SUBJECT: TITLE I, PART A PARENT INVOLVEMENT, 2015–2016

Attached is a copy of the Title I, Part A Parent Involvement Report for 2015–2016. This report describes the parental engagement levels for students enrolled in Title I schools within Houston Independent School District, as recorded in the student information system, Chancery. The data are aggregated by the district, school office, and the school level.

Key findings include:

- Overall, 214,422 students were enrolled at HISD Title I schools in 2015–2016. Excluding individual/school compact, the district had a 45.2 percent parent involvement participation rate recorded in Chancery. The 2015–2016 participation rate was a 7.6 percentage decrease from the 2014–2015 participation rate (48.9 percent).
- Districtwide, Hispanic students (137,220) represented the largest Title I student group, at 64.0 percent. On average, Hispanic students had the highest parent involvement participation rate (47.9 percent), while students identifying as American Indian had the lowest parent involvement participation rate (36.0 percent).
- Other than the Individual/School Compact categories, the category with the highest participation rate was Conference with 38.0 percent and the category with the lowest participation rate was Volunteer Involvement with 8.7 percent.
- Schools from the Elementary Schools Office 1 had the highest parental involvement rates in five of seven categories: Individual/School Compact, 83.3 percent; Parent Literacy, 15.9 percent; Family Literacy, 23.4 percent; Planning, 13.8 percent; and Volunteering, 18.8 percent, as recorded in Chancery. Elementary Schools Office 2 showed the highest parental involvement in Conference, 56.9 percent, and the Secondary Schools Office 1 had the highest parent involvement rate for Education Training, 22.0 percent.

Title I, Part A Parent Involvement 2015–2014

Executive Summary

Program Description

The Title I, Part A program was developed out of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) from 1965 and the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB) from 2001. The Title I, Part A program is designed to ensure that all children have a fair, equal, and significant opportunity to obtain a high-quality education and achieve, at a minimum, proficiency on challenging state academic achievement standards and assessments. The program's goal is accomplished by providing supplemental funding for educational programs to Title I, Part A schools, which have a high percentage of students living in poverty.

Title I, Part A also includes provisions to engage parents in the education process, which helps schools and parents share accountability for high student achievement. The provisions include expanded public school choice, a broader range of supplemental educational services, local development of parental involvement plans, and building parents' capacity for using effective practices to improve their children's academic achievement (U.S. Department of Education, 2004). The program gives parents the opportunity to be informed at all levels of implementation.

For the purpose of identifying how parents were involved in the decisions that impact their children's academic success, the district identified the following eight areas by which parent involvement would be classified: Individual Compact, Schoolwide Compact, Conference, Education/Training, Family Literacy, Parent Literacy, Planning, and Volunteering. The 2015–2016 Title I, Part A Program Handbook provides a description of each of these categories (Department of External Funding, 2015).

Purpose

The purpose of this report was to assess the rate of parental involvement coded by school staff in HISD's student information system, Chancery. Parental feedback was collected through the Academic Parent-Teacher Team (APTT) program. Demographics were noted where available, and data was aggregated by school, school office, and district.

Highlights

- Overall, 214,422 students were enrolled at HISD Title I schools in 2015–2016. Excluding individual/school compact, the district had a 45.2 percent parent involvement participation rate recorded in Chancery. The 2015–2016 participation rate was a 7.6 percentage decrease from the 2014–2015 participation rate (48.9 percent).
- Districtwide, Hispanic students (137,220) represented the largest Title I student group, at 64.0 percent. On average, Hispanic students had the highest parent involvement participation rate (47.9 percent), while students identifying as American Indian had the lowest parent involvement participation rate (36.0 percent).
- According to Chancery, 75.3 percent of Title I parents were identified as having received a copy of the Individual/School Compact, a document required to be distributed to all parents both electronically and on paper.

- Other than the Individual/School Compact categories, the category with the highest participation rate was Conference with 38.0 percent, and the category with the lowest participation rate was Volunteer Involvement with 8.7 percent.
- Schools from the Elementary Schools Office 1 had the highest parental involvement rates in five of seven categories: Individual/School Compact, 83.3 percent; Parent Literacy, 15.9 percent; Family Literacy, 23.4 percent; Planning, 13.8 percent; and Volunteering, 18.8 percent, as recorded in Chancery. Elementary Schools Office 2 showed the highest parental involvement in Conference, 56.9 percent, and the Secondary Schools Office 1 had the highest parent involvement rate for Education Training, 22.0 percent.
- Results from two parent surveys administered through The Academic Parent-Teacher Team (APTT) schools suggested parents overwhelmingly felt the APTT meetings helped them understand how their child was performing and they acquired strategies to implement at home in an effort to support their child's learning.
- APTT collected 801 parent surveys at eight schools. A limited number of the open-ended responses included suggestions for future APTT meetings. The parents suggested the APTT meetings should have flexible scheduling (n = 22), include an interpreter (n = 2), include the students in the meetings (n = 11), and be more frequent (n = 12).

Recommendations

1. Enhance training for Title I contact positions to review data documentation and collection processes in light of continued coding errors, particularly in the area of School Compact. Training for Title I coordinators should include an overview of the list, created by External Funding (Appendix A, page 13), of qualified activities under each Parent Involvement category.
2. In the areas of Education/Training, Planning, and Volunteering, the rates entered in Chancery remained low and continued to decrease from previous years. The reasons for the low rates of involvement should be investigated.
3. Utilize the APTT parent feedback that recommended flexible meetings and program opportunities, as well as offer advanced scheduling to provide an opportunity to arrange family calendars.
4. Since 2012–2013, Individual/School Compact, Conference, Education/Training, and Volunteer engagement have had decreasing percentages of parent involvement. Parent Literacy has remained stable, while Family Literacy and Planning have had increases. School administrators should investigate why the declines have been reoccurring in these categories and take the necessary steps toward remediating those rates. In particular, school administrators should explore ways to engage parents in the Education/Training domain, as this area has had a 40 percent decrease over the past four years.
5. School administrators should also consider providing parents with more training and materials to help them help their children. When APTT collected parental feedback, parents either requested more materials and training, or appreciated the training through APTT which allowed them to be more involved in their child's learning experience.
6. For schools with lower parental involvement rates, administrators should consider adopting training activities and communication methods used by schools with higher parental involvement rates. Consider providing networking opportunities to share best practices during the External Funding Title I Job Alike Day.

Introduction

The Title I, Part A program was developed out of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) from 1965 and the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB) from 2001. The Title I, Part A program is designed to ensure that all children have a fair, equal, and significant opportunity to obtain a high-quality education and achieve, at a minimum, proficiency on challenging state academic achievement standards and assessments. The program's goal is accomplished by providing supplemental funding for educational programs to Title I, Part A schools, which have a high percentage of students living in poverty.

Title I, Part A school programs are implemented on either a schoolwide or targeted assistance basis. A schoolwide program permits a school with 40 percent or greater of its students at the poverty level to use funds from Title I, Part A and other federal education program funds and resources to improve the educational program of the entire school in order to raise academic achievement for all students. This contrasts with the targeted assistance program, through which Title I, Part A funds are used only to provide supplementary educational services for eligible students who are economically disadvantaged.

Title I, Part A also includes provisions to engage parents in the education process, which helps schools and parents share accountability for high student achievement. The provisions include expanded public school choice, a broader range of supplemental educational services, local development of parental involvement plans, and building parents' capacity for using effective practices to improve their children's academic achievement (U.S. Department of Education, 2004). The program gives parents the opportunity to be informed at all levels of implementation.

Parent involvement can be defined generally as parental participation in a child's educational experiences (Jeynes, 2007). For the purpose of identifying how parents were involved in the decisions that impact their children's academic success, the district identified the following eight areas by which parent involvement would be classified: Individual Compact, Schoolwide Compact, Conference, Education/Training, Family Literacy, Parent Literacy, Planning, and Volunteering. The 2015–2016 Title I, Part A Program Handbook provides a description of each of these categories (Department of External Funding, 2015, p. 115 and 143):

Individual Compact – A contract that lists the responsibilities of parents, staff, and students from Title I Targeted Assistance Schools to improve student achievement.

Schoolwide Compact – A contract that lists the responsibilities of parents, staff, and students from Title I Schoolwide Schools to improve student achievement.

Conference – A one-on-one meeting between the parent and classroom teacher at a minimum; may include others such as the assistant principal, counselor, or another stakeholder.

Education/Training – Classes or topics covering parenting skills and ways that parents can assist their child to become successful in mastering the state's academic standards and assessments.

Family Literacy – Sustained classes and continuing education that help the parent (or other family member) and child(ren) become literate in reading and computer skills.

Parent Literacy – Sustained classes and continuing education that help the parent become literate in reading, computer skills, and/or job skills.

Planning – An opportunity for parents to meet and plan activities that will increase parental involvement at the local campus, as well as an opportunity for parents to give input about how Title I, Part A funds are used at the their child's local campus.

Volunteering – Parents at the local campus participate in capacity building activities that help foster an environment conducive for learning.

Supporting Research

Wilder (2014) conducted a meta-synthesis of published meta-analyses which studied the impact of parental involvement on student achievement. Results demonstrated parental involvement correlated positively with student achievement (Wilder, 2014) and are generalizable across grade levels. Student achievement can be operationally defined as several indicators including GPA, standardized test scores, and post-secondary success. Parental involvement is also a broad term and can refer to activities ranging from reading with students at home to collaborating with the community in order to improve educational opportunities for students (Jeynes, 2007). Epstein (1987) identified six major types of parental involvement that are widely accepted: parenting, communicating, volunteering, learning at home, decision-making, and community collaboration. The eight areas of parent involvement coded in Chancery by the district closely mirror Epstein's categories. The variation among these areas demonstrates that there are many ways for parents to be involved and make a positive impact on their children's achievement. Studies have shown a positive relationship between parental involvement and student achievement exists regardless of how parental engagement was defined (Wilder, 2014).

Studies have also shown that parental involvement correlates positively with student achievement regardless of ethnicity or socioeconomic status (Wilder, 2014). However, some studies show that socioeconomic status and parental involvement are positively related (Balli, 1996; Bracey, 1996). In other words, parental involvement is usually low in families of low socioeconomic status and parental involvement is usually high in families of high socioeconomic status. The gap in parent involvement based on socioeconomic status makes the Title I, Part A parental involvement participation rates all the more important. If parents of students in Title I schools are encouraged to participate in school activities and are held accountable to engage in their children's learning, and they do so, then students' achievement should improve.

Methods

Data Collection

There were 258 Title I, Part A campuses in the Houston Independent School District (HISD) during the 2015–2016 school year. All of the campuses were designated as Title I Schoolwide Schools.

Data were obtained from two sources. Student demographics by ethnicity and active enrollment at Title I schools, along with parental involvement data in the eight participation categories were obtained from the Chancery Student Information System and were recorded by school staff. The percentage of parental involvement was calculated by dividing the number of Title I coded students by the number of students actively enrolled in a Title I school, according to the 2015–2016 Average Daily Attendance files.

Since all Title I schools in HISD were considered Title I Schoolwide schools in 2015–2016, all parent compacts should have been coded under the School Compact category in Chancery. However, the data were miscoded under Individual Compact in several instances. In this report, data coded for Individual Compact and School Compact have been combined.

Beginning in 2012–2013, a districtwide survey for HISD called Your Voice was conducted by RDA Group, a global market research and consulting firm. Houston ISD did not participate in the Your Voice Survey for the 2015–2016 school year. Supplemental parental feedback was gathered by the Family and Community Engagement department through their Academic Parent Training Teams (APTT). APTT is a restructuring of parent-teacher conferences as group meetings during which parents and guardians set goals for their children’s academic achievement and learn strategies to help their children meet those goals. Since the APTT conferences fall under the Parent Involvement Conference category, the parent responses can be extended to Parent Involvement.

Data Limitations

The parent responses collected using APTT provides limited feedback from parents regarding participation in their Title I schools and cannot be generalized to all HISD Title I schools. For example, of the 214,422 students enrolled in Title I schools, APTT collected 801 parent responses and those responses only came from Title I schools implementing the APTT program. The feedback was presented in both Likert scales and open-ended questions. Many of the open ended responses had to be translated from Spanish to English. Even with the limitations, the APTT survey responses provide context regarding parental satisfaction with the schools’ ability to communicate, invite, and support parental engagement at the campus level.

Due to a reorganization of school offices, year to year analysis could not be performed at this level.

Results

What was the parent involvement rate, as recorded in Chancery?

- For the 2015–2016 school year, 258 (100%) schools had parent involvement data recorded in Chancery, including the Individual and School Compact domains. Excluding the Individual and School Compact as types of parent involvement, 36 schools had total parent involvement rates below five percent; five of which had not recorded parental involvement activities (Appendix B, pages 13-20).
- Hispanic students (64 percent) represented the largest Title I student group districtwide. Hispanic students (47.9 percent), had the highest parent involvement participation rates, excluding Individual/Schoolwide Compact. American Indian had the lowest parent involvement participation rate at 36.0 percent, followed by African American students (39.1 percent), Caucasian students (40.0 percent), Asian students (43.3 percent), students identifying as two or more races (44.0 percent), and Pacific Islander students (45.1 percent) (Table 1). Compared to the 2014–2015, all student ethnic groups had a decrease in their overall participation rates except Pacific Islander students. Their participation rate increased by 13.5 percentage points.

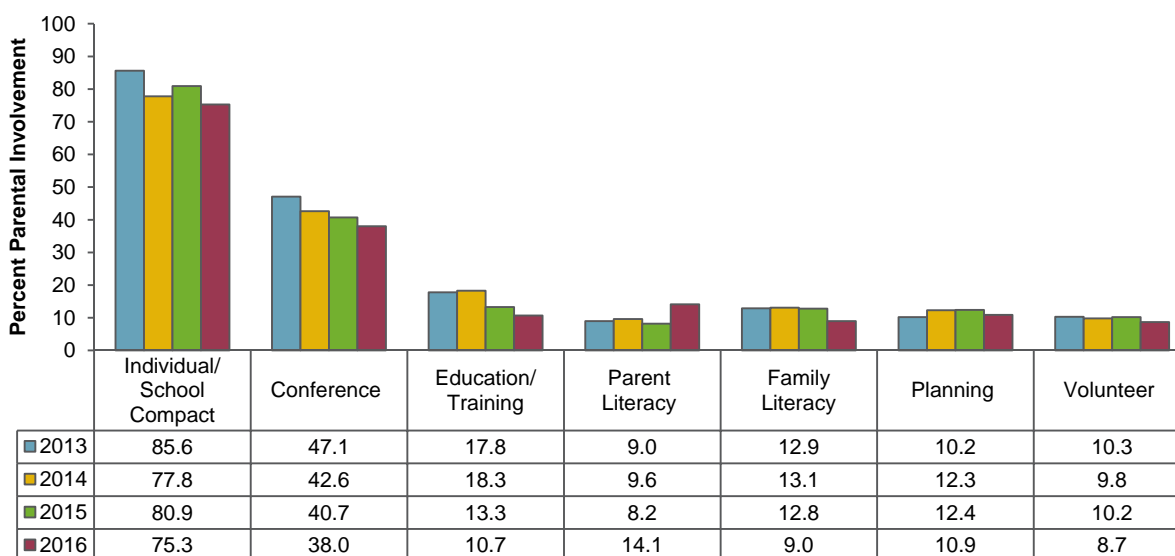

Table 1. Districtwide parent involvement percentage by student ethnicity, 2014–2015 and 2015–2016

- According to Chancery, 75.3 percent of Title I parents were identified as having received a copy of the Individual/School Compact, a document required to be distributed to all parents both electronically and on paper. Devastation

- Of the 258 Title I schools, 141 (54.6 percent) coded an Individual or School Compact participation rate over 90 percent. Four schools had a 100 percent compact return rate: Browning Elementary, Deady Middle, Herrera Elementary, and Oates Elementary schools.
- Overall, in 2015–2016, the district had a 45.2 percent parent involvement participation rate (not including Individual/Schoolwide Compact) recorded in Chancery. The parental involvement rate decreased by three percentage points in 2015–2016, as compared to 2014–2015 (Appendix B, p. 13).
- Among other parent participation categories in Chancery, the category with the highest participation rate was Conference, with 38.0 percent, and the category with the lowest participation rate was Volunteer, with 8.7 percent. The percentages of parent involvement decreased from 2014–2015 to 2015–2016 in the Individual/School Compact, Conference, Education/Training, Planning, and Volunteer categories. The categories showing an increase since 2014–2015 were Parent Literacy and Family Literacy.
- Not including the Individual/Schoolwide Compact, Conference has had the highest participation rate since 2012–2013. However, Conference has shown decreasing rates each year since 2012–2013 (Figure 1).

- From the seven categories, Individual/School Compact, Conference, Education/Training, and Volunteer have had a decrease in the participation rate percentages in 2015–2016 when compared to 2012–2013. Family Literacy, Planning, and Volunteer categories have had modest increases in the percentage of participation rates in 2015–2016 when compared to 2012–2013. Parent Literacy has remained stable (Table 2, p. 8).

- Of the 258 Title I schools in HISD in 2015–2016, twelve schools recorded parent participation rates below three percent in each of the seven areas: Arabic Immersion Magnet School, Baylor College of Medicine Academy, Dogan Elementary, Edison Middle School, Farias Early Childhood Center, Forest Brook Middle School, Key Middle School, Lawson (formally Dowling) Middle School, Peck Elementary, Texas Connections Academy Houston, TSU Charter Lab School, and Williams Middle School (see Appendix C, school pages). Of these 11 schools, four were also included in the low participation list for 2014–2015: Baylor College of Medicine Academy, Dogan Elementary, Key Middle School, and TSU Charter Lab School. Overall, there was a decrease from 18 to 11 schools that recorded less than three percent of parental involvement in all seven categories, from 2014–2015 to 2015–2016.
- Schools from the Elementary School Office 1 had the highest parental involvement rates in five of the seven categories: Individual/School Compact, 83.3 percent; Parent Literacy, 15.9 percent; Family Literacy, 23.4 percent; Planning, 13.8 percent; and Volunteer, 18.8 percent, as recorded in Chancery. Elementary School Office 2 reported the highest parental involvement participation in the Overall (excluding the Individual/School Compact) (62.8 percent) and Conference (56.9 percent) categories. The Secondary School Office 1 recorded the highest parental involvement in Education/Training (22.0 percent) (Figure 2).

Note: The overall participation did not include the Individual/Schoolwide Compact

- Schools from the Secondary Office 2 and Secondary Office Transformation had the lowest parental involvement rates in the district. In addition to the lowest overall participation rate (28.6 percent), the Secondary School Office 2 had the lowest parental involvement rates for the Individual/School Compact (67.6 percent) and Conference categories (20.3 percent). Secondary School Office Transformation reported the lowest rates for four out of seven categories: Education/Training (5.7 percent), Parent Literacy (4.5 percent), Family Literacy (4.8 percent), and Volunteer (0.7 percent) (Figure 2, p. 8).

How did parents respond on the 2015–2016 Academic Parent-Teacher Team (APTT) survey?

Schools participating in APTT voluntarily surveyed their parents throughout the year. Eight schools collected surveys to gauge parental feedback of the APTT model. APTT is grounded in parental engagement and the feedback provided by parents offered partial insight into this conference model. Since the APTT conferences fall under the Parent Involvement Conference category, subsequently, the parent responses can be extended to Parent Involvement.

- Results from two parent surveys, a total of 801 responses, administered through APTT schools suggested parents overwhelmingly felt the APTT meetings helped them understand how their child was performing and they acquired strategies to implement at home in an effort to support their child's learning.
- A small portion of the APTT parental surveys suggested the APTT meetings should have flexible scheduling (n = 22), include an interpreter (n = 2), include the students in the meetings (n = 11) and be more frequent (n = 12).

Discussion

The Title I, Part A program is designed to help students living in poverty obtain a high-quality education and achieve proficiency on state standards and assessments by providing additional funding to their schools. For parents to be involved in their children's education process, and as a way of holding schools, parents, and children accountable, HISD developed a Parent Compact. In Chancery, schools can indicate whether parents have received a copy of the parent compact under two categories: Individual Compact for Title I targeted assistance schools and School Compact for Title I schoolwide schools. Since all Title I schools in HISD were considered schoolwide in 2015–2016, all parent compact coding should have been placed under the School Compact category in Chancery, but the data were coded incorrectly as Individual Compact in a few instances. In this report, data coded for Individual Compact and School Compact have been combined.

Although some of the coding continued to be inaccurate this year, the volume of errors decreased in comparison to the 2014–2015 school year, as indicated by the decrease in the number of individual compacts coded for students. Following the recommendation in last year's report for training of the campus Title I coordinators, the External Funding department employed break-out sessions for Chancery specific training. It is recommended that the department continue the training for campus Title I coordinators to ensure further improvements in the fidelity of documentation practices and data collection processes. Training for Title I coordinators should include an overview of the list, created by External Funding, of qualified activities under each Parent Involvement domain to align school activities with parent involvement record keeping.

For the 2015–2016 school year, school staff recorded in Chancery that 75.3 percent of parents in the district received a copy of the parent compact, which decreased from the 80.9 percent reported in 2014–2015, and was the lowest it has been since reporting on Title I parental involvement began in 2012–2013. Given all parents are expected to receive both a paper copy and an electronic copy of the compact, coding should be 100 percent for all schools.

With the exception of the Parent and Family Literacy, this past year marked a noticeable decrease in the specific parent involvement categories, continuing an overall trend of decreased parent engagement within the district. Schools with low parent involvement participation rates are expected to have improvement plans in place. Given the breadth of research documenting a strong positive correlation between parental involvement and student achievement (Epstein, 1987; Jeynes, 2012; Wilder, 2014), parental engagement should continue to be a priority for Title I school administrators. As with most campus level programs, success of parental involvement is dependent on the administration buy-in. School Support Officers should use the interim Parent Involvement reports (published around November, February, and May) to determine which schools need additional support in developing parent recruitment plans and implementing parental involvement programs. These plans could include increasing attendance at the Parental Advisory Council meetings and having parents on site-based management teams.

Based on the continued decrease in parental involvement over the past four years, school administrators may want to consider new ways to engage parents or more accurately record parent participation in the Student Information System. Overall, Volunteering had the lowest parental involvement rate (8.7 percent), followed by Family Literacy (9.0 percent), Education/Training (10.7 percent), Planning (10.9 percent), and Parent Literacy (14.1 percent). School administrators should consider investigating possible reasons for the lack of participation in each of these areas, and tailor efforts to increase participation accordingly. For example, school administrators could provide a list of ways parents can volunteer their time at the beginning of school, particularly in non-traditional roles. Some school staff, like nurses, often rely on parents to help with many of their required duties, however, some parents are unaware of this opportunity. Furthermore, school staff should provide opportunities for parents to volunteer their time outside of school hours, e.g., extracurricular activities. Another suggestion would be to vary the times and days of school activities to provide several opportunities for parents to attend them, provide advance notice of the activities allowing parents to schedule their time around the activities, and market the activities using several different methods to reach a wider demographic of parents.

According to parents who completed the Your Voice Survey in 2014–2015, the question with the lowest agreement rate (76.1 percent) was “My child’s school gives me training and materials to help me to help my child”. However, a year following this feedback, parent Education/Training continued to decrease, only furthering the gap between parents’ lack of education and training opportunities for parents. The APTT parent feedback had some parents praising schools for providing materials and opportunities to work their children, while others request more materials and APTT meetings. Based on these results, school administrators should consider providing parents with more training and materials so that they are better equipped to help their children.

Note: The change in Parent Involvement from 2014–2015 to 2015–2016 is reflected through green arrows (increased involvement), red arrows (decreased involvement), and blue lines (involvement was less than a 0.05% change). Some schools were not Title I during the 2014–2015 school year, or were new schools in the 2015–2016 school year, therefore, comparison data between 2014–2015 and 2015–2016 could not be calculated. The school offices comparison from 2014–2015 to 2015–2016 is unavailable due to a school offices and schools reorganization.
