may be state authorized or appropriated, the source of funds is not state tax revenue or other such income, but student tuition or fees. The corrected 2009 table is shown below:

GRANT		Student Amount	Percent of Program Total	NONGRANT		Student Amount	Percent of Program Total
Arizona	(AFAT) Arizona Financial Aid Trust	$ 6,419,500	38.5%	Nevada	Student Access Work Study	$ 1,287,243	71.1%
Nevada	Student Access Grants	$ 12,457,235	71.6%	Connecticut	Tuition Set Aside	$ 63,858,763	100.0%
Texas	Designated Tuition—Grants	$ 95,763,017	100.0%	West Virginia	Medical Student Loan	$ 1,881,843	100.0%
Texas	Student Deposit Scholarships	$ 2,015,738	100.0%
Texas	Texas Public Education Grant	$ 126,947,700	100.0%
West Virginia	Higher Education Grant Program	$ 1,800,000	5.1%

Last year's report text indicated all 50 states had a program that was exclusively need-based. While all states have a program with a need component, Alabama and California did (and do) not have any exclusively need-based programs.

The percentages in Figure 1, Undergraduate Aid by Type, were incorrectly calculated for 2009. Combined with the changes to the 2009 database, the percentages should have been: Need-based Grant, 64.0; Nonneed-based grant, 24.9; Loan, 5.7; Loan Assumption, .3; Conditional Grant, .8; Work Study, .8; Tuition Waiver, 2.2; Other, 1.3. The percentages for Figure 2, Graduate Aid by Type, were calculated correctly, however, reflecting the changes in the database, the revised figures are: Need-based Grant, 26.7; Nonneed-based grant, 12.1; Loan, 10.4; Loan Assumption, 3.1; Conditional Grant, 10.7; Work Study, 1.9; Tuition Waiver, 31.7; Other, 3.4.

NASSGAP apologizes for these corrections.
