All the intelligence you need for financing an education.

MEFA—the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority—was created by the state legislature in 1982 at the request of Massachusetts colleges and universities. MEFA is a self-financing, non-profit state authority dedicated to assisting students, parents, colleges, and universities in meeting the challenges of financing higher education.

MEFA helps families at every step of the way with innovative college savings plans for parents of young children preparing for future education expenses, low cost loan programs for those with more immediate funding needs, a Federal Loan Consolidation Program offered to parents and students with federal loans, and college planning information to assist families of students at all stages of educational pursuit. Make higher education affordable with MEFA—that's an intelligent choice.

A Directory of World-Class Resources

EVAN S. DOBELLE

Hardly a day goes by without a delegation touching down in New England from some faraway place seeking the secret behind America's innovation-based economy. It is in this small corner of the United States, they know, that the dynamic relationship between education and prosperity has been most developed, if not perfected. It's here where world-class and up-and-coming colleges alike prepare students for occupations that may not have existed when those students first stepped on campus, where university research labs spin off new companies and whole new industries, and where vibrant campuses energize host cities and villages.

Many of these visitors arrive knowing just a handful of famous New England colleges and universities and leave awed by the breadth of the region's higher education offerings. Indeed, it is the diversity of New England's 270-plus campuses—public and private, two-year and four-year, religious and secular, professional and liberal arts—that makes the region truly world-class.

The colleges and universities listed here directly employ more than 250,000 people and spend $20 billion annually in operating costs alone. They draw in 850,000 students each year from across the nation and around the globe and send them forth as teachers, skilled medical technicians, entrepreneurs, engineers, poets, even future Nobel laureates.

Ironically, however, the region faces significant challenges in its backyard. All six New England states are among the bottom 10 nationally in the growth of their 18- to 24-year-old populations since 1990. By some estimates, only 76 percent of New England ninth-graders graduate from high school in the normal four years time, and just 59 percent of those high school graduates enroll in college the following fall. Then, only one in five students graduate from New England community colleges within three years of enrolling. Fewer than half graduate from New England four-year state colleges within six years. Even at the region's public land grant universities, just 65 percent of students earn four-year degrees in six years; only 74 percent at private institutions do.

Three in 10 doctorates awarded by New England universities go to foreign students, while just one in 10 go to U.S. minority students. Many of our own residents simply cannot afford the colleges we boast about to the rest of the world. Total yearly charges for resident students, including room and board, average nearly $40,000 at New England's private four-year institutions and $18,000 at the region's underfunded public campuses. While Americans pay an average of $242 each in annual state taxes to support public higher education and student aid in their states, New Englanders pay $177.

If New England is to serve the world and provide a ladder to success for its own people, the colleges and universities in this directory must innovate and collaborate. They can find an excellent model in NEBHE's tuition-saving Regional Student Program, which this year celebrates its 50th anniversary. This "Tuition Break" program provides a discount on the out-of-state tuition students normally pay at public colleges and universities in the other New England states if they pursue approved majors that are not offered by the state colleges in their home state. Since it was established in 1957, this NEBHE program has provided New England students and families with significant savings on more than 200,000 annual college tuition bills. And the six states have saved untold millions of dollars by avoiding duplication of programs already available in other New England states. It's a common market with a proven track record—and it's a model of cooperation we must build upon.

NEW ENGLAND BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION— Six States, Countless Opportunities for

The New England Board of Higher Education (NEBHE) was founded in 1955, when six visionary New England governors realized that the future prosperity of the region rested upon higher education—and that their six small states could do more working together than working alone. The six committed their states to the shared pursuit of academic excellence. Soon thereafter, NEBHE was approved by all of New England's state legislatures and authorized by the U.S. Congress. Today, New England's future is inextricably linked to the innovation emanating from the region's approximately 270 colleges and universities and the intellectual potential of its people. NEBHE's capacity to expand educational opportunity and strengthen the relationship between higher education and the region's economic and civic development is more critical than ever.

NEBHE Programs

Hundreds of Majors ... with a Tuition Break!

NEBHE's Regional Student Program (RSP) Tuition Break helps New England residents when they enroll in approved degree programs at out-of-state public colleges and universities in Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont. The 50-year-old program has provided New England residents with discounts on more than 200,000 annual tuition bills.

In academic year 2006-07, nearly 8,200 New England students went to college through the RSP Tuition Break and saved $46 million on their annual tuition bills. Full-time students enrolled in the RSP Tuition Break program saved an average of $7,000 each on their annual tuition bills. All of New England's public colleges and universities participate in the RSP Tuition Break Program.

In addition to helping New England students and families pay for college, the RSP Tuition Break enables the New England states to avoid spending billions of dollars in capital and operating expenditures for academic programs already offered in other New England states.

Get Ready ... College Ready New England

The New England states boast one of the world's largest concentrations of postsecondary institutions and rank high in terms of levels of educational attainment. Yet increasing numbers of New Englanders, many of them immigrants or minorities, fail to complete high school and pursue postsecondary education.

NEBHE's College Ready New England initiative is focused on helping the six states develop strategies to increase the economic competitiveness and well-being of the region and its residents through expanded college participation and success.

Its mission is two-fold: to ensure that all New England's students leave high school well-prepared for postsecondary success and to improve college attendance and completion rates—particularly for underserved and underrepresented populations, including low-income and minority students and first-generation college-goers.

College Ready New England functions as a regional network through which the six-states share resources, best practices, cutting-edge policies, program innovations and research.

The mission of the New England Board of Higher Education is to promote greater educational opportunities and services for the residents of New England.

College Readiness and Success

Critical Analysis, Expert Commentaries, Tomorrow's News ... THE NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF HIGHER EDUCATION

For more than two decades, CONNECTION: THE JOURNAL OF THE NEW ENGLAND BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION provided a forum for educators, elected officials, CEOs and others to share new thinking and best practices on topics ranging from college access and affordability to “town-gown” relations to New England’s changing demography. Now CONNECTION is THE NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF HIGHER EDUCATION—America’s only regional journal on higher education.

Each quarter, THE NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF HIGHER EDUCATION features expert commentaries and hard-hitting analysis on key issues in higher education and economic development. Articles explore topics ranging from the education of America’s future engineers to immigration in the global economy to new measures of learning. Our authors include national leaders such as Ted Kennedy and Margaret Spellings ... noted educational commentators like Century Foundation senior fellow Richard Kahlenberg and College Board economist Sandy Baum ... and gadflies including higher education analyst Cliff Adelman and author Peter Sacks.

THE NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF HIGHER EDUCATION’s annual “Trends and Indicators” issue features a rich collection of figures and expert perspectives on trends in enrollment, financing of higher education, student aid, research and development and more.

The journal’s “Annual Directory of New England Colleges and Universities” provides vital information on each of New England’s nearly 270 colleges and universities, including data on enrollment, tuition, fees, room and board charges and campus employment, as well as the names and titles of thousands of campus administrators.

Journal subscribers also receive NEJHE’s Newstink—a biweekly email bulletin of news, events, comings and goings and important deadlines from New England campuses and beyond.

NEBHE’s STEM Initiatives

The fastest growing segments of New England’s job market demand skills in science, technology, engineering and math (STEM). NEBHE develops curriculum and teaches teachers about emerging technology fields with support from the Advanced Technological Education program of the National Science Foundation and industry associations.

NEBHE’s PHOTON projects prepare high school and college science and technology educators to introduce students to the field of photonics. Photonics, described as the practical application of light and optics, is one of the most pervasive new technologies of the 21st century. As this technology weaves itself through the fabric of our economy, the demand for highly skilled scientists and photonics technicians and engineers will continue to grow.

NEBHE’s newest project, PHOTON Problem Based Learning (PBL), is developing a series of eight photonics industry-based multimedia “Challenges” for use in high school, college and university classrooms. For more information visit: www.nebhe.org/photonpbl NEBHE’s Science Network program, co-sponsored by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, brings together hundreds of New England high school, undergraduate and graduate students interested in STEM disciplines to meet with academic and industry professionals for a day of networking and information sharing.

More from NEBHE

Regional Conferences bring together several hundred opinion leaders and practitioners from New England and beyond for insightful discussion on key education topics, addresses by major national and international speakers and networking.

The New England Higher Education Excellence Awards recognize individuals and institutions for substantive efforts that increase higher education opportunities for New England students.

International Exchange Programs offer affordable study-abroad opportunities at colleges and universities in Quebec and Nova Scotia.

FAQ

What is tuition?

Tuition is what colleges charge for courses and instruction. Other costs billed to students include fees and room and board. Tuition at state colleges and universities is typically based on a student's residency. A student who is a resident of the state where the college is located is charged the in-state tuition rate; a student from another state typically pays a much higher out-of-state tuition rate. A student eligible under the RSP Tuition Break program pays a regional rate that is between the in-state and out-of-state rates. Note: Only the tuition portion of college costs is discounted by the RSP Tuition Break program, not fees, room and board and other expenses.

How much of a discount is the RSP Tuition Break?

The Tuition Break allows an eligible student to pay a regional rate, which is significantly less than out-of-state tuition. The rate is based on a percentage (up to 175 percent) of the out-of-state college's in-state rate. Example: In-state tuition = $3,000; Out-of-state tuition = $12,000; Regional tuition = $5,250 (discount of $6,750).

Is the RSP Tuition Break a scholarship?

No. It is a discount on the regular out-of-state tuition rate that a student pays when attending a state college or university in another New England state.

Is a student in the RSP Tuition Break program eligible to apply for financial aid?

Yes. A student should complete the FAFSA federal application and any financial aid applications required by the college(s). For more information, check Financial Aid Resources listed in this flyer.

Is the RSP Tuition Break for New England only?

Yes. The program is only for permanent New England residents attending out-of-state public colleges and universities in the six New England states—Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont.

How does a student qualify for the RSP Tuition Break?

As a permanent resident of a New England state, a student is eligible for the RSP Tuition Break when enrolled in an approved degree program offered by a specific public college or university in another New England state. Approved majors (associate, bachelor's and graduate) for residents of each New England state are listed at www.nebhe.org/tuitionbreak. For a list of programs, search our online database of programs or download the annual catalog.

How does a student apply for the RSP Tuition Break?

A student must declare an approved Tuition Break major that is offered by that college and indicate, "applying for NEBHE RSP Tuition Break" on the college's application for admission.

How is a student accepted as an RSP Tuition Break student?

The college or university notifies a student of acceptance through the RSP at the time of acceptance to the college.

Can a student already enrolled at a college declare an RSP Tuition Break major at that college?

Usually. An enrolled student needs to contact the registrar and/or the college's RSP campus representative, listed at www.nebhe.org/tuitionbreak.

What happens if a student changes from an approved RSP Tuition Break major to a major not approved?

The college bills the student for the full out-of-state tuition once he/she is enrolled in a non-RSP degree program.

Can the RSP Tuition Break be used to attend a private college?

No. Only New England's state colleges and universities and community colleges participate.

Why is a state of residence not listed as eligible for an approved degree program?

A state is not listed when one of the state colleges or universities in that state offers a comparable program (which in some cases has a different name).

If an out-of-state college is closer to a student's permanent home, is the student eligible for the RSP Tuition Break?

Sometimes. A student who lives closer to an out-of-state college than an in-state college offering the same program, is eligible for the RSP Tuition Break in some cases. Most community colleges (and some four-year campuses) allow this eligibility. Refer to RSP Policies: Proximity Policy for details at www.nebhe.org/tuitionbreak and contact an RSP campus representative to find out if a particular college allows this eligibility.

Are graduate programs available with the RSP Tuition Break?

Yes. Hundreds of approved master's, doctoral and graduate certificate programs are available. In certain cases, graduate students may petition for eligibility for other unique programs. Refer to RSP Policies: Highly Specialized Graduate programs. Details are available at www.nebhe.org/tuitionbreak.

Is the RSP Tuition Break a new program?

No. The program is 50 years old. The RSP was established by NEBHE in 1957 to expand educational opportunities for New England residents and help the states avoid duplication of costly academic programs. Since 1957 the RSP has provided New England residents with savings on more than 200,000 annual tuition bills. The RSP has also saved individual New England states billions of dollars in expenditures, because they do not have to start up and operate academic programs that are offered in other New England states.

Visit www.nebhe.org/tuitionbreak for a complete list of approved programs available to residents of each New England state, and programs offered by each college or university.

Financial Aid Resources for New England College Students

Meeting College Costs Using Financial Aid

Wendy A. Lindsay

At least half of all students receive financial aid to help pay for college, which costs on average about $16,000 a year for a student attending a public college in state or double that for a private college (according to College Board 2006-07 data).

What are students expected to pay each year towards their college expenses? Colleges make that determination based on personal finance information provided by students and their parents on their financial aid applications.

For starters, students (and parents of dependent students*) need to complete the federal government's FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) to be considered for most kinds of financial aid, including loans. Students also need to complete additional financial aid application forms required by the colleges they wish to attend.

The FAFSA asks students (and parents of dependent students*) to report family income, assets and benefits, and other information such as size of family and number of family members in college. Based on this information, the federal government calculates a student's Expected Family Contribution (EFC) and reports the EFC to colleges listed by the student on the FAFSA and on a Student Aid Report provided to the student.

Colleges often use additional criteria to determine a student's EFC based on the other applications they require. The colleges identify the student's eligibility for financial aid by subtracting the EFC from the Cost of Attendance.

What is the Cost of Attendance? The colleges determine the estimated full cost of attendance for their students, which includes not only tuition, fees, room and board, or the costs of off-campus living, but also books and supplies, transportation and personal expenses.

Financial aid is available from four basic sources: the federal government, state government (see agencies listed on page 27), colleges and universities, and private sources (including foundations, community organizations and corporations).

Federal Aid

The federal government awards three major types of financial aid: Grants (gift aid, based on financial need); Work-Study (an award based on financial need, providing part-time employment arranged by the college); and Loans (borrowed money which must be repaid).

Grants

Federal Pell Grants and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG) are awarded by the colleges to undergraduate students who are identified as eligible by the federal government, based on information provided in the FAFSA.

Work-Study

Work-study money is awarded by the colleges to students identified as eligible by the federal government, based on information provided in the FAFSA. The students earn the award amount through part-time employment provided or arranged by the college.

Federal Perkins Loans

Federal Perkins Loans are very low-interest loans administered by participating colleges for undergraduate, graduate and professional students with exceptional financial need who are enrolled part-time or full-time. Priority is given to Pell Grant recipients. Students repay their loan to the college where they received it.

Federal Stafford Loans

Federal Stafford Loans are for undergraduate, graduate and professional students enrolled at least half time. Students can borrow up to a maximum loan amount each year they are enrolled and pay back the loan after leaving college. Financial need is not a requirement, but loans are subsidized for students demonstrating financial need (the interest on their loan is forgiven while they are enrolled in college).

Federal PLUS Loans

Federal PLUS Loans are for parents of dependent* undergraduate students enrolled at least half time. The maximum amount to be borrowed equals the cost of attendance minus any other financial aid received by the student. Repayment generally begins within 60 days after the loan has been disbursed.

Where to Obtain Stafford and PLUS Loans

If the college participates as a lender in the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program, students/parents borrow directly from the federal government by applying through the college's financial aid office. Otherwise, students/parents borrow from a bank, credit union or private lender that participates in the Federal Family Education Loan program (FFELP).

Consolidation Loans

Multiple Stafford or Plus loans can be combined into one loan for easier repayment. Information on Direct Loan consolidation is available from www.loanconsolidation.ed.gov or 800-557-7392. For FFELP consolidation, contact the lender or loan service agent.

Non-Federal Aid

Scholarship, grant and loan programs are administered by agencies, foundations and loan authorities in each New England state. (See detailed list starting on page 25.)

Scholarships and grants (gift aid) are awarded based on financial need and other criteria, such as academic and personal achievement, religious affiliation, ethnicity, memberships, hobbies or special interests. Scholarships and grants are offered by state financial aid agencies, colleges and universities, private businesses, foundations, community organizations, veterans' groups, etc. To research scholarship opportunities, conduct free searches online using sites such as www.fastweb.com (see other web site resources on pages 24 and 25). Also check with the colleges, high school guidance offices, public libraries, chambers of commerce and community organizations for scholarship directories and lists.

*Independent students report only their own income and assets (and their spouse's, if married). A student is considered independent if one of the following applies: Born before Jan. 1, 1984 (for 2007-08 academic year), married, enrolled in a graduate program (beyond bachelor's degree), has legal dependent(s), is an orphan or ward of the court, or a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces.

Cost of Attendance

Tuition, fees, room and board, books and supplies, transportation, personal expenses.

Expected Family Contribution

Determined from the FAFSA and/or the College Board's Profile and any other financial aid application required by the college.

Eligibility for Financial Aid

The maximum amount of money students can expect to receive in financial aid.

FREE INFORMATION

Free financial aid information and free scholarship searches are readily available from several sources including the federal government, state financial aid agencies, college financial aid offices, high school guidance counselors, libraries and the Internet.

Watch out for scholarship scams! Explore all free sources before considering any private, fee-based scholarship service. Make sure a private service is reputable. Information is available from the Federal Trade Commission at www.ftc.gov or telephone 1-877-FTC-HELP.

MEET DEADLINES

Students need to check with the college financial aid office to find out which application forms are required and what the deadlines are. Financial aid applications must be completed on time, and early is better. Note: Students can apply for financial aid before they have been accepted by the colleges where they have applied for admission.

The FAFSA should be completed as soon as possible after January 1. Students and families can choose to estimate their income for the previous year and verify it later, instead of delaying their application until after filing taxes.

File the FAFSA electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov. Obtain an electronic PIN to "sign" the FAFSA at www.pin.ed.gov

Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is determined by "federal methodology" and/or "institutional methodology."

Federal methodology is a calculation, according to a formula specified in federal law, of information provided in the FAFSA, based on the student's income and assets, and in the case of dependent students, also the parents' income, assets and number of dependents. Detailed information available at: www.ifap.ed.gov.

Institutional methodology is a calculation conducted by colleges and universities who require other financial aid applications.

Other Ways to Meet College Costs

- Use a tuition payment plan arranged through the college's financial aid office.
- Get an out-of-state tuition break: The New England Board of Higher Education's Regional Student Program provides New England residents with a tuition break when they study approved majors at public colleges and universities in other New England states. Eligibility is explained at www.nebhe.org/tuitionbreak. Or call 617-357-9620.
- Participate in community service: Americorps is a national program that allows college-age students to earn education awards in return for national service. Visit www.americorps.gov or telephone 800-942-2677.

- Attend college half-time or part-time and take longer to complete a degree, but still remain eligible for some financial aid (attending at least half-time is required for federal Stafford and Plus loan programs).
- Attend a lower-cost, two-year community college then transfer to a four-year college to earn a bachelor's degree.
- Commute to college instead of living on campus.
- Work for a company or organization that provides tuition assistance.
- The U.S. Armed Forces offer various college financing options to students who meet eligibility requirements. Information is available at the U.S. Department of Defense's career guide site: www.myfuture.com.

1. The higher education institutions listed in NEJHE's 2008 DIRECTORY OF NEW ENGLAND COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES are authorized to grant academic degrees at certificate, associate, bachelor's, master's or doctoral levels. Colleges and universities are listed alphabetically by state with public institutions appearing first, followed by independent institutions. A separate section listing law and medical schools follows the state-by-state sections.

Independent institutions listed are nonprofit except for the following for-profit institutions: Briarwood College, Gibbs College, Goodwin College and Paier College of Art Inc. in Connecticut; Andover College and Beal College in Maine; FINE Mortuary College, Gibbs College and New England Institute of Art in Massachusetts; Hesser College and McIntosh College in New Hampshire; and New England Culinary Institute in Vermont.

Information in the institutional listings is derived from a New England Board of Higher Education (NEBHE) survey conducted in the summer of 2007. Participation in NEBHE's survey is voluntary. Institutional respondents may elect not to supply all requested information.

2. Institutions generally provide their main telephone and fax numbers and the institution's homepage on the World Wide Web. (For telephone numbers of admissions offices, see the section of each listing titled "Admissions Information.")
3. Brief factual descriptions note the year the institution was founded, types of programs offered and degrees awarded.
4. The NEBHE survey asks campuses to provide the names and titles of senior campus officers. In general, the campus officers listed include presidents, academic deans, chief financial officers and undergraduate admissions and financial aid officers.
5. Most New England colleges and universities are accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC), a regional accrediting body based in Bedford, Massachusetts. NEASC accreditation indicates that a college has purposes appropriate to higher education, has the necessary resources to achieve its stated purposes through educational programs, is substantially doing so, and gives reasonable evidence that it will continue to do so in the foreseeable future. Accreditation by NEASC applies to the institution as a whole; therefore it is not a guarantee of the quality of every course offered. NE indicates that an institution is accredited by NEASC. NE cand indicates that the institution is a candidate for accreditation by NEASC.

Some New England institutions and/or their individual programs are accredited by other accrediting bodies. Specialized indicates that an institution or one or more of its academic programs carries such accreditation. Further information about such accreditation may be described in footnotes. Interested students should contact the institution directly for further information.

In the case of law and medical schools, additional accreditation is indicated as follows:

AALS Association of American Law Schools

ABA American Bar Association

AMA-AAMA American Medical Association-American Association of Medical Assistants

ADA-CDA American Dental Association-Commission on Dental Accreditation

AMA-CAHEA American Medical Association-Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation

AOA American Osteopathic Association

LCME Liaison Committee on Medical Education

6. In a semester system, the academic year is divided into two equal units. In a trimester system, the year is divided into three units. In a quarter system, the year is divided into four units. Other calendar systems include 4-1-4, which features two terms of four months each and a one-month intersession intended for experimental or intensive study and variations such as 4-4-1 or 4-1-4-1.
7. An institution's student body is classified as men for men only, women for women only or coed for men and women.
8. Tuition/Fees generally refers to annual tuition and mandatory fees, if reported, for a typical undergraduate (except in the case of institutions that enroll only graduate students). Institutions listing tuition per credit hour are footnoted as such. For public institutions, in-state tuition and mandatory fees are listed first; followed by out-of-state tuition and mandatory fees. Tuition and fees are current for the 2007-2008 academic year. Fees may include the cost of health insurance required by some institutions if students are not covered by comparable health insurance and may vary according to program of study. The figures listed for Tuition/Fees do not include room and board charges unless otherwise indicated.
9. Housing, Room & Board refers to average annual charges for students living on campus and participating in a standard meal plan (unless otherwise noted) during the 2007-2008 academic year.
10. Listing shows the total number of full-time employees (excluding faculty) and part-time employees (excluding faculty), in most cases as of Jan. 1, 2007.

11. Listings shows the total number of full-time faculty and part-time faculty, in most cases as of Jan. 1 2007. Faculty counts may include adjuncts.
12. Enrollment figures are for the Fall 2006 term unless noted. The figures are reported by institutions based on a headcount of full- and part-time degree enrollment in undergraduate and graduate degree programs and full- and part-time non-degree enrollment.
13. Online Enrollment refers to the total number of students enrolled in online courses and/or degree programs in Fall 2006. Enrollment may include students enrolled in hybrid programs, taking some courses on campus and others online. Online enrollment is included in figures reported in item #12.
14. Foreign Enrollment refers to the total number of foreign students enrolled in Fall 2006. Foreign enrollment is included in figures reported in item #12.
15. International Student Information if reported includes contact information and websites for international applicants.
16. Admissions Information is presented in a brief narrative and may include: examinations required by institutions as part of the admissions process or for placement after admission; application deadlines and fees for first-year students; and information regarding special admissions programs and related deadlines. The admissions office telephone number, email address and website address are also provided.

The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) exam is not generally listed; however most institutions require the exam of students for whom English is a second language.

Generally listed admissions examinations are indicated as follows:

ACT American College Testing Program

ACT/ASSETT American College Testing Program ASSETT Test

DAT Dental Aptitude Test

GRE Graduate Records Examination

LSAT Law School Admissions Test

MAT Miller Analogies Test

MCAT Medical College Admissions Test

OAT Optometry Admissions Test

SATI Scholastic Aptitude Reasoning Test

SATII Scholastic Aptitude Subject Tests

Some of the more popular special admissions programs include:

Early Decision, in which the institution provides early notice of admission and requires a non-refundable deposit if the student accepts the offer; and Early Notification, in which the institution give early notice of admission and requires that students make a deposit that is refundable if the student decides not to attend.

RETENTION AND SUCCESS OF UNDERSERVED STUDENTS CONTINUES TO BE ONE OF OUR NATION'S MOST CHALLENGING HIGHER EDUCATION ISSUES.

The Nellie Mae Education Foundation is proud to support institutional innovation at six New England state colleges and universities that will help meet this challenge: Bridgewater State College, Eastern Connecticut State University, Lyndon State College, University of Maine at Presque Isle, University of Massachusetts Boston and Western Connecticut State University. Through the Foundation-funded Project Compass grant initiative, these institutions will develop programs and strategies that strive to eliminate achievement gaps and increase academic success and graduation rates of students of color, low-income students, and students who are the first in their family to attend college.

With the New England Resource Center for Higher Education, administrator of the project, and the six colleges and universities, the Foundation will nurture the type of bold thinking that will help the majority of our region's learners acquire skills necessary to succeed in the 21st century.

It all added up for them.
It could for you, too.

Over 4,000 students graduate each year from the Connecticut Community Colleges. Nearly all remain here to live and work. They are the nurses and technicians who care for us in emergency rooms, the childcare professionals who nurture our children, the networking experts who keep our computers humming and Connecticut's businesses competitive.

The thousands who enroll each year at the CCCs save on tuition, gain marketable skills and better job opportunities, and often transfer to UConn, the Connecticut State Universities, and other fine colleges and universities.

In 2007, members of Phi Theta Kappa, the two-year college international honor society, earned a place on PTK's prestigious All-CT Academic Team. Now they're headed to Brown University, Temple University, Trinity College, Sacred Heart University, Smith College, UMass, Saint Joseph College, the University of Hartford, UConn, and others.

Who would have thought? William Purvis did in 1897. The Fountain Pen, developed by William Purvis, is just one of the many life-changing innovations that came from the mind of an African American. We must do all we can to support minority education today, so we don't miss out on the next big idea tomorrow. To find out more about African American innovators and to support the United Negro College Fund, visit us at uncf.org or call 1-800-332-UNCF. A mind is a terrible thing to waste.

(What most kids know about preparing for college.)

Without the help of an adult, it may be confusing for students to find their way to college. If you know a student with dreams of a higher education, do your part and help lead the way. Learn how at...

THERE'S NOT ENOUGH ART IN OUR SCHOOLS.

NO WONDER PEOPLE THINK CARAVAGGIO IS A GUY ON THE SOPRANOS.

It's hard to believe. Here's a 16th-century Baroque master whose bold naturalistic painting style first created a sensation, then a movement. A guy whose life was filled with the turbulence and excess of more than a dozen Mario Puzo novels.

If you're looking for Caravaggio, you're very, very cold.

This guy who, while troubled, ultimately found redemption and immortality in his art. But does the average kid on the street even know who Caravaggio is?

Fuhgedaboutit.

Too bad. Especially when you consider how much our children can learn from the conflicted life of a great artist like Michelangelo Caravaggio.

He grew up in less than ideal circumstances. Most of his family died in the plague. Much of his youth was misspent on the mean streets of Rome. And as a young artist he struggled for years to make a living. He was angry. Yet the angry contrast between light and darkness in his work is the very reason why it now hangs in countless museums around the world.

If nothing else, it's a case study of the importance of having art as an outlet. Unfortunately, one we're fast removing from our kids' lives.

If the arts are indeed a vital part of your child's education (and studies show you believe they are), then you should demand his or her fair share. To find out how to help, or for more information about the benefits of arts education, please visit us at AmericansForTheArts.org. Because, as Caravaggio would tell you, life without art is torture.

ART. ASK FOR MORE.

The most affordable of all New England law schools. The law school's mission is to make practical, affordable, high quality legal education, and resulting social and economic mobility, available to persons who have been traditionally excluded from the legal profession. Employs the "medical school" model in its approach to legal education. Interested recent college graduates and working professionals learn to write and speak effectively, and to successfully advocate for clients. LSATs are not required for admission.

JOURNAL OF HIGHER EDUCATION

NEBHE'S CONNECTION

For more than two decades, Connection: The Journal of the New England Board of Higher Education provided a forum for educators, elected officials, CEOs and others to share new thinking and best practices on topics ranging from college access and affordability to “town-gown” relations to New England’s changing demography.

Now Connection is THE NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF HIGHER EDUCATION—your source of compelling commentary and cutting-edge analysis from America’s higher education heartland.
