MEMORANDUM

To: Members of the Board of Education

From: Joshua P. Starr, Superintendent of Schools

Subject: Maryland State Department of Education Reporting of Highly Qualified Teachers

This memorandum provides information regarding the number and percentage of core academic classes in Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) being taught by teachers designated as highly qualified. As of December 1, 2013, 96.8 percent of MCPS core academic classes were being taught by teachers who are designated highly qualified. This is a decrease from 97.2 percent of core academic classes taught by highly qualified teachers on December 1, 2012, and an increase from 96.7 percent on December 1, 2011. These data are compiled and reported by the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE).

The federal No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB) legislation required school districts to ensure that all teachers of core academic subjects met the requirements to be designated highly qualified by July 1, 2006. However, because no Maryland counties were able to comply with the 100 percent highly qualified designation by July 1, 2006, MSDE requested an extension until July 1, 2007, which was approved by the federal government. Maryland counties continue to strive toward this goal. The highly qualified teacher requirement for teaching core academic subjects is not part of the waiver and remains the same until the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 is reauthorized or changed. The flexibility waiver extended to Maryland through the end of the 2013–2014 school year was a result of Maryland's assurance that it would implement the items included in its request within the required timelines. A copy of the approved request is available at: www.ed.gov/esea/flexibility/requests.

A class is considered taught by a teacher designated highly qualified if the teacher is certified and has completed an academic major or has passed an appropriate Praxis test; completed the High, Objective, Uniform State Standard of Evaluation; or holds an advanced professional certificate in the core academic subject he/she is teaching (applies to educators with experience prior to July 1, 2007). Core academic subjects are English, language arts/reading, world languages, mathematics, science, the arts, elementary and early childhood education, and social studies.

MSDE made a change to the way elementary and early childhood education classes are counted. Because elementary school homeroom teachers are providing instruction in four core academic subjects (mathematics, reading, science, and social studies), homeroom classes are multiplied by four to provide more equitable weight to those teachers when compared to teachers who are reported as teaching multiple classes. This results in much larger numbers of classes being counted at the elementary level.

Of the 35,743 core academic subject classes being taught by MCPS teachers as of December 1, 2013, 34,599 were being taught by teachers who are designated highly qualified, and 1,144 were being taught by teachers who are not yet designated highly qualified.

Countywide, 97.8 percent of classes in the core academic area of the arts were taught by highly qualified teachers, followed by classes in English (97.7%), elementary and early childhood education (97.6%), social studies (96.8%), world languages (94.9%), science (94.5%), mathematics (94.1%), and language arts/reading (92.9%).

MCPS strives to increase the number of core academic classes being taught by highly qualified teachers. The Office of Human Resources and Development (OHRD) continues to review the designations of all teachers who are teaching in core academic subjects. In collaboration with the Department of Policy, Records, and Reporting, OHRD staff works with MSDE to support accurate reporting of data and works in collaboration with Office of School Support and Improvement staff to support school administrators in assigning teachers to core academic subject classes for which they are designated as highly qualified. NCLB legislation outlines a list of minimum requirements, both in content knowledge and teaching skills, to meet highly qualified status. NCLB requires teachers to have a bachelor's degree; have full state certification, not on an emergency, temporary, or provisional basis; and demonstrate content knowledge in the subjects they teach.

OHRD staff continues to use various strategies to ensure that the teachers teaching core academic subjects are highly qualified. Principals are provided with data, updated daily, identifying each teacher's certification status and highly qualified designations, which assist them in making informed decisions about teacher assignments. In addition, the certification/highly qualified status of voluntary, involuntary, and return-from-leave employees is shared with principals who work with OHRD staff for appropriate placements. Staff in the Department of Information and Application Services, in conjunction with OHRD staff, recently developed an "employee summary screen" detailing an overview of educator credentials in the Human Resources Information System, a tool that assists staffing coordinators to ensure appropriate assignments for those transferring into core academic subject positions. Conditionally certified teachers are not contracted unless the director of the Department of Recruitment and Staffing, OHRD, grants approval and only for critical shortage areas. Credentials of special educators who are not yet highly qualified are reviewed for compliance, and those teachers are encouraged to complete the necessary coursework or testing to be designated highly qualified. Educators who are teaching out of area are informed of the necessary testing or coursework to become highly qualified.

Striving toward 100 percent compliance, OHRD has targeted recruitment trips to colleges and universities whose graduates have completed programs that meet NCLB highly qualified requirements and has developed and implemented university partnerships programs to produce more highly qualified teachers in critical shortage areas. MCPS Careers, our talent management system, allows staffing coordinators to indicate highly qualified designations in applicant credentials. Hiring managers (principals) are able to select only those individuals who possess the required credentials for core academic subjects.

Under NCLB, states decide what is necessary for certification and for determining subject-matter competency. As a result, the specific criteria that must be satisfied to achieve the highly qualified designation vary from state to state. Therefore, a teacher coming to MCPS from outside the state of Maryland who was designated highly qualified may or may not be designated highly qualified by Maryland standards.

The attached summary data provide the number and percent of core academic area classes being taught by teachers who have been designated highly qualified and classes being taught by teachers who have not been designated highly qualified as of December 1, 2013.
