Highlights

The following are highlighted results from the CUPA-HR 2021 Benefits in Higher Education Annual Report:

- Most (55%) institutions offer their full-time employees a choice between two healthcare plan types. The most common healthcare plan combination (offered by 37% of institutions) is a 2-plan combination of a Preferred Provider Organization (PPO) plan and High Deductible Health (HDH) plan.
- Institutions are more likely to offer healthcare benefits to staff and faculty retirees under 65 than those who are 65 and older and thus eligible for Medicare.
- Most institutions already have (62%) or will soon have (25%) a formal wellness program.
- Employees at institutions with separate paid time off (PTO) plans receive more total PTO days than employees at institutions with combined PTO plans.
- Less than 40% of institutions surveyed offer paid parental leave in addition to vacation and sick time.
- More than half of institutions (58%) offer some form of short-term disability leave. Short-term disability leave is more common at private institutions than at public institutions.
- Institutions are slightly more likely to offer tuition benefits to unmarried same-sex partners (42%) than unmarried opposite-sex partners (37%).
- The 403(b) plan is the most popular retirement plan for both private institutions (where 96% offer it) and public institutions (where 97% offer it).

Introduction

CUPA-HR's survey of benefits for higher education employees has been conducted since 2003. Prior to 2020-21, data were collected on healthcare benefits in odd years and non-healthcare benefits in even years. This year, we collected data on all benefits: healthcare benefits, including healthcare plans and wellness programs; and non-healthcare benefits, including paid time off, tuition benefits, and retirement benefits. Data on healthcare benefits were last collected in 2018-19, and data on non-healthcare benefits were last collected in 2019-20.

This marks a special year for data collection and reporting for all CUPA-HR surveys. The severe budget cuts in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic forced many institutions to freeze hiring, cut positions, and, in some cases, decrease salaries and benefits. This report provides an overview of the current state of benefit offerings in higher education after the arrival of the COVID-19 pandemic. Additional analyses that highlight changes to benefits over the past year will be released on the CUPA-HR website.

BENEFITS SURVEYED

For this year's survey, the following benefits data were collected with an effective date of January 1, 2021:1

Healthcare Plans

For Preferred Provider Organization (PPO) plans, High Deductible Health (HDH) plans, Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) plans, and Point of Service (POS) plans, data were collected on enrollment and contributions for the employee and any dependents covered. Additional data were collected on stand-alone dental, stand-alone vision, and long-term care plans.

Wellness Programs

Data collected on wellness programs included budget amounts, staffing, components, and incentives.

Paid Time Off (PTO)

Detailed information was also collected on parameters such as minimum length of service, credit-hour limits, and where and when classes could be taken. In addition, usage data were collected.

Retirement

Data collected on retirement benefits included number of plans and providers, types of plans offered, details of each plan, and record-keeping fee structure and costs. Data on phased retirement programs and retirement incentives were also collected.

RESPONDENTS

Respondents were largely human resources professionals from higher education institutions in the U.S.⁷ There were 349 institutions that completed the survey (Table 2). All participating institutions are listed in Appendix B.

Table 2. Number of Responding Institutions by Classification and Affiliation

			Total
		Private Independent	Private Religious	Public

⁷ Special focus or other institutions include medical or law institutions, tribal colleges, research foundations, international institutions, for-profit institutions, higher ed affiliates, and unclassified institutions that typically have much different salary structures than traditional institutions and differ greatly from each other, so reporting them as a single category is not appropriate, and they do not appear in this report. However, their data are available for benchmarking in DataOnDemand, and their names appear in the participant list in Appendix B.
