What Do Students Pay for College?

IPEDS has long collected and reported data on tuition, required fees, and room and board charges for first-time, full-time undergraduate (FTFTUG) students. These charges, along with other miscellaneous expenses, constitute what is known as the “published price of attendance” or the “cost of attendance.”

Section 132 of the Higher Education Opportunity Act (HEOA) requires the Department of Education to post information on its College Navigator website about the average net price of attendance for each institution that participates in the Title IV federal student aid program. Under the HEOA, the net price of attendance is to be calculated as the cost of attendance for FTFTUG students minus the total amount of need-based grant aid and merit-based grant aid, from federal, state, and institutional sources divided by the number of FTFTUG students receiving such aid. Additionally, the Act directs the publication of the institutional net price of attendance for FTFTUG Title IV aid recipients by income categories.

To meet these mandates, IPEDS now collects information on the net price of attendance for two student groups: (1) FTFTUG students who received grant/scholarship aid from any source (grant recipients) and (2) FTFTUG students who received any Title IV aid (Title IV aid recipients). For the Title IV aid recipients, information on net price is collected by income category.

These Web Tables present information on the extent to which the average net price of attendance varies by control and level of institution for both the grant recipient group and the Title IV aid recipient group, and by income levels for the Title IV aid recipient group. Specifically, these Web Tables provide information on the

- average net price of attendance during 2006–07 and 2008–09 for

FTFTUG students who received grant/scholarship aid, by control and level of institution (table 1 series) and by degree of urbanization, geographic region, and Carnegie classification (table 2 series through table 4 series);

- average net price of attendance during 2008–09 for FTFTUG students who received any Title IV aid, by control and level of institution (table 5 series) and by degree of urbanization, geographic region, and Carnegie classification (table 6 series through table 8 series);
- average net price of attendance during 2008–09 for FTFTUG students who received any Title IV aid, by income level and control and level of institution (table 9 series) and by degree of urbanization, geographic region, and Carnegie classification (table 10 series through table 12 series); and
- average net price of attendance during 2008–09 for FTFTUG

This report was prepared for the National Center for Education Statistics under Contract No. ED-IES-09-C-0006 with RTI International. Mention of trade names, commercial products, or organizations does not imply endorsement by the U.S. Government. These Web Tables were authored by Scott Ginder and Marcinda Mason of RTI International. The NCES Project Officer was Elise Miller. students who received any Title IV aid, by urbanicity and control and level of institution (table 13 series), by geographic region and control and level of institution (table 14 series), by institution size and control and level of institution (table 15 series), and by student-to-faculty ratio and control and level of institution (table 16 series).

Two versions of each table are produced—a table presenting unweighted institutional averages (table a) and a table presenting per-institution averages weighted by the number of students receiving any grant/scholarship aid (grant recipient tables) or by the number of Title IV aid recipients (Title IV aid recipient tables) (table b).

To construct a weighted average net price for a subset of institutions, each institution's average net price was multiplied by the number of students to whom that net price applied. Then, those products were summed and divided by the total number of students at those institutions to whom the net price applied. The resulting statistic reflects a per-student, rather than per-institution, average.

DATA

IPEDS collects the data required to calculate net price via two components of the survey. The Institutional Characteristics component of IPEDS collects data on the average tuition and required fees, books and supplies, room and board, and other expenses that constitute the average price of attendance for FTFTUG students. The Student Financial Aid (SFA) component of IPEDS collects data on the count of students in each living arrangement and the amount of grant or scholarship aid received by the students in each group. For public institutions, the elements of the net price calculation collected via the SFA component are restricted to students paying in-state tuition who meet the requirements to be included in each group. At nonprofit and for-profit institutions, the elements of the net price calculation are collected for all students meeting the requirements of each group.

IPEDS is the core postsecondary education data collection program for NCES. Institution-level data are collected from postsecondary institutions in the United States (50 states and the District of Columbia) and other jurisdictions. For IPEDS, a postsecondary institution is defined as an organization open to the public that has the provision of postsecondary education as one of its primary missions. IPEDS defines postsecondary education as formal instructional programs with a curriculum designed primarily for students who are beyond the compulsory age for high school. This includes institutions that offer academic, vocational, and continuing professional education programs and excludes institutions that offer only avocational (leisure) and adult basic education programs. Data collected via IPEDS cover a variety of areas, including institutional prices, enrollments, graduation rates, program completions, student financial aid, institutional finance, and human resources.

TECHNICAL NOTES

IPEDS collects the price of attendance before aid by living arrangement—on campus; off campus, not with family; and off campus, with family. For each institution, the separate prices before aid by living arrangement were combined into a single price before aid using the counts of students in each living arrangement reported in the SFA component, as follows: The price before aid for each living arrangement was multiplied by the proportion of students reported in that living arrangement. The three products were then summed to form the single price before aid. The institution's net price of attendance was then calculated by subtracting the average grant aid at the institution from the single price before aid. The average net price of attendance displayed in these Web Tables is the per-institution average of the calculated net price of attendance.

NOTE: Average price of attendance before aid is calculated using the tuition and required fees, books and supplies, room and board, and other expenses data from the Institutional Characteristics component. A single average price of attendance before aid was generated for each institution using student counts reported in the Student Financial Aid component, instead of separate prices by living arrangement (on-campus; off-campus, not with family; and off-campus, with family). These student counts were also used to generate the average net price of attendance. To calculate the weighted averages displayed in this table, per institution averages were weighted by the number of students receiving any grant/scholarship aid. Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included.

NOTE: Average price of attendance before aid is calculated using the tuition and required fees, books and supplies, room and board, and other expenses data from the Institutional Characteristics component. A single average price of attendance before aid was generated for each institution using student counts reported in the Student Financial Aid component, instead of separate prices by living arrangement (on-campus; off-campus, not with family; and off-campus, with family). These student counts were also used to generate the average net price of attendance. Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included. The New England region includes Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont. The Mid East region includes Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. The Great Lakes region includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin. The Plains region includes Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota. The Southeast region includes Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Southwest region includes Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas. The Rocky Mountains region includes Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Utah, and Wyoming. The Far West region includes Alaska, California, Hawaii, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington.

† Not applicable. No institutions meeting the criteria for this table were classified into this category.

<sup>3</sup> Includes institutions that do not meet the criteria for classification set by the Carnegie Foundation, for example, non-degree-granting institutions.

NOTE: Average price of attendance before aid is calculated using the tuition and required fees, books and supplies, room and board, and other expenses data from the Institutional Characteristics component. A single average price of attendance before aid was generated for each institution using student counts reported in the Student Financial Aid component, instead of separate prices by living arrangement (on-campus; off-campus, not with family; and off-campus, with family). These student counts were also used to generate the average net price of attendance. Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included. Carnegie classification is based on the Carnegie Foundation's Basic Classification, which is an update of the traditional classification framework developed by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education in 1970 to support its research program and published in 1973 for use by other researchers.

† Not applicable. No institutions meeting the criteria for this table were classified into this category.

NOTE: Average price of attendance before aid is calculated using the tuition and required fees, books and supplies, room and board, and other expenses data from the Institutional Characteristics component. A single average price of attendance before aid was generated for each institution using student counts reported in the Student Financial Aid component, instead of separate prices by living arrangement (on-campus; off-campus, not with family; and off-campus, with family). These student counts were also used to generate the average net price of attendance. To calculate the weighted averages displayed in this table, per institution averages were weighted by the number of students receiving any grant/scholarship aid. Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included. Carnegie classification is based on the Carnegie Foundation's Basic Classification, which is an update of the traditional classification framework developed by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education in 1970 to support its research program and published in 1973 for use by other researchers.

NOTE: Average price of attendance before aid is calculated using the tuition and required fees, books and supplies, room and board, and other expenses data from the Institutional Characteristics component. A single average price of attendance before aid was generated for each institution using student counts reported in the Student Financial Aid component, instead of separate prices by living arrangement (on-campus; off-campus, not with family; and off-campus, with family). These student counts were also used to generate the average net prices of attendance. Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included. The New England region includes Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont. The Mid East region includes Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. The Great Lakes region includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin. The Plains region includes Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota. The Southeast region includes Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Southwest region includes Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas. The Rocky Mountains region includes Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Utah, and Wyoming. The Far West region includes Alaska, California, Hawaii, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington.

† Not applicable. No institutions meeting the criteria for this table were classified into this category.

<sup>3</sup> Includes institutions that do not meet the criteria for classification set by the Carnegie Foundation, for example, non-degree-granting institutions.

NOTE: Average price of attendance before aid is calculated using the tuition and required fees, books and supplies, room and board, and other expenses data from the Institutional Characteristics component. A single average price of attendance before aid was generated for each institution using student counts reported in the Student Financial Aid component, instead of separate prices by living arrangement (on-campus; off-campus, not with family; and off-campus, with family). These student counts were also used to generate the average net prices of attendance. Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included. Carnegie classification is based on the Carnegie Foundation's Basic Classification, which is an update of the traditional classification framework developed by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education in 1970 to support its research program and published in 1973 for use by other researchers.

† Not applicable. No institutions meeting the criteria for this table were classified into this category.

NOTE: To calculate the weighted averages displayed in this table, per institution averages were weighted by the number of Title IV aid recipients. Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included. The New England region includes Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont. The Mid East region includes Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. The Great Lakes region includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin. The Plains region includes Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota. The Southeast region includes Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Southwest region includes Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas. The Rocky Mountains region includes Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Utah, and Wyoming. The Far West region includes Alaska, California, Hawaii, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington.

<sup>3</sup> Includes all institutions with an Associate's Carnegie classification that is not explicitly listed in this table, such as "Associate's—Public Rural-serving Small" or "Associate's—Private For-profit".

NOTE: Institutions with academic calendars that differ by program or allow continuous enrollment are not included. Carnegie classification is based on the Carnegie Foundation's Basic Classification, which is an update of the traditional classification framework developed by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education in 1970 to support its research program and published in 1973 for use by other researchers.

Glossary

All of the variables that were used in these tables are described in this glossary. The variables were taken directly from IPEDS data collected during the 2009–10 data collection. These data are available for download via the IPEDS Data Center (<http://nces.ed.gov/IPEDS/DataCenter>). In the glossary, the items are listed in alphabetical order by the variable label. The name of each variable appears to the right of the variable label.

Books and supplies

CHG4AY0 (2006–07)

CHG4AY2 (2008–09)

The average cost of books and supplies for a typical student for an entire academic year. Does not include unusual costs for special groups of students (e.g., engineering or art majors), unless they constitute the majority of students at the institution.

Calendar system

CALSYS

The predominant calendar system at the institution.

- Semester
- Quarter
- Trimester
- Four-one-four plan
- Other academic year
- Differs by program
- Continuous

Carnegie Classification 2005: Basic

CCBASIC

The Basic Classification is an update of the traditional classification framework developed by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education in 1970 to support its research program, and later published in 1973 for use by other researchers.
