Editor's Memo

Welcome to CONNECTION's 2005 DIRECTORY OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES. This edition represents the 36th higher education directory published by the New England Board of Higher Education (NEBHE). Over nearly four decades, the directory has provided a detailed overview of colleges and universities in New England—the region that can rightly claim to be America's higher education heartland.

This directory serves two key audiences. For college-bound students and their families, it provides useful information on each of the nearly 270 institutions listed, including tuition and room and board charges, enrollment data and a summary of admissions information, deadlines and fees. For CONNECTION's traditional readership of policymakers, journalists, legislators, higher education leaders and CEOs, the directory serves as a reference tool, providing names and titles of key campus administrators, institutional endowment and employment data and more.

Information reported in the state-by-state institutional listings in CONNECTION's 2005 DIRECTORY OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES is derived from a NEBHE survey of New England colleges and universities, conducted in the late summer and fall of 2004.

Readers will also find inside this issue valuable information on how to make college more affordable. Look to pages 18-22 to learn about NEBHE's tuition-saving Regional Student Program (RSP). Last academic year, the RSP provided 8,200 New England students with a total of $39 million in tuition savings. For information on traditional grant and loan programs see pages 24-30 where NEBHE's Wendy Lindsay presents a guide to financial aid and an overview of scholarship and loan programs available in each New England state.

The higher education institutions listed in this directory include thriving community and technical colleges, vibrant land-grant institutions and state colleges, world-famous liberal arts colleges and research universities and a range of high-quality specialty schools.

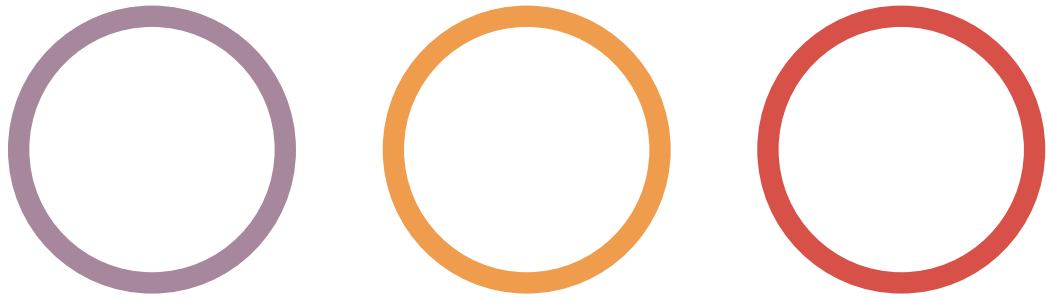

These colleges and universities are the sources of countless stories of innovation and empowerment. Some of these stories are told in NEBHE's quarterly journal, CONNECTION: THE JOURNAL OF THE NEW ENGLAND BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION.

In addition NEBHE now offers a biweekly email digest featuring links to the latest news from New England's 270 campuses . . . news of lifesaving medical research, innovative new academic programs, announcements of free public lectures and discussions and other engaging events. CONNECTION's CAMPUS NEWSLINK is circulated exclusively to Friends of NEBHE, who also receive four quarterly issues of CONNECTION, plus this ANNUAL DIRECTORY and other valuable benefits. For more information, see the special advertisement on page 16 or visit us at www.nebhe.org/friends.html.

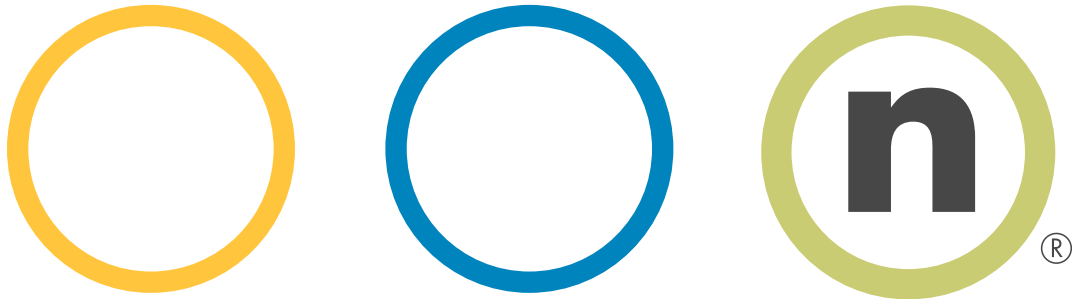

Producing CONNECTION and CONNECTION'S ANNUAL DIRECTORY would be impossible for the nonprofit New England Board of Higher Education without the support of the many advertisers who value CONNECTION's ability to reach influential decision-makers across a variety of sectors including education, business and government. The growing number of readers who have become Friends of NEBHE also help us continue to produce these quality publications year after year.

As always, we welcome your comments and suggestions on CONNECTION'S ANNUAL DIRECTORY and all issues of CONNECTION: THE JOURNAL OF THE NEW ENGLAND BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION. Don't hesitate to email us at connection@nebhe.org.

Charlotte Stratton is NEBHE's senior director of communications and editor of CONNECTION'S ANNUAL DIRECTORY OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES.

NEBHE: The Next Half Century

Lou D'Allesandro

In this, the New England Board of Higher Education's 50th year, I am struck by our organization's enduring relevance in our communities. NEBHE was established during an era of economic insecurity and growing college enrollment, much like today in many ways. But the role of education in our standard of living, economic development and way of life is even more important today than it was a half century ago. Indeed, the pressure on families and students to participate in higher education reinforces the critical nature of the relationships and programs initiated by NEBHE—programs that enhance cooperation among institutions of higher learning and improve access to higher education for students.

Costs are truly out of sight for both institutions and students. Through its Regional Student Program, NEBHE provides New England residents with significant savings when a resident chooses to enroll at a college or university located out of state. Not only does this collaborative program save New England residents tens of millions of dollars in tuition every year, but participating institutions also win because they are allowed to focus on their own unique strengths rather than trying to be everything to everyone.

Since the New England Board of Higher Education was established half a century ago, educational opportunities have increased exponentially, but so has the cost of delivering quality instruction. Economic pressure on families, institutions and state governments puts a new premium on finding creative strategies and partnerships to help New England's colleges and universities fulfill their missions.

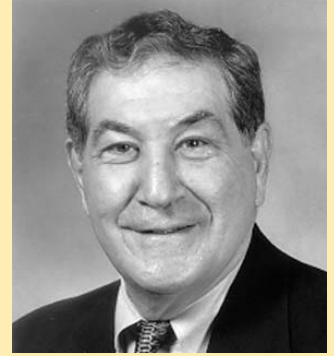

As a legislator, I see cooperation among government, legislators, educators and business as the key to developing these strategies. And the New England Board of Higher Education is an essential factor in bringing these groups together across the region.

Because of the compact nature of the six New England states, as well as the social and economic transparency between them, higher education in New England is better served when we work together than when we go it alone. I look forward to increasing the involvement of governors and legislators in our pursuit of excellence in higher education. A strong commitment to cooperation was what initially led the region's governors to establish NEBHE half a century ago and it is my goal to reinvigorate that spirit of partnership today.

NEBHE delegates from the six New England states, selected for their leadership in business, education and government, are working hard to put higher education at the forefront in their respective states. However, the uncertain economic situation that many states are experiencing has had an adverse effect on state involvement in higher education. Indeed, NEBHE's greatest challenge going forward will be to raise the visibility of important higher education issues so that excellence and opportunity will continue to be priorities in New England's state capitols. Again, we will be far better served working together in this endeavor than working alone.

I congratulate the New England Board of Higher Education for its admirable goals and diverse accomplishments over the past 50 years. And I look forward to contributing, along with many others, to its next half century of preserving New England's role as a national center of educational excellence.

NEW ENGLAND BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION ... Working Together

Half a century ago, six visionary New England governors realized that New England's future hopes rested with higher education. Against a backdrop of deep economic uncertainty and exploding college enrollments fueled by the G.I. Bill, these governors formed the New England Board of Higher Education (NEBHE) and committed their states to the shared pursuit of excellence. Soon after that, NEBHE was approved by New England's six state legislatures and authorized by the U.S. Congress.

Much has changed since those days. New technologies have transformed New England's workplaces, schools and homes. The clang of the machine shop has given way to the click of the mouse. New populations have enriched the region's economy and culture. And a college education has become a prerequisite of upward mobility—a pathway to economic success and civic engagement.

A few things have not changed. One, New England's future is inextricably linked to the innovation emanating from its 270 colleges and universities and the intellectual potential of its nearly 850,000 college students. Two, six states can do more together than one can do alone. And three, higher education is still the future of New England.

Today, each New England state is represented on the New England Board of Higher Education by eight delegates—leaders of education, business and government who are appointed by their states' governors and legislative leadership. They are supported by a staff of dedicated professionals who work closely with public and private partners throughout the six-state region.

The NEBHE Mission

The mission of the New England Board of Higher Education is to promote greater educational opportunities and services for the residents of New England. In pursuit of its mission, NEBHE works across the six New England states to:

- Engage and assist leaders in the development, implementation and assessment of sound education policies of regional significance.
- Promote programs and best practices to assist the states in implementing regional higher education policies.
- Promote regional cooperation and programs that encourage the efficient use and sharing of educational resources.
- Strengthen the relationship between higher education and the economic well-being of New England.

NEBHE Programs

Access and Affordability ...

NEBHE's Regional Student Program (RSP) provides New England residents with major tuition savings at out-of-state public colleges and universities in New England. Established in 1957, the RSP is available to students who pursue specialized degree programs not offered by their home-state public institutions. In academic year 2003-2004, the RSP saved more than 8,000 New Englanders $39 million in tuition! The RSP also saves New England's taxpayers millions of dollars because the states don't have to start up and maintain expensive academic programs that are already offered by their neighbors. The RSP is a common market for higher education.

Critical Analysis... Controversial Issues ... Tomorrow's News ... Get the CONNECTION?

CONNECTION: THE JOURNAL OF THE NEW ENGLAND BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION is America's only regional magazine on higher education and economic development.

Each quarter, CONNECTION offers expert analysis and hard-hitting commentaries on issues ranging from New England's changing demography to outdoor education programs, from federal student aid policy to campus architecture. A Boston newspaper called CONNECTION "the best vehicle in the region to follow new trends in business and the economy as they affect New England colleges and universities." A New Hampshire paper noted that "the magazine is packed with information.”

CONNECTION'S ANNUAL DIRECTORY OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES provides vital information on each of New England's nearly 270 colleges and universities, including data on enrollment, endowment, tuition, fees and room and board charges as well as names and titles of thousands of campus administrators.

CONNECTION subscribers also receive CONNECTION'S CAMPUS NEWSLINK—an email news digest featuring the latest news, events and comings and goings from New England's 270 college campuses.

Diversity in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics

The fastest-growing segments of New England's job market require skills in science, technology, engineering and math (STEM). Yet many of the region's fastest-growing populations have been severely underrepresented in these fields. NEBHE's Excellence Through Diversity (ETD) program aims to create a regional environment that supports the full participation of groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in STEM disciplines in academia and industry—particularly African-Americans, Hispanics, Native Americans and Southeast Asians. ETD's Annual Science Network program, co-sponsored by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, brings together hundreds of high school, undergraduate and graduate students interested in STEM disciplines to meet with academic and industry professionals for a day of networking and information sharing.

ETD provides professional development opportunities for graduate students in STEM disciplines and an online information clearinghouse featuring STEM resources. ETD also is engaged in a Congressionally funded research study examining key issues related to underrepresented populations in STEM disciplines and careers.

More Programs

NEBHE's Policy and Research programs provide vital data and analysis of higher education trends, convene opinion leaders and practitioners to share best practices and forge strategies to address New England's higher education challenges.

NEBHE's Professional Development programs provide cutting-edge curriculum and professional development for community college faculty in collaboration with secondary school teachers and college and university faculty. Programs focus on science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) fields.

NEBHE's International Exchange Programs offer affordable study-abroad opportunities at colleges and universities in Quebec and Nova Scotia.

NEW ENGLAND BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION
REGIONAL STUDENT PROGRAM

Out-of-State Tuition Break for Residents of

New England

700+ MAJORS WITH A TUITION BREAK!

CONNECTICUT • MAINE • MASSACHUSETTS • NEW HAMPSHIRE • RHODE ISLAND • VERMONT

Regional Student Program Tuition Break for New England Residents

The New England Board of Higher Education's Regional Student Program (RSP) provides residents of the New England states – Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont – with an out-of-state tuition break when they enroll in approved majors at public colleges and universities in other New England states.

All of New England's 78 public colleges and universities participate in the RSP, offering more than 700 majors with the RSP tuition break. Programs are available through the RSP at all academic levels: associate, bachelor's, master's, certificate of advanced graduate study, doctoral and first-professional.

RSP eligibility

The approved RSP majors are listed in the annual state-specific RSP Apple Book catalogs. The Apple Books are available in print and online from the New England Board of Higher Education. Visit www.nebhe.org or telephone 617-357-9620.

Residents of a particular New England state are eligible for an approved major, because that major is not offered by any home-state public institution. Students apply for RSP status on the institution's application form; no separate application is required. The institution notifies applicants who are accepted for admission whether they have been granted RSP status.

The approved majors listed in the Apple Books do not necessarily include every program for which residents might expect to be RSP-eligible. Participating colleges and universities may decide against offering certain programs through the RSP, such as those programs that are highly competitive.

In addition to being eligible for programs listed in the Apple Book, graduate students may petition for RSP eligibility for other unique programs by documenting that the program in question is not offered by any home-state public institution. (Refer to RSP Policy 3B2a.)

Also, in certain cases students who reside near a state border may apply for RSP eligibility at an out-of-state public college that is closer to their home than an in-state public college offering the same program. (Refer to RSP Policy 3B3.)

The RSP tuition break

The RSP tuition rate reflects a significant break on an institution's out-of-state tuition rate. Public colleges and universities charge out-of-state tuition to students who permanently reside in other states and in-state tuition to students who permanently reside in the state where the college or university is located.

Information on tuition rates for the 2005-06 academic year is available from participating colleges and universities and from the New England Board of Higher Education.

In academic year 2003-04, more than 8,200 New England students were enrolled through the RSP and saved more than $39 million on their annual tuition bills. Participating students enrolled on a full-time basis saved on average nearly $6,000 in tuition each in academic year 2003-04.

The RSP is a tuition-discount program. Students are eligible based on their program of study, not on financial need. RSP students are eligible to apply for financial aid from other sources.

Shared resources

The RSP enables the six New England states to expand educational opportunities for their residents, while avoiding duplication of costly academic programs. Established by NEBHE in 1957, the RSP has provided New England residents with savings on more than 183,000 annual tuition bills. Meanwhile the RSP has helped the individual New England states avoid spending billions of dollars in capital and operating expenditures for academic programs already offered in other New England states.

A Chance to Achieve Their Dreams

This year, more than 600 non-traditional adult learners who face barriers to academic success will have an opportunity to earn a college degree.

Through the New England ABE-to-College Transition Project, GED graduates and adult diploma recipients can enroll at one of 25 participating adult learning centers located across New England to take free college preparation courses and receive educational and career planning counseling. They leave the program with improved academic and study skills, such as writing basic research papers and taking effective notes. Best of all, they can enroll at one of 30 colleges and universities that partner with the program.

Each year, the Project exceeds its goals: 60 percent complete the program; and 75 percent of these graduates go on to college.

By linking Adult Basic Education to post-secondary education, the New England ABE-to-College Transition Project gives non-traditional adult learners a chance to enrich their own and their families' lives.

To learn more, contact Jessica Spohn, Project Director, New England Literacy Resource Center, at (617) 482-9485, ext. 513, or through e-mail at jspohn@worlded.org. (The Project is funded by the Nellie Mae Education Foundation through the Adult Literacy initiative.)

Financial Aid Resources for New England College Students

Meeting College Costs Using Financial Aid

Wendy A. Lindsay

In academic year 2003-04, the average cost of attending a four-year private college in the United States was more than $29,000 a year, according to the College Board. The average cost of attending a four-year public college was $14,000 for an in-state student and $21,000 for an out-of-state student. Multiply that by four, and the average pricetag for a bachelor's degree is $118,000 at a private college and $57,000 to $84,000 at a four-year public college.

Understandably, prospective college students and their families often find these costs daunting, and most turn to financial aid to help foot the bill.

In fact, at least half of all students receive financial aid to help pay for college.

Financial aid is available from a variety of sources, including the federal government, state government agencies (listed on page 27), colleges, private foundations, community organizations, corporations and the military.

What are students and families expected to pay? That depends on their current financial situation and ability to help pay the cost of a college education. Students and families provide relevant information on the financial aid applications required by the colleges, who in turn decide what a family is expected to contribute.*

For starters, students and their parents need to complete the federal government's FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) to be considered for any financial aid, including loans.

In addition to the FAFSA, colleges usually require students to complete a college financial aid application form. Some colleges also require their applicants to complete the College Board's application, called Profile, for awarding non-federal student aid funds.

The FAFSA asks students and their parents to report income from the previous calendar year and provide other information such as number of children in college and amount of money in bank accounts. The federal government calculates the Expected Family Contribution (EFC) and reports this information to the colleges selected by the student. A Student Aid Report is also sent to the student.

Colleges often use their own criteria to determine a student's EFC based on information from the applications they require. The colleges identify the student's eligibility for financial aid by subtracting the EFC from the Cost of Attendance.

What is the Cost of Attendance? The colleges determine the estimated full cost of attendance for their students, which includes not only tuition, fees, room and board, or the costs of off-campus living, but also books and supplies, transportation and personal expenses.

Students who are independent report only their own income and assets (and their spouse's, if married). A student is considered independent if one of the following applies: Born before Jan. 1, 1980 (for 2003-04 academic year), married, enrolled in a graduate program (beyond bachelor's degree), has legal dependent(s), is an orphan or ward of the court or a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces.*

Calculating Eligibility

Cost of Attendance

Tuition, fees, room and board, books and supplies, transportation, personal expenses.

Expected Family Contribution

Determined from the FAFSA and/or the College Board's Profile and any other financial aid application required by the college.

Eligibility for Financial Aid

The maximum amount of money students can expect to receive in financial aid.

Types of Financial Aid

There are three basic types of financial aid: (1) scholarships and grants, (2) federal work-study and (3) loans.

Scholarships and Grants

Scholarships and grants are gift aid, because, unlike loans, they are not paid back. They are awarded based on financial need and other criteria, such as achievement, religious affiliation, ethnicity, memberships, hobbies or special interests.

Scholarships and grants are offered by the federal government, state financial aid agencies, colleges, private businesses, foundations and community organizations, towns, high schools, veterans' groups, etc. Information is available from colleges, high school guidance offices, public libraries, community organizations, scholarship directories and online resources (see page 26).

Federal Pell Grants and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants are awarded by the colleges to students who are identified as eligible by the federal government, based on information provided in the FAFSA.

Individual states have grant and scholarship programs for their residents. (See detailed list for New England states on page 27.)

Federal Work-Study Program

Work-study money is awarded by the colleges to students identified as eligible by the federal government, based on information provided in the FAFSA. The students earn the award amount through part-time employment provided or arranged by the college.

Loans for Students and Parents

Loans, which account for about 60 percent of all financial aid, can be taken out by students, parents or both. Students do not have to pay back their loans until after leaving college; however, parents must begin making payments soon after the loan is disbursed.

Free Information

Free financial aid information and free scholarship searches are readily available from several sources including the federal government, state financial aid agencies (see list starting on page 27), college financial aid offices, high school guidance counselors, libraries and the Internet (see page 26).

Watch out for scholarship scams! Explore all free sources before considering any private, fee-based scholarship service. Make sure a private service is reputable. Information is available from the Federal Trade Commission at www.ftc.org or telephone 1-877-FTC-HELP.

Meet deadlines

Students need to check with the college financial aid office to find out which application forms are required and what the deadlines are. Financial aid applications must be completed on time, and early is better. Note: Students can apply for financial aid before they have been accepted by the colleges where they have applied for admission.

The FAFSA should be completed as soon as possible after January 1. Students and families can choose to estimate their income for the previous year and verify it later, instead of delaying their application until after filing taxes.

File the FAFSA electronically at www.ed.gov/studentaid/apply.html. Obtain an electronic PIN to "sign" the FAFSA at www.pin.ed.gov

Federal Perkins Loans are very low-interest loans administered by the college for students with exceptional financial need.

Federal Stafford Loans for Students

Through the federal Stafford Loan Program, students can borrow up to a maximum loan amount each year they are enrolled and pay back the loan after leaving college. Loans are subsidized for eligible students (the interest is forgiven while the student is enrolled) or unsubsidized (the interest accrues while the student is enrolled). If the college participates as a lender in the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program, students apply through the college's financial aid office. Otherwise, students apply to a bank, credit union or other lender that participates in the Federal Family Education Loans program (FFELP).

Federal PLUS Loans for Parents

Parents who take out federal PLUS loans begin payments within 60 days after the loan has been disbursed. If the college participates as a lender in the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program, parents apply through the college's financial aid office. Otherwise, parents apply to a bank, credit union or other lender that participates in the Federal Family Education Loans program (FFELP).

Other loan programs are available from state financing authorities, as well as from private lenders and some colleges.

Armed Forces

The U.S. Armed Forces offer various college financing options to students who meet eligibility requirements. Information is available at the U.S. military's career guide site: www.myfuture.com. Options include the Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) Program, which helps enrollees pay for some college expenses and the Montgomery G.I. Bill, which provides financial support to those who attend college after serving in the military.

Other ways to meet college costs

- Use a tuition payment plan.
- Get an out-of-state tuition break: The New England Board of Higher Education's Regional Student Program provides New England residents with a tuition break when they study approved majors at public colleges and universities in other New England states. Eligibility is explained in the annual RSP catalog, available at www.nebhe.org or from NEBHE at 617-357-9620.
- Participate in community service: Americorps is a national program that allows college-age students to earn education awards in return for national service. Visit www.americorps.org/joining or telephone 800-942-2677.
- Attend college half-time or part-time and take longer to complete a degree, but still remain eligible for some financial aid (attending at least half-time is required for federal Stafford and Plus loan programs).
- Attend a lower-cost, two-year community college then transfer to a four-year college to earn a bachelor's degree.
- Commute to college instead of living on campus.
- Work for a company or organization that provides tuition assistance.

Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is determined by "federal methodology" and "institutional methodology."

Federal methodology is a calculation, according to a formula specified in federal law, of information provided in the FAFSA, based on the student's income and assets, and in the case of dependent students, also the parents' income, assets and number of dependents.

Detailed information available at: www.ifap.ed.gov.

Institutional methodology is a calculation conducted by colleges and universities who require other financial aid applications, such as the College Board's Profile, in addition to the results of the FAFSA.

1. The higher education institutions listed in CONNECTION's 2005 DIRECTORY OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES are authorized to grant academic degrees at certificate, associate, bachelor's, master's or doctoral levels. Colleges and universities are listed alphabetically by state with public institutions appearing first, followed by independent institutions. A separate section listing law and medical schools follows the state-by-state sections.

Independent institutions listed are nonprofit except for the following for-profit institutions: Briarwood College, Gibbs College, Goodwin College and Paier College of Art Inc. in Connecticut; Andover College and Beal College in Maine; Gibbs College and New England Institute of Art in Massachusetts; Hesser College and McIntosh College in New Hampshire; and New England Culinary Institute in Vermont.

Information in the institutional listings is derived from a New England Board of Higher Education (NEBHE) survey conducted in the summer of 2004.

2. Institutions generally provide their main telephone and fax numbers and the institution's homepage on the World Wide Web. (For telephone numbers of admissions offices, see the section of each listing titled "Admissions Information.")
3. Brief factual descriptions note the year the institution was founded, types of programs offered and degrees awarded.
4. The NEBHE survey asks campuses to provide the names and titles of senior campus officers. In general, the campus officers listed include presidents, academic deans, chief financial officers and undergraduate admissions and financial aid officers.
5. Most New England colleges and universities are accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC), a regional accrediting body based in Bedford, Massachusetts. NEASC accreditation indicates that a college has purposes appropriate to higher education, has the necessary resources to achieve its stated purposes through educational programs, is substantially doing so, and gives reasonable evidence that it will continue to do so in the foreseeable future. Accreditation by NEASC applies to the institution as a whole; therefore it is not a guarantee of the quality of every course offered. NE indicates that an institution is accredited by NEASC. NE and indicates that the institution is a candidate for accreditation by NEASC.

Some New England institutions and/or their individual programs are accredited by other accrediting bodies. Specialized indicates that an institution or one or more of its academic programs carries such accreditation. Interested students should contact the institution directly for information about such accreditation.

In the case of the law and medical schools additional accreditation is indicated as follows:

AALS Association of American Law Schools

ABA American Bar Association

AMA-AAMA American Medical Association-American Association of Medical Assistants

AMA-CAHEA American Medical Association-Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation

AOA American Osteopathic Association

LCME Liaison Committee on Medical Education

6. In a semester system, the academic year is divided into two equal units. In a trimester system, the year is divided into three units. In a quarter system, the year is divided into four units. Other calendar systems include 4-1-4, which features two terms of four months each and a one-month intersession intended for experimental or intensive study and variations such as 4-4-1 or 4-1-4-1.
7. An institution's student body is classified as men for men only, women for women only or coed for men and women.
8. Tuition/Fees generally refers to annual tuition and mandatory fees for a typical undergraduate (except in the case of institutions that enroll only graduate students). Institutions listing tuition per credit hour are footnoted as such. For public institutions, in-state tuition and mandatory fees are listed first; followed by out-of-state tuition and mandatory fees. RSP Tuition refers to reduced tuition paid at public institutions by students participating in NEBHE's Regional Student Program (see pages 18-22 for more information). Regular out-of-state fees apply. Tuition and fees are current for the 2004-2005 academic year. Fees may include the cost of health insurance required by some institutions if students are not covered by comparable health insurance and may vary according to program of study. The figures listed for Tuition/Fees do not include room and board charges unless otherwise indicated.
9. Room and Board Charge refers to average annual charges for students living on campus and participating in a standard meal plan (unless otherwise noted) during the 2004-2005 academic year.
10. Housing Type is categorized as: m – housing for men; w – housing for women; c – coed housing; and f – housing for families or married students.
11. Listing generally shows the 2004 estimated market value of institutional endowment, unless otherwise indicated. Endowments under $1 million are not reported. In most cases, the value of endowments listed in the law and medical school section are also included in the affiliated institution's total endowment in the state-by-state listings.

12. Listing shows the total number of full-time employees (excluding faculty) and part-time employees (excluding faculty), in most cases as of Jan. 1, 2004.
13. Listings shows the total number of full-time faculty and part-time faculty, in most cases as of Jan. 1 2004.
14. Figure refers to the total library collection. In most cases, reported collections include printed volumes, micro-units, electronic titles, paper and electronic serials and periodicals.
15. Enrollment figures are for the fall 2003 term. The figures are reported by institutions based on a headcount of full- and part-time degree enrollment in undergraduate and graduate degree programs and full- and part-time non-degree enrollment.
16. Admissions Information is presented in a brief narrative and may include: examinations required by institutions as part of the admissions process or for placement after admission; application deadlines and fees for first-year students; and information regarding special admissions programs and related deadlines. The admissions office telephone number, email address and website address are also provided.

The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) exam is not generally listed; however most institutions require the exam of students for whom English is a second language.

Generally listed admissions examinations are indicated as follows:

ACT American College Testing Program

ACT/ASSETT American College Testing Program ASSETT Test

DAT Dental Aptitude Test

GRE Graduate Records Examination

LSAT Law School Admissions Test

MAT Miller Analogies Test

MCAT Medical College Admissions Test

OAT Optometry Admissions Test

SATI Scholastic Aptitude Reasoning Test (formerly the SAT)

SATII Scholastic Aptitude Subject Tests (formerly known as the Achievement Tests, institutions may require students submit scores from specific subject tests)

Some of the more popular special admissions programs include:

Early Decision, in which the institution provides early notice of admission and requires a non-refundable deposit if the student accepts the offer; and Early Notification, in which the institution give early notice of admission and requires that students make a deposit that is refundable if the student decides not to attend.

When You Do The Math

Connecticut's Community Colleges Add Value

Connecticut's economic growth depends on the education level and earning power of its workforce. With nearly 50% of the state's public college and university undergraduates enrolled at the twelve community colleges, Connecticut students and businesses benefit. Over 96,000 credit and non-credit students each year gain improved career skills, better job opportunities, and a better quality of life. Seventy percent of students attend part-time while working toward a degree.

- An associate degree graduate earns approximately $400,000 in additional income over a lifetime in comparison to a high school graduate
- Graduates of community college occupational programs in 2000-2001 increased individual earnings by nearly $13,000 annually, according to statistics from the Connecticut Employment and Training Commission
- Jobs requiring a two-year degree will grow by 31% between 1998 and 2008 according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics
- Students who transfer to complete a four-year degree through guaranteed admissions programs reduce the cost of education and student loans
- In 2003, over 600 Connecticut businesses contracted for employee education and training with the community colleges

A community college education makes the difference through:

- A 21st century workforce for
 - Allied Health and Bioscience
 - Information Technology
 - Insurance and Finance
 - Manufacturing
 - Teaching and Childcare
- Improved job opportunities
- Increased earnings
- Reduced unemployment
- Reduced welfare dependency
- Increased tax revenues
- Improved health habits
- Reduced health care costs
- Reduced criminal justice costs

This all adds up to a skilled workforce and economic prosperity for Connecticut.

ENGINES: ASSESSING THE TRUE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF N.E. HIGHER EDUCATION—WINTER 2005

New England's 270 colleges and universities make a profound economic impact on the region and its communities. CONNECTION takes a closer look at how—and how much—the higher education enterprise fuels economic growth and invigorates New England communities.

TRENDS AND INDICATORS IN HIGHER EDUCATION, 2005—SPRING 2005

CONNECTION documents key trends in New England higher education with a rich collection of figures and hard-hitting analysis of “indicators” such as enrollment, public and private support of higher education, student aid and research and development.

ANOTHER LOOK AT DISTANCE LEARNING—SUMMER 2005

CONNECTION explores how information and telecommunications technologies are transforming teaching and learning as well as campus administration and student services. Will ultra high-bandwidth connections translate into student achievement? What will it cost New England's colleges to stay current?

TEACHING AND LEARNING—FALL 2005

CONNECTION examines new models in teaching and learning. Noted educators and commentators explore how New England colleges and universities are implementing new programs and curricula to improve instruction.

THERE'S NOT ENOUGH ART IN OUR SCHOOLS.

NO WONDER PEOPLE THINK
MARTHA GRAHAM
IS A SNACK CRACKER.

Hardly a fitting legacy for the woman who, despite getting a late start at the positively elderly age of 17, became the mother of American interpretive dance.

A misconception. Not to mention an overlooked marketing opportunity.

With verve and nearly single-handedly, Martha Graham brought her dance style into the 20th century.

She did nothing less than create an entirely new genre of dance, while shattering the expectations of audiences and critics alike with her percussive, angular movement style. She was one of the first dancers to collaborate with contemporary composers instead of using the 18th- and 19th-century compositions her predecessors favored. Her dances have been called "motion pictures for the sophisticated"; her theories on movement and kinesthetics are still vital today; and there is scarcely a dancer alive who doesn't owe a huge debt to her sharp creative mind and fierce perfectionism.

Ms. Graham told stories using movement. Here, she tells us how sad it is that kids aren't getting enough art.

And to think she could have made it her entire life without experiencing the arts. Just like so many kids today.

Each day, more and more of the arts are being completely drained from our children's schools. Yet studies show parents believe dance and music and art and drama make their kids better students and better people. So what can you do to reverse this trend?

Speak up now. Demand your child's fair share of the arts. To find out how to help, or for more information about the benefits of arts education, please visit us at AmericansForTheArts.org. Otherwise, even a legacy as rich as Martha Graham's can crumble to nothing.

Let art borrow some brain. It'll return it in better condition.

ART. ASK FOR MORE.

For more information about the importance of arts education, contact www.AmericansForTheArts.org.

WENTWORTH INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

1904 - 2004 and beyond:

... CELEBRATING OUR CENTENNIAL

Wentworth is an independent college offering bachelor's degree programs in 15 nationally-recognized programs, in the fields of architecture, computer science, design, engineering, engineering technology and the management of technology.

Classroom learning is combined with practical applications in laboratories, studios and Co-op work.

More than 3,300 students (2,800 full-time) attend Wentworth, from 39 states and 56 countries. Over 1,600 students live on our 35-acre urban yet green campus. We offer an affordable, quality education.

Wentworth graduates include CEOs and partners of numerous successful architecture, construction, consulting, design, engineering and high tech firms, as well as many entrepreneurs leading their own mid-sized and smaller companies.

We invite you to visit Wentworth - a well-kept secret (until now).

BRINGING INNOVATION TO COMMUNICATION AND THE ARTS

Founded in 1880, Emerson is one of the premier colleges in the United States for the study of communication and the arts. The campus is home to WERS-FM, the oldest noncommercial radio station in Boston; the 1,200-seat Cutler Majestic Theatre; and Ploughshares, the award-winning literary journal for new writing.

Located on Boston Common in the heart of the city's Theatre District, Emerson is walking distance from the Massachusetts State House, historic Freedom Trail, and Boston Public Garden. The College also sponsors programs in Los Angeles, Kasteel Well (The Netherlands), summer film study in Prague, and cross-registration with the six-member Boston ProArts Consortium.

MIDDLESEX COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Middlesex is on a Mission

At Middlesex our mission is to help you reach your educational goals. Our focus is on your future. As the largest community college in the commonwealth, our students can choose from 73 degree and certificate programs as well as hundreds of community education and career training courses offered during the day, evening, on weekends and on-line.

Many Middlesex programs have internships and service learning components, which give our students important experiential learning opportunities many employers appreciate.

We also offer professional development, a nationally acclaimed post graduate program in Software Technical Writing and, new this fall, several on-campus bachelor's degree completion programs for MCC graduates through Salem State College as well as evening courses at Woburn High School.

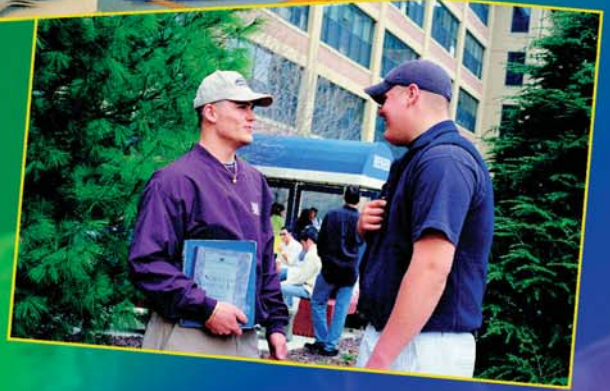

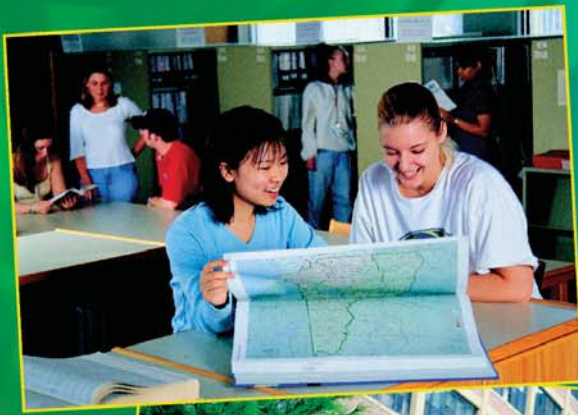

Whatever your goals, let Middlesex help you put them within reach.

Got a mission? Get to Middlesex.

A COLLEGE AS UNIQUE AS YOU ARE!

The Hesser Advantage:

- Job-focused classes in high-demand fields give you the skills you'll need for the jobs of the future.
- Limited enrollment allows you to be known as a unique person rather than as a number.
- Highly qualified, experienced faculty provide you with a personal and friendly learning atmosphere.
- Career placement helps you put your education to work.
- Hesser's 2-step Bachelor Degree Programs let you exercise your options.
- Learn from your classmates: students from diverse backgrounds and different countries will give you fresh and interesting perspectives on the world.
- Hesser College will have you less than one hour away from the culture and entertainment of Boston, and a short drive away from great New England skiing, hiking, and camping.

Learning^{to} Bridge the World

At Roger Williams University, we encourage your learning so you can accomplish your personal goals and enhance your world.

Programs are offered in the liberal arts and sciences, architecture, business, education, engineering, historic preservation, justice studies, legal studies, visual arts studies, and law. A Core Curriculum bridges academic disciplines and many academic and extracurricular opportunities – such as NCAA Division III varsity athletics, numerous clubs and organizations, a challenging Honors Program, study abroad opportunities, and a community involvement program. All combine to make Roger Williams University a rewarding experience in learning.

Look to the Future See What's Coming in CONNECTION

ENGINES: ASSESSING THE TRUE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF N.E. HIGHER EDUCATION—WINTER 2005

New England's 270 colleges and universities make a profound economic impact on the region and its communities. CONNECTION takes a closer look at how—and how much—the higher education enterprise fuels economic growth and invigorates New England communities.

TRENDS AND INDICATORS IN HIGHER EDUCATION, 2005—SPRING 2005

CONNECTION documents key trends in New England higher education with a rich collection of figures and hard-hitting analysis of “indicators” such as enrollment, public and private support of higher education, student aid and research and development.

ANOTHER LOOK AT DISTANCE LEARNING—SUMMER 2005

CONNECTION explores how information and telecommunications technologies are transforming teaching and learning as well as campus administration and student services. Will ultra high-bandwidth connections translate into student achievement? What will it cost New England's colleges to stay current?

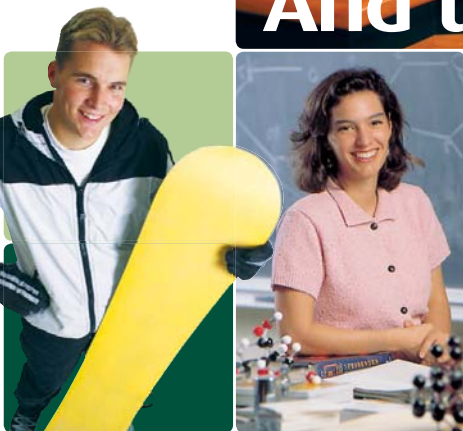

TEACHING AND LEARNING—FALL 2005

CONNECTION examines new models in teaching and learning. Noted educators and commentators explore how New England colleges and universities are implementing new programs and curricula to improve instruction.

Some colleges make claims. Champlain makes news.

Taking “the global leap” –The New York Times

“Champlain is taking care of e-business” –Boston Herald

A “hidden gem” –The Boston Globe

Some of the most authoritative voices have a lot to say about Champlain College. For its commitment to internationalism and e-business, state-of-the-art facilities, resources, mentoring, and career-driven curriculum, Champlain's value has been recognized and praised throughout the media and the region.

Our students take a different path to the top.

The Nation's Leading College for Students with Learning Disabilities and AD/HD

Serving talented and bright students with learning differences and AD/HD, Landmark College's accredited associate degree and summer programs offer a proven course for academic success.

Landmark has one of America's lowest student-faculty ratios, enabling us to create innovative learning strategies and employ the latest technology for academic success.

Our approach works. Nine of every ten Landmark College graduates go on to pursue their baccalaureate degrees at such institutions as American University, Boston College, Brown University, Occidental College, Quinnipiac University and the University of Denver.

THERE'S NOT ENOUGH ART IN OUR SCHOOLS.

NO WONDER PEOPLE THINK
LOUIS ARMSTRONG
WAS THE FIRST MAN TO WALK ON THE MOON.

It's a long way from the Apollo Theatre to the Apollo program. And while his playing may have been "as lofty as a moon flight," as Time magazine once suggested, that would be as close as Louis Daniel Armstrong would ever get to taking "one small step for man."

But as the jazz musician of the 20th century, giant leaps were simply a matter of course for Satchmo. For no one has ever embodied the art form the way he did. It was he who helped make virtuoso solos a part of the vocabulary. It was he who was honored with the title "American goodwill ambassador" by the State Department. It was he who was the last jazz musician to hit #1 on the Billboard pop chart.

Not bad for a kid whose first experience with the trumpet was as a guest in a correctional home for wayward boys. If only today's schools were as enlightened and informed as that reformatory was.

Instead of a giant leap, Louis Armstrong delivered one giant free-form crazy jazz groove for mankind.

Alas, the arts are dismissed as extravagant in today's schools. This, despite all the studies that show parents believe music and dance and art and drama make their children much better students and better people.

If you feel like your kids aren't getting their fair share, make some noise. To find out how, or for more information about the benefits of arts education, please visit us on the web at AmericansForTheArts.org. Just like the great Louis Armstrong, all you need is a little brass.

ART. ASK FOR MORE.
